Extremists demanded that the valves be shut at the Abadan refinery, the world's largest, but these threats will not be carried out.

Van Doos Damage Town Hall

Army Cracks Down On Soldiers In Alberta Fracas

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., June 20. (CP)—The Army today took steps to crack down on a "small, hard core of trouble-makers" from Wainwright army camp who allegedly caused a disturbance Monday night in this small town 130 miles east of Edmonton. Officials announced that they have set up a court of inquiry in an effort to identify the "trouble-makers" among a group of soldiers who raided and damaged the town hall.

No one was injured in the two-hour disturbance as 30 to 50 soldiers, identified as recent arrivals of the Royal 22nd Regiment, the "Van Doos" from Valcartier, Que., sought to release two comrades they thought were in the cells in the town hall.

Brig. W. J. McGill, commandant of the camp, said the 65 Van Doos who arrived in Wainwright Saturday will not be allowed in town without passes.

No More Incidents

Brig. McGill called the Royal 22nd Regiment to the camp parade square and told them he will not tolerate any repetition of what the army described as "an incident."

He also announced the army's Provost Corps in Wainwright will be strengthened immediately.

In the disturbance, the troops smashed about 100 panes of glass in the town hall, damaged band instruments stored there and battered the hall's big doors by driving a truck against them.

Maj. T. M. MacDonald of Godrich, Ont., who was in civilian clothes, was credited with helping to end the disturbance.

Maj. MacDonald took some of the Van Doos into the hall and showed them the two arrested men were not there.

The trouble began when a Provost picked up a member of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry for improper dress and insubordination. A member of the Van Doos intervened and he too was taken into custody.

The four days of air war cost the Reds 28 planes destroyed or damaged. The Fifth Air Force listed nine shot down, one probably knocked out and 18 damaged.

There have been no figures of UN losses, if any, in these air battles.

The Reds' stepped-up air action included a bombing and strafing raid Wednesday morning on a UN bivouac area in the Uijongbu sector north of Seoul. The new boldness of the Reds revived speculation that they are planning to unleash their air force, once estimated at 3,000 planes—possibly in support of a new offensive.

Mr. Abbott made the statement in reply to questions as to whether action would be taken to speed automobile sales, decline in which had led to layoffs in the automobile industry.

The minister said his personal opinion is that the situation in the auto industry was caused by pre-budget production in anticipation of a tax increase on automobiles.

"Certainly, there is no intention of making any immediate change in the consumer-credit restrictions," he told Donald Brown (L.-Essex West).

Mr. Abbott added the credit controls are part of the government's general anti-inflation program.

LOS ANGELES, June 20 (AP)—Gambler Mickey Cohen was convicted today of four counts of federal income tax evasion.

Mr. Cohen was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

He met and married Mrs. Allen while he was with the Canadian army in England in 1941.

Quadruplets Born

BAYONNE, N.J., June 20. (AP)—Quadruplets were born today to a Lyndhurst, N.J., housewife, one dead. Three girls and a boy were delivered to Mrs. Selma Kronenberg at Bayonne hospital. The last, a girl, was stillborn. Hospital authorities said the three others and the mother were "doing fine." The couple has one other child.

Engineer Loses Appeal To Get $300,000 Back

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today rejected an appeal by Douglas G. H. Wright, Toronto mining engineer who sought to be declared mentally competent and regain control over his $300,000 estate.

The appeal was against an order by Mr. Justice Barlow of the Supreme Court of Ontario, placing him in the custody of his wife, Laura May Wright, and giving her and the Guaranty Trust Company of Canada joint control over his estate.

The court found, however, that the amounts ordered by a lower court to be paid out of the estate to the engineer's wife, mother-in-law and an institution appeared to be excessive, it ordered these payments be reconsidered by the master of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Under the order, made last December, Mrs. Wright was given $10,000 a year out of the estate, her mother, $4,500 a year, and the Homewood Sanatorium at Guelph, $70 a week to care for Mr. Wright.

Originally confined to the home, Mr. Wright later was released and placed under the care of a brother.

The appeal rested heavily on the grounds that the order was made without prior notice either to Mr. Wright or his representative, contrary to the spirit of the Magna Carta.

Five justices heard argument. One of them, Mr. Justice John Cartwright, disagreed with the main finding that Mr. Wright may be suffering from mental illness.

"To permit a person's rights to be dealt with in a judicial proceeding unless he has had an opportunity of being heard is contrary to the fundamental principles of the law," he said in his judgment.

It was "particularly undesirable" in this case, because Mr. Wright would have no other recourse but to go back to the original court in a year's time. Then, instead of those who questioned his competency having to prove their case, "he must assume the burden of satisfying the court that he has become mentally competent and capable of managing his own affairs."

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The Washington Post today defended Sir Oliver Franks, Britain's ambassador to the United States, whom the London Daily Express Tuesday said should be replaced by a "competent" envoy.

The Post said in editorial that Sir Oliver had proved his ability and had prosecuted Britain's views ceaselessly in Washington.

It added that perhaps the Daily Express was "gunning for Franks" because Lord Beaverbrook, its proprietor, was annoyed by a statement in an American magazine that the ambassador was the only man in the war-time ministry of supply he could not bully.

ROME, June 20 (AP)—Charles (Lucky) Luciano, accused recently by Italian police of illegal currency deals and of smuggling an American automobile into Italy, was reported by the newspaper Il Quotidiano today to have instructed his lawyer to take action against the police.

Quotidiano, organ of Italian Catholic Action, said Luciano, deported New York vice overlord, complained that the Italian customs police showed "excessive zeal" concerning him.

Quotidiano said that the customs police sequestered Luciano's automobile and $27,000 and levied a fine against him of 30,000,000 lire (about $60,000).

Hague Court Appeal Tried Again

Emergency Session Of Cabinet Held, Won't Give Up Oil

LONDON, June 20. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today ordered the British mission to Tehran to return home. Morrison told a crowded silent House of Commons Britain again would appeal to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for advice on what "provisional methods" it can adopt to protect its rich Iranian oil interests.

Morrison's announcement came after the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's negotiators in Tehran had asked that an airplane be sent to return them home. The negotiating team includes one government representative.

The Foreign Secretary indicated that Britain is not abandoning the sprawling oil fields and the giant oil refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in southern Iran.

But he warned that Britons in Iran may have a difficult job keeping the installations operating.

"Riots, abuses, misrepresentations and the uncertainty of the future have made conditions difficult for them," he said. He added this warning:

"The British government are not prepared to stand by idly if the lives of British nationals are in jeopardy."

Morrison went on:

"It is the responsibility of the Persian government to see to it that law and order are maintained."

"If, however, that responsibility is not met it would equally be the right and duty of the British government to extend protection to their own nationals."

Britain's sea, land and air forces in the Middle East already are on the alert, a qualified government spokesman said.

Levesque Made Squadron Leader

OTTAWA, June 20. (CP)—Ft. Le. Omar Levesque, Canada's air hero of the Korean War, today was promoted to the rank of squadron leader and posted to Chatham, N.B., as an RCAF fighter instructor.

The 31-year-old jet pilot, native of Mon Joli, Que., gained fame when he became the first Commonwealth pilot to shoot down a Russian-built MIG-15 jet aircraft while flying a Sabre jet in an air battle over Korea.

The promotion and transfer was announced by the RCAF while Sgt. Ldr. Levesque conferred with headquarters officers on his experience in Korea while attached to a United States fighter squadron.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today turned down an invitation to testify a second time at the Senate inquiry into his ouster by President Truman.

In a letter to chairman Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) of the joint inquiry being conducted by the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees, MacArthur wrote that he appreciated the invitation to return but added:

"I do not believe it is in the public interest for me to do so."

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Twenty-one members of the Communist Party's secondary command were indicted today on charges of plotting violent overthrow of the United States government.

Seventeen of those indicted by a federal grand jury in New York were seized in an early-morning roundup by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. The four others were being sought.

Sixteen of the arrests were in New York, the other in Pittsburgh.

Attorney General McGrath and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a joint announcement that each of those rounded up now hold or have held official position in the Communist Party.

The arrests follow by only two weeks a Supreme Court decision upholding the convictions of 11 top party leaders on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

That decision gave the Justice Department the go-ahead to proceed against lesser lights of the party.

Talks Break Down Iranian Officials Running Oil Fields

TEHRAN, Iran, June 20. (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today ordered his government officials to take "full authority" over the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He promised to keep oil flowing from company installations. Mossadegh's orders were issued at the end of a five-hour cabinet meeting.

Deputy Premier Hussein Fatimi announced that Iran would not carry out threats of extreme Nationalists to "shut the valves" of AIOC's refinery at Abadan—the world's largest.

The cabinet had been summoned into emergency session. The ministers had before them an appeal from the United States to reconsider a British offer whose rejection brought to an end negotiations to resolve the oil crisis.

A vaguely-worded communiqué indicated the Mossadegh government planned to try to take over the administration of the vast oil fields gradually. It announced that Iranian officials had been named to take over "Anglo-Iranian's northernmost oil fields at Kermanshah."

The cabinet meeting came after British-Iranian talks on a possible settlement broke down Tuesday night.

The communiqué said that any orders of the Anglo-Iranian board of directors and its general manager would not be carried out unless countersigned by the temporary board of directors of Iran's National Oil Company.

The next step is up to AIOC. Iranians apparently expect former AIOC employees and executives to continue to work under the direction of the government's oil company.

Hussein Maki, nationalist firebrand and right hand of Mossadegh, had voiced the threats to shut off the flow of oil at Abadan—an act that would deprive western Europe of its chief source of supply. But the statement of deputy premier Fatimi ruled out such action. There had been fears that fires and explosion might follow the closing of the valves.

Other points contained in the communiqué said instructions had been issued for abolition of AIOC's information department and Iranian officials had been appointed to various posts in the

Row Over Loot Caused Stabbing

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—An argument over goods stolen from a house in the Forest Hill district of Toronto was said by police today to be the motive in the fatal stabbing Tuesday of George Hobbs, 31, also known as Mulholland, on a Yonge Street car.

Ralph Lomax 40, of Saint John N.B., charged with the murder, was remanded today to June 27 in Magistrate's Court.

Police said that two hours before the stabbing, the home of Joseph Balcon was broken into by two men and jewellery, clothing, liquor, a radio, and an electric clock were stolen. Most of the loot was hidden in a ravine at the rear of the house, but police said some jewellery was found on Hobbs' body.

Allies Bag 10 Planes In Fight

TOKYO, June 20. (AP)—Ten Communist planes were shot down or damaged today in the Korean war's first double-deck dogfight. Both jet and propeller-driven planes—98 of them—took part in the fourth consecutive day of air war over northwest Korea. On the ground North Koreans suddenly abandoned Punchbowl Valley, which they had fought for so viciously. United Nations guns now dominate the former Red build-up area on the eastern front. The double air battle broke out simultaneously between low-flying propeller planes and jets swirling above at 13,000 feet.

When it was over the Reds had lost three planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and six damaged.

Overpower Flight

Twenty-four UN Mustang fighters overpowered a flight of six Russian-built propeller planes. All the Reds were hit.

A Yak fighter and two Stormovik attack-bombers were shot down. Another Stormovik was probably destroyed and two were damaged.

Thirty-two American Sabre jets battled 36 Russian-type MIG-15 jets in the top level of the battle.

Four red-nosed MIG's were damaged. All the MIG's then streaked back across the Manchurian border, 15 miles from where the action started. The Fifth Air Force said all Sabre jets returned safely.

(Field dispatches did not report whether any UN Mustangs were lost.)

Red Losses

The four days of air war cost the Reds 28 planes destroyed or damaged. The Fifth Air Force listed nine shot down, one probably knocked out and 18 damaged.

There have been no figures of UN losses, if any, in these air battles.

Budget Session Ends After Groggy 99 Hrs.

LONDON, June 20 (CP)—Groggy members of the British Commons today ended one of the most searching examinations of the budget in parliamentary history.

The House devoted a total of 99 hours and 35 minutes to going through the budget with a fine comb.

The debate stretched through eight sessions of the House, beginning June 5. Final approval came at 3:34 a.m. today, with about 200 weary members still in their seats.

The debate was in the committee stage in which tax proposals and expenditures are approved item by item.

Sixty-five times during the debate members of the House of Commons voted on bits and pieces of the bill. The Labor government won each time.

Blonde Goes West To Stay 2 Weeks Atop Flagpole

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—An Ottawa Mountie's wife headed for Alberta today to spend two weeks atop the Medicine Hat city flagpole.

"I'm so excited," said Mrs. Vera Allen, as well-wishers stumbled over suitcases, hatboxes and tape-recording wires in union station to say goodbye to the 29-year-old blonde.

It'll be her first look at Alberta let alone the top of a flagpole.

"I want to see the West—especially Banff and Calgary," said the English-born former ballet dancer.

Among well-wishers at her departure were Ottawa's controller Paul Tardif and W. D. Wylie, member of parliament for Medicine Hat.

"Well," said Mr. Wylie, "if you want to see the West, you should be able to get a good look at it from atop the flagpole."

Mrs. Allen was chosen from among 42 contestants. The plan is for "Miss Flagpole Sitter of 1951" to stay on a platform atop the flagpole from next Saturday until July 6 when she'll reign briefly at the city's stampede.

"What am I going to do for the two weeks? I want to write music. I may even keep a diary. I think I'll do a few dances up there too if I can."

Husband Roy Allen hovered in the background during proceedings.

"Vera has never been West and this is a good chance for her to see the country I worked in for 15 years," he said.

He met and married Mrs. Allen while he was with the Canadian army in England in 1941.

Buying Curbs Remain-Abbott

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—The government is not planning any immediate relaxation in consumer credit restrictions, Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons today.

Mr. Abbott made the statement in reply to questions as to whether action would be taken to speed automobile sales, decline in which had led to layoffs in the automobile industry.

Drew Loses Vote To Publicize Cabinet Papers

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP) — George Drew today forced a Commons vote on the Chinese ships controversy after Prime Minister St. Laurent declined to make public a cabinet directive free their owners from an obligation to use British officers. The Prime Minister was upheld in the vote, 143 to 28.

The controversy over seven Canadian-registered Chinese-owned merchant ships plying between Hong Kong and Red China under the Canadian flag broke out in the Commons anew at the start of the morning sitting. The ships were built in Canada for the Ming Sung Industrial Corporation and permission to fly the Canadian flag was given last year.

Mr. Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, first charged that a list of the skippers of the seven ships included a man named T. Hanisch whose name looked to be more Russian than Chinese.

The government, he noted, had said all the officers on the ships are Chinese, denying a charge by a British officers guild in Hong Kong that at least one captain is Russian.

Want Documents Tabled

Today's battle was fought over a series of opposition motions asking for tabling of documents connected with the building of ships and with their exemption from a rule of the Canada Shipping Act that Canadian ships must have officers of British nationality.

It was in reading from this order that Mr. Drew reported the name T. Hanisch was included.

The battle between Mr. Drew and Mr. St. Laurent developed over a later motion in the name of John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) asking for a copy of the cabinet directive which authorized the exemption to be made.

Mr. St. Laurent took the stand that what goes on in cabinet is secret until the cabinet alone and cannot be discussed with others. He had discussed the matter with the Deputy Governor General, asking if a memo of the particular meeting could not be shown to Mr. Drew but the view was that this could be a bad precedent and could cause embarrassment to future Prime Ministers.

Results Needed

Mr. Drew agreed that cabinet discussions and debates should be kept secret but not positive results arising from those debates. A directive was in the same category as an order-in-council which had to be made public.

If the Prime Minister's reasoning were accepted, the Commons and the public could be kept in ignorance of important matters. Mr. St. Laurent's reply was that the House is entitled to know of actions arising from cabinet decision and Transport Minister Chevrier had tabled a document showing the action taken in this case. But the House had no right to know what went on in cabinet itself.

Two Others Stand

The Opposition agreed to allow two other motions to stand. One was Mr. Diefenbaker's motion for all communications about the building of the ships in Canada. Production Minister Howe said he wanted to discuss the matter with Mr. Diefenbaker—who was not in the House today.

On a second Diefenbaker motion, calling for all communication concerning the exemption of the ships from both Canada and British shipping acts, Mr. St. Laurent asked that it be held up for 24 hours. He said it involved secret papers which would have to be paraphrased and it also would require permission from the British government to make the documents public.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Tuesday that the Government is going "very carefully" into the case of the ships, granted Canadian registry last year after the fall of Nationalist China. He said he does not think Canadian registry should be withdrawn from the ships "without further evidence that there was more than a possibility of these being contraband carried to these areas."

He spoke after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, moved that Canadian registry be withdrawn.

Government, backed by its Liberal majority, defeated the motion 116 to 36. The CCF and Social Credit groups voted with the Progressive Conservatives.

Other Issues

As members speeded their pre-adjournment drive, there were these other developments:

1. Second reading—approval in principle—was given a bill authorizing the Government to increase to 5 per cent, from 4 1/2

Oxford Honors 2 From Canada

OXFORD, England, June 20 (Reuters).—Canada was strongly represented at Oxford University today when the Governor-General Viscount Alexander, and External Affairs Minister Pearson, were awarded honorary Doctorates of Civil Law.

Public duties prevented Prime Minister St. Laurent from attending to be similarly honored.

Viscount Alexander was introduced by the public orator, T. F. Higham, as a veteran of the First World War who had been called upon time and again in the Second World War to lend strength to the armies in the field.

Perhaps his greatest achievement was the unprecedented feat of conquering the whole of Italy by invasion from the south.

The public orator described Pearson as a hockey expert whose youthful recreation stood him in good stead in moving with ease on slippery ground as a diplomat.

Quis Custodiet Ipsos Custodes?

We employ a Latin heading for this comment, not in order to show off one of our scraps of learning, but in order to impress upon our readers the extreme age of the question which it asks: Who is to watch the watchmen? This has been an important question for every government which has attempted to treat people fairly, and it is a question which needs to be asked today.

The Ontario Labour Relations Board is a body of watchmen: Its job is to guard the rights of both parties in any labour disputes which are referred to it. It possesses wide powers, and its decisions are not supposed to be subject to appeal. But in a recent case, so familiar to our readers that we need not repeat the details of it here, a decision of this Board was reversed by Mr. Justice Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court; it was his contention that justice had been denied one of the parties to the dispute. And since that time there has been an uproar, principally from labour leaders and from some labour leaders who are members of the Ontario Relations Board. They appear to be less concerned with justice than with the right of the Board to do as it pleases, and they have shown clearly that in matters relating to labour they are strongly prejudiced on the side of employees against employers. Are people holding such unjudicial opinions fit judges of disputed matters? We think not. Therefore there must be some power to watch over their decisions and correct them if it appears that justice is not done. There must, in fact, be somebody to watch the watchmen.

Who is fitted for such a task? The answer is easy. Who but our courts? They are conducted not according to the prejudices of individual judges, but according to an accumulation of law and precedent, very long in the making; some of the basic tenets of our law go back to Roman times, and some to Alfred the Great. Under the fantastic jungle of complication which has overgrown the law, there are some sturdy old tree-trunks of common sense and common justice, and there is no earthly reason why they should not be applied to labour matters as well as to other concerns. There is no good reason why an Ontario Labour Relations Board should be a law unto itself.

Premier Frost is plainly concerned about the direction which matters are taking, yet he said in his most recent statement on the subject: "In the complex society and days in which we live the administrative boards with powers of adjudication are necessary; administrative matters cannot be thrown into the courts; matters have to be determined quickly and efficiently and indeed without appeal." We do not agree with any of this. Speed is not worth abridging justice for, and if need be the courts can be hurried; they can take shorter vacations. And "efficiency" is the witch-word used by everybody who wants to do something arbitrary and unfit for careful examination.

Democracy in Canada can be nibbled away by boards against which there is no appeal, and by government-in-council. The time to check these things is when they are still small: government officials and members of boards may be, and doubtless are, fine people, anxious to serve their country well. But good inclinations are not enough; there must be positive legal checks upon every sort of power vested in individuals and groups; human nature is not strong enough to police itself when it is given power without limit—such as the power given to a board from whose decision there can be no appeal. There must always be a watcher to watch the watchmen, and the experience of two thousand years shows that the law—an impersonal thing—is the best watcher of all.

New Law, A Check On Drunken Driving

We greet with satisfaction and relief the Ottawa announcement that the Criminal Code will be amended to permit the use of blood analyses in evidence in cases of drunken driving. We have long urged that scientific tests for drunkenness in drivers be used in our courts. At long last this will be possible, and we expect that as a result there will be fewer acquittals for lack of evidence of inebriation and that, in practice, this will be a deterrent to drinking by drivers.

It has been too easy in the past for a driver reeling under the influence of alcohol to escape just penalties. Defence attorneys could show (and the courts had to accept the "reasonable doubt") that no expert could or would say an accused driver was intoxicated. The state of sobriety has been too largely a matter of opinion, not of legal fact. Yet for years scientifically accurate tests have been possible to establish beyond doubt or guess the amount of alcohol in a person's blood. These tests have never been valid evidence in our courts because the Criminal Code did not provide for them. The revised law will make evidence based on them valid.

The amendment will provide for the chemical analysis of a sample of blood, breath or other bodily evidence to be used "on the issue whether that person was intoxicated or under the influence of a narcotic drug or whether his ability to drive was impaired by alcohol or a drug."

There will be no abrogation of personal freedom. No one will be under any obligation to give a sample for such an analysis. This clause crimps the effectiveness of the new amendment, and the time may soon come when the tests must be made compulsory in all cases of drivers under suspicion, as they are compulsory in Scandinavia. As the law will now stand, however, arrested drivers may be anxious to establish their innocence, and there are others, obviously drunk, who always believe that they are sober as a judge anyway and will insist on taking the test to prove it. If a suspected driver does not want to take the test, the courts will be anxious to establish why he did not.

The admissibility of the tests as evidence is being made general. They will apply in other cases than those of drunk driving. Another necessary amendment to the law will set up a new traffic charge: a lesser one of a driver in charge of a motor vehicle while his ability to drive was "impaired" by alcohol. Heretofore it has been difficult to get convictions on charges of drunk driving because intoxication could not be proved. The proof will now be easier to get, but there will still be many border-line cases. Formerly the accused got off very lightly when drunkenness could not be fully established. Now he can be convicted because his ability to drive has been impaired by alcohol. The penalties on this charge will be less than for outright drunkenness at the wheel.

These new amendments will strengthen the police, Crown Attorneys, magistrates and judges in their efforts to protect the public from the danger of drunken drivers and to penalize the guilty. They reduce the loop-holes in the law which, to the public consternation, have gaped unfairly against society.

Deserved Recognition For Dr. Wallace

It was with keen pleasure that we read of a presentation of an engraved tray to Dr. R. C. Wallace from the Province of Ontario; the Minister of Planning, Mr. William Griesinger, made the presentation, which was a recognition of the fine work that Dr. Wallace has done as chairman of the Ontario Research Commission; he will retire from that post on August 31, at the same time as his retirement from the principalship of Queen's University.

We have all known of Dr. Wallace as principal of Queen's, and have been conscious of the strides which that fine university has made under his direction. Few of us have been conscious of his work as director of provincial research, nor have many of us been capable of estimating its value. But those people who do know what Dr. Wallace has done in that position have the highest regard for his wisdom, and the endlessly enquiring spirit which he has brought to it. Knowing him as an educator, we have forgotten that he is one of Canada's foremost men of science.

There is another respect in which this newspaper would like to call attention to what Dr. Wallace has done within his sphere of influence. The Examiner is keenly interested in the encouragement of good speech, and particularly in a good Canadian accent—a clear, pleasant, cultivated but not epicene speech which shall be characteristic of this country. Dr. Wallace has one of the best Canadian accents in the country; it indicates his Scottish background without forcing it upon his hearers; it is supple and eloquent without being elocutionary; it is comprehensible to every hearer; it provokes no antagonism, and yet it is unmistakably the speech of a man of learning and cultivation. University students and fellow-Canadians, hearing it, must certainly have been influenced by it and are perhaps moved to imitate it; they could not find a better model.

A scholar and administrator of the first rank, Dr. Wallace has served Canada well, and it must be a source of satisfaction to him to know, as retirement approaches, that Canada is grateful.

Old Plays And Queer Birds

SEVEN ONE ACT PLAYS BY HOLBERG, translated from the Danish by Henry Alexander (S. J. Reginald Saunders).

THROUGH a foolish oversight on the part of the reviewer, this book, which was received several months ago, has not been dealt with until today. But it is not an ephemeral book, and so some delay in reviewing it will do no great harm. Professor Alexander's translations of some of the longer plays of Ludvig Holberg appeared in an earlier volume two or three years ago, and at that time we expressed a hope that some of the Little Theatres of Canada would take advantage of the new material which was thus made available to them. So far as we know, no Little Theatre has yet done so. But we make the suggestion again; there is a continual plea for good one-act plays, and here are seven, any three of which would make a lively and distinguished evening.

Holberg's plays have not hitherto been available in English. They are the work of an eighteenth century Danish dramatist whose name is familiar to students of the drama, but whose work has not been seen on the stage or in book form. It is a little late in the day for us to discover that Holberg was a writer of wonderful little plays, but it is better to find it out now than to live in ignorance of them. They cannot be put on the stage as easily as modern one-act plays; they will demand imagination and wit in the director, and technical address and a fine sense of style in the actors. To the casual reader they may not seem immediately promising, but after some study and re-reading they will reveal their charm. If they resemble anything in English drama, we think that they resemble Goldsmith; there is a simplicity, a charm, and a warm humour about them which is very engaging. They are written for the stage, and not until they are seen on the stage, in these excellent, speakable translations, will we sense their real worth. What theatre group will be first to meet this challenge? R.D.

THE CREST ON THE SILVER: An Autobiography, by Geoffrey Grigson (Ambassador Books Ltd.).

THIS personal record is akin to Vera Brittain's Testament of Youth and Robert Graves' Good-Bye To All That: frank autobiographies written before the subjects were middle-aged, and from sensitive, informed minds nurtured in middle class England. Grigson's pen, like Brittain's and Graves', has been quickened by an intimacy with literature and the young British writers and artists of his day.

A difference between his and the two earlier autobiographies is the day. Their early careers were smelted by the Great War. Geoffrey Grigson matured between the two wars; missing both but undergoing the change they caused.

If there is innocence and disillusionment in Brittain's account, the bitterness in Graves' of the "lost generation", there is no illusion and no wrath in Grigson's. It is the story of a boy and man struggling between two worlds; the one, Victorian and Edwardian, dead; the other exploding into being with the recent war.

Geoffrey Grigson was born in 1905, the seventh son of an old vicar, born in 1845, and of his third wife. He grew up in a Cornish village where money was scarce, Norwich anxiety proud, religion a matter of habit rather than conviction, and life quietly petty. The pattern of pre-war life was shattered by the war. Grigson became conscious of it. He was sent to Oxford after a period of dawdling in Cornwall and odd jobs. He read the English School (of which he is sharply critical as a discipline), got a third, and was thrown into Fleet Street.

He worked, as book page editor and London correspondent for the Yorkshire Post and the Morning Post, "an ancient but flighty old battleship", which sank not long before his first, and not particularly loved, American wife died (in 1937). A quotation from his notebooks, which is included, is this from Samuel Butler: "The most important service rendered by the Press and the magazines is that of educating people to approach printed matter with distrust." He continued to edit the ephemeral magazine 'New Verse' which he had started, and became a reader for a publishing house.

At the time of Munich he made a mad trip to Germany to catch up with an Austrian woman whom he had escorted in London and made no decision to marry. She left England with a German passport, and returned as his wife.

When war broke out, he had left London, which he had grown to abhor (disliking metropolitan existence), and made his cottage in Wiltshire his centre, and read at the British Museum, and wrote. (He has almost two dozen books to his name; very critical, anthologies, studies.) During the war, his earlier connection with the B.B.C. secured him war work monitoring programs and interpreting personages, events and the British way of life.

This is the outward journey of the man whose personal record 'The Crest on the Silver' is.

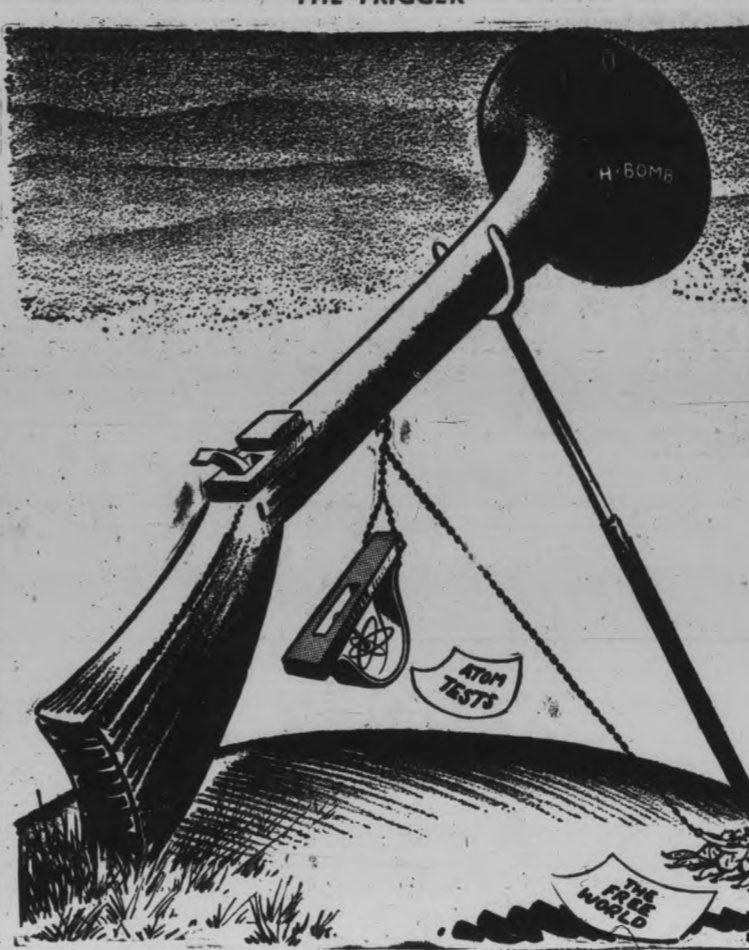

self to warrant an autobiography, especially when it is done with journalistic skill and a speculative mind. Among the good things in the story are jottings from his "note-book" (chiefly quotations), his brief but scholarly digressions into Cornish history and flora, and his delights on persons of note and no note.

This story of a man young between the wars—his way of thought, his way of life and his milieu—is lively, interesting reading. If it lacks force and a coherent philosophy, it is because he truly reflects his generation? The family crest remained, but no the silver, nor indeed, the occasion to use the silver. T.J.A.

THE POACHER'S HANDBOOK, by Ian Niall (Heinemann).

POACHING in Canada is a very different thing from poaching in England. Our poachers here need not be particularly silent fellows; they generally have a good idea where the game warden is, and if he is twenty or thirty miles away they may explode a few sticks of dynamite in a stream with as much noise as they please, and carry off their fish. But the English poacher has to have all of the skill and stealth of a Red Indian; the gamekeepers who are his natural enemies know just as many tricks as he, and therefore he must plan his campaign with the utmost care, and carry it out in dead silence. This book tells how the poacher works, and law-abiding citizens may give themselves a pleasant thrill by reading it and pretending that they, rather

THE TRIGGER

Russia On Show

by EDWARD CRANKSHAW

NOWADAYS there is only one way in which a visitor from the West—unless he is a Government official, a diplomat, or a business-man or journalist admitted for a special purpose—may penetrate the Soviet frontier: by travelling with a specially invited delegation. These delegations have recently become a most noticeable feature of the Soviet scene, especially in Moscow and the great cities. The visitors are treated like princes, shown the sights of the regime, held in conversation through M.V.D. interpreters with selected Russian opposition numbers, and set down in front of Tass reporters to give their impressions to the world. Their leaders often do a broadcast.

They return home to report on what they have seen. Too often they have seen very little, and the temptation to mix up what they have seen with what they have been told is very strong. Thus, with rare exceptions, their reports are highly coloured and make a considerable impression, especially when printed in trade union or technical journals, written for a specialized class of reader. This traffic has lately assumed such proportions that one must regard it as a major arm of Soviet propaganda.

The first thing to be appreciated is that the Communist Party has an active interest in the composition of these parties, whether the sponsoring bodies are aware of it or not. In almost every case two or three trusted party members, open or concealed, accompany the delegation. Their role is to lead the applause and to arrange diversions to cover awkward moments. Their most vocal assistants are carefully chosen fellow-travellers, whose self-importance is flattered at every turn.

THESE are the shepherds and the sheep-dogs. The sheep, who may individually be that Black Bill and Frankie McGinn, are at work.

Doubtless it is a fault in my nature, but I have never been able to see that poachers are any more admirable than other robbers; I do not find a ruffian with ferrets in his pocket any more pleasing than a ruffian with a pistol in his pocket. But this book interested me as an exposition of a complex and difficult form of dishonesty, and because of its oblique comments upon animals, birds and about animals. It is not altogether easy nowadays to find a book about animals which is not sentimental, and in which all the bourgeois virtues are not attributed to creatures with very much more interesting characteristics. I recommend this book to the nature-lover, and must not conclude this notice of it without mention of the excellent wood-engravings by Barbara Greg with which it is illustrated. R.D.

ONTARIO BIRDS, by L. L. Snyder (Clarke, Irwin & Co.).

FOR the novice bird-lover, who will not bog down easily among such biological details as grooved bills, yoked toes, and spiny an admirably thorough introduction to birds in general, and to the bird population of Ontario in particular. In his position as Curator of Ornithology at the Royal Ontario Museum, the author explains that countless requests are received for information on the birds of the province, and that this book is a general answer to such general questions as "Please name me all about birds. What are they? Where do they live? What do they eat? Where do they nest? Where do they go?"

The education of a professional ornithologist involves a considerable degree of attention to specific detail; the task of providing such a general answer (in 235 pages) is no easy one, therefore, for a man of the present author's training. Were it not for the fact that Mr. Snyder is an enthusiastic field naturalist, as well as a professional ornithologist, this work might easily have fallen into the school text class. His accurate and lucid descriptions, from his own field experience, and T. M. Short's life-like line drawings combine to stimulate the imagination whenever it shows signs of becoming completely mired in the lengthy list of birds which have been recorded in the Province.

In providing a reference book for teachers and "indoor" naturalists, Mr. Snyder has achieved his objective; the information is accurate, thorough, and comprehensive. Given a little more room in which to work, and a certain amount of freedom from scientific shackles, he could certainly achieve any objective in this field which he set himself. J.D.H.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua to the camp to Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand from thy servant; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us. So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

And the Lord said unto Joshua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee. . . . Then spake Joshua to the Lord in the day when the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon: and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon. And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jasher? So the sun halted not to go down about a whole day.

And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the Lord hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the Lord fought for Israel. (Josh. 10: 6-8, 12-14.)

O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! who hast set thy glory above the heavens. . . . When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; what is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him? . . . Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet. . . . O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! (Ps. 8: 1, 3, 4, 6, 9.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Reliable and hard-working clerk who is paid on Friday and is broke on Tuesday would like to exchange small loans with another who gets paid on Wednesday and is broke on Saturday."

A young man was proudly showing an old countryman a typewriter. After a short silence the latter said, "Ah, these 'ere' high class things are all right, but for real good music you want to 'ear our Garge on the concertina'."

"Please don't mind me, sergeant, if I show a little independence on the parade ground this morning," said the private.

"Why do you ask that?" thundered the N.C.O.

"Well, you see, sergeant, my wife is looking through the railings."

The Folly Of Watering The Lawn

(Ottawa Citizen)

IT is unfair to indict Father for laziness when he grumbles about watering the lawn. Knowingly or not, he is merely being scientific, and in trying to escape the chore, is acting in the lawn's best interests. As a recent research study at the University of Pennsylvania shows, and as Federal District Commission practice proves, the less a lawn is watered, the better it thrives. In fact, excessive watering damages a lawn.

The scientific reasons are simple, and should be easy for Father to remember and enumerate next time his turn to water the lawn comes up. Heavy soils become waterlogged from excessive summer watering. The deeper roots suffocate then from lack of air. Moreover, beneficial soil bacteria cease to function without air, and the grass then lacks both air and nutrition. In consequence, the grass languishes. But not unfortunately, the weeds and clover. In these circumstances they flourish.

The soil needs a chance to dry, and this occurs naturally when the sun and wind come in early August. Then, watering should be done about every ten days, depending on rainfall and soil conditions. When a lawn is finally watered, it should be soaked sufficiently for a moisture penetration of about four inches. Frequent light watering—a practice only too widespread, as it saves the conscience of the indolent—only encourages surface rooting, resulting in weak plants subject to winter kill and to weed and clover infestation. A dry lawn, on the other hand, needs occasion no alarm. It means deeper roots and stronger plants.

This theory is practised by the Federal District Commission, which does not sprinkle the Driveway lawns at all, and which waters the lawns on Parliament Hill and the War Memorial during July and August, but only when watering is needed.

attacks on the warmongers of the West.

THESE conducted tours, in fact, have a dual purpose: the visitors are not meant only to act as mouthpieces for Soviet propaganda in their own countries, but, by expressing loud admiration for the regime's very patent achievements, to assist Soviet propaganda inside Russia as well. They are made use of to give colour to the Kremlin incessant assertions that the peoples of the West are on the side of the Soviet Union against their own Governments. This is an aspect of the tours which is usually overlooked. (Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

CERAMICS TEAM—Kjeld and Erica Deichmann knew nothing of pottery-making before they discovered a special clay in the backyard of their farm near Saint John, N.B., 15 years ago. Now, after years of experimentation, they turn out fine pottery which is in demand because of its hardness and brilliance of glaze. The Deichmanns intend to limit production to what they can produce themselves.

Blood Transfusions Given Burned Child

LONDON, Ont., June 20 (CP)—Continuous blood transfusions were still being administered after 24 hours Tuesday night in an effort to save the life of the two-year-old son of a Stratford man fighting in Korea.

Billy Ebels Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Stratford, is in hospital here, with extensive scald-burns suffered when he fell backward in a pail of boiling water at his home Monday.

Hospital officials Tuesday night said his condition was serious. His father is serving with the Special Canadian Army Force in Korea.

Send In Auditors

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—The Ontario Milk Control Board said Tuesday it will send its auditors into a major Toronto dairy which has ignored the board's requests for a financial statement of its operations from last Oct. 31 to the end of March. The board asked all Toronto area dairies April 5 to file statements of their previous six months' operations so that the board could use the information in setting a retail price for milk in the area.

Strikers Give Free Service

OSHAWA, June 20 (CP)—Striking employees of the Oshawa Dairy Tuesday opened a free transportation service to carry consumers to the city's three other dairies.

The move was made to prevent the dairy store, which is being picketed, from selling milk at the cut-rate price of 17 cents a quart. A four-hour meeting of the dairy management and representatives of the Wholesale, Retail Employees Union ended in a deadlock. The dairy's 40 employees went on strike June 15 to enforce demands for a union shop and a five day, 40-hour week.

Says Logs Sent To US Cuts Home Building

NAPANEE, June 20 (CP)—Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said Tuesday night that logs shipped from Ontario to the United States have deprived 400,000 persons of homes.

Mr. Thomson, addressing a Liberal rally said the present provincial government has failed to solve the milk price problem, rent control, housing and forestry.

Commenting on the housing shortage, he said: "I have it on good authority that, in the past eight years, 600,000 workmen's homes have gone across the line in the form of wood logs."

Board Orders Vote Of Marine Engineers

OTTAWA, June 20 (CP)—The Labor Relations Board has ordered a representation vote of a unit of marine engineers, excluding chief engineers, employed aboard ships of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., the labor department said Tuesday.

The vote order followed consideration by the board of applications for certification submitted on behalf of the engineers by the National Association of Marine Engineers of Canada, Inc. (TCL) and by the Canada Navigators' and Engineers' Federation, an independent organization.

To Try Justice On Driving Count

CHARLOTTETOWN, June 20 (CP)—A Supreme Court grand jury Tuesday night ruled George J. Tweedy of Charlottetown, a justice of the Supreme Court, will not have to stand trial on a charge of manslaughter in connection with a traffic death.

The jury, however, found a true bill against him on a charge of driving to the common danger. He will be arraigned June 26.

Tweedy was charged following the death at nearby Southport last April of Gerald Solomon of Georgetown. Solomon was killed when a car police said was driven by Tweedy struck him as he stood behind his truck parked on the highway.

Elect Officers

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—H. Rowe of Napanee Tuesday was elected Grand Patriarch of the Ontario Oddfellows Grand Encampment at its annual convention here. Other officers elected include: K. Zeller, Guelph, grand senior warden; A. Munro, Owen Sound, grand scribe; William Leonard, Durham, auditor, and W. C. Francis, Prescott, representative to the grand lodge.

Distinguished Lawyer G. Montgomery Dies

MONTREAL, June 20 (CP)—George Hugh Alexander Montgomery, 77, distinguished Canadian lawyer for more than 53 years, a noted educator and adviser, and an officer of several Canadian corporations, died suddenly last night.

He was a past chancellor of Bishop's University at Lennoxville, Que.

He also was president of the Canadian Bar Association and a former president of the conference of governing bodies of the legal profession in Canada.

Yankees Latest To Bow To Sox Winning Streak

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Those battling Chicago White Sox are making believers of their opponents—team by team, manager by manager.

Now it's New York and manager Casey Stengel singing the praises of the spectacular Sox.

"Maybe we've been worrying about the wrong fellows," muttered Stengel after Chicago had clawed its way back to a 5-4 victory in the second game of a vital doubleheader Monday with the Yankees. The bombers had won the opener, 11-9, and appeared on the way to a sweep of the twin bill. They led 3-1 after seven innings of the nightcap.

So instead of slicing two games off, the White Sox first place lead, the Yankees wound up just where they started—trailing by three and a half games. No matter what the result of single games today and Thursday, the hot Sox will leave New York still pacing the American League.

Not many in the vast crowd of 60,441 gave Chicago much of a chance as the Sox came to bat against Vic Raschi in the eighth, trailing 3-1. But those never-say-die visitors had other ideas.

Take Lead
Pinch-hitter Floyd Baker slapped a single to center. Nelson Fox lined one to right and Eddie Stewart hammered a home run in the right field stands, giving the Sox the lead 4-3.

But the Yanks in their half of the eighth tied the count against Randy Gumpert, who had replaced starter Joe Dobson.

Again the Sox went to work. Jim Busby singled in the ninth, and raced to third on a one-bagger by Phil Masi. Allie Reynolds replaced Raschi and yielded a two-bagger to pinch-hitter Bob Dillinger. That scored Busby with the winning run. Howie Judson set the Yanks down in order in the ninth but the victory went to Gumpert.

In the first game seven pitchers took part, four for the winning Yankees. They surrendered a total of 27 hits, 15 by the Yankees in the first game.

cluding three-run homers by Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Best Indians

Boston's third-place Red Sox advanced to within five games of the top as Chuck Stobbs limited the Cleveland Indians to four hits and beat them, 9-2.

Ted Williams paced a 14-hit attack against loser Bob Lemon and two successors with his 14th homer and two singles. He drove in four runs. Luke Easter accounted for both of the Cleveland runs with a homer in the ninth.

Homers by Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial helped the Philadelphia Athletics trip the Detroit Tigers, 9-5. Johnny Kucab, relieving starter Sammy Zoladak in the seventh, allowed one hit for his first victory. Dizzy Trout was the loser.

The St. Louis Browns combined seven safeties and five Washington errors for enough runs to whip the Senators 4-1. Duane Pillette went the route, spacing nine hits for his third win. Con Marerro was the loser.

The Cincinnati Reds rallied for four runs in the ninth but fell one short as the Brooklyn Dodgers walked off with a 5-4 triumph under the lights. Don Newcombe lost his shutout but won his eighth game with the help of Ralph Branca. Pee-Wee Reese paced the Dodgers' 11-hit attack with four for four. Willard Ramsdell was the loser.

New York's Giants remained five and a half games behind, scoring a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a game limited to eight innings by rain. Larry Jansen hurled four-hit ball for his eighth win. Hank Thompson drove in both New York runs. Cliff Chambers, making his first start since his acquisition from Pittsburgh, was the loser.

Willie Jones hit his 12th and 13th homers, one with the bases loaded to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 triumph over Pittsburgh. Russ Meyer allowed six hits for his fifth victory. Murry Dickson was the loser.

Bob Rush hurled a 3-0 victory for Chicago over Boston as the Braves' manager, Billy Southworth bowed out in favor of Tommy Holmes. The Cubs scored all their runs in the first two innings off loser Max Surkont. Bob Ramazzotti drove in one run with a double and scored another.

We Live Here

We are production employees of the Peterborough Works of CGE. Many of us were born in Peterborough, we live here, we are bringing up our families here.

We and our friends compose the IUE-CIO membership in the production departments of CGE.

For months now we have worked to obtain for Peterborough CGE workers the type of union to which we feel we are entitled.

We want a union that will get us better wages and working conditions. We want a union that is part of the established international labour movement. We are tired of being represented by an organization that has followed every twist and turn of the Communist party.

Because we have taken this position, on our own behalf and on behalf of the men and women we work with, we have been subject to attacks and abuse by the other organization. Those of us who have had a long connection with the Labour Movement are not surprised at these tactics from a group which was expelled from the Labour Movement.

We are confident that the Ontario Labour Relations Board vote, which we obtained despite the opposition of the other people, will result in decisive support for our Union IUE-CIO which will again enable us to take our place in the Labour Movement and to resume negotiations on the wages and working conditions which the other group has frozen until 1953.

Patricias Have Never Given Ground In Korean Fighting

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 20 (CP)—Were the Patricias to take their credentials with them when they move back "for keeps" into the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade their report card would read: "100 per cent across the board."

The Patricias' record is unbeatable: they have taken all their objectives, have invariably been first in joint operations, and never once have given ground.

They've never lost a prisoner.

And the lightness of their casualties—about 40 killed and 120 wounded in almost four months' fighting—speaks worlds for their training and leadership.

The Patricias have done the job well and economically, even during their outstanding battles. In the first, last March 7, it was a question of spiking the Chinese out of their dugouts with bayonets and grenades. The second, April 24-25, they held firm against the concentrated weight of the entire Chinese offensive in their sector.

Unit Overlooked

Paradoxically, though known at home, the Canadians' amazing record is unknown in the theatre and twice they've seen the credit for their own actions go to others in the army news sheets.

Reporters and army public relations officers overlooked both times that the Canadians formed part of the 27th British Commonwealth Brigade and later of the 28th British Commonwealth Brigade. Their reports credited others with having done work actually done by the Patricias.

It reached the point—more than three weeks after the April 24-25 battle—when an embarrassed British brigadier, Brig. George Taylor, seeing stories still ignoring the Patricias' role, addressed a formal order to British public relations officers directing that they bring to correspondents' attention the fact that the Patricias were under his command and that they "played a prominent part" in the April stand.

However, the war had rolled on and an action that was one of the turning-points of the campaign was left to the historians to assess.

The 2½ months' fighting preceding that action had provided just the preparation needed for it. By then all departments were functioning smoothly, the whole co-ordinated in a team which carried out the commanding officer's orders with the precision of a machine.

Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone of Salmon Arm, BC, now in Canada on compassionate leave, had laid stiff groundwork in Canada, built ruthlessly on it in a 24-hour training program at Miryang in South Korea, and then led his creation into battle.

In Action Longer

Actually, the second-in-command, Maj. Pat Tighe of Victoria, has commanded the Patricias in action longer than Stone, who was beset by smallpox in March and obliged in May to speed to the bedside of his two-year-old daughter Moira in Edmonton.

The Patricias moved north from Miryang Feb. 15 to find that the rugged hill-climbing and mountain fieldcraft on which Stone had insisted, and especially the night training, had fitted them ideally for the type of warfare they were entering.

It was fighting over country like an inverted endless muffin tin, every mound different and ranging in height from 300 to 4,000 feet.

Every hill had to be cleared. Some were fought for. Others were surrendered by the Chinese after token resistance. Still others were walk-overs.

But every one was an assault, calling for the same guts in the climb, never knowing when or where the enemy would strike.

Hard Work

It was dull, hard work, and sweaty even on the coldest day with a 75-pound load on your back. It was boring, and lonely.

During one 10-day period the Patricias never once left the hills. Quipped Brig. Brian Burke, commander of the 27th Brigade at the time, "we had to send you off in quarantine, you know; didn't want to risk catching smallpox from Col. Stone's men!"

The CO had just been taken ill.

The battalion did four of those extended mountain-clearing operations between Feb. 19, when it was first committed to battle at Noen, and April 23, when it was called out of rest at Kapyong to stop the Chinese, who had launched their spring drive.

That done they were switched west to do holding jobs for the US 24th Infantry Division, the first at Chongpyongchon, the second at Nasogu.

By that time Lt.-Col. James Van Fleet, commander of the US Eighth Army in Korea, had decided that he could hold the Chinese north of the Han and then kick back at them from there in a counter-offensive.

Abandon Bank

While the new offensive was being prepared the Patricias built a defence line north of the Han eight miles east of Seoul, and together with the rest of the 28th British Commonwealth Brigade, prepared to make another "they shal not pass" stand.

The enemy never did move onto it and in common with the rest of the front, the Patricias abandoned the Han bank May 20 to join the drive still in progress.

They stayed with it—again in the highest mountains—as far as Chinbol, directly east of Uijongbu and from there they were pulled out to rest before rejoining the newly-arrived Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade group.

But they were barely under command of Brig. J. M. Rockingham again before, two days later, they were reassigned to the 28th Brigade in its push north of the Imjin River.

Nice Hotel Buddy But Minus Refunds

CALGARY (CP)—A young man swayed up to the police station investigation department, dropped a key on the counter and asked for his money back.

"What money?" asked a puzzled detective.

"Two dollars and fifty cents," said the young man. "I paid for a room, upstairs and I won't need it."

An inspector firmly informed him that (A) it was certainly not a hotel, (B) the only available rooms had bars in the windows, and (C) that if the young man got one, it would cost him more like $23.50 than $2.50, and there would be no refund.

The youth, a new armed forces recruit, smiled affably and lurched out the door to spend his leave elsewhere.

Make New Film Dealing With 1812 War

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 20 (AP)—Did you know that the war of 1812 started 139 years ago this week?

I was enlightened by Cmdr. Kenneth Murray, walking storehouse of information who is a US naval veteran of both world wars. He reported that also starting this week is a picture called "Mutiny" which is about the war of 1812. He is technical adviser on the film.

"It amazed me that more pictures haven't been made about the war of 1812," said the commander. "Of course, the land action was not too distinguished on the American side, except for the battle of New Orleans, which has the distinction of having been fought after peace was declared."

Naval Action

"But the naval actions contain some of the finest chapters in American history. There were the fine battles won by such ships as the Constitution. And there was the great victory of Commodore Perry at Lake Erie."

It was his control of the Great Lakes that prevented invasion by British troops from Canada.

(The war of 1812 broke out with border fighting between American soldiers and British regulars supported by Canadian militia and Indian allies. Many of the famous battles were fought at sea and included the defeat of the British frigate Macedonian off the Azores in 1812 and the capture at Boston of the US ship Chesapeake by the British ship Shannon.)

(British troops burned the capital at Washington. News of their defeat at New Orleans in January, 1815, reached Washington as the peace treaty was being signed.)

Loop Managers Taking Sox Seriously

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP). — American League managers are taking the White Sox seriously now, although there have been some signs of crumbling on the current eastern swing.

As late as the beginning of this month, most observers regarded the Sox as a false alarm. They scoffed at their pitching as woefully weak.

"How can they stay up there?" sceptics asked. "Look at those dime-store discards pitching for them. Guys like Lou Kretlow, Harry Dorish, Saul Rogovin, Ken Holcombe, Howie Judson, Luis Aloma, Merv Retzlaff and Randy Gumpert. Just a lot of Joe's nobody ever heard of."

However, manager Paul Richards' rowdies have hurled 29 complete games including seven shutouts. Behind them Orestes Minoso, the Cuban flash, leads the league with a .379 average. He has scored the most runs and socked the most triples. Eddie Robinson is among the leaders in home runs and is tops in runs batted in.

Glittering Record
On the basepaths, the Sox really glitter, paced by the jet-propelled Jim Busby. The Sox have stolen 52 bases. Busby has pilfered 16 in 19 tries; Minoso 13 of 14.

The infield, reinforced by third baseman Bob Dillinger, is sound. Chico Carrasquel is one of the standout shortstops in baseball. He and second baseman Fox make a top-notch, double-play pair. The heavy-hitting Robinson is having his best year at first.

The outfield of Busby, Minoso and Al Zarilla is the fastest in the league. The catching, as provided by Phil Masi and Gus Niarhos, is adequate.

The current Sox success stems from a thorough house-cleaning plus the smart generalship of Richards. Frank Lane has made 34 deals involving 80 players. Of the current club, only reserve third baseman Floyd Baker and pitchers Randy Gumpert and Howard Jandy were with the club when he arrived three years ago.

Hint Southworth Go To Pirates

BOSTON, June 20 (AP). — Billy Southworth's resignation as the Boston Braves' manager today unleashed a flood of predictions that he would be back in the National League next season piloting the now last-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

Southworth is a close friend of Branch Rickey, the Pirates' general manager. It was Rickey who started Southworth on his managerial career in the Cardinals' farm system. And when Southworth appeared washed up in baseball in 1935, Rickey brought him back as manager of the Cardinals' Class B Nashville farm in the Piedmont League.

From there Southworth climbed the baseball ladder, again reaching the top in 1940 when Rickey reappointed him manager of the Cardinals. As such, Southworth produced three consecutive National League pennant winners and a 1944 world championship club.

When Rickey left the Brooklyn Dodgers and took over the Pirates before the current season opened, popular Bill Meyer's managerial days appeared numbered. But Rickey retained him, frankly admitting that the Pirates were "a poor club." But he indicated he would make wholesale changes during his rebuilding program.

Baltimore Defeats Cobourg Legion 6-5

COBOURG, June 20. — Lyle Ball's hard smash to third base that Jon Fisher heaved wildly past first set the stage for Baltimore Millers 6-5 win over the Legion Juniors here.

Ball took second on the wild toss, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a fly out to centre.

The win puts the village squad back in second place in the hot scramble for the Cobourg and District Intermediate Softball League lead.

Donny Ball, Baltimore hurler, held the Legion to four hits and struck out 11 men. Jack Irvine of Cobourg was touched for five hits and walked two.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

At Henley-on-Thames, England, a promising trial in a substitute shell brought a surge of confidence Tuesday night to the Canadian camp in this regatta town.

"I think we're on the way to solving the problem," said Jack Guest, Sr., as his 18-year-old son breezed through two light workouts in a craft owned by Dan Wallace of Ottawa Rowing Club.

Young Jack said he thinks the Ottawa shell has a much better "feel" than the new one he has used since he started training here about three weeks ago.

Today, Jack will try it for speed and if it responds as expected, he'll probably use it in the Diamond Sculls competition starting July 4.

When it became apparent that the young Toronto sculler couldn't adjust his style to a new boat specially built by a London firm (George Sims) to fit his six-foot, 8½ inch frame, the elder Guest remembered the Wallace boat was available in London, where it had been shipped for repairs after a collision two years ago.

Young Jack said he felt better as soon as he stepped into it.

Kitchener Legionnaires of the Intercounty Baseball League Tuesday announced the signing of three more United States imports. Signed were: Ronald Jackson, 20, of Boston, an outfielder; Bill Bollback, 21, of New York, a second baseman; and Mike Gorgo, 21, of New York, a pitcher. Manager Don Gallagher said all three have been playing semi-pro ball.

Syracuse Edges Leafs 5-4, Wings Victors

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse Chiefs' ability to pull games out of the fire has kept the Chiefs within hailing distance of the pace-setting Montreal Royals.

For the second time in as many games the Chiefs scored twice in the ninth to beat Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 Tuesday night. The victory enabled the Chiefs to move to within 5½ games of the Royals. The Royals dropped a 4-3 decision to Rochester Red Wings.

The Chiefs entered the ninth trailing 4-3. They had a man thrown out at the plate but with two out and one on Carden Gillenwater tripled to tie the score. Frankie Drews followed with a hit to break it up.

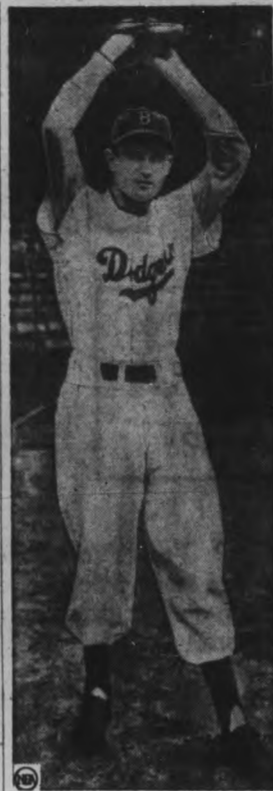

Bob Keegan started for the Chiefs and enjoyed a 3-1 lead going into the eighth when Les Fleming wiped it out with a three run homer. Johnny Hetki headed for his 10th victory but the Chiefs rallied and sent him down to his fourth defeat.

Rookie Scores
Rookie Danny Lynch doubled home Bud Herdin from second with two out in the ninth to give the Wings the nod over Montreal. Jack Fasholz, who took over from Fred Hahn in the eighth, gained credit for his seventh victory.

Baltimore Orioles swept a doubleheader from the Ottawa Giants 3-0 and 9-2. Bliz Donnelly blanked the Giants on five hits in the opener and Karl Drews scattered 11 blows in the nightcap. Merv Rickert and Russ Kerns homered in the opener for the Orioles and Howie Moss in the nightcap.

Frank Lamanna, aided by a triple play, pitched Springfield Cubs to a 3-1 triumph over Buffalo Bisons. Jack Wallassa doubled home two runs in the eighth inning to win the game. The triple play came in the first inning. Arch Wilson lined to Emil Verban who threw to second for the second out and Wallassa relayed the ball to first to complete the triple killing.

Six Lives Claimed In 1879 In Outbreak Of Smallpox

MARMORA, June 20 (ENS)—Marmora's oldest residents will have only faint recollections of the district's worst outbreak of smallpox which took six lives in 1879.

From the minutes of a special session of the township council on March, 1879, three motions cover the steps taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

The first motion adopted the policy to "bring measures as possible, the second provided a go-between for the homes where the smallpox was and the outside to supply the families with necessities. Those unable to buy the food were given help by the council.

Under the third the people in the homes where the disease was located were required to stay indoors until a certificate from a doctor was obtained. Each family was sent a copy of the resolution and another placed in view at the post office.

The outbreak centred on Forsyth St. south of the No. 7 Highway intersection. Three Mason brothers and three Cain sisters died.

The messenger assigned by the council was believed to be Felix Carpenter, grandfather of William Burns, one of Marmora's oldest residents. He was a newcomer to the district, arriving from Quebec with his wife who was a nurse. She was of invaluable help to her husband.

At a February meeting in 1879 another interesting item was the granting of $12 for the causeway known as Leggett's Flats (on the old Madoc road) for providing materials to make a sidewalk.

Assessments that year were lowered considerably. The Gil-mour company's property in Marmora township was lowered from $1,500 to $1,200 while the company's lots in Lake township were reduced from $1,000 to $400 each. The Marmora Iron Company's lots in Marmora township were lowered $500 each.

First Constable

John McCallum, the first constable for Marmora, appears in the council's minutes for August 25, 1879. He received two batons, a pair of handcuffs, a pair of nippers and one constable's guide.

On November 1, 1879, at a special meeting the council drew up a bylaw to place a vote before the people to give a $10,000 bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway project. The voting day was set for November 28.

Flower Service Held At Omeme

OMEMEE, June 20—(ENS)—A profusion of beautiful June flowers was the setting for the flower service of the Omeme and District Horticultural Society Sunday morning in Trinity United church.

Varicolored lupines, peonies, iris and foxgloves were lavishly displayed, while pure white lilies and peonies adorned the communion table.

The service was in charge of the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, pastor of the church, with Rev. Charles Richmond, rector of Christ Anglican church, Omeme, delivering the address. Special numbers by the choir were "God Who Touches Earth With Beauty" and "Fair-est Lord Jesus."

Mr. Zufelt welcomed to his church the Horticultural Society and the congregations of the other village churches. In introducing Mr. Richmond, he welcomed him not only to his pulpit but also he and his family to the community, hoping they would find it congenial in Canada and that they would enjoy their new field of labor.

Mr. Richmond centred his discourse around three scripture references—the thorns and thistles, in the Garden of Eden and Solomon's references to the flowers appearing on the earth and the little foxes that spoiled the vines.

The thorns and thistles, he said, came because of disobedience and were with us still to make us understand what it meant to God to have the beauty He created marred. Selfishness, self-conceit, lying and unbelief are some of the thorns in our life's garden and the little white lies are some of the little foxes that spoil the vines.

He then presented the brighter side of the picture—the beautiful well-tended garden where, by the grace of God, the thorns and thistles have been cast out and the flowers of love and self-sacrifice appear. "The Great Gardener," he said, "is willing to replant the thorn infested soul if we will but let Him."

Children's Aid Has 387 Cases

A total of 387 cases were under the supervision of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society during May. This was reported at the board of directors' meeting Tuesday afternoon by Miss Rachel Young, superintendent.

Here's one of the recipes that make salads a hit at our house!

Says Mrs. P. MacKenzie, Wilson Heights, Ont.

"I've found the magic ingredient that makes my family love every salad," says Mrs. MacKenzie. "I use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise."

Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is the very finest quality you can buy. Most folks use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise as it comes from the jar... its subtle flavor brings out the true salad goodness. Many women vary Real Mayonnaise... make it spicy, tart or sweet... to suit their salads. Here's Mrs. MacKenzie's favorite variation for fruit salads:

HONEY WHIP

Add 1/4 teaspoon salt to 1 egg white, beat until stiff. Add 2 tablespoons of honey slowly until mixture will stand in peaks. Fold in 1 cup Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind on top for garnish. Serve with your favorite fruit salad. Try Real Mayonnaise in sandwich fillings, devilled eggs, as a spread for bread.

Because it is a blend of pure salad oil, whole eggs, added egg yolks and other fine ingredients... because there is no starchy filler... Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is worth more than ordinary salad dressings. You save with rich, Real Mayonnaise because it goes farther, so many ways! Preserving Kettles Out, Housewives Begin To Stock Up For Winter

A glance at the calendar will remind you that it's "preserving time" again and what a wonderful thrill of achievement there is in a shelf full of gleaming, tempting jams and jellies, canned fruits and vegetables, favorite relishes.

No woman need fear her ability to "do down" the marvellous galaxy of fruits and vegetables that are so plentiful in our country. It's really fun and so rewarding. Here are some suggestions to help you on your way to better, more enjoyable home preserving.

A few minutes of beforehand planning can save many minutes when your actual preserving process begins. For instance, it is a splendid idea to set out all the equipment needed for that particular day, most of which is found in the average homemaker's kitchen. Assemble all the necessary jelly glasses and jars and wash them thoroughly in warm, soapy water; rinse them well. Or do the same for pint and quart sealers. Make sure your pressure cooker is in good working condition if you are planning to do canning by this method. Gather all the utensils like wooden spoons, knives, can-ladle, standard measuring cups, ladle, etc., in one spot in the kitchen.

Fresh Fruit
Now comes the most important part, the actual purchasing of the fruit and vegetables. Select only those in perfectly fresh condition, avoiding all those that are bruised or damaged in any way. Use only those fruits that are firm and ripe. This is wise economy—for only the best results can possibly be achieved from the best quality fruits.

Govern the amount of fruits and vegetables you buy for preserving by the size of your family and their specific requirements. Jam and jellies for gift-giving should be considered at this time, and adequate amounts of your favorites made to cover this. But do take advantage of the fruits and vegetables when they are at the peak of their season—for it is then that they are the least expensive as well as the best and your home preserving is then a really worthwhile project.

Fruit Pectin
In these modern times, such short cuts as using commercial fruit pectin makes home preserving a real joy. Either powdered or liquid fruit pectin produces such sparkling, flavorful jams and jellies you'll never want to go back to the tedious, long-boil method. With the short boil method made possible by the use of commercial pectin the actual boiling time for both jams and jellies is just 1 minute.

Too, you use fruit at its peak of ripeness and goodness when the flavor is the fullest and best, and you get 50 per cent more jam and jelly from the same amount of fruit as with the old-fashioned method. For there's no need to concentrate the jam and jelly mixture to its right "jelling" consistency because you add the exact amount of pectin needed to produce the perfect "jam" or "jelly." But remember this, it is important to follow exactly the instructions that accompany these commercial pectins, using the exact amount of ingredients called for in each recipe.

Also it should be remembered that the recipes for powdered and liquid pectin are not interchangeable. You'll find a magnificent variety of recipes in the booklets that accompany each bottle or package of commercial fruit pectin.

Pressure Cooking
Experiments have shown that the most scientific and safest method for home canning is the pressure cooker, which heats food to a temperature above the boiling point of water. This is necessary for there are four specific agents which produce food spoilage in canned foods: enzymes, moulds, yeasts and bacteria. For canning non-acid foods such as meat, fowl, fish and certain vegetables like peas, corn and beans, the pressure cooker is the only safe way. The best plan is to follow carefully and completely the instructions that are outlined in your pressure cooker booklet. Then you can be sure of safe, successful canning.

Only jars, glasses and sealers in good condition should be used—discard all those that are chipped or cracked, etc. These, as previously mentioned, should be washed thoroughly in hot soapy water, rinsed, and allowed to drain. Before using, all glasses, jars and sealers should be sterilized in boiling water.

In home canning or preserving, a great deal of the responsibility for successful canning lies in the rubber jar rings. That is why with this small but important item it pays to buy rubber rings of good quality of a name you can depend on, for only these high quality rings have a "liveness" about them which makes possible the most complete seal.

Always remember, too, that only new rubber rings should be used each time and these should be dipped quickly in boiling water before being adjusted onto the top of the sterilized jars. Small metal tongs are best utensil for this.

For home canning, sealers should be tested for their air-

It's Time To "Do Down"

Berrie Season Is Starting

Sticky Questions, Answers

Q. Do all pectin jams and jellies set immediately?

A. Not all. Some are designed to set more slowly, so that all are at the proper, delicate "set" when they are to be used. If jellies from some fruits were to set at once they would be hard and tough after a few weeks; some are balanced so that they require up to 10 days to set.

Q. What is a full, rolling boil?

A. A full, rolling boil is a bubbling, steaming boil that cannot be stirred down.

Q. What do I do if the heat is not strong enough even when turned highest?

A. Cover kettle closely while bringing the mixture to boil, and stir only occasionally. As soon as the mixture is boiling vigorously remove cover and proceed with the recipe.

Q. What should be done if prepared fruit or juice is obtained than the recipe specifies?

A. For jams—fill up the last cup, or fraction of a cup, with water. If there is more than 1 cup lacking, prepare more fruit. For jellies—mix water with the pulp in the jelly bag and squeeze again. Or prepare more fruit.

Q. Can you substitute powdered fruit pectin in a recipe that calls for bottled fruit pectin or vice versa?

A. No. Each recipe is individually tested and does not allow for a substitution.

Q. Can paraffin wax be re-used?

A. It is advisable and best to use new wax each time: old wax often causes spoilage.

Q. What causes weeping jelly and is there a cure for it?

A. Separation of a small amount of syrup, known frequently as weeping, is normal and will not harm jellies and jams unless yeast and mould start growing on the seepage. To prevent excessive weeping, leave a ½ inch space at the top when filling the glass. Paraffin, cover tightly and store in a cool, dry place.

Q. How long will jams and jellies keep?

A. About a year. The flavor and color are retained for various lengths of time.

Q. How should jams and jellies be stored?

A. Jams and jellies should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place. If only a kitchen cupboard is available, place jars in the coolest possible place, and on a low shelf—warm air rises.

Recipes

Red Raspberry and Currant Jelly

4½ cups (2½ lbs.) juice
6 cups (3 lbs. 10 ozs.) sugar
1 box of powdered fruit pectin
To prepare juice: Crush thoroughly about 1½ quarts fully ripe raspberries. Add ½ cup water; bring to a boil. Crush thoroughly about 1½ quarts fully ripe raspberries. Combine fruits. Place fruits in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.

To make the jelly: Measure juice into a large saucepan. Measure sugar into a bowl to be added later. Place pan containing fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil, then boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Melt new wax and pour over jelly; cover. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

Strawberry Marmalade

4 cups (2½ lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin
To prepare fruit: Remove skins in quarters from 1 medium-sized orange and 1 medium-sized lemon. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife or scissors, slice remaining rind very fine. Add ½ cup water and ¼ teaspoon baking soda; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 20 minutes stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to undrained, cooked rind and simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer. Crush thoroughly about 1 quart fully ripe strawberries. Combine fruits and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan.

To make the marmalade: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes, to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Melt new wax and pour over marmalade; cover. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

Deny Concession Made To Stalin

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Patrick J. Hurley on Tuesday night disputed testimony by State Secretary Dean Acheson that concessions were made to Premier Stalin at Yalta to bring Russia into the war against Japan.

"I talked to Stalin," said Hurley, "and he made no demands because he was our ally."

Acheson had given the testimony at the current Senate inquiry into the ouster of General Douglas MacArthur and the administration's Far East policy.

Hurley, former Ambassador to China and President Roosevelt's personal representative in Moscow during the Second World War, spoke in a broadcast.

Hurley said that Stalin told him he was ready to come into the war.

It was at Yalta that Roosevelt, Stalin and Prime Minister Winston Churchill negotiated agreements which led to the entry of Dr. Hogg, addressing some 200 council members from Lincoln and Welland counties, said if a start is not made by Canada, the project will not be begun for many years.

Pension Laws Declared Best

BRANDON, Man., June 20 (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Tuesday night that old-age pension legislation to be introduced by the government this year will be the "greatest, most comprehensive, old-age security legislation ever proposed by any nation at any time."

Speaking in support of Grant MacEwan, Liberal candidate in the June 23 by-election here, Mr. Martin said it was the intention of the government to provide, within the framework of the present social system and within the financial capacity of the country, as large a measure of social security as possible.

He said it is most significant that Canada should be contemplating welfare legislation such as the new Old-age Pension Bill in a year when it is spending nearly $2,000,000,000 on defence. "Canada is demonstrating to the world that it can be guns and butter."

Rebekahs Order Has Male Group

TORONTO.—(CP)—The men have staged a counter-offensive against the encroaching feminine sex in at least one field. And made progress, too.

The Rebekahs, through which Ontario women a century ago infiltrated the ranks of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, now has men among its members.

At a four-day convention this week 500 women are celebrating the day, 100 years ago, when the IOOF was persuaded to allow women to organize their own branch. Now the Ontario Rebekahs boast a membership of 29,246 but of this total 2,614 must be addressed as "Brother Rebekah."

The branch grew until it now is represented on all of the 230 district IOOF committees, working to ease hardships caused by cancer, poliomyelitis and other diseases.

Many of the women's lodges have purchased hospital beds for use in the homes of the sick. During the last year Ontario Rebekahs contributed an oversize dish-washing machine to the Oddfellow Home in Barrie.

The first Rebekah lodge in Ontario was formed at London in 1869. By the time the first provincial assembly met at Stratford the nine lodges represented had a total membership of 460.

Rebekahs Order Has Male Group

TORONTO.—(CP)—The men have staged a counter-offensive against the encroaching feminine sex in at least one field. And made progress, too.

The Rebekahs, through which Ontario women a century ago infiltrated the ranks of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, now has men among its members.

At a four-day convention this week 500 women are celebrating the day, 100 years ago, when the IOOF was persuaded to allow women to organize their own branch. Now the Ontario Rebekahs boast a membership of 29,246 but of this total 2,614 must be addressed as "Brother Rebekah."

The branch grew until it now is represented on all of the 230 district IOOF committees, working to ease hardships caused by cancer, poliomyelitis and other diseases.

Many of the women's lodges have purchased hospital beds for use in the homes of the sick. During the last year Ontario Rebekahs contributed an oversize dish-washing machine to the Oddfellow Home in Barrie.

The first Rebekah lodge in Ontario was formed at London in 1869. By the time the first provincial assembly met at Stratford the nine lodges represented had a total membership of 460.

DOROTHY DIX

Baby-Sitters Deserve Consideration, Appreciation

DEAR MISS DIX: In this modern day, baby-sitters have become practically essential. My friends and I have discussed the duties expected of a sitter and wonder if other people in this job have the same problems. We are mature women who do this evening work as a supplement to our income and for the feeling that we are contributing something of ourselves to the community.

We have one complaint to make, though, and this is not an exception but a recurrent happening. We find, in many cases, that we are expected to do the following, without so much as a "thank-you": (1) washing dinner dishes (still standing at 8 p.m.); (2) caring for neighborhood children who drop in to visit; (3) feeding and looking after pets. Only when partaking of a meal do we feel obliged to clean the kitchen, yet we all seem to have a feeling of guilt if we leave the dishes in the sink. Our responsibility, we feel, is associated with the care of the children, that is, bathing and getting them properly settled in bed, often with a bedtime story. What about it Dorothy Dix, and all you baby-sitters—do you feel we have a genuine complaint?

FIVE BABY-SITTERS

ANSWER: The fault here goes back to the very moment when you are hired by a mother. Right there the duties you are to undertake should be clearly defined, and understood by both parties.

Dishes May Be Trap

It is a very common occurrence, as you indicate, for mothers to pile the dishes in the sink and then hope (even though this is not part of the baby-sitter's outlined duties) that the kind soul will take pity on the harassed parent and do them. If you fall for this trick once, you're done for. Mother will expect you to take on the job permanently, so

Soup And Cold Plate Supper Special Menu

By MARY MOORE
Soup and Cold Plate Supper
Homemade Beef and Vegetable Soup

Cold Plate:
Sliced Cold Canned Corned Beef
Half Hard-cooked Egg
Potato, Chive and Celery Salad
Sliced Tomatoes

Rye Bread
Sour Cream and Raisin Pie
Tea Directions

The homemade soup is too much for one meal but that's good. There will be enough for next day's lunch.

HOMEMADE SOUP: Buy a soup bone with one-half or one pound of beef left on it. Cover with 2 quarts cold water, bring to boiling point, skim off gray scum, add 1-4 cup pot barley and simmer over lowest heat for 3 hours covered. Remove meat and bone, cut off meat and cube it. Skim off any excess fat. Return meat to pot. (Many soup cooks suggest that vegetables be sautéed in butter before adding to pot but this is an extra step not necessary in this case.) Add: 2 teaspoons salt, 1 cup each chopped celery, shredded cabbage, finely diced carrots, chopped onion, and 1-2 cup macaroni alphabet (or macaroni or spaghetti in any small shape. Simmer until vegetables are tender then add 1 cup drained canned peas and 1 cup canned tomatoes. Bring to boil and add pepper to taste and more salt if needed.

If the soup contains much meat you can reduce the amount of sliced beef and you serve.

The Potato, Chive and Celery Salad was included to put a little substantial item on the cold plate. The content could be half diced cooked potato and half chopped celery, with chopped chives or green onion to give it colour and flavour-interest, and do not stint on the mayonnaise.

Sour Cream Raisin Pie
One cup raisins, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 tablespoons flour or 1-4 teaspoon cornstarch, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs—yolks and whites separated, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon cinnamon or 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 baked large pastry shell. Mix together in top of double boiler the sugar, salt, flour and cinnamon (if used) and add the beaten yolks to them. Then add the chopped raisins and sour cream and stir over boiling water until thickened. Pour into baked pastry shell. Beat the whites until stiff then beat in them 4 tablespoons sugar. (Some cooks prefer to use brown sugar in the meringue for sour cream pie.) Spread over pie having meringue come right to pastry so that no filling shows. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until meringue is golden. This pie is better if served shortly after it has cooled to room temperature.

The above recipe for sour cream pie may be used with other fruits besides raisins. Blueberries, sliced peaches, strawberries, raspberries and sweet cherries being especially good. If you use sour cherries or elderberries the sugar should be increased to 3-4 or 1 cup. If apples are used they should be steamed to cook them a little after they are sliced, and a teaspoon of grated lemon rind should be added. It is a delicious and substantial pie.

Old Seadog Gets Houseboat For Fun On Retirement

VANCOUVER (CP)—When he retires, the usual old seadog spends his days on the beach, watching the ships moving out to sea and the gulls chasing them. If he sniffs a squall blowing up, he'll wander back to his snug little land-locked cottage.

That's the tradition of the old seadogs. But last week retired skipper Herman Thorsen broke that tradition. It was the only switch from the success-story pattern he made, and success stories are common on the Pacific coast.

Instead of settling down to a tranquil life ashore, Mr. Thorsen bought himself a floating home—the most luxurious sea-going houseboat on Vancouver's waterfront. Unlike other old sailors, he intends to keep on sailing.

Raw Town

Vancouver was a raw town when the young, penniless Norwegian arrived here in 1901. He knew no English, but that didn't stop him. He signed on a tug, learned all about nautical engines, then switched to cannery tenders for awhile.

He shipped on a coastal freighter as engineer, got his first month's cheque for $94 and never looked back.

He leased a towboat. That led to a fleet of his own. Then, finally, like all old seadogs, retirement.

A few weeks ago, Mr. Thorsen, ruddy with twinkling eyes, found the vessel he had in mind ever since he first saw the quiet coves of Nelson Island as a boy.

Swap House for Boat

He and his wife traded their land-based home for a 52-foot houseboat on the sturdy hull of a war surplus landing barge.

Insulated completely, the houseboat boasts a kitchen that would credit the pages of the most modern magazine, a bathroom equal to it, a bedroom and a cedar-paneled living room with huge, picture windows.

Engineer Thorsen is busy in overalls these days, adding a few touches of his own.

He's installed a 300-gallon water tank and an electric pump to supply running water to the bathroom and kitchen. Under a cupboard on the verandah deck, he's stowed a powerful motor to run the 32-volt electrical system—power for lights, radio, refrigerator, washer, and even Mrs. Thorsen's sewing machine.

His 50-foot mahogany yacht, with its twin 200-h.p. engines—capable of cruising at 30 m.p.h.—will supply the motive power to the houseboat.

Some day soon he'll hitch his floating palace astern of the yacht, head out under the Lions Gate bridge, and steer north for some quiet adventure.

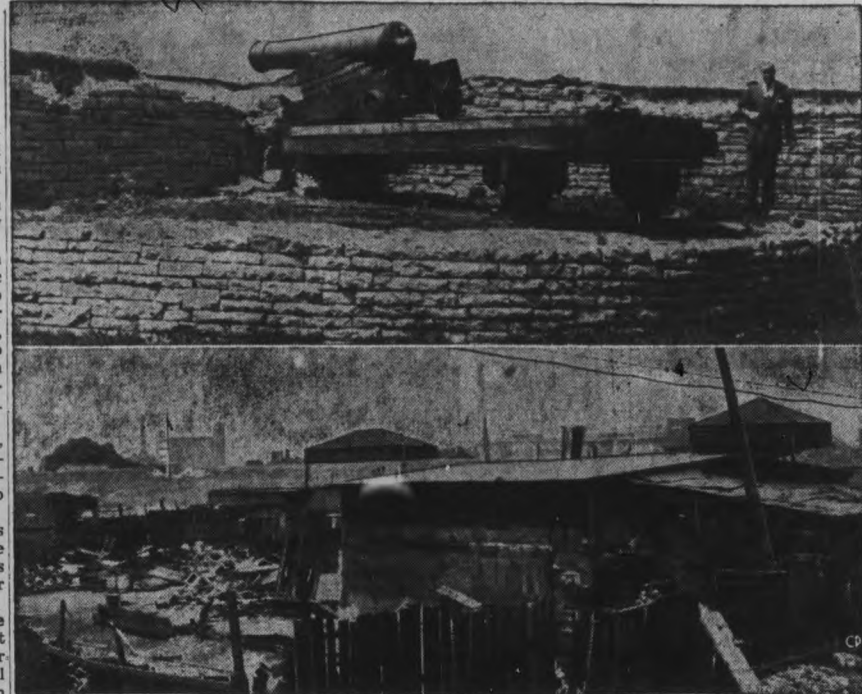

He'll move from cove to cove up there, dropping anchor against some of the most spectacular scenery on the continent. He'll spend the summer feasting on clams, oysters and succulent salmon—Norwegian style.

Wynne Named Head Of Biochemistry Dept.

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—Prof. Arthur M. Wynne has been named to head the department of biochemistry in the faculty of medicine at the University of Toronto, President Sidney Smith announced Tuesday.

Prof. Wynne succeeds Prof. H. Wasteneys, retiring after 33 years' service.

A separate department of bacteriology has been set up with Prof. Philip H. Greer as head.

ORIGINAL CAPITAL — Fort York, original site of Ontario's capital, located on the shore of Lake Ontario in the western section of Toronto, has fallen into a state of decay in recent years. Crumbling parapets are unable to support the old cannon on display at the 158-year-old fortification. Broken windows dot the blockhouses and a junk-yard clutters the view of the historical site from the south. The fort fell to the United States' invaders in the War of 1812; was rebuilt to become the main defence of Upper Canada and was restored in 1934 as part of Toronto's centenary celebrations. It hasn't been touched since. The top photo shows the cannon leaning against the parapets. The bottom photo shows the blockhouses with the junk-yard in the foreground.

Rotting Walls Of Ft. York Cause Uproar

By KAY REX

TORONTO, June 20 (CP)—A couple of cannon lean crazily against crumbling parapets. Broken windows dot the blockhouse. Railway tracks and smoking chimneys are on the north. A junk-yard and gravel-pit lie to the south.

That is Fort York, original site of Ontario's present capital.

The 158-year-old fortification fell to invading United States forces in the war of 1812. Then it was rebuilt to become the main defence of Upper Canada. In 1934 it was restored in time for Toronto's centenary celebrations. But it hasn't been touched since. The fort now is the subject of controversy. Some history-conscious Torontonians charge the city with neglect.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has protested to Mayor Hiram McCallum, asking that speedy restoration be undertaken. Toronto newspapers have climbed on the bandwagon. The Globe and Mail says the whole establishment is in "a state of senile decay."

Must be Kept Up

The paper warns that the ground was given to the city on the understanding that the fort be kept up. Failing this, all or part of the property—which it said includes "five-sixths" of the nearby Canadian National Exhibition grounds—could be repossessed by the Crown.

The Telegram says renovation of the fort is on a priority list under care of Toronto's Board of Control. The paper recalls that three years ago the Parks Committee recommended improvements which would cost $148,000. Barring location—railway tracks, chimneys, all the business of Toronto's west-end industrial section surround it—the outside appearance of the fort is not unpleasant.

The lawn is green and neatly trimmed—even if it is dotted with dandelions. The buildings are tidy—even if they are musty and dirty inside.

Standing there, in the warm summer sunlight, it's not difficult to imagine that day in 1813 when watchers first spied the white sails of American naval vessels bearing down on the small lakeshore settlement.

York was raided then and again two months later. But then work was begun on a stout, well-equipped Fort York. In 1814 when a US fleet of 10 ships again attacked it was driven off.

The old powder-house stands solidly near the centre of the fortification, its brick walls six feet thick. Here guides—if there were guides—could show visitors—if there were visitors—the window from which members of the King's Regiment rolled the cannon-balls they needed.

But tourists seldom find their way to this out-of-the-way lakeshore site. And this despite the fact that Fort York lies only four city-blocks east of the entrance to the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

A. G. Clarry, past-president of the United Empire Loyalist Association, would like one day to see CNE visitors include a tour of the fort as part of their trip to the "Ex."

Losing Good Bet

Thousands of sightseers annually pay to inspect the grounds and buildings at Fort George at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Tourists pay admission and many buy souvenirs at Fort Henry, Kingston's historical site. Mr. Clarry believes the same could be done at Fort York.

The blockhouse is sturdy in appearance despite its broken windows. But barred doors prevent the history-minded from entering.

Inside can be seen the stone "fire-step" where soldiers stood, rifles raised through the slots above them, fixed on raiders beyond the stockades.

Doors Locked

But the doors are locked because the floors have collapsed in one corner of the building.

Only a couple of structures are open to the public. One is the officers' quarters and another is the long, low brick house where married soldiers and their families once lived.

A sign describes this as the "soldiers barracks, built between 1814 and 1816." It adds: "The north portion of this building fell into decay and was removed."

In one room the UEL Association has arranged large cases containing life-sized figures garbed in the dress of the period.

Visitors should avoid stepping close to inspect the case with "Laura Secord delivering a message to Lieut. Fitzgibbon in 1813." The floor bounces alarmingly.

However, Mr. Clarry said there is great cause for worry. Even if the floor should collapse a person "won't go down very far" because "the floor is almost on solid ground."

Plainville News

Prior to the closing of school, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke McKinlay entertained for their daughters, Marian and Margaret, a number of their friends from Grade 12, Cobourg Collegiate, to a strawberry supper.

The Carruthers family reunion picnic was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Leslie Carruthers, Plainville. About 45 enjoyed both dinner and tea on the lawn and partook in the sports during the afternoon. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Butters and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Macklin and Paul, Mr. Jim Butters and Mr. William Macklin, all of Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Carruthers, Plainville; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jibb, and children, Coldsprings; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hogg, Harwood; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harris and family, Gore's Landing; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davidson, Fenella; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Davidson and family, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Carruthers, Port Hope; Mr. Jim Carruthers, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kinsman, Camborne; and Mrs. Reyna Kinsman and Miss Elva Kinsman, Campbellcroft.

Reporters' Dean H. Fyfe Dies

EASTBOURNE, Sussex, England, June 20 (Reuters)—Hamilton Fyfe, 81, dean of British foreign correspondents, author, editor and man of affairs has died here in a nursing home, it was announced Tuesday.

In 60 crowded years of journalism Fyfe's own name often made headlines. When his graphic account of the retreat from Mons in the First World War was printed it raised a storm of criticism as being "alarmist." Later while reporting in Russia, he wrote the first account of the life and death of Rasputin.

Fyfe joined the staff of The London Times at 17, and became editor of The London Morning Advertiser in 1902. A year later he went to The Daily Mirror as editor, lifting its circulation from 40,000 to 400,000 in four years.

He edited the Labor party paper Daily Herald from 1922 to 1926, and ran twice, unsuccessfully, as Labor candidate for parliament.

He also found time to write many books—biography, travel, politics, plays and poetry. One of the last appeared in 1948, a gay autobiography called "Sixty Years of Fleet Street" which became a best-seller.

Trio Carried 50 Ft. Through Air By Small Tornado

TORONTO, June 21. (CP)—Three persons were whisked 50 feet through the air by a small "twister" at nearby Hornby Wednesday night as a summer storm that originated north of Lake Superior slashed across south-central Ontario. Weather officials said high winds, reaching near-cyclone force at some parts, cut a swath southward from Georgian Bay through the Dundalk area and on to Hornby, 20 miles west of Toronto. A sudden thunderstorm accompanied by strong gusts brought trees and hydro wires crashing down on Toronto streets. Lightning damage to hydro wires in Oshawa plunged most of that city into darkness for two hours.

Doctor Describes New Treatment Of Thrombosis

MONTREAL, June 21. (CP)—A surgeon today told how transplanting a chest artery to the heart may successfully relieve certain patients suffering from coronary thrombosis—blocked or partially blocked arteries.

The implanted artery sends out new branches which take over the work of the impaired heart arteries, giving the heart a new source of arterial blood.

The report of this operational method was made to the Canadian Medical Association by Dr. Arthur M. Vineberg of the department of experimental surgery, McGill University.

Five Years of Work

It culminated five years of experimental work on dogs and operations on four humans by Dr. Vineberg and associates.

One patient formerly was unable to eat solid food and could not walk more than half a city block. In November, 1950, he was operated on. Now he is working full time, has gained 20 pounds and is free of pain.

The heart has two main arteries. When these become partly or completely blocked as a result of disease, blood may clot.

This clotting is known as coronary thrombosis and is a major cause of deaths from heart disease.

It is too early to assess long-term results of the new method, said Dr. Vineberg, except that one patient has returned to work and is free of pain and two others have shown considerable improvement.

Browns Sold To Bill Veeck

ST. LOUIS, June 21. (AP)—An arrangement for the sale of the controlling interest of the St. Louis Browns to Bill Veeck, former owner of Cleveland Indians, was announced today by Donald L. Barnes, former owner of the St. Louis American League club.

Barnes' announcement emphasized that the club will remain in St. Louis. Veeck, who had been reported planning to move the Browns to Milwaukee if he got the club, has been joined in the deal by Sidney Saloman, Jr., St. Louis insurance man, who is a stockholder in the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Barnes said he entered the transaction at the request of William and Charles DeWitt, present owners, "to negotiate an agreement which would be in the best interests of the city of St. Louis and the DeWitts."

Army Needs Recruits Man 82 Called Up

PALMETTO, Fla., June 21. (AP)—Samuel T. Sample Wednesday received notice for the third time from a Tampa board to report for induction June 27 as a draft delinquent.

Sample is 82, wears eyeglasses, a hearing aid and has false teeth. He received his first notice in June, 1950, when someone had forged his name to a draft card. The clerk promised him it would be straightened out, but six weeks ago Sample got another order to report.

He visited the Tampa board, talked to the same clerk, and again was told everything would be corrected.

That didn't stop Wednesday's order.

Checking Nationals, 13 Poles Deported

LONDON, June 21. (Reuters)—Britain announced today it is deporting 13 Poles who have been collecting information about other Poles in Britain to send to Communist authorities in Poland.

Home Secretary James Chuter Ede told the House of Commons one had already been deported.

Ede said he hoped this would be a warning to Poles and nations of other Communist-controlled countries in Britain to be on their guard against approaches by people who might be collecting information for the governments of those countries.

Red Offensive Predicted By Monday

All Fronts Quiet With Only Minor Clashes of Patrols

TOKYO, June 21. (AP)—Allied patrols roamed far beyond their lines today on the western front, where officers predicted the Communists would launch a "limited offensive" by Monday, first anniversary of the Korean war.

United Nations patrols twice entered Kaesong, 25 miles north-west of Seoul on the main highway to Pyongyang, capital of Communist North Korea. A thousand Reds in the hills made no move to intervene.

This is the most westward push of Allied units since Reds swept across Parallel 38 in the April 22 offensive.

Three other UN patrols reached to within four miles of Pyongyang, bumping into Chinese outposts. Powerful Chinese forces were reported grouping behind these outposts north of the city, northern tip of the iron triangle. Pyongyang is 92 miles south-east of Pyongyang.

All along the quiet front UN scouts probed for Red strength. Rain clouds forming over Korea cut air attacks down to the lowest figure this month. The Fifth Air Force reported only 166 sorties, most of them in the early-morning darkness before storm clouds blanketed the country.

For the first time in five days no Communist planes were aloft.

Allied predictions of a limited offensive Chinese offensive before Monday were reported by AP.

Becker said officers pointed out Chinese activity on the western front is similar to that preceding their April 22 offensive.

Allied patrols roam almost all in front of UN lines.

Watch Overconfidence

But, one officer observed, "we know the Chinese are there and probably watching us go by. They want us to develop a false sense of security."

Ex-Gang Leader Shot In Back

TORONTO, June 21. (CP)—William Porter, 21, once called the leader of the notorious "Beany Gang" was shot in the back by an unidentified gunman on a west-end street early today.

Police said the man had broken away from the Dovercourt-Bloor gang of youths months ago and was "going straight" working as a plasterer.

Revenge for Porter's breaking with the gang could have led to the shooting, they said.

Porter had just left his rooming house and was waiting for a bus when shot.

He told police he heard a gun being fired and then felt a sharp pain in his back. He said he couldn't see the gunman.

Predict Nazism Headed For Strong Comeback

ESSEN, Germany, June 21. (AP)—Many Ruhr industrial chiefs believe Nazism is headed for a strong political comeback in Germany.

They predict that by 1953 a new Nazi party will be a major political force.

The reason: Western Germany's 10,000,000 embittered refugees look like ready bait for Nazi preachings.

Ruhr leaders say this restless mass already is pushing Germany toward the political right just as millions of unemployed helped open the door to power for Hitler in 1933.

The difference now is that Germany's post-war dispossessed want their old homes back instead of jobs.

The refugees fled or were expelled from their homes in territories taken over by Poland, Russia and Czechoslovakia after the Second World War.

TINY KOREAN CHILDREN being flown to safety from an advanced Allied air base in Korea eagerly accept candy offered them by a flight nurse as they wing their way southward to safety. The homeless waifs, innocent victims of war and aggression, will be cared for in an orphanage on an island off the South Korean coast, away from the din of battle and the death that lurks in the hills.

Missing Children In Peru, Brought Home

MONTREAL, June 21. (CP)—J. A. Parker said today his wife now is en route by plane to Montreal from Lima, Peru, with her three children who, unknown to her, were taken there by their father, from whom Mrs. Parker is divorced.

Mr. Parker said he expected his wife and the children back in Montreal by the weekend.

He added that a warrant has been sworn out in Sherbrooke, Que., charging Joseph Bailey, the father of the children, with abduction in the case of two of them and kidnapping in the case of a third.

The children's stepfather said action has been started for extradition proceedings to be launched against Bailey to have him returned from Peru.

The children were reported to Lima police as being missing three days ago.

Didn't Come Back

Mr. Parker, going back about five weeks in the story, said the children were to have had dinner with their father in Sherbrooke, at that time. They failed to return.

The two sons, Lancelot, 15, and Russell, 14, were given leave from Bishop's College school in Lennoxville, Que., near Sherbrooke. The daughter, 11-year-old Cynthia, received leave from the Compton (Que.) Girls' School.

Some time later the Parkers learned that Bailey, with his second wife, Evelyn Blandevell, had arrived at Lima, with the children.

"My wife was worried and set out for Lima to return the children to Canada," said Mr. Parker.

From Lima Wednesday night it was reported that the second Mrs. Bailey had informed police three days ago that she sent the children on an errand to the store. When they didn't return she notified police who sent a patrol.

Mrs. Parker had gathered up the children and left by plane for Canada via Miami, Fla.

Two Defective Shells Kill 8 On Manoeuvres

CAMP LEEJUNE, N. C., June 21. (AP)—Two defective mortar shells fell short and burst into a company of U.S. Marines here Wednesday, killing eight and injuring 23.

Witnesses said the mortar gunners saw that the shells were defective a split second after they were fired during a routine training exercise at this big Marine base.

A public information officer said that of the 23 wounded, 12 were in serious condition.

Teen-Ager Gangs Attack Soldiers

EDMONTON, June 21. (CP)—Downtown streets were crowded with thousands of persons Wednesday night as Edmontonians sought to be on hand in the event of clashes between servicemen and teen-agers.

Gangs of soldiers, airmen and teen-agers swarmed up and down the main downtown streets but no serious outbreaks were reported.

One soldier, a Private Houle of the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, suffered a broken arm when hit by an automobile that did not stop. One eyewitness said there were teen-aged boys and girls in the car.

Tuesday night zoot-suited teen-agers waylaid two Air Force men and beat them with baseball bats. Both were taken to hospital, one with a possible brain concussion, Air Force officials said.

Strike Deadline In BC Withdrawn After Offer

VANCOUVER, June 21. (CP)—Strike-threatened coastal British Columbia was given a reprieve Wednesday night. A Federal mediator announced a "further offer" by three shipping firms has resulted in the Seamen's Union withdrawing a strike notice for Friday midnight.

The Seafarers' International Union (AFI) had threatened to strike at that time, with its 900 members walking off 22 ships of the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and Union lines.

George R. Currie, Federal mediator, said only that "strike notice" by the Seafarers' International Union has been withdrawn as the result of a further offer by the companies concerned.

Nobody was saying anything more.

It was understood, however, that union negotiators agreed to take the new offer back to membership for a vote. If it is rejected, then a new strike deadline will be set.

The union is asking a monthly increase of $30 above the basic deckhand pay of $153. It turned down, by referendum ballot, a company offer of $13.87.

The strike deadline was set Monday night following more than four months of negotiating.

A day-long bargaining session called Wednesday by Mr. Currie broke up with the terse announcement that the deadline had been lifted.

A strike would be a hard blow at the tourist industry. It would virtually isolate Vancouver island, as well as scores of up-coast settlements.

The last steamship strike started Aug. 22 last year. Seamen won a $9 monthly increase after staying off the job 10 days.

Pedestrian Has Right If Light Changes

LONDON, Ont., June 21. (CP)—Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel of the Ontario Supreme Court said today that a pedestrian has a right to cross against a red light providing that when he stepped from the curb the light was green.

He said that "human beings are not jack rabbits that they should have to leap out of the way of vehicles" because "traffic lights change from green to red when they are in the middle of a crossing."

Drivers of cars have a duty, he said, to allow the pedestrian safe conduct over the crossing under those circumstances.

Crowd Violence Begins In Tehran Offices, British Signs Torn Down

Mossaddegh Calls Parliament Twice Before Winning Vote 91-0, Pledges No Compromise On Oil Issue

TEHRAN, June 21. (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossaddegh won a vote of confidence from parliament today amid demonstrations against the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. Crowds invaded the company's offices and tore down its signs just before Mossaddegh went before parliament with a warning that violence might follow if the legislators failed to support him. They gave him a 91-0 vote of confidence. Mossaddegh told parliament he will "proceed to take over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., because the country demands it." He sought the vote of confidence as a token of country-wide approval of his policies.

The premier said there would be "no compromise" with the British-controlled company. The government has taken control of its refinery and other operations in this country. No method for compensating the company has been determined.

The demonstrators were in a holiday spirit as they entered Anglo-Iranian's Tehran offices to tear down its signs. The AIOC placards were kicked to pieces while new signs bearing the name "Iran National Oil Co." were put up.

No Serious Damage

There was no serious damage to the offices, but the British embassy said a protest would be made against police failure to halt the demonstrators.

"Death to the oil company" was one shouted slogan. Others were: "Down with the British" and "long live Mossaddegh."

The premier, in seeking the vote of confidence, had to call parliament into session twice. Mossaddegh found a quorum lacking in the morning and demanded another session, saying:

"If the Majlis (lower house) refuses to meet at 4 p.m., my government will not be responsible for any incidents which may occur."

Contract Held Back

If an undesirable is found working in a plant, the contract is held back until either the Communist is fired or else given work which isolates him from that part of the plant producing classified equipment.

Mr. Perkin, a native of King, Ont., is a wartime signals officer who spent six years overseas with the 21st Army group. He has been in charge of screening for the Canadian Commercial Corporation and the Defence Production Department for the last 18 months.

The actual field work is carried out by the RCMP, which reports to Mr. Perkin. Sometimes he has to co-ordinate his work with the FBI, since secret American contracts now are being produced with Canadian firms.

The FBI take "their hats off" to the RCMP for the methods they employ, the security officer added, but gave no details regarding the methods.

McMaster To Get $83,350 Grant

HAMILTON, June 21. (CP)—The Dominion government's proposal for a grant of some $83,350 to McMaster as part of the $7-250,000 Dominion-wide aid scheme, justifies the action of the university's governors some months ago authorizing salary increases to its staff, president G. P. Gilmour said today.

He also announced that as president-elect of the national conference of Canadian universities, he will go to Ottawa as soon as he can to confer with other officials about the exact details of "application and distribution" of the government's aid.

He hoped this would be within the next two weeks.

Wilfred Patterson, bursar of the university, estimated that the grant would cover between 50 and 60 per cent of an expected deficit.

out of scales. Waitresses in restaurants ran out of patience with customers who said "meals with no more than 400 calories, please."

Husbands unwrapped sandwich lunches and found the accent on celery, cucumbers and salad items.

Entire families entered competitions with neighboring families to see who could lose the most weight in a fixed period of time. Bets were placed in offices and workshops on who could drop the most pounds. Newspapers printed diets followed by prominent Danes.

Restaurants established a "calory corner" on the menu showing what foods did what to the figure.

And author Lundberg? Is he following his own diet?

Said he: "Heaven, no. I am sick and tired of calories."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 21. (Reuters)—Russia is expected to launch a "peace offensive" on the Korean conflict this weekend with an offer of minimum terms for a political settlement.

The opening shot in the campaign probably will be launched by Jacob Malik, chief Soviet delegate to the UN, who is scheduled to speak on a UN broadcast, The Price of Peace.

A source close to the Soviet delegation said Wednesday Malik's address would be an important declaration.

The minimum terms which the Soviet Union has so far said it would accept in Korea were: A ceasefire; a withdrawal of U.S. and other foreign troops from Korea; all-Korean elections to a National Assembly; a joint commission composed of North and South Koreans to organize the elections.

Find 1 Per Cent Of Workers In Industry Reds

OTTAWA, June 21. (CP)—A defence production official said Wednesday that screening of some 25,000 industrial workers has shown that subversive elements, including Communists, have been infiltrating into key production plants in Canada.

E. S. Perkin, 46, director of industrial security for the Defence Production Department, said that though the number of Communists and fellow-travellers unearthed is not large—about 250, or one in every 100—it indicates that the Reds are trying to get into every industry in Canada.

The screening takes place before the department issues secret blueprints and information to a plant undertaking to handle classified defence production work.

Disease Hits Berry Plants

TORONTO, June 21. (CP)—What promises to be a record year for Ontario agriculture may be marred by strawberries.

An unknown disease is destroying strawberry leaves and causing the fruit to dry up, Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today.

"As a result, we are going to have a short crop when we are having the finest strawberries ever produced in the province," he said.

Assessor Is Speeding Up Re-assessment Council Told

COBBOURG, June 21 (ENS)—Counties council met Wednesday afternoon for 15 minutes, the shortest session perhaps in history. Reason for the brief meeting was the fact that the June session this year is very routine with nothing of contentious nature on the agenda. Contributing slightly to Wednesday's short session was the somewhat slow pace at which a number of the committees were proceeding.

Today council has a full day ahead of it before the session winds up in the late afternoon. Committee reports occupied the morning meeting and the decks were cleared in order that council would be free in the afternoon to hear Highways Minister George Doucette and Welfare Minister W. A. Goodfellow, the latter a former member of Northumberland and Durham counties council.

Bruce Jandrew, warden of last year, visited the session and said a few words from the warden's diac.

Report of the counties assessor, Dick Hall, who was appointed early in the year, covered his assessment work for the past five months, and read as follows:

"In the past five months I have been able to give some assistance to some municipalities in clearing up irregularities and errors in assessment and taxation, that have occurred in the past years, and in the current year as well. I have also been able to assist some municipalities in matters not relating directly to assessment. The local assessors, themselves, have not hesitated in seeking my assistance in matters pertaining to local assessment, and this assistance was given to them without delay. I have visited the municipalities as often as was possible, to acquaint myself with their own particular problems and to familiarize myself with the conditions existing in each municipality.

"At this time I can say that I can count on from 12 to 15 municipalities starting this year on the re-assessment of properties, with one township, Darlington, completing their work this year and using it this year. I hope to have the balance started next year if it is at all possible. I think that instead of taking five

South Smith WI Holds First Meeting

South Smith Women's Institute held their first meeting at the home of Mrs. Everett Cockburn with a membership of twenty. The president, Mrs. Henry Sharpe, presided.

The agriculture convener, Mrs. W. D. Wilson, had charge of the program. She had secured a number of samples from the Quaker Oats company. Mrs. Wilson also conducted a contest on agriculture. The winners were Mrs. Ross Harrison and Mrs. Leo Allen.

The president announced that the roll call for the next meeting would be a favorite home-grown garden product and how to prepare it.

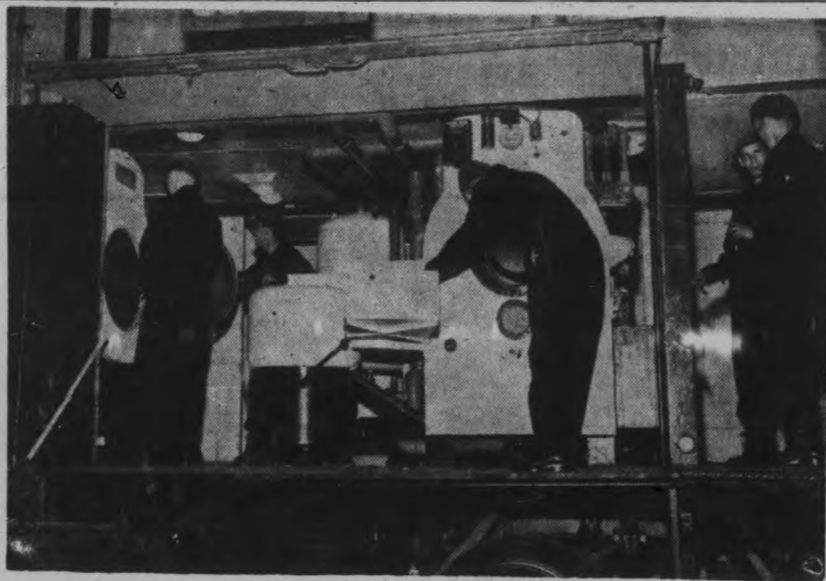

The next meeting will be held at the home of the home economics convener, Mrs. Clarence Mann.

Lunch was served by the hostess and the committee in charge.

Explain Housing Plan

TORONTO, June 21 (CP)—Let- ters explaining details of the low-rental housing plan have gone out to all Ontario municipalities with a population of more than 5,000.

Premier Frost announced last week that, under a federal-provincial-municipal plan, 5,000 homes will be built and possibly as many as 25,000. They will be allotted on the basis of need, one house for each 500 of population.

Rawdon WA Host To 11 Societies

MARMORA, June 21 (ENS)—St. Thomas Anglican church, Rawdon, was filled to capacity on Wednesday afternoon as the Women's Auxiliary of that church was host to societies of eleven other churches in the district. It was estimated 180 attended.

Following the devotional period led by Canon J. M. Brownlie and in which Mrs. W. J. Tanner read the 121st Psalm "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills" the president of the hostess branch, Mrs. Lindsay Tanner, warmly welcomed the visitors and expressed the hope that there would be profit spiritually as well as socially from this association of the societies. To good friends and neighbors she extended thanks for provisions supplied.

Answering the roll were in turn Betheda WMS, Crookston; Beulah WMS, Ivanhoe; St. Paul's WA, Marmora; Springbrook United WMS; Holy Trinity WA, Frankford; St. Mark's WA, Bonarlaw;

Bethel United WMS, Rawdon; Salem United WMS, Rawdon; Foxboro United WMS; St. John's WA, Stirling; and St. James WA, Tweed.

The program consisted of the following numbers: reading, Doris Twiddy; sacred solo, Mrs. Roy Frost, Marmora; duet, Eleanor Thompson and Barbara Meiklejohn, Springbrook; reading, Mrs. Lindsay Mumby, Bonarlaw; sacred solo, Mrs. Donald Heath, Sine; address, "Indian Missions," by Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of Tweed, in which he told of labors among Indians of the Ojibway tribe in the diocese of Keewatin, with an eulogy of the great help forthcoming in that vast territory by native catechists; reading, Mrs. Delbert Sine, Harold; song, Mrs. B. Woodbeck, Stirling; violin numbers, Mrs. L. Brady, Tweed. Greetings from representatives of societies not taking part were heard as well as a vote of thanks to St. Thomas WA for their fine hospitality.

After the benediction had been pronounced by Canon Brownlie, adjournment was made to the hall of Tanner L.O.L. where bountiful refreshments were served.

ANCIENT ART—The weaving of rugs, carpets and tapestry was a large industry as early as 1300 BC in Egypt and the Near East.

Youth Jailed Year Robs Grandfather

OSHAWA, June 21 (CP)—Robert Harvey Fooks, 20, of Hamilton, charged with stealing $1,280 from his grandfather, Wednesday was sentenced to two years less a day in reformatory.

Fooks told police he took the money from a cash box while staying at his grandfather's home in Oshawa. He said he spent it all during a five-week spree in Montreal and Quebec City.

Baron Eastfield Holidaying On Sugar Island

MARMORA, June 21 (ENS)—

Marmora had two distinguished guests staying at the Royal Hotel on Tuesday and for part of Wednesday in the persons of Samuel Hollingsworth, Marquis of Ginton and Harvey Ketcheson, Baron Eastfield of Sunningdale. They recently arrived by plane from England to spend a vacation with the latter's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawison Ketcheson, Tweed, at their summer home on Sugar Island, Stoco Lake.

The baron is a native of the Thomasburg district being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ketcheson.

Mr. Neath, who comes from an old established family in the Peterborough district in England, met him there on a visit home.

The visit to Marmora was arranged for a renewal of acquaintances.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight it's men's and ladies' schedules. Friday night, men's novice singles and ladies' Tip Top Tailors tournament, and men's Tails tournament, draw from the board at 7:30 o'clock.

Speaking about tournaments, we have two important ones coming up—next Wednesday men's links for the Stratton Trophy and on Monday, July 2, mixed doubles for the Ovaline Trophy. Bowlers are asked to keep these dates in mind.

There were five local rinks in the open troubles tournament at Cannington yesterday. The rain held off until two-and-a-half games were played and then it came plenty. The prizes were distributed according to the scores of the games at the time of rain. Bill Jeffries' rink came first. They had won two games and were well ahead in the third game. Other members of the rink were Bob Gamble and Herb Martin. Each received a bedspread.

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Those mauling Mounties from Mimico, led by the fearless Don McPhail, who personally tried to wreck the Petes last time here all by himself, are back at Miller Bowl on the morrow. An 8.45 touch in senior lacrosse. Fans will recall the rough-house scrap Mounties and Petes put on last meeting in Peter Robinson's borough, with Bob Thorpe shelved for weeks afterward when McPhail tossed him into the boards. Mimico is presently coming along fast on the heels of St. Kitts and Don Crowe's crew, and they'll likely make it another close scrap against the Petes. Promises to be a hot tussle before a hefty crowd of gutted-slick followers.

Couple of golf handouts hit the desk. One plugs the Canadian Open over Toronto's Mississauga course July 4-7, while the other is on the all-American tourneys Aug. 2-5 and the PGA world's competition (as they call it) on Aug. 9-12 at the Tam O'Shanter Club, Chicago. A posh layout, top-flight pros galore, and odds of boodle in prizes. However, that interests few Canucks. The Canadian Open is the big tourney in this country and it attracts quite a few aces from over the line. Some $15,000 in prize money along with the Seagram Gold Cup, but alas Canadian golfers face a heavy handicap. They're playing top pros who play the year around in the States, one of whom nearly always wins our Open.

Speaking Of Do-Re-Mi

Committee running Clive Arena turned over $4,000 to the city council the other night for the past year. That's out of a current surplus of $10,629 for the past two years. Receipts last year were $40,551 and expenses $37,659, with a balance of $2,892. The refreshment booth on a year-around basis was the big producer with a credit of $14,595, senior hockey being next with $10,262. Skating was good for more than $6,000 and rental and commissions $4,800. Refreshment booth merchandise cost $11,053, so senior hockey was really the paying proposition by a hefty margin. Wages totalled $14,540, so the combined OHA intake (Juniors $2,217) came fairly close to looking after all employees. Arena is doing well.

Quite an overflow of softballers may be found in the Industrial Fastball League and in the Clive Softball League. While some of the players in these loops might not make the City Softball League, quite a few others are just as good as those in the men's Bowl circuit. And they take care of a lot of chaps who wish to play a few games a week. Clive League has a twin bill Friday in the Bowl, starting at 6.45: Police vs. Grant & Loucks, followed by Bus Drivers and the undefeated Foresters. PLC plays Foresters tonight in Morrow Park. In fastball, Raybestos tackles Woollens tonight at Brinton Field. Drop around, folks, and see some of these interesting tussles.

And The Rains Came

Just one complete game was staged by the Girls' Softball League last night at the Bowl. Marines took Woollens 11-4 with H. White hurling effectively and getting airtight backing. Two twirlers saw slab action for the losers, S. Harris being hurt in the second inning and having to retire from the mound. Marines powdered the pill in several hefty chukkers to earn the duke handily. Westclox were leading Cobourg Pavs 6-0 in the fifth when the windy downpour halted proceedings, and 'twas declared no contest. M. Hodson had pitched two-hit ball to that point, as M. Batley, B. Morrow and M. Hawthorne each had two safe hits. Woollens play at Cobourg tomorrow.

The wretched rain couldn't hold out another 20 minutes or so, it had to pelt down and halt the senior ball game at Riverside in the bottom of the fourth frame. So, it's no contest. Score was 1-1 and it was shaping up like a neat number. Bill Edger had allowed Kingsways but two hits in four frames, while the Petes were collecting three off Stan Courtney. Joe Lowrey came up with a fine running catch in right centre, and the local infield clicked for a double-play. The rain really ruined it, as the diamond shortly looked like a regatta course. The Petes trek to Oshawa for a twin bill on Saturday—one a postponed affair—and have the Motor Citizens (still bolstering) here Monday.

King George School won the Intermediate Public School Softball League championship when they defeated Confederation 8-5 in the sudden-death final playoff. They scored a run in the first inning, five in the third and two more in the fourth, as the losers got two in the fourth and three in the fifth. It was a nifty number at the Bowl between the sectional finalists, with the East City nine having a bit more punch to earn the crown. Marines Take 11-4 Win Over Woollens Marines defeated Woollens 11-4 in a Girls' Softball League game last evening in the Bowl, while the Cobourg-Westclox tilt was no contest, rain halting it too soon. Westclox had a 6-0 lead in the fifth.

The Outboards cuffed out 16 safe hits off S. Harris and C. Ferguson, as H. White allowed Woollens nine. She had perfect support in the field, with R. Leal and herself showing up well defensively. C. Ferguson and J. Walling were the pick of the losers. S. Harris was hurt in the second inning and moved to right field. Nine of the Woollens went down on strikes to five of the winners. V. Page led Marines at bat with a double and three singles in six times up. M. Behan having a triple and two singles in five. The losers' hits were spread around, C. Ferguson clouting a homer. Teams:

Omeme, June 21 (ENS)—Omeme Combines moved into sole possession of second place in the Lindsay league, by defeating Carruthers Drugs 17-11, in the village last night.

John Hunter yielded 13 hits, walked three and struck out two before he injured his finger and was relieved by manager John Eakins in the fifth. Eakins, with his left hand in a cast, allowed seven hits in the remaining four innings. He helped his own cause with three for five. Pasty Powell led at bat with three for four.

"Bones" Eggleston headed the score sheet for the Combines, batting in five runs and getting four hits in as many trips to the plate. Line up: Omeme—Parker 3b, Weir cf, O. Crawford 2b, R. White Sox Muff Chances Bow To Yankees By 2-1

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Chicago White Sox changes of holding first place on the traditional July 4 dividing line hinge on the next five games with New York and Boston.

If Paul Richards' Sox can safely skirt the Yankees and Red Sox series on the road they'll go home with a comfortable lead.

How to beat the Yankees was one lesson the White Sox did not learn from Richards. Losing seven of 10 to New York this year has cost them a chance to pile up a safe margin. Their lead, once measuring five games, has been whittled to 2½ games.

Richards got a well-pitched game by Billy Pierce Wednesday but lost 2-1, when the Sox threw away countless chances. Over-ambitious base running, one of their prime assets, backfired on the fleet Sox.

Eddie Lopat seemed on the verge of collapse several times but managed to last the route for his 10th victory. Hank Bauer came up with two big hits when they counted most while Chicago left 10 men stranded.

Indians Cut Loose

Cleveland Indians cut loose with an 18-hit attack at Boston to whom the Red Sox, 14-8, Bobby Avila, benched earlier in the season for George Stinewell, unloaded three home runs and a single—a total of 15 bases, only two short of the league record held jointly by Ty Cobb and Lou Gehrig.

Larry Doby of the Indians and Clyde Volmer of the Red Sox also hit homers in the 22-run, 30-hit barrage.

Detroit split a two-night double with the Philadelphia A's, winning 7-2 and losing 5-4. The even break let the A's out of the cellar because St. Louis lost to Washington, 5-1.

Sid Hudson dumped the Browns into last place with a five-hitter. It was the first win for the veteran, idle the first five weeks of the season with a lame back. Irv Noren made it possible, driving in four runs with a bases-loaded double and a single.

Spann Comes Through

Tommy Holmes found the secret of managing his very first day on the job—start Warren Spahn. The capable Boston Braves lefty gave his new boss a comfortable afternoon with a five-hit 9-0 romp over Chicago. Just to make it sure Spahn hit a three-run homer, double and single.

The pennant race remained unchanged with both Brooklyn and runner-up New York losing. The Dodgers' first-place margin still is 3½ games.

Crafty Kenny Raffensberger of Cincinnati hogged the Dodgers with four hits, 2-1. The Reds managed only three hits off Johnny Schmitz, the ex-Cub making his first start, and Clyde King.

Red Munger worked in and out of trouble in St. Louis 4-2 edge over the Giants. Stan Musial boosted his leading average to .376 with a double in two official trips, driving in one run.

Bubba Church of the Phils blanked Pittsburgh 1-0, on nine hits although his mates got only four off Bob Friend. Richie Ashburn sparked at bat and in the field for the Phils.

Giants Blank Orioles In 4-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

If Roger Bowman keeps doing what he did Wednesday night for Ottawa Giants, he'll find himself back with the parent New York Giants before the end of the season.

Bowman, who was just sent down to the International League farm gave Baltimore Orioles only one hit as his mates carved out a 4-0 triumph. He walked a pair and struck out eight.

The league-leading Montreal Royals watched their margin dwindle to four games. They were defeated 5-4 by Rochester, while the second-place Syracuse Chiefs polished off Toronto Maple Leafs in a doubleheader 4-3 and 5-4.

In the other contest, Buffalo Bison behind Moe Savransky, turned game home winning streak for the Cubs.

Montreal led most of the way in its game with Rochester, but the Wings scored four times in the seventh inning, enough to sew up the game. Joe Black, who came in with none out in the seventh, was charged with the defeat. Bobby

Dodgers Hold Tryout

BRANTFORD, June 21 (CP).—The annual tryout camp and baseball clinic sponsored by the Brooklyn Dodgers will be held at the agricultural grounds here, July 10 to July 12. Four big league coaches will be on hand to take players through their paces. All players wanting to try out for pro baseball are invited to attend the camp.

Tiefenauer was the winner.

Jack Griffone and reliever Gene Costello were the winners for Syracuse. Griffone won his own game in the opened with a double after Eddie Shokes walked. In the nightcap, starter Phil Miller of the Chiefs was topped for three hits, walked 10, hit one batter and unleashed a wild pitch.

Ray Shore and Cliff Fannin were the victims.

Plan Henley Regatta To Be Rowed At Night

ST. CATHARINES, June 21 (CP)—For the first time in its 69-year history, the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta this year will be rowed at night.

The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen approved the change Wednesday.

It was made at the suggestion of both Canadian and American rowing clubs to avoid the sun and heat. Attendance at the July 25-27 event also is expected to increase as a result.

If the change proves successful officials of the Henley Regatta Association of St. Catharines, sponsors of the event, say it will remain in effect in the future.

Kesselring Wins London Tourney For Second Year

LONDON, Ont., June 21 (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, of Kitchener Westmount Golf Club Wednesday won the London Hunt Club's annual invitation tournament for the second successive year. He turned in a one-under-par 141 for the 36 holes and finished with a four-stroke lead over the rest of the field of 130.

The former Ontario junior and amateur champion shot a two-over-par 72 on the morning round and reached the halfway mark in a seven-way tie for second place. Gordon Ball, a clubmate was then in front with 71.

But Kesselring came back with a 69 in the second 18 holes and took a clear edge over his nearest opponents, three of whom finished four strokes back. Ball scored 74 on the afternoon round and had a final tally of 145, the same as Ross McGee of Sarnia who had a 72-73 and Nick Westlock of Essex, Ontario amateur champion, whose card read 73-72.

Tied for third place with 146 were Jack Nash of London Hunt Club and Bill Moreland of North Bay.

Ball had a chance to catch Kesselring but he missed several greens on the final nine. He was out in 35 but took 39 coming home.

Score Higher

Kesselring's score was four strokes over his winning count of a year ago when he had rounds of 68-69—137.

Morning rain bothered players

CHALLENGERS—Pancho Gonzales, left, and Jack Kramer bid for Pancho Segura's professional National Grass Court championship at Forest Hills, June 21-24 and June 28-July 1. Kramer, the wholesale winner on tour, has not won the title in two attempts. Segura ran him into the ground a year ago in a beautiful five-set match.

during the first round while a high wind made things bad in the second.

By winning, Kesselring became the pace-setter in the 108-hole competition for places on the Ontario Willingdon Cup team which will meet foursomes from the other provinces in Ottawa in August. Wednesday's tournament is one of the four that will decide the makeup of the Ontario entry.

The others are the first round of the Ontario open in Kitchener Friday, a 36-hole event at Scarborough July 16 and the qualifying round of the Ontario amateur here July 25.

Scores of 155 and better Wednesday made the qualifying list.

BATTLE BEGINS

Leading track and field athletes, with a host of foreign stars, will battle it out at Berkeley, Calif. Friday and Saturday in the 63rd annual United States Amateur Athletic Union championships.

Three Canadians attending American schools are entered. They are Don McEwen of Ottawa, the collegiate two-mile champion from the University of Michigan; Bill Parnell of Vancouver, Washington State College miller, and Jim Lavery of Calgary, quarter-miller from Drake University.

The meet will serve as a preview of the US 1952 Olympic team.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Twenty-one years ago a 24-year-old Toronto sculler named Jack Guest was in Henley-on-Thames, England, training for the Royal Regatta. A well-meaning Cambridge Blue bought him a special shell, but Guest just couldn't make it go.

He went up to London, browsed around in George Sims' boat-building store in Hammersmith, and picked out a stock model. Guest used it in the 1930 Diamond Sculls—and won.

Now his 18-year-old son, Jack Jr., is training for the same event. Young Jack has had the same trouble with the shell that was specially built for him, and has decided to try one that "just happened" to be lying around in the same old store at Hammersmith.

The new one has responded so well in trial spins that Jack Sr. sent off a cable to Dan Wallace of Ottawa asking whether it will be all right to use it in the Diamond Sculls starting July 4.

Two years ago the shell collided with a launch. Wallace sent it to Hammersmith for repairs.

An informed source said Wednesday the $65,000-a-year baseball commissioner had been offered to at least two men who have turned it down.

These are J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and James A. Farley, former Postmaster General. Both Hoover and Farley said "no comment."

At Toronto, Marlene Stewart defeated Mrs. C. MacKenzie of Toronto, in match play of the Ontario ladies golf championship at nearby Lambton Golf Club Wednesday.

The 17-year-old player carded a 36—one under par—for the first nine holes.

Marlene's big test comes today when she tackles Ada MacKenzie defending champion, for the right to advance to the finals. Miss MacKenzie took the measure of Lambton's Mary Jane McCarter, 3 and 2, to move closer to her 10th provincial crown.

Champions of 11 countries have been invited to compete in George S. May's $50,000 "world championship of golf" at Tam O'Shanter course in Chicago Aug. 9-12. First prize is $12,500.

The "world" meet will be preceded by the $15,000 all-American tourney at Tam O'Shanter Aug. 2-5.

Those invited included Bobby Locke, British open, and Dai Rees, British professional match play champion; Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Canadian professional champion; John Panton, Scottish pro champion; and Norman Von Nida, Australian open champion.

Fulham Scores Win Over Glasgow Celtic

MONTREAL, June 21 (CP).—Fulham eleven scored a 3-2 victory over Glasgow Celtic Wednesday night in a gruelling, exhibition football match before 11,429.

Centre forward Johnny Brennan was the star of the game, scoring two of the English League touring team's goals, including the winning tally in the last half. It was the only goal of the session as the two teams gave a brilliant field display of passing.

Right outside Jock Weir scored both goals for Celtic of the Scottish League in the first half. Right half Archie MacAuley scored the other Fulham marker.

In their three meetings in North America, each team won one and the other was tied.

The teams go to New York where they will sail for England.

Had 20 Beers Before Trip

TORONTO, June 21 (CP). — Frank Maxwell said in court on Wednesday he drank "more than 20 beers" before driving five-year-old Martin Frenette to Montreal last month. The 30-year-old former bread salesman, on trial for abduction, said he had not noticed or invited the boy into his automobile, nor had he molested the child. He said the boy got into the car without his knowledge. About half way to Montreal, he found the boy in the back seat and became "rattled." He drove the boy the rest of the way to Montreal, where he let him out on a street. The trial is continuing.

UNIONS AND COMMUNISM

— A FACTUAL RECORD —

The United Electric Workers (Ind.) has been rejected from the official central labour bodies of both the United States and Canada. Leaders of these organizations — the Canadian Congress of Labour and the Congress of Industrial Organizations — have denounced the leadership of UE as slaves to the dictates of the Communist party.

Both the CIO and the CCL have made it clear that there is no room in the free trade union movement for organizations whose first loyalty lies outside both the boundaries of their countries and the recognized objectives of the trade union movement.

"The Communist Party has gained a strong foothold in one of the nation's most strategic industries: the electrical industry. It dominates the largest labour union in that industry: the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. It has seized control of its national office, the executive board, the paid staff, the union newspapers, and a number of the district councils and locals."

—From the report to the United States Congress by a special sub-committee of the House Committee on Education and Labour, December 14, 1948.

There has, at no time, been any suggestion by the CIO or the CCL that the majority of the rank-and-file who still support UE are Communists. Organized labour believes, however, that these workers are entitled to membership in a free trade union recognized by other unions and playing its full part in both national and international labour affairs. It was for that reason that IUE was brought into being.

UE's position during World War II and since has been the position of the Communist Party. Many of its leaders have been clearly marked as Communists, and they continue to force Communist policies on the membership.

The Official Policy Of UE Has At No Time Deviated From That Of The Communist Party.

This Is The Record Taken From UE's Own Publications And Other Public Documents

UE AND THE WAR

On August 29th, 1939, Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia signed an alliance which provided for the division of Poland between the Communists and the Nazis. Hitler was given a free hand to attack the democracies, and Stalin was to get the Baltic countries of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. So long as this unholy alliance existed, the Communist Party (and the UE) did everything possible to sabotage our war effort. On February 24, 1940, for instance, the UE News devoted a full page to the Communist pamphlet, "The Yanks Are Not Coming," and described it as a "history-making publication."

UE also attacked President Roosevelt's proposal to give embattled Britain 100 destroyers with which to fight Nazi submarines. Roosevelt's policy of Lend-Lease of arms to Britain was called "war mongering," and in the UE News of December 15th, 1939, the UE attacked legislation of the Canadian Government aimed at protecting our war production against spies and sabotage.

UE gave full support to the communist-front "American Peace Mobilization" group which continued to picket the White House until June 22nd, 1941 — the day Hitler's troops attacked Russia.

Up until the day Russia was attacked, the UE followed Communist policy by promoting strikes in strategic war industries. At the 1940 CCL Convention, UE introduced a resolution demanding that the labour movement should strike in violation of wartime legislation. "The only real weapon Labour has," the UE said of war-time strikes. C. S. Jackson even boasts that it was his action in promoting an illegal strike in GE which caused his internment in 1941. (According to the United States Congressional Report Jackson was interned as a "Dangerous Communist.")

But when the Soviet Union was invaded on June 22, 1941, everything changed overnight. By May 9, 1942, the Canadian UE News was giving its blessing to speed-ups in war plants. UE District President C. S. Jackson enthusiastically supported a "no strike" policy. UE District Secretary-Treasurer George Harris at the CCL Convention in 1944 refused to support the wage demands of the Packinghouse workers for fear it might lead to a strike.

UE really collaborated with the bosses in this period. The UE Executive Board recommended, as reported in UE News for July 3, 1941, that there was no reason why the "no strike" policy could not be continued in peacetime. UE favoured complete abandonment of the workers' right to strike for any cause.

The Canadian "Peace" Congress, the Stockholm Petition and "Ban the Bomb" petitions have been clearly proven to be Communist-inspired. Speaking in Sudbury, Ont., April 20, 1951, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, branded the Canadian "Peace" Congress as "the agent of a foreign, aggressive imperialism."

Mr. Pearson said these "peace" campaigns were designed "purely and simply to eliminate the most important deterrent weapon possessed by the West at a time when the Soviet Union and its friends and satellites have such a great superiority in other types of military power."

He said nothing was more revealing about the "Peace" Congress than the fact it applied different standards in judging the Soviet and Canada. For a Russian to call for rearmament was laudable, for a Canadian to do the same was "arrant warmongering."

In March, 1946, when activities of a Soviet spy ring in Canada were disclosed by Igor Gauzenko, former Soviet Embassy employee, UE sprang to the defence of "our gallant wartime ally, the Soviet Union." UE said the evidence uncovered by a Royal Commission was "lies." At the same time UE complained that scientific information the spies had obtained had not been given freely to the Soviet.

On October 18, 1946, the Canadian UE News was helping raise money for the World Federation of Democratic Youth which pledged $20,000 to buy comforts for members of a Communist Youth Brigade working on a Yugoslavia railway.

On August 15, 1947, Canadian UE News complained that Canada had sold surplus war materials to The Netherlands while nothing was sent to the Soviet or Soviet satellites.

The UE District Council meeting at Montreal, January, 1951, adopted a flat "No Conscription" policy.

"There may be—indeed there are—some deluded idealists among them, but behind this and controlling them are the agent of a foreign power, Mr. Pearson charged.

"Even the idealists cannot be regarded as disinterested enthusiasts searching for peace. If they were, they would be content to apply the same standards to all countries. They must simply be regarded as the instruments, often, I am afraid, the willing and skillful instruments of a ruthless conspiracy which is intent on destroying the free world and imposing its powerful system of abominable repression everywhere."

He said further that the "peace" groups had supported only the policies of the Soviet with regard to the atom bomb and Korea. They had completely ignored the policies advocated and supported by other members of the United Nations.

UE AND "PEACE"

UE has been one of the major supporters of Communist front "Peace" organizations in Canada. Ross Russell, UE's director of organization, was a member of the original Canadian Peace Congress Committee formed in Toronto in 1948. Russell and UE's vice-president Jean Pare were delegates to a Canadian "Peace" Congress convention in Toronto April 6-8, 1951. Pare was elected vice-chairman.

UE has continually used the union organization through stewards and other members to enlist support for the "Peace" Congress, the Stockholm "Peace" declaration, and "Ban the Bomb" petitions.

This policy was in line with a directive issued by the Soviet Cominform November 23, 1949, which said: "Particular attention should be devoted to bringing together into the movement of the supporters of peace the trade unions, etc. . ."

UE's OFFICERS

ALBERT J. FITZGERALD, UE International President:

The United States House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities said in its report published in 1949: "The consensus of opinion on Albert J. Fitzgerald among those who have studied Communist Party leadership of UERMWA is that he is a willing stooge for the Empak-Matles Communist machine."

"At the present time Fitzgerald is in the forefront of the Wallace third party movement, a movement which is now engaging the principal energies of the Communist party."

The committee record then goes on to list six organizations, described as a "Communist front organization" with which Fitzgerald had been affiliated.

C. S. JACKSON, Canadian UE Director:

The United States House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities said in a report published in 1949: "Clarence S. Jackson is president of the Canadian district of UERMWA and by virtue of that position one of UE international vice-presidents."

"Early in World War II the Canadian Government interned Jackson as a 'dangerous Communist'."

"Although Jackson was a delegate to the 1948 convention of the UERMWA he did not attend. He was stopped at the border and denied entrance into the United States by our immigration authorities."

In April, 1947, Jackson was appointed to the Board of Trustees of The Canadian Tribune publication for the Communist party in Canada.

GEORGE HARRIS, Canadian UE Secretary-Treasurer:

Hri is a self-admitted Communist. He has used his column in the Canadian UE News to support the Soviet policy in Korea. He recently took a prominent part in a "peace" meeting at Massey Hall, Toronto, which cheered Soviet gains against the United Nations.

ROSS RUSSELL, Canadian UE Organization Director:

Russell was one of the founders of the Canadian "Peace" Congress. In early 1949 he visited Europe and returned to Canada lauding Soviet policies and the Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions which has been rejected by labour in the democratic countries. Russell is also a self-admitted Communist.

No loyal Canadian can afford in these days to support an organization which follows every twist and turn of the Communist Party. The Labour Board vote at GE Tuesday, June 26th will count every GE production as for or against UE.

UNLESS YOU VOTE IUE-CIO YOU WILL BE RECORDED AS SUPPORTING UE

SOME OF THE MANY THOUSANDS of Montrealers who stopped to pray and then go solemnly about their business are shown in the dramatic photo above as twin coffins are placed in cars that will bring the St. Cunegonde Hospice fire victims to their last resting place. More than 6,000 mourners jammed the inside of massive Notre Dame church and more than 5,000 paused in tribute on historic Place d'Armes as the city bid sad farewell, in a mass funeral service, to the aged and the infirm who lost their lives in the roaring inferno.

Engineer Elected Commander Unique Unit

LONDON (CP)—Col. V. A. M. Richardson, prominent London consulting engineer, has been elected to command the strangest unit in Britain's Territorial (reserve) Army. The unit exercising this exclusive right, the Engineer and Railway Staff Corps, has enjoyed the privilege of electing its commander since its formation in 1865.

The corps is unique in other respects as there are no non-commissioned officers or other ranks. Its complement consists of 10 colonels, 20 lieutenant-colonels and 30 majors, all experts in engineering, waterways and road and rail transport.

It is also the only army unit permitted to impose a charge for enrolment. By authority of the war office the officer-recruits pay a fee of 10 guineas (about $31.50) for the privilege of enlisting. The members serve without pay, but they are also excused from lectures, drills and parades.

CANNIBALISM...

A nasty term, and a nasty act. But cannibalism is what CCL-CIO and IUE officials practise.

When Man Eats Man, It Is Revolting When Union Officials Devour Entire Unions, It Is Equally Revolting.

Examine the record of one CIO-CCL union... The case of Chas. Millard, head of the Steelworkers' Union—

He has raided many unions in Canada.

He has practised cannibalism on many unions in Canada.

He raided the Auto Union's jurisdiction in Massey-Harris and Int'l Har.

He raided Mine Mill Workers in B.C., Sudbury, Port Colborne and throughout Ontario.

He raided UE in English Electric and elsewhere.

He raided Shipyard Workers in B.C.

Meanwhile, in the heart of industrial Ontario, one of the largest STEEL Mills remains unorganized (Dofasco in Hamilton).

... AND THIS IS ONLY PART OF THE RECORD ...

Now, today he is raiding the CCL itself (to which his union is affiliated) although he is vice-president of the CCL.

Here is what the official minutes of the Steelworkers National policy conference says on the subject. It refers to the shipyard workers in Collingwood, Midland and Port Arthur, Ont., now in the Canadian Congress of Labor and being raided by Millard:

"OUR INFORMATION IS THAT THESE WORKERS ARE FED UP WITH THE INADEQUATE SERVICE AND LACK OF ACHIEVEMENT DURING THE EIGHT YEARS THEY HAVE BEEN IN THE CONGRESS" (CCL) ... "WE WILL TAKE THE ONTARIO SHIPYARD WORKERS INTO OUR UNION."

Millard invents excuses for raiding.

Millard is expert at inventing excuses for raiding. He has had plenty of practise. Red-baiting is still his favorite alibi, but in the case of the Shipyard workers, he charges "lack of achievement during 8 years" by his own CCL.

MILLARD'S RAIDING CREW HAS INVADDED PETERBOROUGH. HE HELPS FINANCE THE IUE. HIS HIGH-PAID PROFESSIONAL RAIDERS ARE BEHIND THE SCENES. THEY PULL THE STRINGS AND THEIR LOCAL HANGERS-ON DANCE.

RAIDING, CANNIBALISM, DISRUPTION LAY A HEAVY COST ON ALL WORKERS BECAUSE THEIR ENERGIES ARE TURNED AWAY FROM CONSTRUCTIVE ACHIEVEMENT. ONLY ANTI-LABOUR FORCES GAIN FROM RAIDING.

UE HAS ALWAYS AND WILL ALWAYS OPPOSE RAIDING. UE FIGHTS FOR UNITY OF ALL LABOUR TO IMPROVE LIVING STANDARDS.

GE WORKERS WILL VOTE FOR UNITY AND CONTINUED PROGRESS ON JUNE 26TH.

Vote With The Majority—Vote UE

WARNING

In desperation, the raiders may try a last-minute bit of trickery to try to snatch victory from certain defeat. They may circulate unsigned materials, or forged documents, or speak through the mouth of some other outside interest. Check the authenticity of all last-minute materials by calling the UE office—Phone 23491.

Monetary Policy Lays Basis for 10 Years

WINNIPEG, June 21 (CP)—John L. McDougall, professor of commerce at Queen's University, said Wednesday the actions of the Department of Finance and the Bank of Canada in the next month or two will determine Canada's economic health 10 years from now.

Speaking at a service club luncheon, he referred to limitations on mortgage lending, consumer credit sales, stabilization of bank credit and other measures.

This was the first monetary policy to check inflation which started 10 years ago, he said.

There may be some check to price and perhaps minor unemployment in the next month or two, but... the alternative is close to runaway inflation.

$9,000,000 DEMOLITION—Spectacular episode in demolition of a $9,000,000 warehouse at Prince Rupert, B.C., occurred with the dynamiting of this 376½-ton elevator tower. The tower—one of six—was felled after removal of some 6,000,000 feet of lumber frame. The warehouse was built during the Second World War by the United States Army as a staging depot for shipment of supplies to the Pacific Theatre.

Tribute Paid Memory W. F. Skitch

By D. C. HAVERSON

It is in obedience to something very deep within us, an instinct as old as man, that in the passing away of one of our company we pause for a time and confess that by their passing we have been bereaved, for though death is our universal lot it is death is a common thing. It is impossible in a few sentences to convey the impressions which gradually grew up from frequent contact with a nature so sympathetic, clear-sighted and many-sided as that of Mr. W. F. Skitch; and yet this much can be said—no one could know him long without perceiving that he was full of pure aims, a man of incorruptible personal integrity, one whose character combined in a remarkable manner

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, June 21st—Thinking soon't make it so... Beautiful movie star Joan Bennett thought all face creams were alike—thought her face was immaculately clean after she'd used her regular cleansing cream. Then she tried the "Blue-Jay" and found that WOODBURY COLD CREAM floated off hidden dirt! Why is Woodbury so different? Because it has Penaten, a new "miracle" ingredient that actually penetrates deeper into your pore openings. Penaten lets Woodbury's wonderful cleansing oils go deeper to loosen every trace of grime and make-up! And, thanks to Penaten, Woodbury Cold Cream smooths your skin more effectively. Buy a jar today—25c, 45c, 75c and 1.15.

No More Frowns For Me because of p-a-i-n-u-l corns! I've just made a new "foot friend" in BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters—with Phenylum! What's that? It's the greatest scientific discovery in years to us people with unhappy feet! It's the most effective medication ever invented for corns and calluses! Took ten years of scientific research for the Blue-Jay folks to perfect Phenylum... and now it's effective in 95% of the cases tested! So, if corns or calluses have been making you feel like growling at everyone... just buy "Blue-Jay" Corn Plasters with Phenylum and end your troubles!

Ever Tasted Strawberries picked right off the vine—red ripe and full of wonderful flavour? That's why Wagstaffe has its own kitchen right in the heart of Canada's best berry districts. And to taste strawberry flavour that's "out of this world"—try the fresh NEW PACK of Wagstaffe Pure Strawberry Jam. Just open a jar of Wagstaffe Pure Strawberry Jam and smell that tantalizing strawberry jam aroma. Yes, it comes from plenty of sun-ripened berries cooked with pure sugar until they practically jell in their own delicious thing—in the NEW PACK of WAGSTAFFE PURE STRAWBERRY JAM—available soon at your grocer's.

At Less Than Half Price... a "Hi—Breakfast Ready?" No sooner said than QUAKER MUFFETS are on the table! There's no preparation—just put the package out and let the family help themselves. Not only are these crispy, toasted, golden-brown biscuits good to eat, but they're good for you, too! In Quaker Muffets you get 100% Whole Wheat—yes, the bran and valuable wheat germ are there with the body-building protein, minerals and energy-giving qualities of the whole grain. For a breakfast that's really different, try them with fruit and milk or cream—you'll be back for more and more! Right at this moment I'm adding Quaker Muffets to my shopping list—how about you?

You Know and I know, too—that we women can keep a secret. For instance, does your husband know how grey your hair is getting? Nope!—not when you keep it a secret with wonderful NESTLE COLORINT! Nestle Colorint is not a dye—it's safer, easier to use than dye. Lasts through three shampoos, yet lathers out when you want it to. And it hides grey hair completely—with beautiful, youthful color. Whether you're blonde, brunette or redhead—there's just the right shade of Nestle for you... 10 enchanting shades—6 capsules for 39c! Try NESTLE COLORINT, too—to highlight the beauty of your hair. It rinses in—shampoos out... 6 rinses—just 39c.

A Bathing Beauty... and once you've taken a refreshing bath or shower with a velvet-soft C-L-I SPONGE, I just know you'll agree! It's so smooth and gentle to the skin—and, even more, it adds beauty to your bathroom—for now you can get C-L-I Cellulose Sponges in COLOUR—to blend with your bathroom accessories and add a touch of glamour (at little cost)! Blue—Coral—Yellow—Green... you'll love them! Everyone in the family can have a "personalized" bath sponge from baby to grandpa! And, remember—C-L-I Sponges float—hold 20 times their weight in water—and they're long-lasting. Ask for C-L-I Coloured Sponges—at department, drug, variety, grocery and hardware stores.

It's Something To Be Proud Of!... your "Treasure Trove" of home-made jams 'n' jellies. No matter what your favourite is—strawberry, raspberry, grape, plum, deeper, more satisfying appeal when you make them yourself. With CERTO FRUIT PECTIN at hand, along with my favourite fruits and sugar, it's so easy to have wonderfully sure results every time! I simply follow the easy directions on the booklet under the label on each Certo bottle and do my jams and jellies in about one-third of the time of the long boil method. I actually find with Certo I get up to 50% more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

All "Dressed Up" For Gala Occasions... it's wink-quick to make BLUE BONNET MARGARINE in the Yellow Quik bag look as good as it tastes! All you do is press the colour button on the Yellow Quik bag and knead the bag gently. In just two minutes your Blue Bonnet is a golden, luscious-looking yellow—ready to serve. It's so easy—no dirty mixing bowls to wash—no fuss—no bother at all. I love Blue Bonnet's country-fresh flavour in my cooking (baking, pan frying, seasoning vegetables). And another thing I like about it is that it's always fresh. Yes, I get so much for so little when I buy Blue Bonnet—I find I can buy extra milk with the money it saves me!

Are You "Scrimping Along" from pay-day to pay-day? It's no life for a woman, is it? So many of my friends have been doing just that since the cost of living got so high a mighty. Now, with Personal Planning, the BANK OF MONTREAL'S wonderful, down-to-earth system of handling your money, most women can say "goodbye" to unpleasant scrimping. Several of my friends have already proved that Personal Planning their income helps it overtake rising prices and increased taxes—and even leave a bit over for savings. So take a tip from me and get your copy of the booklet "PERSONAL PLANNING" today. It's as close to you as your neighbourhood branch of the B of M—and the only obligation is to yourself!

gentleness of spirit and ruggedness of principle; who had the courage of his convictions, his kind open face represented the truly large simple nature within. Mr. Skitch had that innate kindness which permeated every act of his life. What a bid he made for the field of spiritual democracy, a world where the best and noblest would have a chance to flower. With what pride we recall his gracious life, a tower of strength, his strong resolute soul, full of faith and hope that never failed him, akin to the great granite peak that defies the storm cloud. There was always a bright ray on his horizon which expanded into a kindly tomorrow. His sense of duty pursued him to the end. With what earnest thought he gave to everything that concerned the present and eternal welfare of man. What a tower of strength he was through his long and well spent life; without the slightest trace of jealousy he delighted in any success or happiness that came to his friends. To the spirit of malice or revenge he was always and utterly opposed. He had nothing of that mockery which is the fume of a little mind. The outstanding qualities of Mr. Skitch's character could be summed up in the one word sincerity; it was part of his structure and character. How refreshing to know such a man, without sham or pretence. How strong his faith that right would triumph over wrong, that was the foundation stone he built his hopes for. In no man was individuality more pronounced than in Mr. Skitch, and few were his equal in the fine flavor of his conversation. No man had greater love and respect than he for the men or women who were faithful to their common task, and was always ready to get under the load that he felt was his duty to carry. No tribute of mine would be complete which did not refer to his fine sense of humor. His hearty laugh, how kind he was to those less fortunate than himself. His motto, "Let me do my work each day, and although the world knows me not, may my thoughts and actions be such as shall keep me friendly with myself. Give me a few friends who will love me for what I am, ever keep burning before my vagrant steps the kindly light of hope."

It was at his own fireside that Mr. Skitch was seen to best advantage. He loved his family and rejoiced in their happiness, and to them he gave the best he had, to them he has left the precious heritage of an honored name. To the members of his family and to all who loved and honored him for the quality of his work, we extend our Christian sympathy; through the solemn gladness of our remembrance comes the plea to pledge ourselves in like manner to the help of others, that his place in the community may not be wholly unfilled... thus we say farewell, kind friend of man.

Apsley SS Holds Annual Picnic

APSLEY, June 21 (ENS)—St. George's Anglican Sunday School, held its picnic at Couch's Landing, Chando Lake, on Saturday. Everyone spent a most enjoyable afternoon under the leadership of the superintendent, Frank Tanner, and his assistants, Miss Evelyn Everett and Herbert James. The program consisted of games, contests, races, tug-of-war, bathing and swimming.

Supper was served under the trees on the shore of the lake, under the superintendence of Mrs. Frank Tanner, who was assisted by members of the Women's Guild. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence, in a short address, warmly commended Mr. Tanner and his co-workers for their faithful and efficient services to this branch of the church's activities, and wished them continued success in this important work. Miss M. Jones, deaconess in charge of the Apsley Mission, also spoke briefly, expressing her appreciation of the welcome accorded her in her ministerial duties, and moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Tanner and all those who had co-operated to make the event so successful.

More Buyers At New Site

From his own recent experience in moving from Water St. to his new building on George St. south of Rink St., Cliff Towle whose business in the auto-electric service, supports the proposal that outdoor vendors on the market should try to make the most of their transposed location.

"As a matter of fact," he said today, "I'm getting more business including the calls of farmers of the district. Those who mention the change in my case say they find it a great deal easier with the parking space that is available."

Motor car customers have become a big factor today, and Mr. Towle agrees that parking facilities are what the people are looking for.

That new market lot could be made attractive along the George St. front with the planting of shrubs, and generally providing for permanency. Obviously, Mr. Towle said, the place needed some essential facilities for people.

Generally speaking, the market vendors could make a success of it by recognizing that the site is central, that parking is an advantage, and by developing it to the stage where permanent accommodation would be a further step of need and improvement.

Dandelions Pay Off In Beehive Of North

TISDALE, Sask.—(CP)—Most communities want to eliminate the lowly dandelion, but Tisdale has a different viewpoint.

When the Board of Trade asked for a dandelion-spraying campaign, honey producer K. E. Baines told the town council dandelions are a big factor in honey production.

Spraying might be harmful to the vast number of bees in the area, he said, besides destroying an important bee food.

Tisdale recently chose a new slogan for itself, "The beehive of the north," because of its large district honey industry.

4 Metal Products Rationed July 1

OTTAWA, June 21—(CP)—Four more metals products—primary lead, refined secondary lead, slab zinc and cadmium—will be placed under rationing July 1, Defence Production Minister Howe announced Wednesday.

The metals, which are on the essential materials list and have been under informal rationing by producers for several months, will come under direct allocation by the non-ferrous metals division of Mr. Howe's department.

Sudbury Hires Full-Time Civil Defence Director

SUDBURY, June 21—(CP)—City council Tuesday night approved unanimously a recommendation of the Sudbury District Civil Defence Control Committee that a full-time civil defence director be appointed at a salary not exceeding $5,000 a year.

The appointment still must be approved by district municipalities.

It gave its approval after Alderman G. J. Monaghan assured the committee that civil defence volunteers will be "properly equipped" and trained without cost to the municipality.

President of Missions

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—Dr. Peter K. Emmons, Scranton, Pa., was elected president of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church Thursday. He succeeds Dr. John A. MacKay, president of the Princeton Theological seminary.

Ald. Monaghan said he had this assurance from K. B. F. Smith, senior Ontario civil defence administrative officer.

Mayor W. S. Beaton had previously opposed the appointment on the grounds civil defence was "a lot of politics." He said the federal and provincial governments had given no assurance they were willing to pay for equipment.

Red River Valley Rich In Material For Novelists

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Vera Kelsey, an American author who has written the first complete history of the Red River Valley, returned here recently to photograph copies of her book, "The Red River Runs North." Much of the research work detailed in the book was done here.

Though Miss Kelsey was born here and grew up in Red River Valley country at Grand Forks, N.D., she said in an interview that like most inhabitants of the valley she knew little about it before beginning the book.

At the outset, she assumed the work would be completed "in a few months." But it took her five years to collect and compose the historical findings in the book.

Miss Kelsey said: "I was amazed. I thought this was only an agricultural country. But it is rich in material for novels, adventure stories, history—there's almost no field one couldn't plunge into and find any number of subjects."

She said the time is "just ripening" for creative development here, and the next 50 years should see it surge forward.

Early Talent

Miss Kelsey's talent for writing—or telling stories, at least—began at an early age. While attending the University of North Dakota and later at the University of Washington, she wrote everything from articles to operettas.

She then went to China to further her writing ambitions. During a three-year stay she became a feature writer for the North China Daily News in Shanghai. In 1936 she headed for South America and spent several years there, and in the Caribbean Islands and Central America. She has written several historical books on these countries.

Author of 12 books since her first was published in 1939, she has written five mystery novels

Crippled Girls Running Profitable Firm

YATELY, England — (CP) — This Hampshire town is a self-supporting community of workshops and cottages run and staffed by disabled girls, mostly victims of infantile paralysis and spinal complaints. Many of the girls work in wheelchairs. They support themselves by their craft—textile printing.

Known as the Yately Textile Printers the firm was started as an experiment in 1937 by Miss Jess Brown, an orthopaedic nurse, who was impressed by work done by disabled workers in the cotton industry in India and wished to help invalid girls she knew in England. Now the girls produce more than £5,000 worth of exclusive designs each year.

In Canada and the United States especially, there is a steady demand for the modern, individual clothes and dirndls which have been designed at Yately.

The centre's only Indian girl, Sybil Collie, makes lino cuts, surrounded by 600 blocks of Persian, Spanish, Chinese and early Egyptian designs which are filled for use. Nearby, Joan Hardwick is in the processing room; all the designs go to her for steaming.

A recent arrival is Mary Ram from the Isle of Wight. She is waiting for an electrically controlled chair. As a student trainee she hems dirndls, aprons, tablecloths and scarves. After a short time doing sewing she will learn other branches of textile printing and will then go on to the payroll as a qualified textile worker.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dressings Make Difference In Salads

"Now Bert would like fruit salad like that," it is my friend Sade talking. It is easy to guess that she loves Bert very dearly, but his aversion to some salads is worrisome—not to say distressing to her. I told Sade that I thought it was the dressing that won her praise. I do too. Dressing can make the difference between a salad that is rabbit food or food for health fiends—and one that gleams with luscious globes of sun-filled fruit or crisp and cool greens and drenched with a golden dressing. Indeed food for salins—like you. In other words, girls, make your dressing suit your salad. Make it complementary to it. For instance, just as Roquefort French Dressing can make most men enjoy munching on a plain wedge of head lettuce, so can a fruit salad something to be remembered. I hope you saw the two Cottage cheese salads I printed in this column a few days ago. The following fruit cream dressing goes well on them or with almost any fruit salad on greens. It is especially useful in summer when strawberries and peaches and melons are ripening and ready to be used at their best—raw and fresh.

Fruit Cream Dressing

Three tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons flour, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 medium lemon—juice and grated rind, 1 cup pineapple juice from canned pineapple, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Mix sugar and flour in top of double boiler. Stir in beaten eggs, vinegar fruit juices and grated rind. Stir over gently toiling water until thickened. Remove from heat at once and chill. Just before serving fold in the cream whipped. Other fruit juice such as canned pear or apricot may be used—when these fruits are used in the salad on which this dressing is served.

The Roquefort dressing to which I referred above is French dressing with crumbled Roquefort (or some blue cheese) in it.

French Dressing

One tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon each salt, paprika, mustard, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup mild vinegar or lemon juice, ¼ cup cold salad oil. Shake in covered jar, and jar must be shaken as used.

This is the simple dressing most popular with most people with simple greens.

However, I like it best when it is called Piquante French Dressing and sugar is added to 4 tablespoons, and you add 1 teaspoon each grated onion and celery seeds. Cut a clove of garlic in 4 slices crosswise and let stand in bottle at least an hour before using. Serve this on a salad of 1 part finely shredded cabbage, 1 part chunks of inner head lettuce, 1 part slices of tomato, ¼ part slices or cubes of cucumber, and ¼ part finely chopped celery.

I have given my homemade mayonnaise repeatedly, but I have not yet given you this all-purpose "cooked mayonnaise." You should use 4 egg yolks, but 2 whole eggs give good results.

All-Purpose Cooked Mayonnaise

In top of double boiler mix 1 teaspoon each sugar, salt, mustard and ½ cup flour. Stir in ¼ cup hot water and ¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice. Stir over low heat or boiling water until thick.

In a large bowl beat 4 egg yolks or 2 whole eggs, and add the hot mixture to them beating. Beat until very smooth and light. Chill. When quite cold gradually beat in 1 cup cold salad oil—beating while you add it in a fine stream. This is especially good when well-drained chopped tomato and diced cucumber are added to a little of it and served on fish salads.

There is a dressing called French that is sold in bottles in the stores that storekeepers tell me is very popular. You can make it at least cost at home, and I think you will like it.

Egg French Dressing

Mix together in bowl ¼ cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1½ teaspoons salt, shake of red pepper, and slice of garlic, ¼ cup granulated or icing sugar and 1 whole egg. Beat well with electric or rotary beater, then slowly beat in 1 cup cold salad oil. Keep in covered jar and shake well every time it is used. This is ideal for marinating (soaking) cooked vegetables such as cold asparagus, little tiny cauliflowerets, cold peas, cold

IN THIS SEASON of sheer summer dresses, organdy that stays permanently crisp is pretty to look at and pleasing to wear. The tunic ensemble by Pauline Trigere (left) is in two shades of gray. The basic sheath is in dark gray, has a belted overtunic in pale gray. Accessories, too, are in permanent-finish organdy. The small pleated hat is in dark gray. Even the shell pumps are of organdy. Organdy in the rain seems an anomaly, like a baby limas before they are mixed into cold salads. Write to me if there are other types of salad dressing you would like to see in this column.

Says Rural Women Have Part In Civil Defence

MONTREAL, June 21 (CP)—All available information on atom-bomb effects has been released to the general public, Dorothy Percy of the federal health department told the 17th biennial conference of the Board of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada yesterday.

The F.W.I.C., grouping women from rural areas, is meeting at Macdonald College in suburban St. Anne de Bellevue.

Civil defence must be organized and co-ordinated on three levels—national, provincial and municipal, she said. It is on the municipal level where such organizations as the Women's Institutes first come into action.

"One of the big jobs will be taking in evacuees from large centres," she added. "In all this work the Institutes can play an active part. It will be very clear, should such a national emergency arise, that we are indeed our brothers' keepers."

The New Brunswick section reported that $14,000 has been raised towards a fund for its aged members.

TWO ROLLS OF COTTON and a few minutes at her dressing table (left) are all this young woman needs to achieve sleek page boy style.

Easy Method Sets Curl For Busy Summer Wear

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

If your schedule for summer fun leaves little time for an elaborate hair-care program, you may find helpful a simple system of setting suggested by a noted New York hair stylist.

In this easy arrangement, you take advantage of the natural downward fall of your hair rather than trying to coax your tresses into the artificial up-and-back positions that are demanded by curls and swirls.

Begin your setting by obtaining a quantity of cotton from the box in your medicine chest. The next step is to make two rolls of the cotton—one that measures one inch thick by seven inches long; the other one an inch in diameter and fourteen inches long. These measurements may be varied slightly for individual rolls more suited to the size of your head and the length of your hair.

Next, wet your hair well and you're ready to begin. Part your hair carefully and brush locks downward from the crown until they fit like a smooth cloche all around your head—bangs smooth upon your forehead, side hair hanging straight around your ears, back hair hugging the nape of your neck.

Now, lift your bangs and slip the shorter roll of cotton beneath

PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER

A chicken dinner served by Lakeview House, Young's Point, was enjoyed Tuesday evening by 38 members of Peter Robinson Chapter, IOOE. The meeting following marked adjournment of business until the fall.

The ladies had an enjoyable trip together by bus. They concluded the evening by playing court whist and Mrs. Alma Bellegue won the first prize, Mrs. B. Burns, the second, Mrs. W. Hardwick won the draw prize.

Business was conducted by regent Mrs. H. Baker. It was voted to donate $5 to the Mayor's Fire Fund. Draw tickets on a bridge table and chair set were distributed for selling, the draw to be made at the fall tea. Other novelties of this tea were discussed and Mrs. S. Braund was appointed to convene a home cooking table.

Post war work is to be continued during the summer and wool and flannellette was given out to be worked into baby clothes. Arrangements for the evening were carried out by Mrs. Frank Jobbitt and her group.

D. A. Holmes Wed

Mr. Donald Allen Holmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holmes, Oshawa, all formerly of Peterborough, was married Saturday afternoon to Merrill Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Cockerill, Oshawa, in the St. Andrew's United church.

The bride, gowned in white Chantilly lace and nylon marquisette, was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Barbara Rogerson, Toronto, and Miss Barbara Barclay, Oshawa, similarly gowned in mauve and green.

Mr. Roy Plowright was groomsmen and Stanley J. Johnson and Clarence McCoy were ushers. The reception was held at Adelaide House, the bride's mother receiving in blue lace with draped skirt of crepe and flower-trimmed leghorn hat. The groom's mother, who assisted, was wearing a navy crepe dress with inset yoke of navy lace over pink, a navy and white hat with flower trimming and corsage of deep pink roses.

Mr. Holmes and his bride left by motor for New York city and other points, the bride wearing a suit of beige pink gabardine, white and navy hat and corsage of orchids. They will live in Oshawa.

After the meeting a sing-song was accompanied on the piano by Miss Ann Deyell, club pianist and Mrs. Brant. Mrs. Brant also favored with very lovely vocal numbers.

Seasonal Dish Is Specialty At St. George's Tea

Strawberries and ice cream in June is a treat that can scarcely be resisted, and this proved true at the tea Wednesday afternoon in St. George's Anglican Church parish hall, held by the Afternoon Guild.

This added feature increased the enjoyment of attendants, including small children. It was available at a small extra charge. Success of the tea had been assured by the sale of nearly 150 tickets, and the crowd of adults which had to form a waiting line at times was estimated at more than that number.

Each color of the rainbow was represented in the streamers that criss-crossed overhead, and the room was lovely with flowers and small bouquets centring the small serving tables with attractive embroidered covers.

Mrs. H. J. Seuce, wife of the new rector, made her first appearance at a women's function and was welcomed. She was introduced by president Mrs. F. Dorrell who received at the door, assisted by Mrs. A. Warren Sr.

A table of embroidery, handicraft and household goods for sale was attended by Mrs. A. Howarth and Mrs. H. Perks. The home baking table with a splendid variety was in charge of Mrs. C. Robinson and Mrs. W. Warren.

The sale of small potted plants was another special feature for this time of year and it was conducted by Mrs. W. McWilliams.

Attraction for the kiddies was the fish pond which had a corner location at the entrance and was operated by Mrs. F. Hines and Mrs. A. Peck.

Mrs. E. McIlwain was convener of the refreshments and her helpers were Mrs. A. Green, Mrs. E. Cook, Mrs. D. McIntosh and Mrs. C. Blackburn. The plates were served by Mrs. W. Pakenham, Mrs. R. Stroud, Misses Patricia Caccavelli, Marion White, Noreen Mormon and Geraldine Perks. Mrs. I. Harrison was taking tickets at the door.

The highway from Quebec to Montreal was extended and completed in 1736.

DOROTHY DIX

Man's Carelessness Bodes Ill For Future

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a boy who has changed greatly since he has given me my engagement ring. He was always so clean and neat but lately he doesn't take any interest in his appearance and I am humiliated to go out in public with him. He is forever borrowing money from me and pays it back. When I object he tells me we are engaged and I shouldn't mind giving him money as he will have to support me the rest of my life, anyway. He used to give me gifts on different occasions but now never bothers to give me anything. I have broken up with him several times but he always comes back and says he is going to change, but he never does. Do you think I should give him up for good? I know I'm not happy this way.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: You're one of the lucky ones, Fay. Most men wait until they're married before they show such characteristics. Your fiancé doesn't have even that much interest in keeping up appearances. The qualities he displays now are the ones you will have to live with if you marry him. Does the idea appeal to you?

Money Attitude Bad

Personal untidiness and sloppiness are bad enough, but his attitude toward finances should make you hand back that engagement ring as fast as you can. If he takes money from you so casually now, you'll probably wind up as the breadwinner for the family, and make no mistake about it. This boy is just looking for an easy touch and nothing in his treatment of you shows any sign of affection or consideration.

I doubt if your fiancé will ever get as far as the altar, even if you do nothing to terminate the engagement. When he has all the money he can coax from you, you're likely to find yourself stranded. If you do go ahead with the marriage, you can look forward to long years of working all day to support him, then coming home at night and cleaning up after a dirty husband. Do you find the prospect alluring? If not, hand back the ring and find a husband who will cherish you as a wife should be cherished.

Nothing can be so goading to a meticulous person as an unkempt and disorderly spouse. These habits of personal untidiness are bedevils of reformation. If they exist before marriage, they will get much worse later. No people are more misnamed than the neat and slatternly; no one is a surer candidate for psychiatric care than the tidy wife of a slovenly husband—unless it's the fastidious husband of a frowzy wife.

DEAR MISS DIX: During my senior year in high school three years ago I met a young man for whom I have a great deal of admiration. We have developed a close friendship and I trust him completely. He has high ideals and makes a good living. But there is on thing wrong with him. He is too bashful. Whenever he would make a date with me, he'd phone that something came up to make it impossible for him to meet me. After waiting for him a year and a half, I began dating another man, and became engaged. However, I soon realized I didn't care as much for him as for my bashful beau, and broke the engagement. Then I met my bashful friend and he told me he thought I was the sweetest girl he had ever known and that he intended to ask me to marry him. However, he said I was one girl to whom he never knew what to say. Now I'm still waiting! I'm sure he loves me, but he's too bashful to make a date and keep it. I know and like his family (who realize the problem and have done everything to help, but to no avail). How can I help him to get out more and get over being so shy?

ANSWER: There are times when the approach direct is the only way to handle a bashful lover. Instead of waiting, lady-like, for him to do the dating, take the matter in your own hands and do the asking yourself. You may even have to pop the vital question yourself; it's been done more often than many wives will admit. It can be very exasperating to watch a shy man waste the years away getting up enough courage to say a few words, but you will have this consolation when you finally land him: he'll be too bashful to go around dating other women so you're sure of a faithful mate.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 26 and my fiancé is 31. We have been engaged for one year and were all set with plans to wed in the near future. From out of the blue he turns around and tells me he can't marry me because my parents have been divorced and he doesn't approve. He went steady with me for eight years.

ANSWER: I'm afraid, Wanda, that you have been very summarily jilted. Your friend just shied from marriage at the last moment. His reason for not wanting to marry you is weak indeed. After all, he's known of your parents' divorce for a long time, and even though he doesn't approve of divorce on general principles, it isn't something he should hold against you. I doubt if there's much sense trying to win him back. Better concentrate your efforts on finding a new beau. imf% lbagHt

ANSON HOUSE RESIDENTS are a happy group of this city's senior citizens. When the photographer called on them this week a few of the ladies were in their sitting room, busy with last minute touches to their handwork for sale Wednesday during "open house", and the men were sitting together on their verandah enjoying a cool breeze.

Open House Held By Anson House

Anson House is the familiar name of a place in Peterborough where elderly people live. Many people in the city are not aware where it is unless they have been with church organizations putting on entertainment there or have visited relatives or friends in residence. Fewer still know how it is managed, under what system it is supported or how it came into existence.

It stands high on a hill on Anson St., west of Water St. N., taking in one of the most charming views of the city and surrounding countryside that is available within the limits. The house faces south overlooking the north end and Otonabee River, but from its hilltop site a wide expanse of countryside can be seen in each direction.

The choice of site is an admirable one for its purpose, for "views" often become the chief pleasures of elderly folk. It was chosen and given by a group of men of the city who met in January, 1911. A fund of $20,000 for a home had been left by Mrs. Jane Nicholls at her death in 1890. To this, $10,000 was added by the men on condition that the Protestant Home Association would erect a building and become an incorporated association, having representatives elected from the city churches.

The association, under Mrs. Walter Rogers, president from 1907-1924, then got busy and obtained Incorporated Letters Patent on May 3 of that year. The corner stone of Anson House was laid that summer, with Mrs. T. G. Hazlitt, member of the Dixon family, officiating with a silver trowel inscribed to her. Official opening of the $30,000 building took place April 30, 1912, the work having been carried out by Mr. J. G. Graham, contractor. Mayor Wm. G. Bradburn, was chairman for this ceremony.

The building was at this time called the Protestant Home, the name selected for the house on Sherbrooke St. given in 1865 by Mr. R. A. Morrow for the purpose of what was then called the Protestant Relief Society. This society was organized November 28, 1862, at a meeting held in Col. Haultain's office where Mrs. Louisa Wallis was elected president and Mrs. Haultain the secretary. A year later Mrs. James Hall became the president and served until 1870. A house used the first several years was located south on George St.

Changed Name
Mrs. Robert Neill, who was president of the association 1924 to 1937, disliked the name in use and was instrumental in having it changed to Anson House during her term of office.

The system of financing also underwent some change during this period when pensions for those over 70 were given in 1929. Previously there had been an agreement with the city whereby board was paid for indigent citizens and the city was entitled to two-thirds of the available accommodation for them.

Though the agreement is still in effect, residents getting pensions contribute themselves. Only one resident is at present being supported by the city. Those with means of their own may also live at Anson House, the only stipulations being that they be at least 60 years of age and have lived in the city of Peterborough for two years. Admittance is by application to the board.

Donations:
Board money does not finance the institution entirely. Since its very inception the home for elderly Protestant citizens has been dependent on the generosity of other citizens, though now to a lesser degree. About 1866 the late John Carnegie, M.P.P., secured a grant from the Government of seven cents a day for each person, supplemented by two cents each for adults and four cents for children. (It had originally been intended to admit only destitute old women and children, but as cases of deserving old men were presented it was determined to admit them also.)

Prominent citizens have annually been making gifts of money to the association, and some interested persons have made bequests in their wills. The building in use before the present one was a stone house on the east side of Stewart St., near the creek, given in 1870 by Sheriff James Hall, and in 1905 given for a nominal price to the trustees who turned it over to the home when it was incorporated.

Gave Furnishings

On opening of the new building, furnishings for some rooms were provided by various citizens and from some estates, and plaques on the doors now are reminders of these gifts, though most of the furnishings have since been renewed or replaced at the expense of the board. The ladies' sitting room was furnished in 1918 by the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Waddell; the board room by the estate of the late Jane Livick of Lakefield (the original rug is still on the floor); and a small reception room by the Gilmour family in memory of their mother, Elan Gilmour.

Above the fireplace in the board room are pictures of former presidents: Miss Isabel Roger, 1902-1907; Mrs. James Hall, 1863-1870; Mrs. Vernon (aunt of Mrs. F. M. DeLaFosse), 1885-1902; and Mrs. Walter Rogers; and in the room are pictures of Mr. Wm. Hall, 1862-1863; Mrs. Nicholls, benefactor, and members of the Haultain family. Other presidents have been Mrs. A. Smith, 1870-1871; Mrs. Romaine, 1872; Mrs. Gilmour, 1881-1884.

James Hamilton
Mrs. F. M. DeLaFosse, now a member of the board, carried through the war years, serving as president from 1937 to 1947 when the office was taken over by the present head, Mr. James Hamilton.

Miss Abbie Robinson, R.N., who accepted the position of superintendent of Anson House in 1936, has accomplished wonders by her skillful management of the residents and staff. At present she has 22 women and 11 men in her care and a vacancy for one of each may be filled at any time. Four rooms in the building are occupied by staff members, also in her charge. She attends to ordering all food and supplies, and also the needs of the residents from calling their doctors to seeing that they have wool for their knitting.

Miss Robinson had an interest in the association for 25 years before taking charge, her sister Miss Sarah Robinson having served as secretary for that time after being elected on the first executive after incorporation.

To have the residents enjoy life as much as possible is the foremost thought of the superintendent, and she is always delighted when any offer of entertainment or a treat for them is made. The men find their pleasure mostly in the smoking room where the radio goes from 7 a.m. each day, she says. The women frequently rearrange their rooms to suit themselves, using some of their own furnishings. They visit each other often in their rooms or sit together in their sitting room downstairs. Each can have a radio in the room and a telephone in the upper hall for residents' use. Newspapers coming to the Anson House get thorough reading.

Beautifully kept grounds around the building are a pleasing sight to the approaching visitor, and he is greeted by a cheery atmosphere indoors. Relatives are contented by the reports of substantial, wholesome meals from residents. Some plans for modernizing the kitchen are now being investigated by the board.

Mass Resignations May Close Abadan Refineries

TEHRAN, Iran, June 22. (AP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company warned the Iranian government today that its refineries at Abadan—the world's largest—may be forced to shut down because of "mass resignations" of British technicians. The warning came as the government gave all non-Iranian employees of the British-owned company the right to move to nationalize a seven-day ultimatum in which to report whether they will continue to work for the government-controlled Iranian National Oil Company. That is the government's new name for the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

UN Planes Win 5th Air Battle Against Reds

TOYKO, June 22 (AP)—The Communist air force was beaten for the fifth day this week in two roaring jet battles over North Korea today. American Sabre jets shot down two Russian-made jets and damaged three, the United States Fifth Air Force announced.

That raised Red losses this week to 11 planes shot down, one probably destroyed and 17 damaged—a total of 29.

Eighty-nine jets were involved in the two battles, which were fought within 12 hours of the first fire-bomb attack on United States troops.

On the ground, UN patrols Friday ran into what appeared to be the Reds' first line of defence on the Western front. Allied officers there predicted a limited Communist counter-offensive by Monday.

Front-line dispatches reported Chinese shovelled artillery and mortar fire on an Allied patrol north of Yonchon. That, for the second successive day, forced back UN units probing toward Pyongyang in the old Red "iron triangle."

The Reds didn't try to interfere with patrols poking around Kaesong, far to the west. The town was entered Thursday but not by returning units Friday.

Thirty red-nosed MIG-15s roared out of Manchuria Friday morning to renew the jet war after a one-day lull. Twenty-eight Sabre jets swooped down on them 30 miles from the Manchurian border.

Two MIGs were shot down and two damaged in the engagement fought at 10,000 feet.

Another MIG was damaged in a second battle in the same area about noon. Six Sabre jets took on an estimated 25 MIGs in that fight.

The Fifth Air Force did not say whether any American jets were lost.

The Far East air forces announced 245 American planes have been lost in the war, which will be a year old Monday, and 391 Communist planes destroyed or damaged.

Two unidentified planes made a two-hour attack on UN lines near Chorwon, on the western front, in the early morning darkness Friday.

They fire-bombed, strafed, rocketed and bombed allied positions by the light of parachute flares. Throughout the attack they roared through a sky streaked by tracers and the bursts of anti-aircraft fire from UN guns.

Boy 5 Falls At Dam Is Drowned

Fast Water Sweeps Mark St. Lad Past Chum's Hand

Swept away in the treacherous current of the raceway by the London St. dam, five-year-old Gary Yates, 450 Mark St., was drowned early Thursday night.

Dragging operations were carried out until dark and resumed early today, but so far firemen and volunteers have been unable to locate the body.

The boy was caught in a semi-circular eddy after falling into the raceway, about 30 feet south of the powerhouse. He was whirled against the current, to within inches of the outstretched hand of his chum Reg. Turner, 11, of 76 Robinson St.

The eddy took him out into the fast-moving water of the main stream where he disappeared from view.

End Of Adventure

The drowning was the end of a minor adventure in which Gary, against his mother's orders, set out with young Turner to watch his older chum fish.

"I warned him not later than half past five that he wasn't to go playing up by the river," said his grief-stricken mother, Mrs. Raymond Yates. "Why, oh why, did he have to do it?"

The accident occurred just before 6:30 p.m.

(A rumor started late Thursday night and early today that a second boy had drowned in the raceway by the London Street dam. The sole victim was Gary Yates. Confusion was caused when it was thought that the boy's name was Sutherland.)

While Reg, a confirmed junior fisherman, tried his luck with worms on a three-foot broomstick, Gary started to climb along the narrow ledge a couple of feet above the water level.

Reg was too busy to pay much attention.

Price Control Included On Agenda

Inflation, Newsprint Likely Topics Of Johnston, Howe

OTTAWA, June 22. (CP)—Canada and the United States today began a series of discussions here to achieve closer economic collaboration between the two countries, including control over prices.

Central figures in the discussions were Eric Johnston, administrator of the US Economic Stabilization Agency, and Production Minister Howe.

Mr. Johnston, along with his adviser Griffith Johnson, arrived by plane from Washington Thursday night. They planned to spend the day discussing inflation and other problems affecting rearmament programs in the two countries and return to Washington tonight.

Mr. Howe told reporters that the meeting, closed to the press, was to discuss general economic problems. There appeared to be a possibility, however, that a $10-a-ton boost in the price of Canadian newsprint may come up during the talks.

The price increase becomes effective July 1. The United States price stabilizer, Michael V. DiSalle, has waged a battle to have the Canadian government block the increase. The government has declined to do so.

Peace-time Version

Informants said that in the main the talks arise out of the peacetime version of the Hyde Park agreement signed in Washington last fall.

Under that pact, Canada and the United States agreed to a set of economic principles which would guide the two countries in joint future economic planning.

Part of the agreement was to create a common pool of resources during the current defence speed-up and to link the two countries in priority ratings for the purpose of allocating essential materials.

A new development to this latter phase is expected to take

Want Towns To Fix Own Rentals

TORONTO, June 22 (CP).—Municipal rent control in rural areas and small towns will be recommended by the legislature's special committee on rents, Hon. L. P. Cecil, chairman of the committee, said today. The Attorney-General's Department is drafting this and other proposals in legal form.

Mr. Cecil said the government has power to turn rent control over to municipalities by regulation, without an act of the legislature.

He explained the advantage would be that instead of a flat percentage increase in rent ceilings for the whole province, the smaller communities could allow the increase needed in each case.

"Ten per cent might not be enough in some places," he said. "Some might require 20 per cent. Some only five per cent."

The committee was asked by the cabinet Thursday to suggest a figure for an overall rent increase. Government members of the committee had suggested 10 per cent as a fair figure, but CCF and Liberal members refused to concur in this recommendation.

Prepared To Act

PARIS, June 22 (Reuters).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, whose party won more seats in the recent elections than any other single party, said today he is ready to form France's next administration.

De Gaulle said his party—Rassemblement du Peuple Français—is ready to take over "with all those who are willing to help us."

De Gaulle said that as the de Gaulleists have the largest number of seats in the new Assembly, they will have the capital responsibility of the government of France.

Government May Set Up Health Insurance Scheme

OTTAWA, June 22. (CP)—The Government has indicated it may move next year towards setting up a national health insurance scheme. The possibility of a Government-administered plan was offered in the Commons Thursday night by Health Minister Martin in the teeth of challenges by Opposition members to match the Canadian Medical Association's scheme of prepaid medical care.

Mr. Martin went only so far as to say that next year the Government will "give consideration" to establishing a special committee to deal with the problem of health insurance.

But that immediately stirred members' hopes. Mr. Martin's statement was regarded as a commitment by the House, which recalled the effects of a similar committee created on old age pensions two years ago.

That committee's recommendations, providing for an old age security program, were translated into legislation by the government and began their way through the Commons in statutory form on Thursday. Under the legislation, the federal government offers to make it easier for the aged and blind to qualify for pensions and allowances.

Mr. Martin told the House the over-all cost of the social security program will be $400,000,000 a year.

Urges Quick Action

Under the proposed new program, the federal government will pay $40 a month to all over 70. The 65-69 pensions will be paid on a "means test" basis. Present pensions are supplemented by the provinces.

On the health side, several members of the Commons urged the government to move more quickly than the "step-by-step" program laid down by the Health Minister.

CCF members pressed for the appointment of a special committee, and it was in response to their demands that Mr. Martin

Report 18 Ill In Epidemic

MATHESON, Ont., June 22 (CP)—Eighteen children are in hospital here as the result of what doctors called a highly infectious form of dysentery. A six-year-old child died from the disease three weeks ago.

The children are all from farm families east of here.

Dr. Robert Wade said the disease "is probably carried by a person."

Mayor C. O. McLean said there had been no outbreak of the disease within the limits of this Northern Ontario town.

"Our water comes from a spring and we have a sewage and waterworks installation," he said. "There is no danger from that source."

(Officials of Toronto's Banting Institute suggested that the disease might be "Shigella dysenteriae," a serious, bacterial form, usually transmitted by sewage, contaminated water or food.)

After Slaying

SUDBURY, June 22 (CP)—A Manitoulin Island Indian was held here today on a charge of murder arising from the slaying of a fellow Indian following a beer party.

Frank Debasig, 38, was brought here Thursday night from Little Current. He was charged with shooting Levi Bob, 54, in the back during an altercation early Thursday during the party at Debasig's home.

Bob was found Thursday by three small boys in tall grass near the home of Chief Constable Wesley Taylor of Little Current.

The dying Indian was taken to hospital where his wife, Magline, 47, reached him a few minutes before he died. She told police she had spent the night at the Debasigs, unaware of what had happened to her husband.

Debasig, a resident of Little Current since coming there from West Bay, Ont., a few months ago, will appear for preliminary hearing next Thursday in Little Current.

Begin Recruiting For CWAC At Once-Claxton

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP)—The Canadian army will begin recruiting women for certain units of its reserve force immediately, Defence Minister Claxton announced today.

Starting today, the army will sign up an initial force of about 1,500 officers and other ranks to perform some of the duties in reserve force manning depots.

Recruiting of Canadian women's army corps personnel for reserve force anti-aircraft regiments and affiliated signals units will begin in the fall.

In 17 reserve force manning depots now being formed across Canada, CWAC personnel will be employed as stenographers, orderlies, room clerks, pay clerks, dental assistants and projectionists.

Later, in anti-aircraft regiments and anti-aircraft operation rooms, CWAC personnel will be employed as drivers, fire control operators, plotters and telephonists. In signals units they will be employed as cipher operators, switchboard operators and administrative clerks.

Water Babies Barred From UK

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—The swimming Tongay family from Miami, Fla., was barred today from Britain.

Immigration officers at London airport said Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tongay and the two children they had planned to send on an English Channel swim would be put aboard a New York-bound plane in the morning.

No immediate reason for the ban was given to newspapermen.

There had been widespread protests both here and in the United States against the channel project by Bubba Tongay, aged five, and his sister, Kathy, four.

Word that the Tongays would not be allowed to leave the airport came after a two-hour huddle between Mr. and Mrs. Tongay and immigration officials.

Jet Pilot Killed On Training Flight

CHATHAM, N.B., June 22 (CP)—The pilot of an RCAF Vampire jet which crashed south of here Thursday was killed, the air force said today.

A ground party arrived at the scene of the crash today and located the body.

The Vampire crashed near Rogersville, about 20 miles south of this fighter base, while on routine aerobatic training Thursday.

The air force said the plane was a complete loss. It crashed about four miles from any road and a ground party was sent to the scene.

Third Man Introduced Into Missing Envoys' Case

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—recalled from a minor post in the British Embassy in Washington.

The roommate said Burgess told him of his plan to take a holiday in France with the young American, beginning May 25, but that at 5:30 p.m. that day the Diplomat received a telephone call which appeared to distress him, the Express said. The account quoted the roommate:

"I gathered Burgess was talking to MacLean. After the phone call, Guy was very upset. I heard another conversation in which he indicated that a married friend had got into serious trouble in Paris and needed help. I assumed he meant MacLean."

"Burgess left the flat soon afterwards, saying he was going to meet MacLean to see if he could help him. Burgess had his things packed for a cruise with the American. I have not seen or heard anything of him since."

RCAF Completes Mercy Flight

WINNIPEG, June 22 (CP)—A 4,600-mile round-trip mercy flight was completed here today when an RCAF Dakota bearing an ailing Arctic weather station radio man landed at Stevenson airport at 8:55 a.m. EDT.

The unidentified patient was taken to Deer Lodge military hospital.

The plane completed the 1,500-mile hop from Resolute Bay on Cornwallis Island in about 12 hours, by-passing the normal refueling station at Churchill, Man.

The tired crew, which had been on the go for 50 continuous hours, put in 30 hours flying time in the 2,300-mile flight from Winnipeg to Mould Bay, on the southwestern tip of Prince Patrick Island.

The Dakota landed at Resolute Bay at 7:55 p.m. Thursday night after taking off from Mould Bay.

First Canadian Wins Nieman Fellowship

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 22 (CP)—Shane MacKay, legislative reporter for The Winnipeg Free Press, has been awarded an associate Nieman fellowship, Harvard University announced today.

The fellowships were established in 1938 under the bequest of Agnes Wahl Nieman, widow of the founder of the Milwaukee Journal.

Twelve American newspapermen were awarded fellowships and for the first time three associate fellows were named from newspapers in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The 1951-52 Nieman fellows will have leave of absence from their papers from September to May to study at Harvard.

MacKay, 25, has been senior legislative reporter for The Winnipeg Free Press for three years, and will transfer to the newspaper's Ottawa bureau on completion of his term at Harvard.

Police Hunt Gunman Who Shot Airman

TRENTON, June 22 (CP)—Provincial and service police today hunted a motorist-gunner alleged to have shot and critically wounded an airman as he walked along a road near here Thursday night.

LAC, Joseph Ally, 19, of Quebec is in RCAF hospital here in critical condition. The bullet pierced his lung.

Ally was walking beside the road when a car drove up behind him and the driver shone a flashlight on his face, blinding him. There was a shot and the airman crumpled to the ground.

Police said the airman staggered into an RCAF guardhouse about midnight.

Hope Of Big Four Parley Fades As Talks Collapse

PARIS, June 22 (AP)—Prospects faded today for a Big Four conference on the world's war jitters.

Sixteen weeks of attempts by deputy foreign ministers of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States to draw up an agenda collapsed Thursday night.

The Western powers told Russia there was no point in continuing their fruitless meetings. They added, however, they hoped Russia would see her way clear to attend the proposed Big Four conference despite the fact the deputies failed to agree on what should be discussed.

The West has tentatively proposed that the conference take place in Washington July 23.

The four deputies had made some progress in compiling a list

Check Flames Menacing Village

FORESTVILLE, Que., June 22 (CP)—Seventy-five men today fought a brush fire that for a time threatened the little lumbering settlement of St. Therese de Colombier, on the St. Lawrence north shore 160 miles northeast of Quebec.

The fire, fanned Thursday night by a strong wind, spread across 300 to 400 acres of cut-over timberland and moved toward cleared areas of the outskirts of the village.

Some of the wooden homes were reported evacuated.

Telephone communications with St. Therese, 15 miles east of Forestville, today were interrupted but the fire was reported checked.

Forestry officials said the village is not in any immediate danger and the fire is expected to be brought under control during the day.

Warden Calls For Action On Counties Road System

COBOURG, June 22 (ENS)—The announcement by Warden George Walton at Thursday's session of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council, that the counties were not getting the value for the money they put into the counties road system, jarred a dull session into a lively discussion of county roads and resulted in the decision to more or less read the riot act to the members of the road staff.

The warden's comments came right after Highways Minister George Doucette had retired after giving a general talk to the counties council on road matters.

"We are not getting the value for the money being spent on our county roads to-day. Where the trouble is, I don't know. I am not the only one who is not satisfied," declared Warden Walton in his opening remarks.

"We should take stock, especially the Road Commission, to clear up things. They say that there are in some instances better roads in the townships than in the county road system. That is not good business and it has got to stop. The Department of Highways is not satisfied either. Let us be fair to our taxpayers. Let us get down to business. I would like to see us have another road and bridge committee meeting to-day," the Warden said.

A meeting of the road and bridge committee was then called at which the Warden continued as follows:

"The Department believes that we are not getting value for the money we are spending. We should give the Road Commission the power to hire a whole new staff, if necessary, rehiring those whom we feel are doing a good job. If the Department thinks that something is wrong, then there must be something wrong. I am not criticising our counties engineer, who is a good man. I have been told that a county truck and two men took in a sale during their working hours. And I also heard that a beverage room had been patronized during working hours. Somebody is not playing ball with the engineer and is letting both the county engineer and the general foreman down. I would like to see some drastic action taken, if the reeves and deputy-reeves have any knowledge as to what is the trouble, let's have it," the Warden declared.

"I don't think we can put the finger on anything definite," declared Reeve J. H. Lowery of Clarke Township. "There are a lot of rumours but where there is smoke there is fire. I too wonder sometimes if we are getting value for our money. If anyone is laying down on the job, we are anxious to know who." Reeve Lowery is a member of the Road Commission.

Another member of the Road Commission, Reeve Mervin Greer of Hamilton township, said that as far as he could learn it was still in the rumour stage.

"We have heard rumours but nobody to back them up. I have never run across anything to indicate that the men were not doing their jobs well. There is no doubt but that our roads are better than they were a few years ago. Some township roads were taken over into the counties road system which it would be better if we gave them back to them. Some township roads have been in the county road system a long time and still are not good roads. The busy Gore's Landing road has been hard-surfaced for a few miles. It is one of the oldest and hardest roads to keep up, yet we take over roads that aren't roads at all. I would like to see these inch in size pelted the city for a rumour traced down so that Mr. Jordan (counties engineer) can take steps to correct those who are at fault," Reeve Greer said.

Case of Rumours

Reeve E. Scott of Hope township, new member on the Road Commission, declared that as far as he knew it was a case of rumour. Thinking and proving were two different things. If the men who know of wrong things going on, were to come forward and prove them, the Road Commission would act. A few years ago the counties council went on a rampage and took over more roads while still in possession of roads which had never been brought up to what they should be, he said.

Counties Road Superintendent, Jack Jordan, said that there was no doubt that there had been improvement in the counties road system. It was true that some roads were out of condition but some of them had been fixed up this year. Since 1946 there had been 65 miles of roads taken over and it was a millstone around the counties neck. Those roads, plus a large construction program, meant that maintenance work had to be starved somewhat. The spring break-up damage had been very extensive. Construction work had been very difficult in some parts, so much so that one construction company gave up its contract. If there had been any misconduct by employees of the road department, it had not been with his knowledge. There are 42 counties council members and only one of them has to phone in a complaint to him and he would act. However, he had received no complaint about the actions of the staff, Mr. Jordan said.

E. F. Marston, district engineer for the Department of Highways, said that he was not being critical of the road superintendent. Construction work had been on a sound basis, but maintenance was not always up to standard and it was a fact that there were township roads which were in better shape than some county roads. If the rumours about the behaviour of some of the employees were true, the situation should be corrected. It would be well, if things were not as they should be, to take stock. It is not a question of how much money is being spent but how," Mr. Marston said.

"The engineer and the Road Commission should read the riot act to the employees," suggested Reeve A. W. Hayes of Murray Township.

Reeve H. Campbell of South Monaghan expressed his confidence in the engineer and the road commission. If there were any irregularities found among the road employees, the only thing to do was to fire the offenders, he said.

"A lot of these are rumours but they come from men whose judgment I know. I would not say we fire anybody without proof. Not on gossip alone," said the Warden.

Deputy-Reeve George Galbraith of Cobourg said that two of them were "swinging the lead" in Cobourg street department, and so they were fired.

"We have men up in Port Hope working for us," said Reeve W. Roche of Port Hope, "who are so old, some of them, that they should be pensioned off. They go so slow that the younger fellows follow their example and we'll have to pension the old fellows off and crack the whip on the younger ones."

Council then reconvened and Reeve G. F. Jamieson of Bowmanville sponsored a motion, seconded by Reeve A. Ferguson of Haldimand Township, that the warden, road commission and road superintendent prepare a bulletin advising the road employees as to what will happen if they loiter in hotels and other places during their working hours and that each employee make out and sign a daily work sheet. Carried.

Cruise St. Lawrence Study Seaway Plan

MASSENA, N.Y., June 22 (AP).—Members of the State Power Authority Thursday cruised down the St. Lawrence River where they hoped they would see a huge power and seaway development. Headed by John E. Burton, authority chairman, the group began a two-day inspection of the site of the proposed project in Ogdensburg.

After luncheon there they took a boat for Morrisburg, Ont. From there they drove to Sheek Island near Cornwall, and to Barnhart Island where the proposed power plant would be located.

Bad For Health

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP).—A doctor-member of the Commons told his fellow-members Thursday that their working hours conflict with all the rules of health. Dr. W. H. McMillan (L-Welland), a comparative newcomer, suggested members need more time for leisure which they don't get now when they sit until 11 p.m. nightly. He welcomed proposals that the House meet earlier in the day and rise at 7 p.m.

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP).—Prospects for construction of new federal buildings and repairs to old ones are "not very good" for this year, due to lack of material, Works Minister Fournier told the Commons Thursday night. Wait For The Life Cycle To End In The Lakes?

The infestation of tent caterpillars has become an annual pestilence in the southern part of this province. Here in the Kawartha district we were told last spring that in 1951 (now) the area would be comparatively free of the pests. But this spring the blight has been as heavy as last, although the concentrations may have shifted directions in some spots. The "natural enemies" of the caterpillars have not developed in strength and numbers to kill off the tent caterpillars. Yet that was seemingly the hope of Queen's Park and forestry officials. We were advised to wait it out.

Now the caterpillars of this year are going into cocoon stage; that is the annual wait-it-out slogan. They will not be a nuisance after they curl up in cocoons. True; but before they take this rest from their ravages, the tent caterpillars have defoliated wide sections of beautiful wooded areas, have despoiled foliage on cottage lots, have dropped down the necks of tourists, and have left some of the best resort areas in the province unattractive. The trees will not regain their foliage for another month.

In the very week that the caterpillars are reported to be passing into the cocoon stage, green scum begins to form on Sturgeon and Scugog lakes. We can expect it on other lakes in Ontario, though not in most of the Kawarthas. This slime will presumably stay until mid-August, making the lake water undesirable for even dish-washing, and unpleasant for boating and swimming. "The only thing to do," says the District Forester at Lindsay, "is to wait for the plants to conclude their life cycle."

While we wait for the tent caterpillars to conclude their cycles and the plants which form the green scum to conclude theirs, is this Province to lose its tourists? Can we afford to wait and see; and let unbalanced nature take her course?

Is the Department of Lands and Forests sufficiently concerned? Can it do nothing within reason? What action are the Provincial and Federal tourist departments taking? The state of Massachusetts, suffering from a caterpillar infestation, has found D.D.T. spraying over a very large territory reasonable and justifiable. It did something, with good results.

This matter is too big and important to be left to individual cottagers, local chambers of commerce, townships and counties. There should be a comprehensive investigation and a central policy. It is not a typical Canadian way to sit back and do nothing. If we had let nature take its course this last century, this country would not now exist as a habitable region. Canadians who bear the heat of summer, the cold of winter, who have carved fields out of forests, gold out of rocks and waterways out of swamps, must know in this year of caterpillars and slime that they must fight nature—all the time. It is time to fight the tent caterpillar and the slime.

What Clothes Are For

Every year, at this season, news items make their appearance which tell of magistrates who have permitted officers of their courts to take off their coats, or who have ordered them to keep their coats on; sometimes the garment in question is the necktie. But there are usually arguments as to how fully clothed men should be in hot weather, and what degree of undress may be permitted under varying circumstances. A quotation from a letter to the Montreal Star follows, which we think may be of interest to some readers:

I draw your attention to the following incident. A few days ago, a school was holding its track meeting at the Molson Stadium. It was a typical summer day. Two male officials, members of the staff, I presume, were seen discharging their duties clad only in a pair of trousers, the upper part of their bodies quite nude. Added to this, there were two others who seemed to be spectators clad in shorts only. I do not want hastily to condemn, but, as a teacher myself, I find the incident very thought provoking. There were children and female teachers around.

In our opinion, people who put clothing and stripping on moral grounds are barking up the wrong tree. Clothes have nothing to do with morality. Everybody knows what is underneath them, and in countries where little or no clothing is worn nakedness is not provocative of lubricity. Clothes are worn to ornament and dignify the body, and in the case of men the more clothes they wear the more dignified they are. Clergy, teachers, lawyers and officials of all kinds wear special, elaborate clothing to give them added dignity. Therefore it seems obvious that, however hot it may be, men should wear complete dress in the courts. On the sports ground, or when relaxing, we cannot see that it makes much difference if they go stark naked. We are altogether too apt to forget that God made Adam and Eve naked, and that they did not think of clothes until after their conversations with the Devil.

Up, Bread, And At 'Em

Bread may go up again in price, so Toronto bakers said this week. An increase of six cents a bushel on wheat may force a one-cent rise in the price of a loaf. If this should happen, it would be yet another example of how a fractional increase in wholesale price, or in the cost of the basic commodity is used to boost the retail price by a whole unit—one cent, in the instance of bread.

A standard loaf of bread, including flour, salt, air and water, weighs 1½ pounds. A bushel of wheat weighs 60 pounds. Since wheat has gone up six cents a bushel, that means it has risen one-tenth of a cent a pound. We presume that there may be as much as a pound of wheat in a loaf of bread. How are bakers to make up for the one-tenth of a cent increase in wheat that goes into bread? That is easy: charge a whole extra cent for the loaf.

This business of recouping a fractional increase of costs at manufacturing or producing level by raising the retail price a complete unit—one cent, five cents, a dollar, is a common occurrence these years. The sales tax on cigarettes actually raises the price three cents. The former price was 36 cents. But why add only three cents, when 40 cents a packet is such a nice round figure? So cigarettes go up to forty cents. Increases in the sales tax from eight to ten per cent have put an extra eighth or tenth of a cent on, say, tinned goods. Does the retail price rise by a tenth of a cent? No. We have no coin of that value. The likelihood is that the tin of juice has risen by a cent.

Sometimes manufacturers absorb the fractional increase. The Toronto bakers do not seem inclined to take up the tenth of a cent additional cost of producing a loaf of bread due to the increased price of a bushel of wheat. They are now trying to get their public prepared to accept a whole cent increase. Would this increase be justified?

By the way, we note that the mild war among bakers which brought the price of bread down for a while last year has subsided. Peace seems to have been negotiated, and bread is back up. Peace has its price, too.

Cutters-Out

The line of cars ahead on the highway is tedious. The duffer driving the car immediately in front is exasperating—too slow, too timid to take advantages of openings. I am in a hurry; can't stand this nonsense any longer. . . . So the cutter-out may think, and he swings out of the line of cars, expecting to nip in ahead somewhere. Even if there is no visible place for him in front, he will make one. Sometimes he does, when fearful drivers see the cutter-out making things tight for himself and everybody else. Sometimes he does not. Sometimes he makes room for death.

Recent weekend reports of accidents show that cutters-out are involved in, even if they do not directly cause, a great number of serious accidents, some of them resulting in death. The cutter-out is a death-dealing criminal. Even if he is fool enough not to know the rules of the road, they are there for him in black and white: the signs "Do Not Pass" and the solid white line on the pavement, which it is an offence to cross at any time. The trouble is that this type of driver can be fool enough to think that Lady Luck will look after him. Sometimes she does, which whets his appetite for more cutting-out.

Sometimes she looks after him in the immediate circumstances: it is somebody else, not the rash driver, who is injured or killed. After that, of course, the law catches up with the man.

If, due to drivers who pull out of traffic lines when they should not, accidents continue at their present rate, the courts will have to be unusually severe, and deal with them as criminals or wilful murderers—which they set out to be when they cut out, or cut in. The best time to catch a potential killer is before he has killed. But it is seldom possible to recognize the ordinary killer ahead of time. It is possible to recognize the potential highway murderer.

A driver who has cut out of traffic is guilty of an offence even if, chance being with him, there has been no accident. He should be reported. If more people on highways took the licence numbers of reckless drivers' cars and gave them to the police, the chance-taking creatures who cause death and mishap would be fewer. But most people merely curse the driver who has made their hair stand on end and thank their lucky stars that they have had another escape. They do not like to be informers. Is it not better to have more informers and fewer accidents?

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: Is it possible to send whisky to England, as a gift? I know that during the war warm-hearted mothers and wives used to dig out a loaf of bread, cache a bottle within, and send the rye to their men in uniform that way, but, really, the method is illegal. It might be embarrassing to English recipients if the bottle, buried in bread, were discovered by customs men.

ANSWER: Yes, you can send whisky legally to bona fide residents of the U.K. The major Canadian distillers maintain bonded warehouses in England from which the bottle or bottles you order are despatched. The way you go about it is this: order, through the distiller's local district agent or its main offices in Toronto, Montreal, Walkerville, etc. what you want, and pay for it, in dollars, at about $5.50 for the top quality. (The price at the Liquor Store on Water Street is $4.30.) The $5.50 pays all shipping and delivery-to-U.K.-door charges, and the U.K. taxes, which are higher than Canada's.

Actually the U.K. Government takes all but a dollar of this $5.50. Out of that dollar the company makes and bottles the whisky, ships it and takes its profit. You can imagine what profits and taxes the Federal and Provincial governments, and the Government Liquor Commission get even at the selling price of $4.30.

If you yourself should have a taste (in the U.K.) of this Canadian whisky which you send over, you will find it stronger than the same brand in Canada. It is 24.8 under proof, in conformity with U.K. regulations; the stuff in Canada is 30 under proof. "Proof" means 57.14 per cent of absolute alcohol by volume. Thus the whisky in England is about 43½ per cent. alcohol by volume; in Canada only 40 per cent. alcohol. This weaker whisky—wetter than it used to be before the war—is a result of provincial Government preference and agreement of all the distillers to keep their product down to 30 under proof.

TORONTO READER of this column, who recently provided information in reply to an inquiry, sends this postscript:

"In my letter, I referred to an implement by lumbermen and quarrymen. Let us for the nonce speak of it as P.V., a symbol which is not freighted with preconceptions or what Pareto has called non-logical 'derivations'. Somewhat provocatively, I used the spelling 'pee-vee', believing that it might call forth a challenge supported by information which would clear up certain obscurities. P.V. is a variant of the old-fashioned cant-hook, the latter a wooden lever with a swinging metal hook, for canting logs, etc. The wooden lever of the P.V. has a pointed metal end. Earlier dictionaries mentioned the cant-hook, but only since the turn of the century have editions of Webster's and other United States' dictionaries introduced the P.V. Therein it is spelled 'peevey' (said to be 'after Joseph Peavey, the inventor'). Alas, we are left in darkness as to how, when and where Joseph Peavey lived.

"It is not intended here to gainsay the potency, even the universality, of United States' inventive genius. But the germane fact confronts us that the P.V. was being used by Canadian woodsmen long before the word 'peevey' began to appear in United States' dictionaries. The simple adding of a spike to the strong, home-made Canadian cant-hook was not looked upon as the end-product of any towering inventive genius.

"I am reminded of an account once given by Harper's Magazine of a local surveyor who was at work in the Michigan woods. Questioned about the solar compass, he was wont to affirm proudly: 'Yes, I used to know Old Solar well, the inventor of the compass'. Nor would he deviate if it were suggested that the invention was not generally credited to his old friend Solar. With a fine burst of moral indignation, he would clinch the matter: 'That other fellow only stole the patent'. Surely United States' ingenuity, which gave us the wooden nutmeg, will be capable of inventing a dictionary which will dispose of the P.V. problem with a more informative and finalistic Q.E.D. Meanwhile, since we are still among the 'free countries', there will be nothing to prevent people on either side of the 'undefended border' affirming with an ingenuous confidence like unto that of a child on Christmas Eve: 'There is a Joseph Peavey!'

"P.S.S.—That is, unless a Soviet dictionary, invented a la mode, appropriates certain patents and gives us in customary italic footnotes: 'Sovietinski, U.S.S.R.' and 'Peaveyunkovitch, U.S.S.R.'"

DEAR ALPHA: How old can a man be and still father a child?

ANSWER: Dear me, the questions people do ask! Why not consult your medical adviser? I really cannot answer properly; perhaps some of my medical readers will be kind enough to put me wise about this. I do know that there are remarkable examples—local, foreign and historic—of virility in old age. Sir Stephen Fox, the founder of the fortunes of the Fox family in 17th century England, was born in humble circumstances in 1627, became a valet, rose rapidly to court favour and a fortune of £200,000 or more, as his friend and admiral, the diarist Evelyn, reckoned in 1680. This great man (one of his beneficiaries was Chelsea Hospital) found himself in his 77th year with no prospect of direct descent in the male line, seven sons having died before him. Thereupon, being of "a vegetate and hale constitution" as his biographer Evelyn put it, he married a young Miss Hope (sic). They thereafter had five children. The eldest became Earl of Ilchester and the second was Henry Fox, first Lord Holland. That seems to me to be a pretty good showing for a former valet of his years. He died in 1716 in his 89th year, and his wife survived him only two years.

The old Duke of Malmesbury had a son and heir by his fifth wife, Kitty, when he was in his eighties. But that is the story of the novel, and anyway, Kitty's son, the 24th Duke, was begotten by trickery.

SIR: What is an Italian lira worth now? When we were in Italy during the war, we got 100 lire for a dollar.

ANSWER: The lira is now worth about a sixth of a cent. In other words, one gets some 600 for a dollar. In the unofficial market, I got as many as 680 for an American dollar. The French franc is similarly depreciated. During Canadian soldiers' time there during the war, the franc was worth two cents. Now it is worth slightly less than a third of a cent. These depreciated currencies are a chief reason why Canadian and American tourists find the two countries cheap. Actually, the cheaper is Italy. One can get a satisfactory

THIS COULD SLOW UP THE GENERAL CONSIDERABLY

W. B. Yeats Honoured In London

THE St. Pancras Education Public Libraries Committee in London recently honoured two famous Irishmen who lived in their borough—George Bernard Shaw and William Butler Yeats. On the house in Fitzroy Square, where Shaw lived and on the wall of 18 Woburn Buildings (now known as 5 Woburn Walk) where Yeats lived for 24 years, plaques were unveiled commemorating their association with London.

Yeats, describing his second floor apartment in Woburn Buildings, related that "on the ground floor lived a shoemaker, on the first floor a workman and his family, and in the attic an old pedlar, who painted a little in water colours". Here at "No. 18" were held the special Monday evening parties—attended from time to time by John Masefield, George Moore, Rupert Brooke, Rabindranath Tagore, Arthur Rackham, Desmond McCarthy and many other literary and artistic folk—when Yeats was at home to his friends.

Unveiling the plaque T. S. Eliot spoke of his own visits to this circle, to which he was introduced by Ezra Pound. The window was then hung with a great blue curtain which Yeats says Lady Gregory must have given to him, and the room was lit, to quote Mr. Eliot, "by several candles of ecclesiastical proportions, which smoked in the corners, making dinner there, for fifty cents, a good one for eighty, and—including thick steak and wine—an excellent dinner for $1.50.

Coinage is very scarce in Italy, though now they are issuing new ten lire pieces. As a result of all the cheap paper money, small transactions (such as paying bus fare) are awkward. The trolley conductor will have a whole wad of five and ten lire notes, tattered, dirty and illegible, and has to sort out fares from that. A five lire note is worth five-sixths of a cent. The smaller notes—5, 10, 50 and 100—include the same ones which were current in Italy in 1944-45, with King Victor Emmanuel's image on them. It is quite common now for people to have thousands, five thousands and ten thousands lire notes. Some of the banks issue their own, and it is a relief to get one of them—a clean, crisp substitute for a fistful of old and often filthy little notes.

GHIED: A reader takes me to task for not answering questions left in the bin while I took leave of absence from this column. I did have a few left-overs, purposely left because I did not know how to deal with them. Here is one: "If use of quotations from the Bible, in any form, can be plagiarism, then is not our religion plagiaristic? And if Moses, Job, Mark, John, Christ or Paul got theirs, individually, originally, and genuinely, why not anyone? Personally, I think our education tends to make copy-cats, run-of-the-mills, and keep in the herd, mob and unions; because, mainly, God is left out, don't you think?"

I really do not know what to think, so I let the essayist have his conjectures. Any comment from other readers? The antithesis between revealed and mediated religion is too technical for me to discuss here. All religions are to some extent plagiaristic; one is an advance on, or deviation from, another, as Christianity stemmed from Judaism—with the impulse given by its Founder.

As for education being imitation: of course—that is the basis of teaching. We are all copy-cats. If we were not, and each man and each generation had to start from the beginning and learn all through actual experience, we would still be cave-dwellers. . . . Does my reader think that a person can receive, complete and perfect, the quantum theory, the knowledge of how to repair a car engine, or the understanding of the beauty of a symphony, in a moment of instant revelation from God?

FOR THE RECORD: Peterborough post office has been selling lately an odd kind of five-cent stamp. They are not Canadian at all; or, rather, were not when they were printed, nor were intended for Canadian mails. They are Newfoundland stamps. Apparently the Post Office Department believes in waste not, want not. Anyway, it is thrifflily disposing of the stock of Newfoundland stamps which is acquired when Newfoundland became a part of Canada on April 1, 1949. I imagine that these stamps, Ontario-cancelled, will soon become collectors' items.

The five-cent stamp being handed out from the Post Office wicket when one asks for a five-cent stamp is not particularly elegant. It is mauve, headed Newfoundland Postage, and displays a horn-rammed caribou. Lest there be any mistaking the animal, the image is named "Caribou 'Monarch of the Wilds'."

How Time Flies

1921 The Dummer war memorial commemorating the death of 22 residents in the war is unveiled at Warsaw. The G.T.R. express office at Omemee is broken into and $250 worth of goods stolen. Pay of men and cost of hiring horses at the Prince of Wales Dragoons camp here was $5,200.

1931 The Peterborough Presbytery releases the Rev. Wm. Allan to permit him to accept a Toronto call. A goodwill party representing American auto clubs pays a visit to Peterborough. The county council objects to treatment given farmers in the erection of Hydro power lines.

1941 Keith McElroy receives his medical degree at the University of Toronto. Sixty employees of the Board of Works, receiving 40 cents an hour, strike for an increase in pay. The county council grants $150 to the junior farmers' exhibition here in August.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy. . . . And if shall come to pass, that before they call, I will answer: and while they are yet speaking, I will hear.

The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and dust shall be the serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, saith the Lord. (Isa. 65: 18, 24, 25.)

Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds. Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgements are a great deep; O Lord, thou preservest man and beast. (Ps. 3: 5, 6.)

Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. . . .

The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul.

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore. (Ps. 121: 4, 7, 8.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"This crime," said the judge, summing up, "was carried out in an adroit and skilful manner. . . . Blushing, the prisoner interrupted: 'Now, my lord, no flattery, please!'"

Three blood-transfusions were necessary to save a woman patient's life at a hospital. A brawny young Scotsman offered his blood. The patient gave him $50 for the first pint, $25 for the second pint—but the third she had so much Scots blood in her that she only thanked him.

Supper had been ready for a long time when the henpecked husband limped into the house and hung up his hat. "Henry," said his wife from the dining room, "what do you mean by being two hours late?"

"But, darling, I've been run over," he protested from the hall.

"Well, what of it?" she demanded, coldly.

"It doesn't take two hours to get run over!"

Invention

(The New Yorker)

Our unrelieved brooding on taxi-cab design is a mark of the unstable mind, and we expect to die in delirium, as did Jeremy Peagrim, the coachsmith, many years ago. Just as we dream of a cab with a door more than thirty-nine inches high, so Peagrim, in his day, dreamed of strange new forms. (We've been reading about him in Autocar, a British publication.) Peagrim anticipated by more than a hundred years the enclosed motor vehicle. At first, he played around with concealing the wheels and seat, but his restless mind remained unsatisfied until he built a light carriage that featured total enclosure of the horse. A hood made of birchbark dropped down and blotted the animal from view. Lowering this hood, or bonnet, was evidently a delicate business, for Peagrim noted in his journal:

"The horse may well become Reticent and should be held firmly by a strong but nimble boy (capable of crawling with dispatch from under the cover) if one can be found who has not performed the duty before, or may be enticed with sweet-meats or Tarts, or a tankard of Ale according to his Pispasure."

Peagrim's desire to conceal the horse was a manifestation of his hatred of the animal, a feeling that was intensified when somebody shot off a gun at the curious vehicle, causing the horse to bolt and wreck the carriage. Peagrim became bitter, and determined to eliminate the horse entirely. He actually built a horseless carriage, but died in delirium trying to think of some way to make it go.

"Stand by for some lengthy reminiscing on 'Now-when-I-was-in-Monaster'."

Rev. B. S. Morwood Why Became Minister

The answer to the question, "Why did I enter the ministry?" was given by the Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church at the Kiwanis luncheon meeting Thursday.

To illustrate his answer Mr. Morwood described some of the incidents of his life at a mission field in northern Saskatchewan—his first charge. Starting from his and his wife's arrival at the mission field the speaker explained not only the problems that had to be faced in everyday life, but the spiritual indifference and antagonism he met in his work as a minister.

This indifference and antagonism plus too large areas for mission field ministers to handle properly are still major problems.

In the church in Canada today, the contended. More young men are needed to enter this work.

"The main reason behind my entering the ministry was that I had a praying mother and a Christian home," Mr. Morwood concluded. "Perhaps the reason there is a scarcity of young men in the ministry is because there is a scarcity of praying mothers and Christian homes in this country."

The speaker was introduced by Rufus Payne and thanked by Jack Sinclair.

Radio Phones Will Aid NZ Climbers

By J. C. GRAHAM

CHRISTCHURCH, NZ (CP)—Mountain climbers in the fastnesses of New Zealand's Southern Alps are no longer out of touch with the rest of the world. A network of radio telephones has been installed in mountain huts in recent months by post and telegraph department technicians. Some climbers don't like this intrusion into their mountain privacy, but they nevertheless admit that the telephones will prove an invaluable safety device. Several have been installed in the Mount Cook region, which has taken a toll of many lives in the past. Alpinists say that had radio telephones been available the loss of life would have been cut considerably.

Mount Cook, New Zealand's highest mountain (12,349 feet) is a real test of mountaineering. Radio telephones in the Gardiner Hut (5,300 feet) and Haast Hut (7,000 feet), two of the huts most used by climbing parties, will be exceedingly useful for reporting climbing conditions, warning of parties isolated by storms or crippled by accident, and sending for help in cases of serious distress.

It is considered that use of the radio telephones will save up to two days in getting rescue parties to the head of the great Tasman Glacier, approach route to the area of many accidents.

For Years Not Enough Water Now Farmers Have Too Much

SASKATOON, June 22 (CP)—For years Saskatchewan farmers have voiced the same old complaint—not enough water. This year they're getting too much water.

Heavy winter snow and abundant spring rains have combined to give farmers the biggest water headache in the province's history. Thousands of acres of crop and pasture land are under water for the first time. Ponds that have been dry for 20 years now are brim full. Lakes that were only puddles have come back into their own.

Lamarr Auction Biggest Hollywood Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 22 (AP)—Hedy Lamarr's "last production" is expected to gross $1,000,000, her producer said today.

The production will not show Hedy swimming in the raw or giving Samson a haircut; in fact, she won't even be in it. Her last show is the auction of all her worldly goods prior to her announced retirement as Mrs. Ted Stauffer.

The producer is Arthur B. Goode of the American Art Galleries. He has managed epic auctions for many movie personalities.

"I put on an auction the same way as a producer creates a show," Goode said. "In New York, where people know values, you don't have to do that. But here you have to use showmanship. Everything has to be planned like a production. You have to get the right advertising and publicity. Then you have to display the goods tastefully, as similar as possible to how they would appear in the person's home. Then you have the preview, to create interest and show the public what is to be auctioned. Then comes the auction itself."

"Yes, there is a star system in auctions, too. The bigger the name, the bigger the crowd."

Goode expects the Lamarr auction to be his biggest production. (It starts next Monday and will last a month.) It is also the most unusual.

"Usually a star shows you a few things to sell and keeps the rest," he said. "But in this case she is selling everything. And I mean everything. I believe she has kept a few clothes. And she sold the rugs and drapes with the house. But she left everything else—from the four refrigerators to the ash trays—to me."

White Sox Polish Off Yanks In 5-2 Victory, Boost Lead

By JACK HAND,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Saul Rogovin, Bob Cain, Sam Chapman, Tommy Brown and Don Johnson know it was true when the man said: "all you need is a change of scenery."

Most ball players hear that cheerless message from the front office sooner or later. Usually it's the kiss of death, meaning you're through. Bud. Get moving.

In the cases of Rogovin, Cain, Chapman, Brown and Johnson it seems to mean the dawn of new life. They're all red hot.

Just take a look at what happened Thursday.

Rogovin, traded by Detroit May 15, choked off New York Yankees with four hits 5-2, restoring the White Sox' lead to 3½ games. It was his third win and fifth complete game in his new uniform.

Cain, sent to Detroit in the Rogovin deal, polished off Philadelphia 9-3, his fifth win since he left Chicago.

Hits His Stride
 Chapman, sold to Cleveland by Philadelphia in mid-May, caught fire in the Tribe's 8-4 victory. He drove home three, with a double and then stole home in the first inning. Later he knocked in another run. Since he joined the Indians he has hit four homers.

Brown, the perpetual juvenile hope at Brooklyn, finally heard the "change of scenery" routine June 7 when the Dodgers sold him to the Phils. Installed at second base, he came through with a grand-slam home run in Thursday's 10-5 romp over Pittsburgh.

Johnson, clicking for his old Yankee boss, Bucky Harris, now that both are in Washington, turned in a six-hitter against St. Thursday when St. Louis Cards' Gerry Staley blanked New York Giants 2-0 on five hits and Brooklyn's Preacher Roe spun his 10th straight by subduing Cincinnati 6-4 with ninth-inning help from Carl Erskine.

England Scores 311 Runs In 1st Against S. Africa

LONDON, June 22 (Reuters).—England scored a moderate 311 runs in its first inning against South Africa here Thursday in the season's second test match. Despite winning the toss for the first use of the Good Lord's Wicket, the England batsmen were in trouble all day against the tourists' pace bowlers. Cuan McCarthy had four wickets for 76 runs with his fast, bowling while medium-pace Geoff Chubb had one for 77.

Best of the England batsmen were Denis Compton and Willie Watson who had a 122-run fourth wicket partnership. Both got personal scores of 78.

South Africa had 10 minutes at the wicket at the end of the day, scoring four runs without loss.

The South Africans were led in the field by Dudley Nourse, their captain, who missed most of the first test—won by South Africa—because a finger fracture had not properly healed.

Kitchener's new Junior A entry in the Ontario Hockey Association may get most of the players it seeks in the draft.

Information from OHA headquarters Thursday indicated that the team will likely get Herb Simon, 19, defenceman from Saul Greyhounds, Graham Joyce, 17, and Bruce Jones, 17, both of Toronto Downsview Midgets.

Kitchener will have to take its chances in a draw for Don Atwell, centre with the Nobleton Junior D team last year. Six other Junior A clubs have him listed as their choice in the draft.

Two branch-to-branch transfers may come here from Montreal Canadiens. They are Ray Edmondson, left-wing star with Regina Pats, and Gene Achymichuk of Crows Nest Pats Juniors—reputed to be one of the best junior centre prospects in the game.

A regional junior Olympic track and field meet similar to those held at Cleveland will take place at Toronto Aug. 18.

The local meet is a result of the cancellation of the Cleveland tests which collapsed recently when the United States Amateur Athletic Union withdrew its sanction.

The Toronto meet will be sponsored by the central branch of the Lions Club.

First prize in this year's Professional Golfers' Association tournament at Hamilton July 9 and 10 will be $1,000 instead of $350 as in other years. The winner also will receive the Cohama Trophy donated by Emile College of Montreal.

In all, $4,000 will be divided among top prize winners. Scores turned in by the pros will be qualifying scores for an internal team to be chosen to meet the top United States team. Scores in the Ontario and Canadian opens also will qualify.

Eleven US golfers, headed by amateur Frank Stranahan and pro Jimmy Demaret, have entered the British open golf tournament. The meet is scheduled for Royal Portrush, in Northern Ireland, July 2-6.

Others in the American contingent are professionals Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, Skeel Reigel of Tulsa, Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore., and Art Clark of Huntington, W. Va., and amateurs Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia, Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, Sgt. Charles Rotar of Canton, Ohio, Capt. Clarence White of Tulsa and Lt.-Col. Harold F. Donovan of Baltimore.

Seventeen-year-old Marlene Stewart of Lookout Point moved into the finals of the Ontario Golf championship Thursday with a five and three victory over defending champion Ada Mackenzie of Toronto Ladies' Club.

In the other half of the semifinal at nearby Lambton Golf Club, Mrs. M. H. Currier of Toronto St. Georges downed Kay Helleur of Toronto Rosedale, three and two.

Sherbrooke Saints of the Quebec Senior Hockey League announced Thursday they will operate next year.

There had been persistent rumors the squad would withdraw from the league and transfer its franchise to Kingston, but this was denied by the club.

Canada's 18-man Bisleys rifle team, which arrived at Southampton Thursday is anxious to get on the practice range.

"None of us has fired a shot this year," Mr. Justice Colin W. G. Gibson, team leader, said. "We won our places last year and haven't been able to do anything because of the snow."

Judge Gibson, an appeal court judge in Ontario, leads the team in the National Rifle Association fixture for the first time. He has participated in five Bisleys matches since 1914.

Expect Veeck To Perk Up St. Louis Browns

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP).—The ink on Bill Veeck's contract to buy the Browns is hardly dry but already baseball-minded people are wondering what he intends to do to perk up attendance in St. Louis.

There appears to be divided opinion on Veeck's apparent success to gain complete control of the stepchild club of the American League. Some believe St. Louis is a one-team town and that nobody and nothing can help the Browns. All agree, however, that if any one can make the Browns a going concern, it is Veeck.

The promotional-minded Veeck Thursday bought the Browns on the condition he pick up the bulk of stock he hoped to get by July 4. He indicated he had given the attendance problem a great deal of thought.

Veeck didn't want to talk over his plans for the Browns but he did say the franchise would remain in St. Louis and Bill Dewitt would remain as vice-president. Bill now is president.

Although some believe he will bide his time this year and wait until 1952 to rebuild the club, the 37-year-old Veeck most likely will begin trying to strengthen the Browns as soon as he officially becomes the boss.

Dizzeist Ride
For 3½ years as majority stockholder of Cleveland Indians promoter Veeck gave the town its dizzeist merry-go-round ride in years.

He brought the circus into the baseball park. He staged fireworks, brought bike riders, clowns, blaring bands, tight-rope walkers and comedians to entertain the fans. He handed out ducks, chickens, pigs and ponies. He ran a nursery for mothers.

With it all he swung trades, laid out lavish amounts of money for players.

The fans loved it. The Indians established a season home attendance record of 2,620,627 in 1948. They won their first pennant in 28 years in '48 and went on to whip Boston Braves in the world series.

Costly Rides
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — (CP) — Four boys from West Cornerbrook appeared in court here and were each fined $10 for taking without permission ponies grazing in the fields so they could have a ride around the countryside. All spent a little time in the jailhouse until the parents paid the fines.

BRAVE MAN — Tommy Holmes has been appointed manager of the Boston Braves, succeeding Billy Southworth. Holmes, a long time Brave outfielder, is now managing the Hartford, Conn. farm team of the Braves.

Raid Red Shop

TOKYO, June 22 (AP).—Police today raided a shop which printed pro-Communist literature and arrested four persons. They said confiscated leaflets urged withdrawal of United States forces from Japan, no peace treaty without Russia, and an end to fighting in Korea.

Return Delayed

ROME, June 22 (AP).—Ingrid Bergman once again has delayed her frequently-heralded return to the screen. Movie circles in Rome say the reason is that financial backers of the actress' husband, director Roberto Rossellini, demand a finished script and an American leading man before his projected "Europa, 1951" goes before the cameras.

Ask 5-Year Treaty

BERLIN, June 22 (Reuters).—Eastern Germany has asked Russia to conclude five-year trade and payments agreements, the East German Government information office announced Thursday. Vice-Premier Walter Ulbricht also hoped to conclude treaties with several of the "People's Democracies" of Eastern Europe, the statement said.

George St. Church Picnic Forced Inside By Rain

Rain on Wednesday washed out the annual George Street United Church picnic, scheduled for Nicholls park. Instead some 350 Sunday school pupils and parents held their outing on the church lawn with games and other amusements in the Sunday school auditorium.

Million Dollar Plant Built Out In Country

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

A big new manufacturing plant was opened today in the country. And if the cows didn't come over from the dairy farm across the way—well, perhaps it was because they might be shooed away from the green lawns and landscaped property which have replaced the former pasture land.

The plant is the long, low $1,500,000 building of International Business Machines Co. Ltd. To find its site the company wandered past Toronto's north-east city limits, and meandered two or three miles through the countryside of the Don Mills road, before settling down on a peaceful 25 acres where it can build to its heart's content as need arises.

It might be termed part of the movement of industry away from congested areas, but there were other solid reasons behind the choice.

Many Advantages

For one thing, where could you get 25 acres, except in the country? For another, though in the country, it is a railway siding. And still for another, it is only about two miles from the country club which the company has already established for its employees; where they can play golf on a nine-hole course; tennis; lawn bowling; of picnic, or just enjoy the country air.

There's only one little cloud to this picture of pastoral isolation; probably soon there'll be housing developments nearby, and shopping centres, and the city too will have moved into the country.

The new building is a manufacturing plant, but it is also head office for Canada, and its 600 employees compare with less than 200 required to man the original Toronto plant, now 52 years old, but which will continue to operate.

And how do the employees get to work, out on this country road? That reveals as much of the social and industrial change of recent years as the location of the plant itself. They drive to work in their own cars, or in the cars of friends. For, though the company has arranged a bus service, only about 16 people use it.

The official opening took place today, but operations started last December and the plant now is well into full operation.

G. H. Sheppard, president, states that the enlarged Canadian output is part of the integrated workings of IBM World Trade Corporation. Things that can be made economically here will be exported to other countries, while the Canadian workings will draw on items made economically elsewhere.

Want Rent Increase Stated Specifically

TORONTO, June 22 (CP).—The Ontario Legislature's select committee on rentals was asked Thursday to state specifically the percentage increase in rentals to be permitted in Ontario. Recommendations submitted to the cabinet earlier this week returned to the committee with the request Thursday. Travel and Publicity Minister Cecilie, said the cabinet took the view that the percentage rise should be stated specifically by the committee.

Damages Refused

TORONTO, June 22 (CP).—Damages of $25,000 sought by Mrs. Margaret Shepherd from the Royal Insurance Company of Toronto in connection with the death of her husband in an air crash in 1949 were refused Thursday in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice H. A. Ayles. Mr. Justice Ayles ruled that Shepherd, killed with Albert Janssens of Wallaceburg, a passenger, while flying at a Wallaceburg service club celebration, was flying "hundreds of feet lower than is required for even a reasonable degree of safety."

Project Delayed

LONDON, Ont., June 22 (CP).—Installation of a 5,000,000 gallon fuel oil storage tank at Port Stanley probably will not be made until next year, Joseph McManus, president of a fuel company, said Thursday. Mr. McManus said steel for the $175,000 project had been ordered for some time from a Toronto firm, but that the steel company held out no hope of delivery this year.

To Try Woman On Murder Count

LONDON, Ont., June 22—(CP).—Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence, 40, must face trial on a murder charge in the death of her 42-year-old husband George at their Caradoc township home Jan. 20.

Mrs. Lawrence Thursday was committed for trial by higher court after preliminary hearing before Magistrate Donald Menzies in county magistrates court. This was a continuation of a preliminary hearing begun in February and interrupted when defence counsel W. R. Poole introduced evidence of psychiatrists indicating the woman was unfit to stand trial. Later the attorney-general's department ruled that she must stand trial.

Canadian General Electric Production Workers

THIS IS YOUR CHOICE

On Tuesday, June 26th, a union representation vote will be conducted by the Ontario Labour Relations Board in the Peterborough Works of Canadian General Electric.

This vote will determine which union is to represent the employees.

Every production worker in the bargaining unit is entitled to a vote, regardless of the position he or she has previously taken with regard to the unions.

Ballots will be marked in secret and the entire election will be under the direct supervision of officials of the Ontario Government.

The ballots will carry the names of two unions. The first name on the ballot will be that of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (IUE-CIO). The second place on the ballot will carry the name of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

By marking "X" opposite one or other of these names, employees of Canadian General Electric will indicate which of these unions they wish to represent them.

THE RECORD OF THESE UNIONS IS CLEAR

IUE-CIO:—

IUE-CIO is a union established by the CIO to give democratic representation to workers in the electrical industry throughout Canada and the United States.

IUE-CIO now have 350,000 members and bargains for 75,000 General Electric employees, a majority of the GE workers.

IUE-CIO is directly affiliated with the 6,000,000 members of the CIO, the 360,000 members of the Canadian Congress of Labour, and the 53,000,000 members of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. IUE-CIO is the only industrial type electrical union recognized by the labour movements of Canada and the United States.

IUE-CIO has made notable contract gains for electrical workers in both countries. The IUE-CIO contract with the GE chain in the United States was the first contract to include a one-way cost-of-living escalator clause — increases when the cost-of-living index went up but no decreases when it went down.

IUE-CIO, representing the GE office workers in Peterborough made contract gains far in advance of those of UE representing the production workers.

UE:—

UE has been repudiated by the Labour Movements of Canada and the United States and has been declared by a committee of the United States Congress to be an organization under the control of the Communist party.

UE is an independent, isolated organization with no formal relationship with any other union.

UE has failed to negotiate contracts to which the workers in the electrical industry are entitled. In the Peterborough Works the latest UE contract covering all the production workers failed to even provide adequate compensation for price rises since the last increase in 1948, yet it is binding until 1953.

UE has done everything within its power to prevent the Peterborough GE workers using their franchise in an election conducted by government labour officials.

UE has neglected its trade union responsibilities in favor of such Communist-front movements as the Canadian Peace Congress which stands condemned as Communist by Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs.

YOUR ONLY CHANCE TO IMPROVE THE CONTRACT

The contract under which General Electric production workers are now bound continues in effect until 1953, unless IUE-CIO is certified as a result of Tuesday's vote.

The Ontario Labour Relations Act gives IUE-CIO the right to enter into new negotiations immediately after certification. The Ontario Labour Relations Act also specifies, in Section 53, that NO EMPLOYER SHALL, WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF THE TRADE UNION ALTER THE RATES OF WAGES OR AN OTHER FORM OR CONDITION OF EMPLOYMENT."

That is the law's guarantee to Peterborough workers that their present wages and conditions will be fully protected while IUE-CIO provides a second chance at improving the contract.

BEWARE

The Ontario Labour Law says all publicity in this campaign must end at midnight tonight (Friday). Beware of rumours or false information. No details of the vote will be known until the ballot boxes are unlocked after the polls close the night of June 26th.

FILL 'ER UP—Beating the jet plane high fuel consumption problem, this 800-mph Boeing B-47 Stratojet bomber (left) is refueled in mid-air by a double-deck Boeing KC-97A Stratofreighter tanker. The planes use a "Flying Boom" system, wherein the fuel pipe is moved into contact position with the bomber by means of tiny V-shaped control surfaces (visible about the center of pipe), which act like the tail control surfaces of a plane. The "ruddevator" control surfaces are manipulated by a crewman stationed under the tail of the tanker plane. The telescopic, swivelling pipe system for refueling can increase the bomber's non-stop flight range.

Reduced Supply Of Iranian Oil Serious Problem

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON June 22 — (CP) — Stoppage or even reduction of Iran's annual production of 30-400,000 tons of oil would pose serious problems for the free world.

British officials say Iranian production equalled three-fifths of Western Europe's total annual consumption and any interference with the flow of this oil might mean a slowing down of Western rearmament programs.

Besides supplying part of the civilian needs of both Europe and Asia, Iran is the chief source of fuel oil for the Royal Navy. Between 6,000,000 and 8,000,000 tons of Iran's annual output is exported in the form of crude oil—mainly to Europe. The Royal Navy takes an additional big slice direct from Iranian refineries.

About another 5,000,000 tons is sent to Europe in refined forms. The rest goes to markets east of Suez. Affects Many Lands

Charles L. Harding, director in charge of Middle East affairs for the Sococo-Vacuum Oil Company, said in a statement in New York that nationalization of the British-owned company in Iran reaches far beyond the Iranian-British dispute and affects "the welfare of all nations and perhaps the future of international conduct."

Oil production in the west is not sufficient to supply all of the west's friendly countries, he said. "We may have to depend on the Middle East for an increasingly large proportion of these supplies," he said. But official British circles believe that even with complete shutdown of Iranian oil, the West could scrape through by economies in the use of oil and all-out production in remaining fields.

Research Discussed By Westwood WI

WESTWOOD, June 22 (ENS)—"Historical Research" with convener Mrs. Jane Thompson was an interesting feature of the program of the Women's Institute on Tuesday afternoon at the June meeting held in the community hall.

About 20 ladies were present and answered the roll call with a written account of an event of local historical interest, which will be kept for future reference in the Institute's Tweedsmuir History Book. A reading entitled "Memories" was given by Mrs. Aubrey Wood. Other items of interest were current events by Mrs. Fred Neilson and a "thought for the day" by Mrs. Stuart Graham.

An announcement was made on the short course on frozen foods chosen from the co-operative program, which will be held on July 10 at 8 p.m. in the community hall.

Members joined to join with the committee in sponsoring a strawberry festival for the community, the date to be set for an evening in the week of June 25.

A report of the recent convener's convention in Guelph was read by Mrs. J. Thompson and Mrs. William Renwick reported the district annual convention held at Lakefield.

A contest prepared by Mrs. Redmond Walsh was won by Mrs. E. Birdsall and Mrs. E. W. Sargent demonstrated ironing a man's shirt.

Lunch was served by the hostesses for the day Mrs. Birdsall, Mrs. E. Elmhurst and Mrs. Post.

Mounties Prefer To Keep Role As Rescuers Secret

VANCOUVER — (CP) — On British Columbia's rugged northern coast all men are brothers, allied against their common enemy the sea.

It's a land where families 40 miles apart on the long reaches of some northern inlet are yet close neighbors; where a man's word is his bond and they don't lock their doors at night.

Out of this territory into drydock here have come two sea-going Mounties and their trim grey launch, the PML 17.

Skipper Bill Mason and engineer Doug Gorrie, quiet and unassuming, are the unknown heroes of countless rescue missions along their 200-mile beat out of Ocean Falls.

Anonymous as required by the code of the RCMP, they seldom get public credit for the jobs they handle each winter.

But you can hear the other side of the story from grateful trappers and fishermen who have seen the curving prow of the patrol boat cut through the mist—or the ice—when all hope was gone.

Their exploits make the papers, but their names are never included. And that's the way they prefer it.

Nature is their chief enemy in the wild land along the coast. There are many weeks when spray makes a four-inch "normal" ice coat over the whole ship.

Law enforcement is only a small part of the sea-going Mounties' work on the coast patrol. They fix fishermen's radios, handle bounties for wolves and cougars, and licences for hunting and trapping, speed injured loggers to hospital and keep an eye out for stills in the hills.

But there are compensations, too. At the canneries there is always a meal ready for them. At logging camps, there's chow with the gang in the cookhouse. Indian camps have the welcome mat out at all times.

When the inspection in drydock is over, the big grey launch will cruise out of Vancouver harbor, bound for the north country she calls home.

But she'll show up again—in next winter's headlines.

Over-Anxious

GUELPH — (CP) — All through the night Al Walsh heard the mournful howling of a dog in distress. He found a Boston bull terrier caught in the roots of a twisted tree, where the dog evidently had become entangled while chasing a rabbit.

Ex-Guerrillas Hunt Down Former Chinese Comrades

By LIONEL HUDSON

SINGAPORE, June 22 (Reuters)—Two hundred Chinese who deserted from Communist guerrilla bands operating in the Malayan jungle today are fanatical hunters of their former comrades.

They know their own lives are in peril while any of their revenge-seeking erstwhile colleagues still live.

Since the emergency started in Malaya three years ago, 525 terrorists have surrendered. More than half prefer to live behind barbed wire in detention camps, where they have no fear for their lives. The rest are eager to see the gang they left behind in the jungle wiped out.

They tell security forces where they buried their arms. Some have even collected rewards for bringing in weapons stolen from their comrades.

They also pinpoint arms and food dumps vital to guerrilla operations and map the tracks through the jungle used by the gangs.

They have been invaluable in identifying Communist leaders and helping security forces intelligence to work out the guerrilla "order of battle."

The surrendered Communists have been sentenced to death by the terrorist killer gangs.

Teams of these surrendered men tour resettlement camps throughout the federation to tell the Chinese squatters about the Communists in the jungle. Terrorists have set ambushes for them but so far the former bandits have suffered no casualties.

The most important of all surrendered Communists is Lam Swee, a political commissar who had $7,000 on his head dead or alive when he gave himself up last June. He says all lower ranks of the guerrilla army in Malaya, from local committee members down, would give up the fight if they were not afraid of reprisals by their leaders.

City To Renew Store Leases

Leases of properties owned by the city on the ground floor of the market hall block will be renewable until June 1954, according to a recommendation of the property committee of the council this morning.

These stores extend from the Charlotte St. corner to the Bradburn Building. They include: Anthony's fruit store, CNR Telegraphs, Buehler Bros. meat store, Levinson's ladies' wear, Meyers studio, De Luxe Cafe, Agnew-Surpass shoes, Gibbons and Knox.

Uncertainty of affairs at home and abroad influenced the committee in avoiding any radical change in occupancy at present.

Some of the leases are expiring within the next month, and others a year from now in 1952.

Release Buehlers

It was said that if Buehler Bros. wish to give up now their lease which runs to August, to move to Charlotte St., the committee was in favor of accommodating them. Extension of leases, if desired, until 1954 was considered a reasonable aid to the firms occupying that part of the block.

No present urgency in getting possession of the city properties loomed in the committee's anticipations of the immediate future. Ald. H. F. Waddell presided as chairman.

Vital United States Airfield In Libya Serves Mediterranean Area

By ELIZABETH DAUKES

TRIPOLI, Libya — (AP) — Waving date palms and the Mediterranean Sea provide a frame for Wheelus airfield, in North Africa—major US Airforce installation on the dark continent.

Wheelus field is one of the largest bases of the Atlantic Division of the Military Air Transport Service.

It funnels men and materials to US installations in the Mediterranean and Middle East area. Its service extends into Italy and Germany, to American units there.

In time of emergency, Wheelus—with its long, improved runways and supply and maintenance installations—could shift overnight to wartime conditions. Flanking major shipping routes and within bomber striking distance of the heart of Russia, Wheelus field would have great strategic value.

Today, however, it is a peacetime way station for transport planes with the atmosphere of any similar base at home—if you stay on the base, that is. A quite primitive Africa is only a few miles away.

There are some 1,200 officers and men stationed here, 4,000 miles from home. More than 200 have their wives and families with them. The families started to come in on Christmas Day 1948, a little more than six months after the Air Transport Command reactivated the former Italian fighter base.

A score or so of the families live on the base. But base housing quarters are limited and the rest are scattered through the city of Tripoli, seven miles away.

The base has schools, a chapel, cinema, bank, laundry, hospital, nursery, beauty shop and post exchange.

There is baseball and football, golf the year around on a sand course dotted with cactus and palm trees, and some of the best swimming in the world. The special beach on the Mediterranean has a snack bar, outdoor pavilion, volley ball courts, barbecue pits and parking shelters. The field is named after Lt. Richard Wheelus, an Air Transport Command pilot who was killed in a crash near Abadan on the Persian Gulf in February, 1945.

The US has a lease arrangement with the government of Libya, former Italian colony which is now under British administration but in the process of becoming independent under United Nations auspices.

Presumably, a new lease will have to be authorized by the new independent Libyan government which is scheduled to take over at the end of this year.

Wheelus field is equipped with Douglas C-54 Skymasters. Col. Fred O. Easley, Jr., of Fordyce, Ark., the base commander, is proud of the field's record of no fatal accidents in transport operations in its three years of activities.

Nothing Wasted At Big Paper Mills

DRYDEN, Ont.—(CP)—There is practically no useless material in a modern paper mill.

On the Wabigoon River here, site of the Dryden Paper Company mill, are 25 houseboats built of scrap lumber from the paper company.

Dryden's Memorial Arena uses sawdust from the company as a base for the ice. The diving tower of the municipal swimming pool was built with lumber from the mill.

It is all part of the plan known as integrated forestry operations, which means that nothing goes to waste.

Every paper and lumber company in Ontario today aims at 100 per cent utilization of the products of the forest. The local mill, situated about halfway between the Lakehead and Winnipeg, is in a good spot to market its mill waste and by-products.

Railroad ties, eight feet long, seven inches thick and nine inches wide are produced at the company's sawmills. To make the tie a round sawlog 10 inches thick must be used, with lots of sawdust and slab left over.

The sawdust is used for everything from packing ice to insulating houses. The slab is sold at $4 a cord for firewood.

Norman McMillen, veteran woods manager at Dryden, says the plant is already using everything but the scream of a saw.

Oldtime Craftsmen Needed To Put Out Chinese Paper

VANCOUVER —(CP)—In the editorial room of a Vancouver daily paper there are no typewriters. Writers use brush and ink and, in silence, sweat out each deadline.

In the back shop, or composing room, no linotypes spill out type in long, lead columns. There too is silence as all type is set by hand.

But, at noon each day, presses roll and 4,500 copies of the paper "hit the streets" of Vancouver.

The paper is The Chinese Times, one of Canada's four Chinese-language newspapers. All four share the same odd conditions. The Chinese language, with its thousands of characters, is not adaptable to modern devices.

Recently publisher Chew P. Yee of Victoria's New Republic spoke of the difficulties of publication because Canadian-born Chinese dislike newspaper work involving writing copy with brush and ink.

The Times, published by the Chinese Freemasons in Canada, started more than 40 years ago with the campaign to overthrow the Manchu empire. The Times' first issues rallied Vancouver Chinese in support of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, who made China a Republic in 1911.

The revolution which has never ended makes political talk in Chinatown, and the Vancouver and Victoria papers—the other two are in Toronto—differ in policy.

Oppose Communism

The New Republic is strongly Nationalistic in support of Chiang Kai-Shek. In fact all Canadian Chinese are anti-Communist.

But as to Chiang and MacArthur, there are different ideas in Chinatown no less than in Washington.

The Times keeps its readers up on world news through subscribing to world press wire services, and it maintains a special correspondent at Hong Kong.

Only once in its history has the conservative Times put out an extra. That was on V-J Day, when 15,000 copies were rolled off. The normal circulation is 4,500.

Apart from the masthead, the only English wording is in the advertisements. And these show only the firm name and address in English; the copy is in Chinese.

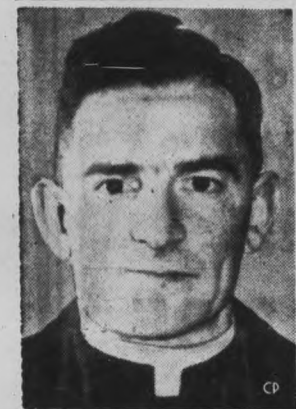

Although someone invented a Chinese typewriter it has not been a success—the keyboard is too cumbersome. In any case, the Times gets along without one.

The same difficulty, only greater, prevents use of linotypes and each character must be picked out, set up, and then restored in its case after the edition is out.

Since there can be no alphabetical arrangement, classifying the type is a problem. One typesetter obscurely explained it as being similar to fingerprint classification.

No Withdrawals

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate in co-operation with a local trust company has received permission to open a banking office. Deposits of $1 or more will be accepted, but no withdrawals will be allowed from the school banking office.

Cattle Prices Close With Loss Of $1

TORONTO, June 22 — (CP)—Cattle prices opened higher this week at the Ontario Stockyards, but closed with net loss of $1.15. Calves were $1 higher, while hogs gained 50c-$1. Lambs dropped $6.

The cattle run of 8,700 was 700 more than last week, and 3,600 more than the same week last year. Prices were too high for US buyers and very few cattle were exported. Closing trade was dull with a heavy holdover.

Some good to choice weighty steers sold on Monday at $37.50-$39, but closed at $35-$36.50. Common, to medium light steers and heifers were $30-$33. Good heifers opened at $34.50 and closed at $33-$33.50. Good cows closed at $29.50-$30.50. Good bulls opened at $34-$34.50 and closed at $32.50-$33.50. Fed yearlings closed at $31-$33.50. Flock steers sold early at $33-$36, but closed at $30-$35.

Calf receipts totalled 1,800. Choice vealers were $38-$39. Common to medium sold mostly from $30-$37. A few stockers were as high as $40.

Hog receipts were 2,000. Grade A settled at $39. Sows sold at $31 dressed. Heavy shipments went to Montreal.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 550. Lambs took a seasonal drop from $44-$40 for best quality. Common to medium sheep were $13-$18. A few good light ewes were $20-$23.

Intensify Study

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP)—Combiners Commission investigators have intensified the study of price trends in Canada in the last year, officials said Thursday. The commission carries on a year-to-year study of price levels as part of its job of cracking down on cases of conspiracies to keep up prices in restraint of trade. When the Korean war started with its implications of inflation, those surveys were sharpened.

Incomes At Peak Level

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP)—Canadian labor income rose to peak levels during March and the first three months of this year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday. Total for the month was $758,000,000, a rise of 16.6 per cent over the March, 1949 total of $650,000,000. The first quarter amounted to $2,240,000,000 compared with $1,930,000,000 a year earlier a gain of 16 per cent.

Narcotic Use Controlled

OTTAWA, June 22 (CP)—Health Minister Martin told the Commons Thursday his department has no indication that narcotics addiction is growing in this country. However, he told Dr. W. G. Blair (PC—Lanark) during study of his departmental estimates that the department is not relaxing its supervision over this field. It has been on the lookout for an increase.

Planning To Attend Christening Of Ship

OTTAWA, June 22 — (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier and E. P. Murphy, deputy minister of public works, will go to Port Weller, Saturday, for the christening of the largest vessel ever constructed in Canadian yards. It is the Scott Misener, named for the founder and head of the Canadian Steamship Company for which it was built for operations in the Great Lakes trade.

The new freighter is 654 feet long, 35 feet deep with a beam of 88 feet and gross tonnage of 18,772. It is about 12 per cent larger than any previous Canadian-built vessel.

No Special Clause In Veterans' Act

OTTAWA, June 22 — (CP) — There will be no special war clause in the Veterans Insurance Act as a result of Korea, the Commons veterans committee decided Thursday.

The act, designed mainly to give life insurance opportunities to veterans who can't get insurance from commercial firms, is up for amendment. One new clause proposed by the government but withdrawn Thursday would have given the veterans department power to write in a war clause.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Frank C. Paterson Advises Plowing In Excess Hay for Humus — M. H. Johnston Heads Ontario Conservation Association — Rhinitis Spread in U.S. Swine — Peterborough "Ex" Offers 500 in Hay Prizes.

Although it appears to some farmers to be a gift of nature, and flouting providence, Ken Fallis and Frank C. Paterson, both of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, recommend plowing in some of the abundance of this year's hay crop.

With other farmers it is an established practice of maintaining humus in the soil. They call it green manure to be used as a means of building up fertility, and conserving the quality of their land.

"And with humus, the farmer gets the real effectiveness of commercial fertilizer," Mr. Paterson said.

Many farmers have such a big crop of grass and legumes that it may be a problem in many instances to use it all for hay and silage. So this is one season when they can afford to plow down a field of clover, timothy, alfalfa, and so on, and never miss it.

"They are going to plow sod any way this fall," said Mr. Paterson, "or get ready for fall wheat, and it would be just as well, and a lot better, to plow in a field of the green growth and prove to themselves over the next five years or more that it is a cheap and practical way of providing more or less abundance in the future."

For Soil Management

Loss of the crop may be a heavy consideration to some farmers, but loss to the land is something more serious in the long term management of the farm.

"A good field to choose for this job is at the back end where it doesn't get so much manure as the acres nearer the barn. With some cultivation this summer to keep down weeds, the organic matter in the hay that is plowed in will leave the land in fine shape for fall wheat in early September."

CUT HOTEL EXPENSE

Thirty boys of Glenary calf club spent Wednesday night in their motor bus at Exhibition Park. They left Alexandria Monday on a tour that took them out Thursday morning "early and bright" for Toronto, Brampton is also one of their places of call.

In Peterborough they visited the plants of Canada Packers and Quaker Oats, and in the evening they looked in at N. W. McConkey's Liffoc Farm to see Macabar Re-Echo, the world record Holstein cow. She had been delivered to Roman Brothers Farm at King, Ont.

"Make Grassland, Cash Land" is the slogan for the Eastern Ontario Grassland Day beginning at 10 a.m. Wed. July 4. The morning program includes demonstrations of weed spraying, pasture seeding, farm pond, and trench silo construction. Mr. C. D. Graham, Ontario's Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will speak to the assembly in the afternoon on demonstrations of Grassland machinery.

At 4 p.m. there will be a tour of the 1,000 acre Ottawa Dairy Farm (Borden's) under the direction of the manager, Tom Dickson.

POULTRY PRESIDENT

Arthur Brunton of Port Perry was elected president of the Ontario Poultry Breeders Association at their annual meeting at O.A.C. Melville H. Johnston of North Monaghan was elected president of the Ontario Conservation Association in Guelph Monday. He has been Zone chairman for several years. Mr. Johnston succeeds Angus Smith of Mount Forest.

Five organizations interested in reforestation and conservation decided to join their forces in what is to be known as the Federated Conservation Authorities. Harold Cathart of Springfield represents the Port Hope-Genaraska project as a member of the executive.

TWO HASTINGS MEETINGS

Hastings county Holstein breeders are holding a twilight meeting Friday July 6 at the farm of John Parrott, one mile and a half east of Belleville. W. P. Watson, Livestock Commissioner for Ontario, recently back from Britain, will be the guest speaker. Roy Ormiston will be making his last visit as fieldman, and his successor, G. E. Nelson will be introduced.

A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative, also reports a twilight grassland meeting June 26 at 7 p.m. at the farm of Lawrence Ketcheson on the Frankford-Foxboro Road.

Jack McRae, fieldman for the Crop Improvement Association will discuss trench silos and modern hay making.

Douglas Parks, crop specialist of Kemptville Agricultural School, will talk about forage crops and their relation to haymaking.

RHINITIS IN USA

Swine infection of rhinitis is becoming a serious menace to the industry in the United States, according to an Associated Press despatch of Thursday, June 21, from Chicago, quoting the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The report says: "A strange

BEEF ROLLS BACK—Stockyard cow boys herd cattle back into the pens at Kansas City, Mo., as cattle receipts nearly doubled over the 4848 received a week ago. But it was still only half of the amount coming in a year ago.

new disease for which no cure has yet been found has spread rapidly through many of the best hog-raising areas in the U.S. It causes sneezing and gives the pig's face a "dished in" look by causing certain facial bones to disintegrate.

"Infectious atrophic rhinitis was almost unheard of several years ago. Control measures include the careful purchase of breeding stock to avoid bringing carriers into the herd. As an additional precaution, new purchases should be kept in quarantine for a few weeks. Sows and their pigs should be earmarked. Identically so the trouble can be traced back if it shows up."

Rhinitis was first noticed in this district about five years ago, Dr. E. W. Ford told the Examiner today. The veterinary profession is still being called to occasional cases. The disease has been combatted here by eliminating affected pigs. The Examiner's attention to it was first called by Ald. John A. Dewar to whom it was mentioned by a farmer several miles from the city five years ago.

SIMPLE SILAGE TEST

Determining the cutting time of grass silage is similar practice in Smith or Otonabee and Wisconsin.

Frank Paterson, agricultural representative, recommended a week ago about 60 to 70 per cent of moisture as approving sign that grasses and legumes were ready for chopping. The rule of thumb method he mentioned is the same as that reported of Art Giese, Sauk county, Wisconsin, in a Country Gentleman item.

Farmer Giese gives a handful of chopped forage a good squeeze, then releases it. "If the material stays in a compact ball, it probably has more than 70 per cent moisture, too wet to handle without a preservative."

If it gradually swells and breaks into sections, moisture is about right. If it falls apart, it is too dry and should be made into hay."

The article on silage continues: "More than half of a group of farmers questioned last year made grass silage without preservative by wilting to 65 or 70 per cent moisture. Those who added molasses or ground grains to forage at that moisture level did not improve their silage."

Farmer ensiling low-moisture forage actually cut quality, as 150 to 200 pounds of grain added per ton may further dry the silage by 4 to 5 per cent.

Preservatives were useful when forage, especially that from legumes, was put into the silo wet. The resulting silage was more palatable and better smelling. Ground grain and molasses, the most popular preservatives, also reduced seepage loss and boosted feed value.

Silage made with choppers set for a 3/4-inch cut kept well on most farms when moisture was at 70 per cent. When wilted below that level, a 3/4-inch cut was better.

More than three-fourths of all grass silage made in Wisconsin last year went through forage harvesters. This method takes about half the time required with the hay-loader and silo-filler method."

CALVES TO MANITOBA

Calf club boys and girls in Manitoba have received a shipment of calves from the counties of York and Waterloo in Ontario.

This is the first time that such a purchase has been made for Manitoba Calf Club members and was possible only through the co-operation of the Manitoba branch of the Holstein-Friesian Association which paid the transportation costs, and the generosity of the York and Waterloo county breeders who sold the calves for considerably less than they would have brought on the open market. They cost about $200 each.

J. E. Crawford, secretary of the Manitoba branch, Alex Johnston, Kelloe, Man., and Tom Klinkhamer, assistant livestock commissioner for Manitoba, were responsible for the plan. The cattle were selected by Les Millington and Bruce Townsend of Rockwood Holsteins, St. Norbert, Man., and Bruce accompanied them to their new home. County sales agents Joseph Darlington and Lorpe Brubacher gave their services free, and Holstein fieldman George Drennan and Roy Ormiston assisted in locating the calves.

George W. Henry, Todmorden, first vice-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association, helped select the York county calves and George C. Jackson, Downsview, prepared the car for shipment. The whole effort was a fine example of a successful co-operative effort.

Whale Oil Substitute In Britain's Ice Cream

However remote it may be as an additional threat to the dairy industry of this country, whale oil is already in widespread use in the manufacture of cream, butter and ice cream in the United Kingdom, where any surplus milk goes to making cheese.

"And I defy anyone to tell the difference," even in the ice cream, said W. P. Watson, livestock commissioner with Ontario Department of Agriculture, who returned home several weeks ago from a month's journeying in Great Britain.

Mr. Watson was speaking at the annual picnic last Saturday of the Shorthorn breeders of Kent, Eglon, Norfolk and Essex counties. Attendance was 350 people, some from the United States.

He told the Shorthorn crowd they might not be greatly interested in milk problems, "but it is of vital concern to the dairy farmer."

In a tribute to the farmers of the Old Country, Mr. Watson said they were "among the best in the world", producing a substantial part of the food for 38,000,000 people in an area not much larger than Old Ontario. He said Britain was paying only 12 cents a pound for Argentine beef. "On that basis, you can imagine how much we are likely to sell to Britain in the next year, or for that matter, in the next century."

Harold White, of Guelph, secretary of the Canadian Shorthorn club, urged the breeders "to guard against trading within a closed circle, and instead to raise the quality of their animals to meet exacting commercial standards."

The Canadian Family owes much to Iceland

A Tribute from Calvert to Canadians of Icelandic descent

CANADA's strength stems largely from her ability to blend the racial and cultural heritages of people from many lands.

Icelandic culture marches cordially with that of settlers from other nations, proudly linked by a common citizenship in the great Canadian Family.

The first settlers from Iceland arrived in 1870. Within a few years they were joined by hundreds more and settled at Gimli on the shores of Lake Winnipeg. One of the more famous Icelandic Canadians, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, added much to Canada's knowledge of her North land, by his Arctic explorations.

The Icelanders, whose forefathers founded parliamentary institutions over a thousand years ago, are prominent in business as bankers, grain brokers and merchants, and have made notable progress in the professions as doctors, engineers, lawyers and teachers.

A moral, law-abiding, studious people, they have, by their love of literature, added much to Canada's progress and culture.

U.E. -- YOUR ONLY SECURITY -- U.E. CHECK THE RECORD

A Statement by Officers and Executives of the U.E. Local 524 C.G.E. Peterborough Works:—

U.E. RECORD

- U.E. UE activities by and for employees of CGE have resulted in improved living standards and job security since 1937.
- U.E. During 1937 Davenport GE workers first organized into UE. Gains made by these workers were passed on in part to other GE workers by the company in an effort to forestall UE's organizational efforts in Peterborough.
- U.E. Since 1946 — when UE became the certified bargaining agent for Peterborough GE workers — UE has brought to our workers average increases of $26.89 a week.
- U.E. While increasing wages, UE has reduced the work week to five days and to 43 hours.
- U.E. UE has established a minimum earning rate for girls of $1.02 an hour. (July at least 2c more.) This is higher than any other mass production industry for female labour.
- U.E. UE has established skilled rates in Peterborough which exceed those in Toronto, Windsor, Hamilton, Oshawa, etc., in any mass production industry.
- U.E. UE pioneered in establishing payment for 8 statutory holidays.
- U.E. UE won paid vacations of 1½ weeks for 3 years service; 2 weeks for 5 years; and 3 weeks for 20 years.
- U.E. UE has established high bonus rates for workers on evening and night shifts.
- U.E. UE has won security for older workers by outstandingly strong seniority provisions in signed agreement with the company.
- U.E. UE has negotiated contract improvements in worker protection. Today, UE-GE agreement stands out head and shoulders above any agreement in basic industry in Canada in terms of job security.
- U.E. UE's wage gains alone have resulted in over 15 Million Dollars more being distributed to Peterborough CGE production workers and circulated in the community — instead of being shipped off to the U.S.A. in the form of extra company profits.
- U.E. UE's wage and other gains have resulted in substantial improvements for any other wage and salary earners in and around Peterborough.

These gains were all established without strike!

- U.E. UE has developed a keener participation in the democratic life of our community by promotion of rank and file discussion and decision on all problems facing the workers in Peterborough Works.
- U.E. UE's local and national election of officers conducted annually and subject to recall.
- U.E. UE has helped develop greater civic consciousness by our participation in all worthy community projects (Civic Hospital, Mayor's Fund, etc.)
- U.E. UE has encouraged participation in humanitarian, social, cultural and recreational activities of the community.

"Vote U.E. With The Majority"

ISSUED BY THE STEWARDS AND EXECUTIVE BOARD MEMBERS OF LOCAL 524 U.E.

Aside from raiding and disruption, what has
I.U.E. contributed to Peterborough Workers?

I.U.E. RECORD

Office workers CGE certified in IUE November 1950.
IUE accepted company offer of 9% and escalator clause April 1951 but held off signing contract.
After seeing UE's gain of 12% increase plus cost-of-living bonus, the IUE sought to renege on their April settlement with CGE.
IUE called office workers out of plant resulting in loss of five days pay.
Their strike a flop, IUE capitulated on May 2, and signed for original company hand-out to office workers.

WARNING

In view of the fact that campaigning must cease as of midnight tonight (Friday), and knowing the IUE record here and elsewhere, we warn against any last-minute stunts that may be resorted to by IUE in a last desperate effort to defeat the will of the CGE workers.

Badly Wounded Soldier Fights To Last To Stay With Unit in Korea

By BILL BOSS

TOKYO, June 22 (CP)—It was the end of a campaign, a bitter heart-breaking defeat. . . . It had been a desperate rear-guard action, a one-man show, all the way back from a beleaguered Korean mountain-top north of Kapyong.

It had been waged in a lonely slit-trench in the heat of battle, in the regimental air post, in the field surgical hospital to which he had been evacuated by helicopter through long weeks in the convalescent hospital in Kure, Japan, and here in Tokyo, where in an army medical centre he awaited the plane home to Canada.

For he didn't want to go. He didn't want to go. He was determined to stay, to get well again, to go back and fight as he had never fought before.

But there he was, airborne. Over suburban Haneda airport the silver CPA North Star sparkled in the late afternoon sun and wheeled sharply eastward, scattering his hopes in its slipstream. Like a glass-blower in the forge of that settling orb, the aircraft drew finer and even finer the tie between him and his battalion until, somewhere over the Pacific, it imperceptibly gave. And a new life, for a different man, drew even closer ahead.

Been Around

He was 24, had been around before. He'd sailed in ships, had known the adventurous tang of merchant navy life. He'd been strong, too, had gloried in hard work, in exercising the rich pile of muscle down his back and chest and the great sinews of his arms.

But that was all "before." Wrap into one packet all the things he'd done, the places seen, the persons known in the six months ago since he'd come away a boy. It was a man who was going home.

He'd undergone the fighting soldier's change, the incommunicable experience that only the man who has faced it understands.

In the agony of the climb, winded, dead tired and weary from the 75-pound load on his back, he'd forced himself to "get there." He never grumbled or complained. Once on the top he'd nerved himself to the suspense of waiting. In the heat of battle he'd steered himself to "take it." At grips with the enemy he'd marvelled in the very combat how body and soul slough all fatigue and thrill at his command of every reflex and reaction, how automatically it went, how every new and desperate peril summoned up new resources from within his being to sustain him.

Finds Himself

He'd lived with death and walked beside himself. He'd come up bloody, mangled, murmuring, "Thanks God, I can take it." The depths and heights hold no new terrors for the man who's found himself.

His crucible was the moment when a Chinese grenade came to the trench from which he, as leader, was directing his section's battle. It shredded his arm. It gouged his bowels. It cost him blood and pain.

Improvising his tunic into a bandage, he carried on the battle. He couldn't shoot. But still he had grenades.

Kept Tossing Grenades

He locked them between his knees, the lever firm against his flesh lest they explode inside the trench when he drew the pin with his good left hand.

It was a slow, painful method for the pace set by the oncoming Chinese masses. He doesn't know how many he threw, just that he kept them going over until one Chinese, closer than the rest, poked a carbine into the trench and fired at point-blank range. His guts again.

That did it. He crumpled over and for a while his position was ignored.

But still that will to live drove on. "I can't die now," he thought, "I won't die."

Thinking back over it later he said: "After all that happened I just couldn't, wouldn't give in. It was like when we were climbing the hills. I always just said to myself that I just had to get there. And I had to now."

As the battle allowed he crawled out of his trench, dragged himself slowly with one hand, unable to make much use of his legs because of the torture to his stomach, and inch by inch got down a few feet below the mountain crest. Hanging grimly onto brush and grass and thorn—whatever came first within his grasp—he followed the line of the ridge over to his platoon commander's dugout, briefed him on the situation forward and then allowed his wounds to be dressed.

Couldn't be Evacuated

That was the night during which finally the Chinese overran the Canadian position and for three hours United Nations artillery poured concentration after concentration down upon it in murderous lacerations which ultimately drove them back.

Morning was well advanced before stretcher-bearers were able to get him down the regimental aid post 2,000 feet below and 1½ miles away. A helicopter got him back to the field surgical hospital.

It was in June that they told him his days of soldiering were over—he had lost a kidney, he would have to take it easy for a long while, he would have to go home and find some job not too demanding on his mutilated body and his sapped strength.

He had himself paraded before the medical officer. He wanted a reboard, a chance to stay. It was no go. The answer was final: "Home for you."

Tries Again

In Tokyo he tried again. Another parade. The same request. The same answer. It was hell when he met some of the old gang on their Tokyo leave. He tried again, and still no go.

And so he left. His name? It hardly matters. He's just one of the many who, according to their sensitivity, to their receptivity, "grow up" overnight in war.

His name? Pte. Tony Edmond. He may be sitting alongside you in a Toronto street car, or at the opposite table in a Glace Bay, N.S., restaurant. They're the places he calls "home."

Say Soil Erosion Gravest Problem In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (CP)—Experts are agreed that soil erosion is becoming South Africa's greatest problem. To combat it, more money and more technicians are needed.

Although 15 per cent of the area of South Africa is under the plow, only about 6½ per cent is good arable land. Every year its rivers carry millions of tons of good topsoil into the sea.

The problem of South Africa's sand dunes, bare mountains, dust storms and dry river beds was recognized nearly 30 years ago. Before the Second World War a small scheme to fight erosion was started, but by 1940 little progress had been made.

Since the passing of the soil conservation act in 1946 more than 20 per cent of South Africa has been designated soil conservation areas, but experts declare that last year's expenditures of nearly $2,000,000 should at least be doubled.

The Witwatersrand University graduated 221 students last year after a four-year course in soil conservation, but only nine of these remain in the Union, according to H. P. Steytler, former director of the National Veld Trust. The rest have gone to higher-paid posts in East and Central Africa.

More fertilizers are needed too. South Africa has no phosphates of sufficiently high grade, and these have to be imported mostly from North Africa. The dollar shortage limits imports.

Over-stocking of cattle by native farmers is another stumbling block. The native territories are over-crowded and ignorance has to be overcome. The African needs wider education on how to conserve his land.

Manitoulin Romantic Spot Very Rich In Indian Lore

LITTLE CURRENT (CP)—A new history of the Manitoulin district lends a kind of enchantment not found elsewhere in North America. It casts a fascinating screen of ancient Indian lore around the district's beautiful scenery.

Written by the late Jeanne Haines, wife of the Rev. Richard Haines of Little Current, the book delves into the mist of fantastic legend that surrounds Manitoulin. Actually there are three islands, one of them the largest fresh-water island in the world. This is Great Manitoulin, almost 100 miles long and varying in width from 40 to two miles. It has 108 sparkling blue lakes, some of them almost 100 feet above surrounding Lake Huron.

Little Manitoulin, a circular islet about seven miles in diameter, sometimes called Cockburn Island. The third in the group is Drummond Island, which lies in United States waters to the south of the group.

All three were three before the ice age when a great glacier cap swept down from the Arctic to shroud half of North America. Recent excavations by a team of archaeologists from Michigan University indicate mesolithic man dwelt in the district. Primitive instruments found in the last 13 years are similar to those found in Norway and Africa.

Indian Gods
Great Manitoulin, or the Sacred Isle, was the dwelling place of the Grand Manitou according to Indian legend. He was the ancient Indian concept of God, the supreme being. Giant chalk cliffs overhanging West Bay, 10 miles west of here, were the place of appeasement for the Grand Manitou. Human sacrifices were still made there when Etienne Brule discovered the islands in the early 1600s.

Lake Manitou, largest of the island's inland lakes, is heavily shrouded with legend. On the north side is Manitou's footstool where the god sat down to rest. Indian maidens still go there to make their wish for handsome husbands.

Appeal Dismissed

TORONTO, June 22 (CP).—An appeal against a life sentence for manslaughter by Thomas Burnham of Hamilton was dismissed in court Thursday when Burnham told the court he couldn't raise $300 for transcripts of evidence. Burnham, a Mohawk Indian, was sentenced in connection with the slaying of his common-law wife, Mrs. Martha Stone who died in hospital from a beating suffered in a Hamilton taxi office last Oct. 13. Originally charged with murder, Burnham was convicted of manslaughter.

FOR THE RECORD

The present campaign of IUE in a last desperate effort to win votes relies on attempts to confuse CGE workers and the public. This places an obligation on the UE to expose some of their false claims.

They brag of "the mighty IUE, the world's most modern Union." Where is the substance for such a boastful title? There is no substance at all.

ON THE CONTRARY

Any agreements the IUE has signed in Canada or the U.S.A. has been AT THE BEST an adoption of the former UE Contracts. In many cases they have actually given up hard won rights established in UE Contracts.

Has this "most modern" outfit done any organizing? No! It can hardly show an IUE contract for hitherto unorganized plants.

Is IUE a solvent organization? No! Its one convention heard a financial report which showed they spent one million dollars of money given or lent to them by CIO and the Steel Union. It confessed it didn't even know how to pay its salaries, but that didn't stop their boss Jas. B. Carey from setting himself a salary of $10,000 (plus expenses).

What about the "powerful CIO" which spawned the "mighty IUE"?

IUE leaflets claim six million CIO members are supporting it. But CIO's annual financial statement of a few months ago showed CIO has dwindled down to approximately three million due paying members since it substituted explosions and political domination and "cannibalism" for its former policy of organization and higher living standards.

And the "great CCL"?

Its last convention revealed a gaping deficit, the inevitable result of raiding and bondage to a political party.

What have CIO and CCL ever done for electrical workers? They have never given a cent in support of any struggle of electrical workers who always paid their way in CIO and CCL.

The IUE-CIO is like a bass drum—noisy but hollow

WHAT ABOUT UE

- UE has adhered to the original policies of CIO and CCL, which set out the principles of "organize the unorganized, struggle militantly for higher living standards and for freedom for workers, full autonomy for all affiliated unions, and no political interference or domination"
- UE has co-operated with every union of CIO-CCL when such unions were fighting for their workers' interests, and has helped to organize workers into these unions.
- UE Members have helped finance struggles of workers in almost every CIO-CCL union.
- UE has blazed a trail of increasing benefits to its members.
- UE was first in Canada to bring three weeks' vacation to the bulk of its members and to bring 8 paid statutory holidays into practically every agreement
- UE leadership can be recalled at any time by majority vote of its members. While CIO-CCL unions like steel, rubber, auto, each year add longer terms of office and higher salaries to its leaders.

THESE ARE BUT A FEW FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW.

One further item: Every CIO or CCL union which at anytime fought hard against the IUE, called communist.

That CIO-CCL can find no other argument against UE than red-baiting, means they have deserted the workers' struggle and seized upon the very weapons the employers forged to destroy unions.

Australia Has Large Group Of Pensioners

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — In 1921 there were 14 workers to every person eligible for a pension in Australia. By 1949 there were fewer than eight workers for every pensionable person.

In the last 30 years the number of persons old enough to be eligible for a pension (65 for a man, 60 for a woman) has increased from 318,000 to 863,000—an increase of 171 per cent. Total population has grown by 53 per cent from 5,500,000 to 8,250,000.

The other 60 per cent fail to qualify under the means test. Under this test the amount of pension diminishes as the private income of the pensioner exceeds 30 shillings a week, and disappears when the combined income of a married couple reaches £7/10/- a week. Ownership of property (other than a residence) worth more than £1,000 disqualifies for a pension.

Age pensions at present cost £38,000,000 a year. There has been persistent pressure for abolition of the means test. This would cost £50,000,000 a year.

Those who want the means test abolished say that it is keeping a large number of elderly people out of useful part-time work and with labor scarce in Australia this is an important consideration.

Finding Traces Of Civilization 5,000 Years Ago

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — An ancient civilization of 5,000 years ago is being uncovered in the Rajasthan Desert near Pakistan's frontier.

Indian archeologists there today say pottery discoveries made so far indicate a discovery that might rival that of the Indus River Valley civilizations unearthed in 1920 at Mohenjo Daro and Harappa, two present day cities.

These two cities covered the remains of several more built one on top of the other. Those excavated dated back 5,000 years.

Even then people had bath-rooms, the Mohenjo Daro diggings showed. They also had drainage, fine pottery and wheeled carts and implements for cultivating the fertile land on which they lived.

Jewellery and stone sculpture unearthed proved their high artistic gifts.

Work On Eight Sites

The new excavations began last fall and are being postponed until after the summer months when work will begin on eight selected sites.

Plans are to lay bare cities lying near the dry bed of what was once the River Ghaggar.

Just as the river dried up and disappeared so did the land of Sind in which lay ancient Mohenjo Daro, a well-laid-out city with a great public bath and broad streets running at right angles.

In those far-off eras Sind was a fertile, well-watered country, something like the Ganges Delta. But now it is waterless, arid desert with no trace of its former greatness.

Find Coolie, Duster Coats Most Popular At Ascot

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

ASCOT, Berkshire, England (CP) — Blustering winds, grey skies and intermittent sunshine at the Royal Ascot race meeting gave another boost to this year's No. 1 fashion favorite, silk and cotton duster coats.

Smart women in tailored suits and dresses picked three-quarter-length coolie coats in taffeta and grosgrain, while those wearing light summer dresses with full skirts chose wide pyramid coats of the same materials.

A lovely tailored combination was a tight-fitting black dress with high Chinese neckline roped in pearls, and a faultless white grosgrain three-quarter coolie coat with quilled figuring at pockets and sleeves. Worn with big black straw hat and low-cut high-heeled pumps, it had a smart sophisticated simplicity that made the light summer dressed look over-dressed.

A smart Japanese kimono style with gold-traced figuring was worn by film-star Streea Gynn, but most women picked plain coats without patterning that could be combined with many different types of dresses.

Despite a considerable number of wide-skirted chiffon, silk and organza dresses with low necklines, it was definitely a tailored Ascot and the duster coat outweighed furs in popularity.

Queen Wore Yellow

Tailored suits, varied from grained moires shot with silver and gold to heavy brocades and light-weight wools. There were many satins and taffetas with varied patterning.

Two of the loveliest colors were worn by the Queen and Princess Elizabeth on the second day of the four-day meeting. The Queen wore a yellow gold with a depth of color that seemed to glow under dark skies. Her coat, hat and dress matched perfectly. Princess Elizabeth chose a deep hyacinth blue as colorful as a carpet of bluebells.

Despite four days of gusty winds, it was an Ascot of big hats. Outstanding model worn by Miss Rosemary Cornwall-Legh was made of interlaced white crepe paper, so light in weight it merely flapped in the strongest breeze and remained secure.

Picture hats ranged from light transparent organzas and chiffons to thick plaited straws such as the Egyptian style with front brim folded flatly back across the crown, the wide back brim coming to shoulder length.

Many tailored outfits depended completely on the color and perfection of accessories to break their severity. A white tailored grosgrain suit was livened by a cartwheel hat in crimson and a narrow crimson parasol. Gloves, shoes and bag were white giving the two touches of color a smart Parisian effect.

Smoking Ban Urged In U.K. Theatres

LONDON (CP) — The government has turned thumbs down on a strongly-backed parliamentary plea for a smokers' truce in Britain's theatres, movie houses, and other places of entertainment.

The latest drive to outlaw smoking in places of public assembly was launched by a woman—Miss Elaine Burton, Socialist member for Coventry. She described the practice as "an abominable act of discourtesy," involving the constant risk of fire. In the interests of their fellows, she thought smokers should be willing to declare a truce for the brief duration of a performance.

Toronto-born Beverley Baxter, who sits as Conservative member for Southgate, took up the cudgel in support of Miss Burton. One of Britain's foremost dramatic critics, Mr. Baxter said the dignity of the theatre would be restored if the "nuisance" were stopped. But with an apologetic nod to Miss Burton, he told the House that women were the worst offenders.

Women Start

All too often, he said, at the very moment when Hamlet is deciding to be or not to be, it is the women who elect to risk the life of their fellows by having a smoke. They fumble in their purses, pull out a case and extract a cigarette. Then out comes the lighter.

"In Carmen," he added, "there is a piece of music called 'Habancera,' and our lady friends start playing it on their lighters."

Geoffrey de Freitas, Home Office Under-Secretary, brought he debate to a sudden close by telling the House that neither the Home Secretary nor the Lord Chamberlain had the power to intervene. It was a matter for the discretion of the local councils.

As a non-smoker, however, he said he could not help feeling with Kipling that "A woman is a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

You might be likened to many other CIO Unions which have gone through a period of travail; yes, and struggle; yes, and victory — in the course of the past 11 years, and during that period you have made many magnificent contributions toward the well being of the people whom you are privileged to represent in this convention, and to the well being of the people all over the United States of America.

You are a part of the CIO. Your decisions oftentimes influence the judgment of the national body because of the tremendous interest you manifest in the progress of the movement to which you are affiliated.

Here you are today, 11 years later, sitting in a great auditorium representing a mighty constituency — one of the largest labor organizations in the United States, The United Electrical Workers, and you are only one of some 39 additional international unions now affiliated with the CIO. You were born out of the crucible of adversity, sacrifice and suffering, and you fought and you sacrificed and you bled, and you builded a great labor movement for which I believe you must feel today justly proud."

You were in the process of building your organization, and since that time I would say that, together with another three or four organizations of the Congress, the UE in Canada, on the basis of percentage increase, has made one of the most outstanding achievements in our Congress in building trade union organization. The record speaks for itself. I think that compared with two years ago you have roughly doubled your membership, and in addition there have been substantial achievements in building a membership up to this figure . . . substantial adjustments and increases in wages and a general all-round betterment of the wage and working conditions of your whole organization. I think that bespeaks not only the work of your officers but the integration and co-ordination of your whole organization in doing a job. Time To Call A Halt !

UE-GE WAR VETS SPEAK OUT

We, the UE-GE War Vets Committee, are a cross section of the fellows who fought in the war. We are not bragging about the fact. But we must refer to it, because it's time to call a halt to those irresponsible people who are attempting to confuse and divide CGE workers, by distorting the motives and actions of our Union.

We consider ourselves good citizens, as good as any in the country . . . and a whole lot better than some of those who wave the flag to serve their selfish or political interests.

The UE in Peterborough was organized in 1946. The returning vets played an important role in building UE. We saw, and still see in our Union our only hope of winning the freedom at home that we fought for overseas.

We are in full accord with the unanimous position taken by the Union at the last UE Convention that: "We say without equivocation that we would be in the forefront in fighting any aggression or invasion of our country, regardless of what country attacked us."

As Union people, and as war vets, we resent the aspersions cast at us by the officials of the IUE. There is nothing wrong in discussing peace — don't we all want it? There is always room for disagreements in our Union on all subjects affecting the welfare of the working people — wages, hours, holidays, job security, yes, and peace.

We are proud to be Members of a real Union like the UE, and will fight against the attempt of the IUE to gag us and our fellow GE workers. We oppose the effort at political domination that the IUE would foist on GE workers.

On June 26th, the big majority of war vets in GE will vote along with their fellow workers for the Union that we helped to build and that has brought us such good results — the UE.

No Marriage In Sight Then Concentrate on Career

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a daughter 25 years of age about whom I am very much concerned. She is intelligent, good-natured and well-mannered. But she is not pretty and seems to have no attraction for men and will probably never marry, yet if ever a girl was cut out for a home and all that goes with it she is. She has never had a boy friend or a date and I am afraid she never will. She has a very nice position now and in all probability will keep that for an indefinite period, but after that what?—MRS. B.

ANSWER: There are thousands upon thousands of girls like your daughter, Mrs. B., who must face the fact that in all human probability they will never marry. They have every quality that fits them to be splendid wives and mothers and homemakers, but for some reason they lack that intangible something that attracts men to women and their predestined fate is to go through life alone.

Has Same Chance As Boy

In the past such a lot was almost worse than death. But that is all changed now, thank heaven. Every girl now has just the same chance of achieving a happy, free, independent life as a boy has, and her wellbeing no more depends upon her getting married than his does upon him marrying. In both cases marriage is a highly desirable state, provided they get the right mates, but it is purgatory if they don't. So there you are, and there is no reason to feel that your daughter will have missed everything if she doesn't get a husband. There are a lot of good things in the world besides wedding rings.

The thing for the girl who is unattractive to men to do is first to realize that she will never marry and put all thought of a Prince Charming coming her way out of her mind. She must face the certainty that she must stand on her own feet and provide for herself and safeguard her future.

She must decide what she wants to do and put her back and her heart into it and learn how to do the sort of work that commands a high price. She must learn how to save her money and how to invest it so that when the day comes when she wants to retire she can do so.

There is no sex in work. It is the work that counts. Any intelligent, able-bodied young woman has just as good a chance to succeed as a boy has, and there is no more reason why her mother should be worried about her than she is about her son.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband works for his Dad for a very small salary each week. We can barely pay our bills on what he gets, and never have a chance to save at all. Now we are going to have a baby. His mother and father insist we can manage on what we get and we know we can't. My husband can get a better paying job, but he hates to hurt his mother and father by leaving them. What do you suggest?—M. R.

ANSWER: Parents can be funny, sometimes. They expect their children to work for them at a

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Suggest More People Get Breakfast Habit

By KAY REX

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The "breakfast" habit is a good one to get into—even if it does mean getting up 10 minutes earlier in the morning.

Nutritionists claim one of their biggest headaches is trying to wean the "white collar" crowd from starting the day on a cup of coffee.

"Get up a little earlier in the morning," says the experts. "And take time to eat!"

This applies to the young stenographer who does her cooking on a one-burner grill. It also goes for the office-boy who must buy his breakfast at the corner restaurant.

He could get there earlier—and therefore take time to eat more.

She could get up when the alarm goes off and prepare a tasty meal on that grill.

Suggested Menu: Orange juice (as an eye-opener)—and it's a good idea to prepare this just before the meal. Experts claim it loses in food value if left standing over night.

Cereal—Any whole grain ready-to-eat preparation is suitable in summer.

A boiled egg and buttered toast with jam.

Coffee. This may sound out of all proportion to anti-breakfastites. However, we'll bet they'll come around if they give it a fair chance.

The Family Breakfast

Some chilly morning mother might vary the morning menu by serving pancakes instead of the usual bacon-and-egg routine.

Ingredients: 1½ cups flour; one-third teaspoon salt; three teaspoons baking-powder; one egg; one cup milk; two tablespoons melted shortening or salad oil.

Sift dry ingredients; add beaten egg, milk and melted shortening. Mix well and drop by spoonfuls into a hot greased frying-pan.

When bubbles appear, turn cakes and brown on other side. Serve immediately with crisp bacon and corn syrup.

Eggs "New Look"

Egg-in-nest is one way to surprise father when he says he wants an egg for breakfast. Carefully separate yolks from whites of the required number of eggs. Beat whites until stiff and dry and put on lightly buttered pieces of toast. Make a slight indentation in the centre of each and place unbroken egg yolk. Salt and pepper to taste. Brown in warm oven.

Federal health department officials suggest a glass of milk, buttermilk or fruit juice when the youngsters come seeking a between-meal lunch. This plus a light sandwich or cookies should satisfy young appetites until supper-time comes around.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Sugarless Jams Require Experts Sterilizing Method

These jams that diabetic readers are asking for are very simple to make—but this is a large BUT—they are not simple to keep.

Since they contain no sugar and no other preservative they will ferment or mould without warming, within three or four days of being packed, if they are not sterile and sealed.

The one who is in charge of the preserving must be so aware of and trained in sterilizing technique that she knows as much as a graduate nurse would know about sterilizing a doctor's instruments.

I cannot emphasize too much the necessity of sterilization. Although it is heartening to know it may be learned by anyone determined to learn.

The spoon you stir the jam with, the jars you pour the jam into, the paraffin you cover it with, or the rubbers and glasses and rings you seal it with—all must be subjected to 20 full minutes of boiling. The paraffin should be melted in a bowl or pitcher; this should stand in or over boiling water, covered, for one-half hour.

Never touch the edges of jars, or spoons or lids with your finger tips. Have sterilized forks or clips for this.

Before proceeding with the jam recipe below put five 4-ounce gardenias on a small black and white print. But always you risk the danger of competition between two fashion focal points. Prints have enough interest in themselves, ask only for a very simple accessory touch like white gloves, earrings or beads which carry out the theme color of the frock. A lithe, slim-bodied figure can stand flowers on a hipline pocket, or tucked in at the décolletage of a dinner or evening frock.

Then there's a way of carrying flowers for a cool touch on a hot summer day. Thread long-stemmed artificial flowers through the strands of one of those loosely woven straw purses. An original and individual personality accent . . . but always carry it with a plain frock and keep your other accessories to an unobtrusive minimum.

glass jars on to boil 20 minutes.

Sugarless Strawberry Jam

Five well-packed cups strawberries which are perfectly fresh and perfectly ripe; 4 tablespoons glycerin, 1 teaspoon certo crystals, 12 sucaryl tablets.

Wash the strawberries under running water in a strainer before hulling. Hull berries, dry them by hulling onto a towel, then cut in quarters and measure 5 cups, pressed down a little. Mash these in a pot with potato masher. Boil gently 15 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and stir with sterilized spoon over medium heat for 5 minutes longer. Drain out excess water which is in the 4-ounce jars which you have sterilized, but do not invert them on anything or rim will be contaminated, then pour jam into them from sterilized pitcher or cup with pouring spout. Immediately seal with sterilized new paraffin. Add a second boiling hot coat when first thick coating sets. Cover with wax paper or lids that fit. If it is practical for you put your jams in one-half or pint jars and seal with sterile rubbers, glass tops and rings.

Sugarless Strawberry and Rhubarb Jam

Two and one-half cups each quartered choice berries (see method of preparing in above recipe) and young tender red rhubarb cut in 1-2 - inch lengths. Mash berries in pot, add cut rhubarb and cook over low heat until rhubarb softens. Mash it with potato masher and let cook gently for 10 minutes longer. Add 15 sucaryl tablets, 4 tablespoons glycerin and simmer, stirring for 5 minutes longer. Pour into sterile 4-ounce jars and seal, observing all sterilizing precautions as outlined above.

MORE SUGARLESS JAM RECIPES WILL BE GIVEN YOU AS THE FRUITS COME INTO SEASON.

ARTICLE 4

This is the month for flowers to bloom successfully in your wardrobe scheme. And you'll be as careful selecting them as if you were choosing and arranging the real thing on your dining-room table. If your chinaware is a deep, rosy pink you would never expect to show it off with yellow daffodils and yellow candles. So should the artificial flowers you wear be picked with a shrewd eye as to what their color mutations will do for your skin tones, your eyes and hair. It's all too easy to be swept away by the delicate beauty of this spring's make-believe poses, only to find that instead of giving you a wonderful lift, the sun total adds up to an off-key wilted effect. Disappointing! The lass with the deep blue eyes will choose a great bunch of violets or pansies and presto her eyes take on an even deeper violet depth.

High, ruddy complexions are not enhanced by a blushing cabbage rose. The green-eyed one will marvel at the flattery of a green silk orchid at the neck of her white blouse. A big handful of brown-eyed susans impart a golden glow to brown eyes. And white field daisies intensify that wide-eyed naive look! Your test is to hold a flower at your chin and peer into the nearest counter-mirror. The mirror will tell you which is fairest of them all . . . on you.

If you're petite, don't overload yourself with too large flowers or ponderous nosegays. And if you're the tall, tweedy type could be that flowers are not for you.

Where to wear them? At the throat of a suit, blouse or dark frock. Study the effect on others and you'll find that artificial flowers are only at their smartest, French chic when worn either with a blouse or plain dress or suit. The exception is the touch of real-looking Parma violets on a snappy pastel plaided tweed. Violets are about the only flowers which look right on tweeds. Never wear artificial flowers on a polka dot or printed silk. The exception might be field daisies or

Report Reds Fighting Back Along Front

Signs Show Chinese Getting Ready For New Offensive

TOKYO, June 23. (AP) — Bitter local battles flared today as Communist resistance stiffened all along the Korean battlefield. There were signs the Reds are getting ready for a new attack southward. Allied patrols drew more Communist artillery than they had in several days. Aerial observers spotted southward troop movements. Traffic was heavy between Hamhung and southwest of Wonsan on the east coast. The Reds mounted at least five probing attacks Friday and today on the east-central front—usual springboard for Communist attacks southward. All were repulsed.

US Sabre jets knocked two more Communist MIGs out of the sky and damaged three others on Friday for their fifth straight victory over the Russian-made planes. The Fifth Air Force said one Sabre failed to return.

The score in five days of aerial combat is 11 enemy planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and 21 damaged. Allied losses were two planes destroyed and two missing.

Heckler Plane

An American B26 pilot reported he shot down a night-flying bi-plane. The Fifth Air Force said it was the type of craft that had been making heckler flights over UN lines.

Front-line officers have been predicting the Communists will throw a limited offensive attack against the UN line about Monday, first anniversary of the war. Few think the Reds have had time to build up for an all-out offensive after the pasting they took in May.

Allied patrols in the extreme west made only slight contact. But two patrols probing northwest of Munsan and Korangpo were forced to withdraw. Munsan is 21 miles northwest of Seoul on the main northward road to Kaesong. Korangpo is 30 miles north of Seoul.

A patrol found fiercely-resisting Reds west of Chonwon, southwestern anchor of the one-time Red iron triangle build-up area. There enemy artillery forced them to withdraw. Mortar and artillery fire rained down on a UN patrol that drove to within tank-fire range of Ponggang, apex of the former iron triangle. It was the nearest the Allies had been to the city since they re-entered it 10 days ago on a reconnaissance mission.

East of Kumhwa, southwest anchor of the former build-up area, a probing attack was repulsed. But northwest of Hwachon, on the western shore of the sprawling Hwachon reservoir, two Red companies forced two UN groups to withdraw after a night battle.

Tongay Trying Stay In England

LONDON, June 23. (AP) — Russell Tongay of Miami, Fla., said today he still hopes to get British permission for his five-year-old son Bubba to swim the Channel. "I'm going to have another stab at the immigration authorities this afternoon," he said.

The Tongay family—Bubba, his sister Kathy, 4, and his mother and dad—were detained by immigration authorities when they landed at London airport Friday. A spokesman for Britain's home office, which controls immigration, said Friday that "in view of their statement of what they planned to do here and the terms of the contract with which they came over, it was decided not to admit them to this country."

Little Chance Britain To Get Canadian Bacon

OTTAWA, June 23. (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Friday night there is little chance Canada will be selling any bacon to Britain this year. Replying to J. A. Charlton (PC-Brant-Wentworth), Mr. Gardiner said Canada has an understanding with London that if there is any bacon available at a price offered by Britain it will be purchased by the latter. There was no indication now that there will be any bacon available at this lower price.

CANADIAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS WERE ALMOST STRAINED when Texan Van W. Stewart of Perrytown, one of a party of 24 touring American weekly newspaper editors, tried to "blow the pipes" at a city-sponsored dinner on Friday at South Beach Hotel. While piper Angus Munro, right, grins his teeth at the fearful sound, Indian guide Rolly Taylor, between them, thinks it is fun; guide Sam Taylor, left, has not made up his mind either way, it appears.

Bad Rainstorm Hits Toronto, 2 People Killed

TORONTO, June 23. (CP) —

Two persons were killed and two others severely injured during a violent rainstorm which deluged Toronto and district Friday night. Patrol Sergeant Robert Battersby was electrocuted when he grasped a fallen transformer wire carrying 4,100 volts. He died instantly.

John Konterman, 23, of Hamilton, walking in the rain at Nelson, 12 miles northwest of Hamilton, was killed when struck by an automobile. Driver of the car, N. Schumaker, 34, of Chatham, told police he couldn't see the man in the driving rain.

Traffic north of Toronto's city limits was held up for an hour following a car-bus collision which sent four persons to hospital.

Two Badly Hurt Two of the occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McKenna of suburban Scarborough, were treated at hospital and released. None of the bus passengers was injured.

The storm was the second within three days to strike the Toronto area. Street cars and automobiles in the city were stranded by foot-deep pools of water which blocked subways and underpasses. Waves pured two feet deep over some sections of Toronto Island, and in some places water was up over porches.

Torontonians can expect more of the same during the weekend. Synopsis for Saturday and Sunday—rain.

Place Ban On Arms

MADRID, Spain, June 23. (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government announced Friday night it has placed a ban on arms shipments to Communist China and North Korea. There has been no indication however, that Spain has shipped arms to either country in recent years.

Country Boys Show City Razzle-Dazzle In Elections

WINNIPEG, June 23. (CP) — The country has stolen the show from the city in campaigns preceding twin federal by-elections in Manitoba Monday.

In the rural-urban riding of Brandon, observers report great excitement and interest following a campaign marked by many public meetings and a bit of razzle-dazzle; but in the urban riding of Winnipeg South-Centre candidates have followed generally colorless campaigns.

Observers look for a good vote and possibly a close result in Brandon. A light vote was indicated by a slim advance poll in Winnipeg.

In Brandon, two college professors are seeking the seat left vacant by the death of the Liberal member, J. E. Matthews. They are J. W. Grant MacEwan, 48, Liberal, and Walter Dinsdale, 48, Progressive Conservative. Mr. MacEwan is former Dean of Agriculture at the University

Even RCMP Can't Solve Row

TORONTO, June 23. (CP) — Everyone from the RCMP to the Anglican Bishop of Toronto has tried to settle the tangled affairs of St. Barnabas Church. They are no nearer a solution now than they were eight years ago. A dispute between two factions in the east end church, which has an average Sunday attendance of 400, began in 1943 when the rector, the Rev. H. W. Garbutt, was appointed on his return from seven years as a missionary in Nigeria. It has developed into a full-fledged quarrel with charges of "improper behavior," improper spiritual conduct, and Communism.

Britain Still Lacks Dollars Will Buy More In Canada

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON, June 23. (CP) — A warning that the UK dollar problem is far from solved was sounded Friday by Sir Hartley Shawcross, president of the Board of Trade. Before an audience, which included the Dominion's Governor-General Viscount Alexander, the speech was read at a luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, by A. G. Bottomley, secretary for overseas trade. Shawcross, stricken Thursday by a virus infection, was unable to attend.

"We must face realistically the fact that the outlook for the next 12 months is far from bright," the minister said. The extra volume of exports needed to counterbalance imports were imposing a burden on Britain's economy almost as great as the defence program itself.

Must Conserve Dollars

"We cannot therefore behave as though we had at our disposal unlimited dollars. We must still conserve them to enable us to bring in and pay for the sinews of our defence production."

Improvement in the dollar position, however, would enable Britain to import goods from Canada during the coming year 50 per cent in value above sales in 1950.

Britain fully appreciates Canada's desire to find markets for the products of her manufacturing industries, Shawcross said. It was important, however, to move cautiously as nothing could be worse than to relax trade barriers prematurely only to find it necessary to reimpose them later in a hurry.

"Indeed, I think nothing has done more harm to Anglo-Canadian relations since the war," he added, "than the restrictions on

May Use Liner As Transport

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., June 23. (AP) — The passenger liner

United States, which was floated in her drydock early today, was conceived and built primarily as a troop transport in the event of war, her operators disclosed today.

John M. Franklin, president of the United States Lines, in a speech prepared for ceremonies christening the $70,000,000 superliner, said:

"We face . . . the solemn fact that we are in a period of world confusion and crisis. Against the possibility of such an emergency, this mighty ship was conceived, planned and constructed, basically and primarily, as a naval transport, for immediate use as a troop ship if war must come."

The 51,500-ton United States, largest and fastest passenger ship ever built in the United States, has many closely guarded secret defence features which make her readily convertible into a transport capable of carrying 14,000 troops. She is the third largest ship in the world, bowing only to Britain's Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth.

Tried For Espionage Swede Tells UK Plan

STOCKHOLM, June 23. (AP) — A Swedish businessman, defendant in a hitherto-secret 1943 espionage proceeding released on Friday by the Cabinet, told of an alleged British plan to force Italy out of the Second World War in 1941 by buying the whole Italian navy.

The defendant, J. H. Walter, said he was proposed as an intermediary between the British Legation here and the Italian government because of his good relations in Italy. According to his testimony, Britain was willing to pay £100,000,000. The vessels were to go to Britain or the US, he said.

(There was no official comment on Walter's story available in London.)

Because of his foreign dealings, Walter was arrested by the Swedish security police, charged with illegal information activities and sentenced to prison.

Murder Weapon Believed Found

LITTLE CURRENT, June 23. (CP) — Police believe they have found the weapon responsible for the death of Levi Bob, 54, of Manitoulin Island, who was fatally shot here Thursday.

Frank DeBassige, West Bay Indian, is being held in Sudbury jail on a charge of murder.

Police would not divulge where they found the weapon but said it is a .32 calibre automatic pistol. Bob died from a bullet wound in the right chest.

Inspector Donald Nicol of the Provincial Police arrived here Friday from Toronto and assumed charge of the investigation.

Dr. M. J. G. Lynch, pathologist at the Sudbury General Hospital, performed a post mortem Friday and found death due to hemorrhage of the right lung.

Bob was found in tall grass within 200 feet of the home of Police Chief Westley Taylor of Little Current. He was bleeding profusely from the mouth and nose. He was taken to hospital where he died.

World Court To Hear Oil Dispute

Iranian Extremists Search Technicians Leaving Offices

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, June 23. (AP) — The World Court announced today it will start hearings next Saturday in the critical oil dispute between Iran and Britain.

The Iranian government has nationalized the oil industry in Iran—mainly the British-owned billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—and the British government has opposed this action with vigor.

The court's announcement said it would first hear the British government side. Thirteen of the 15 judges are expected to be present, including Soviet Judge S. B. Krylov, at present indisposed.

The British appeal, seeking what amounts to an injunction against Iran, was filed yesterday. Iran already has declared that so far as the court is concerned, the judicial branch of the United Nations—has no jurisdiction in the case.

Court officials said Friday night a copy of Britain's request for interim measures in the critical oil dispute, handed in by British ambassador Sir Philip Nichols, was being airmailed to Tehran. By the rules of the court such an application must be regarded as an urgent matter and given priority over other matters.

In Tehran, a gang of young Iranian extremists patrolled the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's head office here today, frisking oil men as they left.

They said they were ensuring that the British technicians did not attempt to smuggle out important papers.

The Britons called the police and officers warned the gang off the streets.

They were members of the Iranian Nationalist front — big political power behind Iran's seizure of the British-controlled oil industry.

Coming To Standstill

Hardy Company To Build School

The tender of the George Hardy Construction Company was accepted by the Peterborough Separate School Board for the new elementary school to be built immediately north of the present St. Peter's High School and situated on the property of the St. Cecilia's convent.

The school fully equipped and not including property will cost $575,000 and will be completed and ready for occupancy by September 1, 1951. It will have 12 classrooms, a gymnasium and an auditorium.

The tender of George Hardy Construction Co. for the general contract including the electrical trade was for $432,000. Adamson and Dobbin were awarded the plumbing and heating contract for $39,549 and the Brooks Marble and Tile Co. Toronto the terrazzo flooring and tile for $28,536.

Bull Puts On Show

WASHINGTON, June 23. (AP) — A government bull named SX-104 broke loose from attendants Friday and frightened everyone in a dairy barn except Ecuadorian President Galo Plaza, once a bullfighter. The incident occurred at the Experimental Farm at Beltsville, Md., while the visiting president was inspecting new breeds of livestock being developed by experts.

Search Jungle For Missing American Plane

DAKAR, French West Africa, June 23. (AP) — Search was resumed at dawn today for a New York-bound Pan-American Constellation with 40 persons aboard which vanished into the steaming African jungle early Friday.

French, American and Liberian rescue planes flew low over the trackless waste as native tribesmen hacked their way along crocodile-infested streams into the rain-soaked bush.

They reported no trace of the four-engine giant plane which disappeared while heading for an emergency landing at Roberts Field, Liberia, during a tropical drizzle. The pilot had radioed that the radio beam to his next scheduled stop, Dakar, had blacked out and he was turning to the Liberian airport.

He asked for landing instructions and since that request nothing has been heard.

On Regular Flight

The plane was on a regular flight from Johannesburg, South Africa, to New York via Leopoldville, Belgian Congo; Accra, Gold Coast; Dakar; Lisbon, Portugal and the Azores.

A magnet gave trouble while crossing the Congo, but was changed at Accra, according to reports from that Gold Coast town. The crew of nine was American and four of the 31 passenger were booked through to Idlewild Airport, N.Y.

Among the passengers was William Ross Storey, an executive of the Ford Motor Company of Canada at Windsor, Ont. He was recently appointed manager of the company's overseas operations and was on a trip to South Africa and Britain.

The area where the plane disappeared is at the base of the African hump, just across the South Atlantic from Brazil, about 500 miles north of the equator.

BC Meat Theft Ring Smashed By Police

VANCOUVER, June 23. (CP) — A major meat theft and distributing ring operating here has been smashed, police reported Friday night.

They said four persons have been charged, adding that "more summonses are pending."

Charged with theft of $7,200 worth of assorted meats from their employers, Gainer's Meat Products Ltd., were Howard Lounsbury, 33, and John H. Harrison, 28.

Charged with receiving stolen goods were Norman Watson, 36, and Stanley F. Johnson, 39.

Police said Watson and Johnson were co-owners of a meat market here.

Didn't Notice 2nd Vehicle Chums Say

3 Children Returning From School At Time of Accident

Eight-year-old Jackie Neish died in Civic Hospital Friday afternoon two hours after he was hit by a car on Highway 28, a mile north of Nassau. Driver of the car was Gordon Longley, 32, of Leaside. It is expected that no charge will be laid. The accident happened about 2:30 p.m., when Jackie and two school chums were preparing to hitch-hike home after walking from school to the highway. Jackie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Neish, live on the highway 1½ miles north of the scene.

When they reached the highway, they saw a truck driving north, and waited for it to pass. When it passed, Jackie started to walk across the road.

Didn't Notice Car

A southbound car he had not seen struck him and carried him about 35 feet. A doctor in a passing car attended to the boy while another motorist telephoned for an ambulance. Harold Smith, who lives a short distance down the road opposite the scene of the accident, phoned police.

Jackie was rushed to hospital, and died at 4:30 p.m. He suffered internal injuries and severe gashes on his head.

The two children who were with him told their story simply. They are Peter and Linda Pearson, 8 and 6, who live with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Pearson, just south of the Neish home.

Yelled Warning

Peter said: "We were standing right at the corner and we were watching a truck coming from Peterborough. Then I saw the car coming."

"I told him not to go across but he had his big rain hat on and I guess he didn't hear me. The car hit him and took him down the road a way."

Maritime Strike Partly Settled

NEW YORK, June 23. (CP) — Shorter hours and higher wages brought CIO seamen back to their Atlantic and golf coasts jobs today, but shipping operators still must settle with radio operators and engineers.

Federal mediators announced "complete agreement" between some 40 shipping companies and the CIO National Maritime Union late Friday night after day-long negotiations.

The conciliators then expressed hopes the same companies would settle with the American Radio Association (CIO) and the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (CIO) at meetings today.

Joseph Curran, NMU president, said he expected the agreement for his union would set the pattern for the two smaller unions. Curran said NMU operations would be back to normal by midnight tonight. But whether American-flag ships resume sailings depends largely on the radio men. Maritime law forbids vessels to sail without a radioman.

5 Argentine Officers Held In Revolt Plot

BUENOS AIRES, June 23. (AP) — Five Argentine army officers are under arrest charged with trying to stir a revolt against the government. Announcement of the arrests came on the heels of press reports that a plot was afoot to assassinate President Juan D. Peron and his wife.

The army ministry said Friday night the five officers were arrested in connection with an investigation of military personnel believed involved in "a plan to create confusion and disrupt public order." The probe, it said, "had been disclosed in the newspapers."

All week pro-government papers have been running banner headlines about an alleged plot to topple the government and slay Peron, his wife and other high officials.

Unconfirmed reports have circulated recently that 35 young officers have been questioned in connection with the supposed plot.

Forest Fires Under Control

By The Canadian Press

Forest fires flared Friday in four provinces but most of them were reported checked by rain or controlled by forestry workers.

Flames which for a time menaced the small Quebec community of Ste. Therese de Colombier, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, were reported checked. Forestry officials said the village, 180 miles north-east of Quebec, is not in immediate danger.

British Columbia reported 21 fires in dry timberlands, both on Vancouver Island in the vicinity of Vancouver, in the southwest corner of the mainland.

A forest service official in Vancouver said 14 new fires were reported Friday and the situation was "not good."

Scattered rainfall in Alberta and Saskatchewan reduced fire hazards but the Alberta forestry division said the danger remained serious in all wooded areas.

Neither Candidate Will Have Majority

FALHER, Alta., June 23 (CP) — Liberal Joseph Roman Desjardes Friday night slightly lengthened his lead in the Grouard provincial by-election over Douglas McLaughlin, Social Credit candidate.

But a second count is certain because neither will have a clear majority, a necessity under the single transferable vote system of counting used in one-member constituencies in Alberta.

Returning Officer Garard Levesque said he expects the second count to begin next Wednesday. This will involve counting the second choice on the ballots.

Science Develops a "Wrist-Ear" for the Deafened

What is believed to be the nearest approach to perfect human hearing has finally been achieved with the aid of a tiny electronic "ear" which is worn on the wrist hidden under the sleeve of the coat, shirt or blouse.

This tiny "Wrist-Ear," because of the way it is worn, eliminates most of the objection the hard of hearing have against conventional hearing devices. You wear it on your wrist to gain advantage that not even your head can give you! In this manner you can hear in all directions, understand everything being said, and it arouses no curiosity because it is always worn under the sleeve.

This amazing new development may be seen and tried without cost or obligation at Acousticon Quinte Co., 172½ Hunter St. W., Peterborough, Ont., Phone 22528; or, a FREE illustrated booklet will be sent by writing to Public Education, Dept. 6, Acousticon Laboratories, Jamaica 1, New York.

Persian and Mexican Oil

There is a wry paradox in the Iranian situation. The British government which has nationalized so many of its own industries has refused to accept nationalization of the Persian oil industry. That is a superficial view. The British Government has not disputed the right of a sovereign state to take possession of property in its own territory. As the major shareholder in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company it objects to the method which the Persian (or Iranian) Government has used to bring about nationalization. It has unilaterally denounced a contract. As a result of this denunciation, a condition has been created in international contractual relations. These depend either on the willingness to governments to carry out contracts without compulsion, or to do so under force—armed force.

No decision of an International Court can be binding on a Government, for instance, the Persian Government, unless that Government is willing to abide by the decision. Every time a Government repudiates an agreement the foundation of all international contracts is shaken. Can anybody, ever confidently deal with the Persian Government? Perhaps the logic of economics may compel Persia to negotiate properly.

Mexico provided a parallel more than a decade ago. There was a rash and hurried nationalization of oil there. The industry was dislocated and production fell to less than a quarter. It was not long before Mexico came to terms. The Persian oil industry is infinitely more important, industrially, economically and politically.

The wells are the largest in the world. Many countries, especially Middle East ones, depend on them. If supplies are reduced, or there is a complete stoppage, the repercussions would be grave. Persia itself would be the worst hit. Its budget would be thrown impossibly out of balance. There would be unemployment (the Company employs 70,000 Persians).

The Persians have no love for Russia, nor would want to surrender or sell out right their oil to the U.S.S.R. Nevertheless Russia is at her northern border. It is perhaps so that Russian practice since the war is to get other nations to fight her battles—and there is no China to wage war in Persia for her. Nevertheless, the Company has estimated that there are two or three hundred fully-fledged members of the Communist-controlled Tudeh Party among its employees. They can spread rumour and stir up unrest among people whose only newspaper—a Company Persian-language one, has been suppressed. It was the only regular daily in Abadan.

France At Our Very Gate

We notice with interest that the voters of St. Pierre and Miquelon are conservative. In the recent elections for the French National Assembly they returned a middle-of-the-road (though there are no roads to speak of at either place) candidate, a Socialist Party supporter, M. Savary Atain. In France the Socialists are almost as conventional as the Radicals. The de Gaulle candidate polled only 932 votes and the right-of-centre candidate 105 votes. M. Atain received 1,306 votes.

St. Pierre and Miquelon (the doublet trips off the tongue like bread-and-butter, fish-and-chips, mild-and-bitter) are thus to be conservatively represented in the new Assembly at Paris. M. Atain will sit for more than the two islands in the Gulf. St. Pierre and Miquelon are merely the largest of two groups of islands which have all told an area of 93 square miles—one fifth the size of Peterborough County—and a population, roughly of four thousand. Actually, the Miquelon group is the larger; its area is 83 square miles, which leaves only ten square miles for the St. Pierre group. St. Pierre always bulks larger in people's thinking, perhaps because it is the first in the double name and also has all but 600 of the people. There is a town of St. Pierre on St. Pierre.

The French colonial islands are ten miles off the coast of the Province of Newfoundland. Why this French territory full of French-speaking people and rum practically within the boundaries of Canada? It is the result of a deal the treaty-makers concocted after the Seven Years' War (Wolfe and all that) at the Peace of Paris in 1763. The islands were occupied by the French in 1866 and fortified in 1700. In 1702 they were captured by the British and held until 1763 when they were given back to France as a fishing station—they are at the Grand Banks. But all was not peaceful with St. Pierre and Miquelon until after the Napoleonic Wars. They were taken by the English in 1778, restored to France in 1783, again captured and depopulated by the English in 1793, recovered by France in 1802 and lost again in 1803. But since 1814 (the Congress of Vienna) they have been in the undisputed possession of France.

No Canadian is likely to quarrel about this only remnant of France's colonial empire remaining in her eastern gulf so long as men of M. Atain's disposition continue to represent it in French parliaments as friendly to Canada as they have been for the last century—1940-45 excepted. Both groups of islands are rugged masses of granite, of little use to man or beast except for cod-fishing harbours and a profitable trade in rum-running and tourists.

Our Oldest Driver

William O'Brien of nearby Downeyville is buying a new car, as readers of our news columns know. He is replacing his 1928 Essex whose self-starter is a bit of a bother when he wants to drive himself down to Omeme. Mr. O'Brien was 98 last May. We congratulate him on being apparently hale and hearty, and wish him good luck with his new car. At the same time we marvel at the temerity of the Ontario Registrar of Motor Vehicles who blithely continues to renew, sight unseen, a driving permit to a person aged 98.

Not for a moment would we wish to deprive the grand old Irish native of this district of his right to drive on our highways. His claim to being the oldest driver in the Province is too proud to be lightly shattered. But we would like some assurance, against the time we meet Mr. O'Brien purring down the road in his spanking new car, that the 98-year-old gentleman is not only a driver of long experience (we know that already), but also an alert, physically able and competent driver.

Mr. O'Brien of course has his official licence to drive. Why then should we be so fussy? The Department of Highways, through its Registrar's Branch, has never required proof of competence from most drivers now around or over fifty. (Driving tests were made compulsory only in the late twenties; those who had been driving cars before that time continued to renew their permits without tests.) Drivers of seventy and eighty years of age get their permits renewed without tests and medical certificates, often by mail. Why pick on a gentleman of 98 who has never had an accident in his life?

Not for the world would we single out Mr. O'Brien. The whole caboodle of drivers who have never been tested should be required to prove now their fitness and competence. And all drivers, tested five or ten years ago or not, all drivers, should periodically have to undergo tests before their driving permits are renewed. The automatic renewal of driving licences in this province, on the payment of a couple of dollars is disgraceful and dangerous. It is licence in the worst sense—licence to menace.

Fast Mail and Slow

It is common now for a letter posted in England to be delivered to a Peterborough address within two days. It is also common for a letter posted in Toronto to be received by its Peterborough addressee two days later. This instance of speed and delay is characteristic of the times. So complex is the organization of our society that mail travels 3,000 miles as quickly as it does eight.

Gains are offset by losses. The Post Office has become so efficient that it can transport a letter from London England to Peterborough, Ontario in 48 hours; so tied up in its own machinery that it cannot guarantee that a letter posted in Peterborough will reach a Toronto address under 48 hours. Perhaps the reason is that there are three flights a day from Britain, only one delivery a day within Canada.

Banning Shipments To China

As a palliative to American queasiness the United Kingdom has now banned the shipment of strategic goods to Communist China through the Crown Colony port of Hong Kong. Others than Americans will be relieved that this trade is being stopped, for it seemed insane to be permitting a known but undeclared enemy to receive comfort through Hong Kong. However, the Hong Kong people will look on the matter differently. With trade to China crippled the Colony will suffer grievously. Its chief sustenance is this trade. And, really, will the ban prevent China from getting the goods anyway? It will merely throw the lucrative trade into the hands of the Indonesian merchants. The ruin of Hong Kong will be Java's gain. Hong Kong will be wrathful about the harsh colonial hand of London.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The international bank at Basle, Switzerland, warns against the perils of cheap money. We know all about them, but what can we do to make money regain its self-respect?

Diary of a Visionary

by SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Spent some time planning a garden. I am always a little later than other people getting my garden in, but it is the autumn flowers, and asters in particular, which appeal to me. But while I made my careful map of my garden on ruled paper, as the garden book said to do, I reflected how hard it is to get a satisfying bed of annuals which sounds good when you describe it. Spiderflower and feverfew look well together, but they sound as though the garden has been planted by Frankenstein's monster. And though, Mourning Bride and Bouncing Bet make a nice combination, it seems to be tactless to put them together. As for bugbane, gasplant, tickseed and sneezeweed, nothing would induce me to plant them, pretty as they are. I would not know how to mention them to people who wanted to see my garden.

MONDAY: A tree in my garden has developed a nasty leaf disease, so today I consulted a man learned in such matters, and he gave me directions for spraying it. I have never sprayed a tree before, and look with pleasure toward a new sensation. I view myself in the character of Marchbanks, the Friend of the Trees. I have bought an impressive squirt, and a bottle of nicotine concentrate. If I understand the matter aright, I am to splash nicotine spray all over the tree, the parasite will eat it, and in the course of time will die of tobacco heart. The directions on the bottle of goo warn me that it is a poison, and that I must take care not to get it on my skin, not to breathe it, and not to take it internally—which latter warning seems unnecessary, as I have never felt any urge toward a nice hot cup of nicotine. I would like to start spraying at once, but I must contain my impatience, for a week of variegated boredom stretches before me, and little of my time will be my own until the weekend. But then—ah, then Marchbanks the arboriculturist will be revealed in all his skill and splendour.

TUESDAY: Fell asleep last night reading the Report of the Massey Commission, and dreamed a strange dream. In my dream I thought I saw a huge chorus of Cabinet Ministers, Members of Parliament, Social Workers, Professors, Teachers, presidents of women's clubs and other persons interested in the development of a Truly Native Culture, singing a cantata which, as near as I can remember from my dream, went like this:

Ding, dong,
Canadian Culture!
Art of a nation
On probation:
All desiring,
High aspiring,
Rather green
And distinctly tiring
Older lands
May sneer and scoff
When we try to begin
But are we discouraged?
No, not we!
While Canadian women
Can still drink tea,
Let us all ring Culture's knell:
I'll begin it—

In the realm of the picture painters
Our products are gobby and grim
It's believed that we go
For landscapes of snow
And a tree with a twisted limb.
But although we are dull, we are moral;
Though we're dreary, you can't say we're rude;
Though our painters may paint
Rocks and trees till we faint,
You won't catch one painting a n-d.

Ding, dong,
Canadian Culture!
Art of a nation
On probation:
Talent burning,
Public yearning,
Critics carping
And highbrows spurning.
No homage to Holland
Or Italy;
If they had a Renaissance
Why can't we?
Heart and soul
We all are in it,
We just need somebody
To begin it;
Let us all ring Culture's knell;
I'll begin it—

In the realm of the poem and novel
We have writers who huff and who puff;
They exhort and create
At a desperate rate
But they're not quite creative enough:
But although we are dull, we are moral,
And our passions are cool and not sultry;
In our books you'll find crimes—
Even murder at times,
But the one crime you won't find's d-i-l-ry.

Ding, dong,
Canadian Culture!
Art of a nation
On probation:
Minds creative,
Local, native,
Seek a wage
That is compensative,
We let them sow
But they shall not reap:
We all like art
But we like it cheap;
Let them know
Without delaying
Let us all ring Culture's knell;
They won't get paid
For simply playing;
I'll begin it—

Let us now turn our minds to art music,
Which we raise to a level pretentious;
But please don't let's talk
Of Beethoven and Bach,
For their art was emotional and sensuous:
Though our music is dull, it is moral,
We've no taste for Wagnerian swoons;
You can rummage and seek
Through our scores for a week,
And the one thing you won't find is t-n-s.

Ding, dong,
Canadian Culture!
Art of a nation,
Sheer frustration!
Faith abounding!
Words resounding!
What if it lacks
A thorough grounding?
What if you starve
For half your life?
Eat your children
And pawn your wife?
Strike it lucky

Brantford Studies Traffic

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

WELL-THOUGHT-OUT and comprehensive recommendations as to the solution of long-veged and now almost intolerable conditions of traffic congestion have been made by the Brantford and Suburban Planning Board. As reported, they are now in the hands of a special committee of the City Council.

The Planning Board has advised a partial system of one-way streets. This may be new to Brantford, but it is now a fairly well-used idea in several American cities. (In point of fact, the principle has been employed for many years and with excellent effect even in so ancient a place as London, England!)

More impatient citizens, acquainted with the case, may be irked by reason of the Planning Board's reluctance to go "all the way" and call for a full "grid-iron" scheme of one-way streets to cover the main part of the downtown community. However, radical changes are best made by stages, and that

It Breaks Tradition

(St. Catharines Standard)

A STUDIED and judicial review of the increased postal rates for newspapers and magazines in Canada by The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix, shows that traditions of the postal service, long established in Canada, to the end that citizens should have information from newspaper reading at the very minimum cost, have been broken. If there is such a thing as a subsidy it goes to the readers and not to the publishers, a very important point.

The Saskatoon paper submits that the estimate of the Postmaster-General that the Canadian post office will continue to lose $10,000,000 a year on the carriage of newspapers and periodicals is a somewhat misleading figure. It suggests that the loss is spread equally over all classes of mail that come into this group. This, of course, is not the case. For example, the department will continue to carry local weekly newspapers published in communities of less than 10,000 population for a distance of 25 miles without postage. It will continue to carry national publications from one end of the country to another for the same postage that it charges for delivery of the same type of material within a few hundred miles. In general, the rate of postage has very little relation to the amount of service that is involved.

Open Season on Birds

How Time Flies

JUNE 23

1921 Members of Victoria and Peterborough counties discuss plans to rebuild the bridge across Pigeon Creek. Local citizens are warned by health authorities to boil all drinking water. The finance committee of the council recommends a grant of $2,000 to the war memorial fund.

1931 All angle parking on city streets is prohibited under a new parking bylaw.

Melville M. Robinson, formerly of Peterborough, is a candidate for Conservative nomination in a Hamilton by-election. Dr. G. S. Cameron is re-elected to the executive of the Canadian Medical Association.

1941 The death occurs of Patrick Hickey, shoe merchant on Hunter St. for 60 years. John H. Jury, partner in the drug firm of McDermid and Jury here, dies in Bowmanville. Fire causes damage amounting to about $8,000 in the Raybestos plant.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John: who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw. (Rev. 1: 1, 2.)

After this I looked, and, behold, a door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter. And immediately I was in the spirit: and, behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne. (Rev. 4: 1, 2.)

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals. And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof. And I beheld, and lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth. (Rev. 5: 1, 5, 6.)

And I saw when the lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see. And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood. (Rev. 6: 1, 2.)

And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb. (Rev. 7: 1, 9, 10.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Marriage is an institution that teaches a man thrift, regularity and many other splendid virtues he wouldn't need if he stayed single.

"You love your girl, don't you?"
"Of course I do."
"Yet you mean to say you caught this fellow kissing her and you stand for it?"
"Well—er—yes. You see—"
"Why didn't you give him the hiding of his life?"
"I'm just waiting. Waiting, that's all."
"Waiting? What for?"
"Till I catch her with a smaller fellow."

A timid soul at a Mid-West prize-fight put all his fears in his pocket and told the tough guy in front of him to stop bobbing up and down. The tough guy got very annoyed and, turning round belligerently, said: "Whatta matter w' yuh? Yuh wanna fight?"
The timid soul considered a minute and then said: "I'll duel you."
The tough was startled, but decided to make the most of it. "Okay," he said, "choose yuh weapons and I'll duel yuh."
"Very well," the other answered. "Grammar, at twenty paces."

An Old Man Goes To Hospital

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

There will be little surprise, outside France at least, at the announcement that President Vincent Auriol of that country has commuted the former Marshal Henri Philippe Petain's life prison sentence to "permanent" confinement to hospital. It is a figure to arouse compassion, and the President's action had been widely expected internationally.

It was wise, in our opinion, to postpone the announcement of the decision until after the elections. That course was fair to all political parties, since the actual effect of the announcement would be unpredictable. The fact that some Frenchmen regard the aged former Marshal as a traitor, while some consider him a hero, and still others a misguided and broken old man, would have affected the vote in some manner, however, and the delay appears to have been well-advised.

There is a general feeling outside France that M. Petain acted through sincere conviction in collaborating with the Nazis. There is support for that feeling in the record of his earlier career, which was that of a most able, occasionally brilliant officer, devoted to serving his country honourably. A deeply religious man, he was also known to be perturbed at the Communist nature of much of the French resistance movement, and a man whose belief in church and country were inextricably intermingled might be influenced to act as M. Petain did.

However, he once served France in a manner which ranked him with that nation's great Marshals. His collaboration cannot be forgotten, but his part in saving the nation in 1914-18 may well be recalled to justify allowing a very old man to die in hospital instead of in prison.

Williams Crosses Up Boys To Clip Chicago Sox 6-5

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer.

So Ted Williams is no team player. Don't try to tell that to the Chicago White Sox.

Williams was a one-man gang at Fenway Park Friday night as the Red Sox clipped Chicago 6-5. Vern Stephens' game-winning two-run homer stole the headlines, but Williams put on a brilliant all-around exhibition—fielding, throwing and hitting.

Ted actually starred in the field. He raced to the scoreboard in left to make a sensational leaping stab of Chico Carrasquel's fly to save the game in the eighth. Chicago had knocked out Mel Parnell, scoring two runs and had men on second and third when Williams ended the threat.

In the fifth inning Ted's fine peg to Bobby Doerr cut down over-ambitious Joe de Maestri of the run-happy Sox trying to stretch a single into a double.

Chicago led 3-1 when Williams came up with one out in the third. He bunted—that's right—bunted, neatly down the unprotected third base line. A pass to Doerr and singles by Clyde Vollmer and Less Moss tied the score.

Crosses Up Boys

It was still 3-3 when Williams came up with two out and Billy Goodman on second in the fourth inning. Once more he crossed up the boys with a double off the left field scoreboard to break the tie. Stephens then smashed his 10th homer over the left field wall.

Randy Gumpert unbeaten with a perfect 7-0 record as a starter and relief ace, took the loss.

With Allie Reynolds throwing his second straight shutout, a six-single 6-0 job against Cleveland, the New York Yankees clipped Chicago's American League lead to 2½ games—the same margin they left home with two weeks ago.

Bucky Harris was rushed to a Washington hospital for observation while his Senators were losing to Detroit 7-3. Fred Sanford, the ex-Yank who threw a flashy three-hitter in his first Washington start, was knocked out by the Tigers in a six-run first inning.

Gus Zernial poked two home runs off Al Widmar as Philadelphia nudged St. Louis a little deeper into the cellar with a 5-2 win behind Alex Kellner. They were the 12th and 13th homers for Zernial who also had a single. He drove in three runs.

Tough Marathon

Brooklyn and Pittsburgh struggled through lightning trouble and showers in a damp marathon that finally ended at 1:55 a.m. EDT, about 4½ hours after it was supposed to start. Brooklyn won 8-4.

Bisons Check Syracuse Winning

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse Chiefs' 10-game winning streak is over today but it might have been prolonged if the Chiefs and Cincinnati Reds were still working together.

Syracuse and Cincinnati ended relations at the end of the 1950 season after many years of operation. The Reds sent some of their surplus talent this season to Buffalo Bisons including Rudy Mifflin, rookie righthanded mound prospect.

Minarcin halted the Chiefs' streak Friday night as he spurted a neat 1-0 two-hit victory. Minarcin walked six and fanned none in posting his seventh victory and received excellent support afield.

Minarcin also scored the only run of the game in the seventh inning. He scampored home on a passed ball. Jack Robinson was the hard luck loser. Robinson allowed only four hits.

Frank Marino pitched Springfield Cubs to a thrilling 1-0, 15-inning victory over Elmer Corwin and Ottawa Giants. Jack Wallasea Rochester Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs split a doubleheader. The Red Wings won the opener 7-6 on Hal Rice's two-out two-run homer in the final inning. The Leafs took the nightcap 3-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Irv Medlinger to snap an eight-game losing streak. The opening game setback marked the sixth straight game in which the Leafs have lost in the final or extra inning.

Charley Grant of the Leafs socked two homers in the first game and followed up with his 10th in the nightcap.

Own House You Live In Reap Long List Of Benefits

Did you ever enumerate the many forces which the ownership of the purchase of a new home set into motion? Just what are the direct advantages to you when the family acquires its own place to live? Here are a few advantages of home ownership:

1. Financial Independence—More people have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way.
2. Security—In time of stress the home is always something to fall back on.
3. Cash Equity—A home is much like a savings account, from which you draw your interest as you pay it.
4. Credit—Home ownership gives financial and credit rating in the business world because it is everywhere recognized as a fundamental principle of stability.

Helps Children

5. Social Background—The children of home-owning parents somehow seem to have a greater stake in the community.

6. Environment for Children—Your sons and daughters have the privilege of playing and spending recreation periods within the confines of land which is owned by the family and in which they have a personal interest. Improvements and additions can be made with no fear that your work will be wasted as is often the case when the family moves from a rented house.

7. Development of Responsibility—The home owner always feels a greater sense of responsibility for the preservation of his property; and, in any neighbourhood where home ownership predominates, building values and the appearance of the community are always much better than in a rental area.

8. Expression of Individuality—The opportunity to express on the interior and exterior of your home those personal ideas of yours which individualize your property as having been developed according to your own taste is worth much in personal contentment and satisfaction.

9. Permanence of Environment

Old friends are always best, and it is pretty difficult to develop life-long attachments which make living more pleasant, when we move from rented house to rented house in many different communities.

10. Character Development—The responsibilities of home ownership have contributed greatly to the development of good business judgment and trading acumen on the part of many home owners.

11. Independence—It is certainly a pleasure for the home owner to know that no one can raise his rent, order him to move, tell him how many pets he can have, restrict the size of his family, or comment in any way upon the development of the home.

12. Savings Habits—Most of our nations being habitual, it is easy for the home owner who has completed the purchase of his dwelling to continue systematic monthly savings.

13. Peace of Mind—We always live better when we know that come-what-may the paid-for house means always a roof over the family.

Ownership Preferred

In a recent poll designed to find out how people felt about home ownership, persons who were renting homes in several typical cities were asked questions. Four out of every five of the middle and lower-middle income groups preferred home ownership, providing they continued to get their present annual income.

Asked why they prefer their own home, 26 per cent said they liked the feeling of ownership; 23 per cent said they wanted a place they could fix up to suit themselves; 17 per cent stated they believed they could get better accommodations for less money; 10 per cent thought there were greater advantages for their children; 9 per cent said they would like to be able to do as they pleased.

Aside from these reasons there is one fixed factor: Whether you own a home or rent one, the same items have to be paid, and these items are: Interest on the money invested, taxes, insurance, and up-keep. When you own your home you must pay these four items. When you rent a house you must pay these four items plus the fifth, which is profit to the landlord—a profit to which he is entitled as long as you continue to require him to do for you what, often at even less expense, you can do for yourself. An occupant pays interest, taxes and insurance whether he rents or owns.

Hold CBC Conference

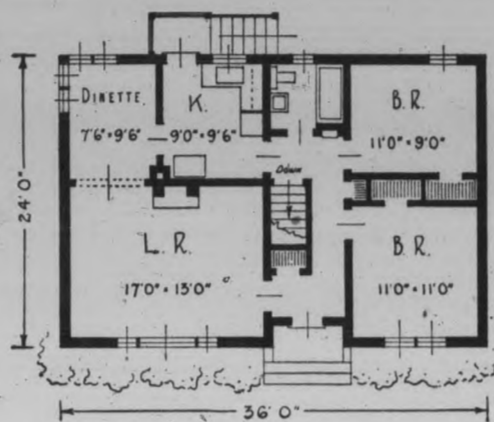

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP)—The nine-member CBC board of governors Friday concluded a two-day meeting during which recommendations of the Massey Commission on arts and science were considered. The sessions were held in private. The board also considered a number of applications, many of them dealing with transfers of shares in existing radio stations. Recommendations are expected to be made Monday.

Capital Expenditures

OTTAWA, June 23 (CP)—Projected capital expenditures in Canada this year by both private industry and Government now are estimated at $4,561,000,000 compared with a forecast of $4,328,000,000 at the start of the year. The trade department issuing a mid-year survey, reported Friday the largest part of the $233,000,000 increase takes the form of additional purchases of machinery and equipment by primary and manufacturing industries and utilities.

HOUSE No. 617. — There is certainly no pretence about this splendid two-bedroom bungalow — its charm lies in good proportion and honest handling of materials. There's a clean-cut quality in the planning also. A straightforward rectangular plan, walls carry through in straight lines for economy of construction. It would be hard to imagine a more compact, convenient room arrangement. The sheltered entrance lends a friendly note to the exterior. Facing east, lower part of the walls are of cedar siding, with stucco above. Colours: cream siding, white stucco, red roof, interior trim finished natural. This bungalow contains approximately 860 square feet. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Children, Guests Not Pests

By NANCY CLEAVER

"I want my child to be a guest, not a pest!" one poor mother exclaimed.

"But I've decided that visiting with a pre-school youngster is too much of a trial on my relatives, my child and on me, too. I think I'll wait for him to go visiting until he is older!"

If relatives are undesirable, if they like children, it is possible to have a happy visit, but it should be of a definite duration, and preferably a short one. It is always wise to leave when one's host and hostess are sorry to say "good-bye!"

A child's schedule should be observed as far as eating, sleeping and play go, but details can be a bit flexible while visiting. If an Aunt or Uncle or older friend offers to take a child for a walk, or to visit a park or playground, do accept the offer. A child and an adult who are attracted to each other can have a grand time on "a spree." Don't worry about your child's actions—he will likely be on his best behaviour when your watchful eyes are no longer observing his conduct.

It is a real adventure when a boy or girl is old enough to go on a visit all alone. An older child may be a bit homesick. But learning to be happy away from home is a valuable experience in the long slow process of growing up — of learning to stand on one's own feet.

One small girl, who for her age was a particularly nice guest, when visiting her aunt, was asked if she missed her parents. She replied, "I think about them, but I don't fuss about them. Mother doesn't want me to be a 'fusser'!"

A child on a visit should be encouraged to be a considerate and appreciative guest, fitting in with the family's plans and causing them as little trouble as possible. Visitors should be on time for meals and should eat what they are served. They should be thoughtful in using the bathroom, the phone and the radio. Their host and hostess will look to them to join in the conversation without arguing too much or talking all the time.

A boy or girl learns the art of being a good guest—one who is asked back—by having the chance to put into practice his mother's and dad's good advice.

The writing of a little thank you note or "bread and butter letter" by a visitor as soon as he has returned home, expressing appreciation to those who have entertained him, is very important. It is something every visitor who can write should do—no matter how young or old. This little courteous letter gives real pleasure to those who have gone to the trouble and expense of having a visitor in their home.

Longueuil on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, is one of the oldest parishes in Quebec, settled by Charles Lemoyne in 1657.

Site Selection Influences Cost, Appearance of House

The men and women who pioneered this country gave much thought to the proper selection of their homesites. It was often their margin of survival. Today the building of a home has become a more specialized undertaking. But the choice of a lot still requires careful thought on the part of the people who will own and live in the house. These decisions they make will influence the cost, appearance and convenience of their home. — Before choosing a lot you should have a definite idea of the type of house your family needs. For instance, a long, narrow lot would not be suitable if you were planning on a low, rambling style home.

When you are looking over a building site first attention will probably be given to the surface features. See that there are no outcroppings of rock, because this will seem expensive excavation. On the other hand, check the land to make sure that it is in its original state, and not just a gully or swamp filled in with loose earth. If this were the case, your house might settle far more than is ordinarily expected. A tree or two on the property is a good sign that it is in its natural condition.

The lot that slopes gently up from the street has many advantages from the standpoint of appearance and drainage. The one that slopes down from the street will mean less excavation work, but fill will be needed to bring it up to a satisfactory level. This type of lot also raises a number of drainage problems. The level site often requires terracing.

Killed By Fall

PORT ARTHUR, June 23 (CP). — Just 10 minutes before he was scheduled to stop work for the day, Frank Cooper, about 55, fell 15 feet into a wheat bin and was killed Friday. Cooper was employed as a tripper at the United Grain Growers. Elevator officials said Cooper had been swinging across a conveyor belt on a piece of rope when he lost his hold and fell into the bin.

Marie Wilson All Set For TV Debut

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 23 (AP)—Marie Wilson is all set for her plunge into television, and the eastern girls can expect strong competition in the neckline department.

The buxom blonde will make her video debut in her familiar role as "My Friend Irma." The show was originally set to begin in September but may be postponed to the first of 1952 because of Marie's recent illness. At any rate, the format has all been worked out and her well-known charms will be displayed.

"I'll wear a plain dress in the first half of the show," she told me, "and then a low-cut gown in the second half." The less rigid rules of TV permit lower gowns than she can wear in the movies. Besides her Irma radio and TV shows, Marie is busy in pictures. She is co-starring with Groucho Marx and William Bendix and hopes to do another picture before starting the video grind.

Many people wonder whether Marie is really as dumb as Irma, so I put the question to her point-blank. "Gee, I don't know," she said vaguely. "I haven't figured it out yet myself."

Bing Signs Again

A significant item in the week's news was the signing of Bing Crosby for radio. The show will cost his sponsor $30,000 a week. This means: 1. There is still big money in radio, despite the panic talk; 2. The groaner is not ready for TV...

Capsule Review

"Happy Go Lovely" proves that engaging musicals need not be an American monopoly. This one was made in Britain. Although it has United States-made stars (Vera-Allen, David Niven, Cesar Romero) and a Hollywood director, the picture has a British flavor and a freshness all its own. The plot is one of those mistaken-identity things, but it is played with such gaiety that you overlook how many times it has been done before. Best assets: Vera-Allen's remarkable dancing and Niven's brilliant comedy work.

Head-on Collision Truck Driver Killed

ST. CATHARINES, June 23—(CP)—Harvey McConachie, 58, of nearby Vineland was killed Friday when the truck he was driving was involved in a head-on collision and was thrown into a ditch on the highway east of here.

Police say J. Bruce Parker of Camden has been arrested on a charge of drunken driving. They said Parker was the driver of a truck that smashed into McConachie's.

A quiz by the convener was won by Miss Ardith Thackeray.

Lunch was served by a lunch committee, namely, Mrs. Roly Thackeray, Miss Hilda Arthur, Mrs. Leo Timlin, Miss Emma Sherwin and Mrs. Neil Sherwin.

Stock Markets Decline Through Week

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets turned lower this week. Selling was not heavy but it was steady, and prices drifted gradually downward throughout the week.

The decline followed two weeks of little trend. Activity remained as slow as the previous 17 weeks and investors continued to show cautiousness and selectiveness in their dealings.

The setback was mostly a result of lack of buyers. However the fact there were buyers just under the market indicated the market still retained an underlying support.

Prices began this week in a mixed, narrow path in continuation of last week's sluggishness. Towards the close on Monday support weakened and a handful of industrials backed down fractions. Papers and golds captured traders' attention on the Montreal market as they bucked the trend with moderate advances. The Toronto Exchange was featureless.

Gets Under Way
On Tuesday the week's downward trend got under way with prices slipping from the opening to the final bell. Changes were generally held to small amounts and trading was extremely quiet. New York prices stayed fairly mixed under the influence of a strong oil section.

On Wednesday the market tried to halt the selling but met with little success. Papers managed to remain firm in Montreal but in Toronto a wide list of small losses were sprinkled across the board. In New York prices became lower towards the close.

Biggest declines of the week were chalked up Thursday. Montreal papers dipped the most, while hardest-hit in Toronto were papers and steels. New York was generally depressed in all groups.

Friday the market's weakness continued. Prices opened mixed and then sank slowly to the close. Declines were more general than in other sessions of the week.

LESSON IN ENGLISH is given Nina Farano, 17, by George Fortin, ex-GI from New Bedford, Mass., who went back to Italy to wed.

LESSON IN SPAGHETTI is given by his bride, Nina, in her family's home in Passiano, Italy. George wants to get back to "good old home cooking—U.S. style," in New Bedford.

Little Italian Bride Proves Hard To Convince America Is Not All Gold

By JULIUS HUMI

SALERNO, Italy — (NEA) — When George Fortin, a 35-year-old ex-GI from New Bedford, Mass., returned to the village of Passiano in southern Italy to marry the girl he met during the war, he made thousands of Italian girls' hearts beat faster.

"It can happen," they whispered, as they rushed to search for American address of long forgotten soldiers.

But to tiny, doll-like Nina Farano, who was a child of 10 when she kissed George good-bye seven years ago, his return was the most normal thing in the world.

"He promised, didn't he?" she explains. After the initial excitement died down, George found that there were many unexpected problems. To the villagers of Passiano, where George met and later married Nina, the former tank trooper seems like a knight in shining armor.

Already all members of the Farano family, both male and female, have given their portrait photos to George with strict instructions to get them published in US papers, with the news that they were willing to go to America on the slightest invitation. They all fondly believe that "George will see to it."

Own Grocery Store
The Faranos, who own a small grocery store in Passiano, would be hard to convince that they are at least as well off in their mountain village as George, a mill-hand in New Bedford, is at home.

The fact that George owns a 1940 Studebaker probably sets him above the average Italian in their eyes. Even Nina, whose farthest trip has been 50 miles to Naples, is convinced that she will go to live in a country where milk and honey flow freely. She believes that George, whom she first met as a soldier whose pockets bulged with candies and chocolates, must be the hero of New Bedford, as he indubitably is to Passiano.

Only one thing worries the bride: "Is it true that American reporters and photographers are more insistent than Italians?" she asks.

George is perplexed and unhappy with the ideas Nina and her family have of America. He is painstakingly teaching Nina English and she is catching on fast. But any attempts to explain the real facts of life in the US are usually interrupted with questions about skyscrapers, deluxe automobiles and movie queens.

A recent letter from a Roman movie company to the newlyweds, offering them one million lire ($1,300) to appear in a feature short entitled "The Soldier Returned" only confirmed the villagers' opinion that George Fortin is indeed a man of great influence.

But George is optimistic that Nina will adjust herself to her new life. They will live for a while with George's mother at New Bedford.

The State Department has just advised Fortin that the papers for his wife are coming through, and they hope to sail sometime in July. That is, if the film will be finished by then.

"A million lire is nothing to be sneezed at," says George.

E. C. Martin Dies
TORONTO, June 23 (CP). — Ernest Charles Martin, 64, who organized the first Gyo Club in Toronto, died Friday. He was the first Canadian elected international president of the Gyo Clubs. Born in Toronto, at the time of his death he was head of National Waterproof Products, Ltd. At one time he was general manager of the Woodstock Rubber Company at Woodstock.

Has Fractured Skull
EDMONTON, June 23 (CP). — A British Columbia airman, in hospital since he was attacked by club-wielding teen-agers, is suffering from a fractured skull, an Air Force spokesman said Friday.

LAC'S W. A. Jackson of Victoria is "under observation," but is not seriously ill. He was one of a group of servicemen attacked Tuesday night by teen-agers armed with baseball bats and black-jacks.

Barrister Disbarred
TORONTO, June 23 (CP). — The Law Society of Upper Canada said Friday it had disbarred Frank Henry MacLachy of Preston for conduct unbecoming a barrister and solicitor. The society said MacLachy had converted clients' money to his own use and had failed to account for it. Disbarment also has the effect of revoking his appointment as notary public.

Brings Children Back To Canada From S. America

MONTREAL, June 23 — (CP) — Mrs. Anne Parker returned to Canada Friday night with her three children whose alleged abduction to South America ended when the mother "just went over and got them."

Their plane touched at Dorval airport shortly before midnight, ending a trip to and from Lima, Peru. The last lap of the flight was from New York to Montreal. Mrs. Parker flew from Montreal six weeks ago to "rescue" her children from her husband, Joseph Bailey, 45, against whom a warrant has been sworn out charging him with abducting the two boys and kidnapping the girl May 8.

Extradition proceedings have been started to return Bailey from Lima for trial. Bailey, who planned to settle in Lima with his present wife, Evelyn Blauvelt of Yarmouth, N.S., reportedly told police there that the children disappeared after being sent on an errand.

Car Strikes Tree Three Men Killed
TORONTO, June 23 — (CP) — Three men were killed and two others injured Friday in a car crash on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Lorne Park, 14 miles east of here.

Dead are Ernest Harkim, Roland Tetu and Lucien Gingraf, all of Hamilton. Harold Waring and George Miller of Hamilton were brought to hospital here for treatment. Waring suffered a fractured right arm and Miller received a broken left leg.

Police said the three men, sitting in the front seat, were killed when the car went out of control and hit a tree.

Strike Settled
TORONTO, June 23 (CP). — A 10-day strike by employees of the Acme Screw and Gear Company plant here was settled Friday when the men were granted a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay and a 10-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to May 22. The employees, members of United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) went on strike June 12 to back demand for a 40-hour week with pay for the 45 hours they now work.

Reject Offer
VANCOUVER, June 23 (CP). — An offer of a 16 1/2 per cent increase in wages has been rejected by 5,000 pulp and paper workers employed by seven British Columbia firms. The proposed agreement also would have reduced the work week from 42 to 40 hours. Employees are members of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Makers.

LONDON BRIDGE DAMAGED—For years children have been singing "London Bridge is Falling Down" but, like the weather, nobody did anything about it. Then along came a huge floating crane which got caught in a current and smashed up against the bridge. Here are a couple of Londoners, who probably sang the rhyme in childhood, examine the bridge.

St. Andrew's Children Hold Annual Picnic

MILLBROOK, June 23 (ENS). — Twenty-eight children of St. Andrew's Mission Band rode out in a truck or on their bicycles for their annual closing picnic held this year Thursday afternoon on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Spicer.

The picnic served as a farewell for Muriel, Mae and Pamela Husser, daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Husser, and for Nancy and Susan Innis, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Innis. Both families are leaving Millbrook at the end of the month, the former to make their home in Aylmer and the latter in Peterborough.

The afternoon was spent in playing games and in joining in sing-songs, under the direction of the leaders, Mrs. Arnold Falls and Mrs. Bert Gardiner.

The children brought their lunches, and Mrs. G. T. Crowley supplies the orange drink and contributed to a treat of ice cream.

Milk Selling At 10 Cents
OSHAWA, June 23 — (CP) — The strike-bound Oshawa dairy cut its milk prices from 17 to 10 cents a quart on a cash-and-carry sale basis.
The strikers, members of Local 561, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees (AFL), went on strike a week ago to back demands for a union shop and 40-hour, five-day week. Union officials rejected a conciliation board report that there was no need for the shop or a change in the present 48-hour week.

Miss Lorna Mitchell Weds Donald Whittaker Today

Orange blossoms and white peonies decorated the chancel and pews in George St. United Church for the wedding at two o'clock this afternoon of Miss Lorne May Grace Mitchell to Mr. Robert Donald Whittaker which was solemnized by the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Mitchell of Lindsay, is a graduate of the Peterborough Civic Hospital School of Nursing. The soloist was one of her hospital associates Mrs. John Knox of Norwood who sang "O Perfect Love" before the wedding, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

She was given in marriage by her cousin Mr. Orville Mitchell of Toronto and attended by her sister, Miss Greta Mitchell of Montreal, as maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Miss Eleanor Whittaker, as bridesmaid.

The groom is son of Mr. Kenneth R. Whittaker of Peterborough and the late Mrs. Whittaker. His attendant was Mr. Malcolm Thompson of Chatham and the ushers were his cousins, Ralph Carpenter and Darrell Lipsett.

The bride's dress was a lovely model of white Alencon type lace and imported net. The trumpet skirt of lace flowed into a very full net flounce. It was topped by a closely molded bodice and a tiny lace jacket with long sleeves finished in traditional manner with points over the hands. Her veil of embroidered tulle in a circular shape caught to a tiny pear-shaped hat covered with lace and fringed with net trimmed with applied lace flowers and clusters of orange blossoms at the sides. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white sweet peas. Attendant's frocks had bouffant net skirts and molded matching taffeta bodices topped by tiny jackets. Miss Mitchell's was a Bermuda pink and she wore matching mittens and a pink headband with a cluster of blue carnations and white sweet peas at the side and carried a nosegay of blue and pink carnations and white sweet peas. Miss Whittaker wore azure blue and her headband was trimmed with a cluster of pink carnations and white sweet peas. She carried a similar bouquet and each wore mittens to match her dress.

At the reception following the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of navy crepe with white and navy hat and corsage of white carnations.

For her going-away ensemble the bride chose a dress of rose triple sheer and white accessories and her corsage of white carnations and mauve sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker will live at 359 Hunter St. W.

DOROTHY DIX

Grow Fonder Or Wander According to Circumstances

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been going steady for three years with a wonder-ful fellow. We love each other and get along beautifully together. He is attending college now, and we plan to be married when he graduates. But this is my problem. His father was transferred to a job in another state, and this summer my boy friend has to join his family. Do you think he will forget all about me then, or get lonely and find another companion? My friends tell me to look for another boy friend but that would be impossible as there could never be a substitute for my love. Others tell me to marry him now but that also is impossible because we can't afford it. Also, he would have to leave college and I don't want that to happen when he is doing so well. I don't think my boy friend would leave me but everyone is putting ideas in my head so I don't know whether I'm coming or going. What should I do?—CORNELIA.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Here we go again with well-meaning friends who seem intent on spoiling your happiness. I notice they've given about every bit of advice except the assurance that the separation couldn't possibly hurt people as well matched, as sensible and as devoted as you two. Summer isn't eternity, Cornelia. Just think of all the romances that have held together even though the boy has had to do service overseas for two or three years.

True Love Is Strengthened
The old adage about absence has two variations, you know. "Absence causes hearts to wander," and "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Where hearts are already tickle, absence will not make them constant, but whether true love and devotion already exist, a separation only strengthens the bond between them. You will both find lots of doing during the summer, and letter-writing will be a major occupation. I'm sure neither of you will have the slightest inclination to find companionship in the opposite sex—but on your part, anyway, Cornelia, I would certainly be wary of girl friends who are too free with advice. Put your faith in the stability of your boy friend, and remember, if you couldn't trust him for a few summer months, he'd be a poor matrimonial risk.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am very much in love with a boy, Dick, who is younger than I. He is 18 and I am 19½. We have been going together for a year and he has asked me to marry him. The wedding would not take place now, but when he is out of the army. He is a senior in high school and I am a freshman in college. We get along very well, but the trouble is with my parents who think he is too young for me. They like Dick very much and also like his folks. We love each other very much, but I also love my mother and would not want to hurt her. She has nothing to disapprove of in Dick except his age. Do you think the difference in age is that important?—TRUDY.

ANSWER: A difference of a year and a half certainly is not so important. Of course, in the teens it seems more of a problem than it will be later. The difference between 28 and 29½, for instance, isn't nearly as great by comparison as the span between 18 and 19½. By the time Dick comes out of the army and you are ready to be married, your parents will probably be reconciled to the age disparity, which will already seem to be shrinking by the time. With all the other promising aspects of a happy romance you possess, such as mutual interests and the respect and affection existing between both families, I think you can very easily overcome the barrier of years and in time have your parents realize its unimportance.

DEAR MISS DIX: Could you help me find a solution to this problem? Should a boy attempt to stop his girl friend, who is a minor, from smoking?—TOMMY.

ANSWER: Of course he should. Smoking is a habit for adults and not one to be encouraged in a minor. It is a health hazard in the very young, and a charming miss does nothing to enhance her appearance by aping her elders with a cigarette in her mouth all the time. I hope you have enough influence over your girl friends to make her postpone smoking at least for a few years.

LITTLE IODINE by JIMMY HAYLO

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I enjoy your column very much, and am so glad you write for our paper.

Our church group are catering for a wedding and I would like so much if you could help us with a recipe for chicken salad to serve 100 to 125.

I realize it is asking a lot. This wedding is in June. JUNE P.

ANSWER: Chicken Salad (for 100)
(Note: 3 cups diced cooked chicken, not too well packed, weigh approximately one pound.)
Thirty-six cups or 12 lbs.

cooked fresh pork. Cucumbers may be used in place of some of the celery.

QUESTION: Around this time of year your column published recipes for making jams for diabetics. I believe they called for the use of glycerine and sucaryl tablets. I have mislaid my recipe and as the berry season is about here, I would deeply appreciate it... MRS. H. S. MAC.

QUESTION: I appreciated your diabetic recipes for jam last Fall. Would you have one for strawberry jam? That's my favourite. Could you use the new sucaryl in liquid form for the peach and plum and currant jams. If so how many drops.

Mary, I can some of my own fruit because all diabetic foods are so high priced. I have the best luck with peaches and pears. Prepare fruit in usual way—then crush about 1 cup of the fruit to make juice and add 1-2 cup water. Stew until tender, then working very fast put in very hot sterile jars and screw tops down. This of course is free of sugar, sometimes it's a little tart, but I like the fresh fruit taste. Hope this will help someone. (MRS.) G. B.

ANSWER: (to above 2 letters)
I have not experimented with liquid sucaryl. I hope you will find the following methods satisfactory.

Sugarless Strawberry Jam
One quart choicest ripe strawberries, freshly picked, washed, hulled, and crushed with potato masher. Boil not too hard for about 15 minutes, then add 2 tablespoons glycerin, 6 1-3 table-spoons sorbitol (see note) and 1 teaspoon certo crystals. Boil 1 minute, stirring, and pour into sterile jam jars and seal.

NOTE: Sorbitol is a sugar alcohol well-known in diabetic research. If readers intend to use it they should consult their doctors, for its use in diabetes must be in accordance with the patient's residual tolerance for glucose or his insulin dosage.

I hope you saw diabetic jam recipes which were printed earlier this week in this column.

Reds, UN Troops Wage Bayonet Battle At Front

TOKYO, June 25. (AP)—The world talked of peace today but the Korean war roared into its second year. Chinese and North Korean Communists were more aggressive all along the 100-mile-long battlefield. Communist jets streaked out of their Manchurian sanctuary. Allied warships continued to pour steel into east-coast North Korean ports. The cease-fire proposal by Russia's Jakob A. Malik put no damper on the fighting. Red ground forces showed more fight than usual. But by late afternoon there was still no sign of their expected anniversary offensive.

23 Arrested In Hungary Confess Guilt

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 23 (AP).—Two dozen prosecution witnesses in the conspiracy trial of Archbishop Jozsef Groesz, all under arrest but one, showed perfect co-operation with the government today by testifying fluently for 5½ hours.

The 23 under arrest admitted eagerly their own subversive activities as minor players in the conspiracy attributed to the Archbishop and eight co-defendants.

Their testimony was remarkably similar to those of the defendants. All nine have admitted that they plotted to overthrow the Communist-led government and participated in other illegal actions.

The witnesses testified the conspiracy aimed at the overthrow of the government by force with foreign, American and Yugoslav help. The goal was to "restore the kingdom of the Hapsburgs, and the pre-war capitalist system of industry and agriculture."

Principal Defendant

The principal defendant is the Archbishop, who succeeded Cardinal Mindszenty as head of the Roman Catholic church in Hungary when the Cardinal was sentenced to life imprisonment on treason charges in February, 1949.

(The US State Department says the trial is a "persecution" in the familiar Communist pattern.)

One of the witnesses was Hugo Payr, 63, a former member of parliament. He said that he maintained friendly relations with both Archbishop Groesz and Cardinal Mindszenty and both men "counted on a third world war which is imminent and will end by American and Yugoslav occupation of Hungary."

Ervin Papp, 29, also under arrest, boasted he was "the chief of an illegal organization charged with the distribution of illegal printed material, a newspaper and various leaflets."

Court was adjourned until Tuesday at the end of the testimony.

Canadian Patrols Meet Resistance

WEST SECTOR, Korea, June 25 (CP).—Stiffer resistance met United Nations patrols Saturday when they again ventured deep into the No Man's Land north and west of the Chorwon area in North Korea.

UN forces Sunday repeated their probing patrols, this time in the area north of the Chorwon district.

(Censorship precluded mention in this dispatch of the nationality of the UN troops involved. Boss is in Korea to report the activities of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade.)

Troops, scrambling like mountain goats, reached fantastic advancing infantry with their fire. This is really a game of hide-and-seek between sweeping UN forces and the Chinese Communists, who keep their heads down as the patrols advance, and open fire on them as they withdraw into UN lines at nightfall.

Hope To Move Petain Within Two Weeks

ILE D'YEU, France, June 25 (AP).—Preparations began today for the transfer of former Marshal Henri Philippe Petain from his present quarters in the Fort of Peire Levee to a private house on this tiny island off the Brittany coast.

President Vincent Auriol recently commuted the life sentence given the 95-year-old former Vichy Chief of State and one-time hero of Verdun for treason in the Second World War.

Friends of Petain reported he had a bad turn last Friday night but gained strength again slightly during the weekend. He will be moved probably in the next couple of weeks if his health permits. He has been seriously ill with pneumonia and circulatory troubles of the right foot during the last three months.

Chinese Back Russian Plan For 38th Parallel Truce

Malik Move Approved In Peiping

Western Leaders Uncertain If Appeal Trick

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 25. (CP).—The Peiping radio today broadcast an editorial saying the Chinese people fully agree with Russia's call for a truce along the 38th Parallel in Korea.

The Communist radio broadcast was the first comment from Chinese Red sources on the proposal by the Soviet Union's Jakob Malik. But reaction poured out from world capitals.

Previously the Peiping radio had broadcast Malik's proposal and the government newspapers Pravda and Izvestia printed it in Moscow—all without comment.

The Peiping broadcast, quoting the People's Daily as saying that Malik's radio speech Saturday posed a further test for the United States to show whether she had "learned a lesson" and was ready to settle the Korean question peacefully.

Up To US

If the United States is willing to stop the war, the Daily added, she could fall in at once with "just and reasonable measures for peaceful settlement repeatedly proposed by the People's Republic of China, the Soviet Union and other countries desiring peace."

Reaction came not only from world leaders but was felt in financial markets. They were lower all over the world but the New York Stock Exchange steadied as the day wore on.

In London, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said Britain is studying ways to follow up "this possible opening" and cautioned against too much optimism.

Fears Trick

In Paris, the French Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman, said he considers the move "a positive element" which should permit opening of talks.

In Wellington, New Zealand's External Affairs Minister, Frederick W. Doidge, said his government would welcome a cease-fire based on UN terms.

Opposition to the peace feeler came from South Korea and North Korea.

Red Dean Starts On Moscow Trip

LONDON, June 25 (Reuters).—Dr. Hevith Johnson, Britain's "Red" Dean of Canterbury, left London Airport today to receive "the world peace medal" in Moscow.

The "Red" Dean, nicknamed for his pro-Communist sympathies, said before leaving that he will make several speeches in Moscow. He is one of seven recently awarded a "Stalin International Peace Award" which carries a prize of 100,000 roubles (about $25,000).

The Ming Sung Industrial Corporation of China, the Defence Production Department reported today.

The information was contained in a Commons return tabled for E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamoops) as the latest episode in the House battle over seven Canadian-built ships owned by the Ming Sung firm and trading between Hong Kong and the Chinese mainland under the Canadian flag.

Today's return concerned arrangements for building three of the ships at the George T. Davis and Sons Ltd. Plant in the Quebec City area. The others were built elsewhere in Canada.

They were started during the Nationalist regime in China and the government had to step in when financial difficulties arose which would have prevented completion of the ships.

Accepted In Swim

TORONTO, June 25 (CP).—Mrs. Winnifred Roach Luerzer said today her entry in the London Daily Mail's English Channel swimming race Aug. 13 has been accepted.

Her only worry now is getting there. The 25-year-old mother of three children, who months ago announced her intention to compete in the 21-mile France-to-England race, said she is the only Canadian accepted. Twenty persons are expected to compete.

Pushed Out Of Boat By Dog, Boy Drowns

Family Fishing When Youngster 2, Accidentally Knocked Over

KINGSTON, June 25 (CP).—The body of a two-year-old Charles James Kitchen, Jr., was found Sunday when his dog pushed him out of a rowboat, was recovered late Sunday night after almost eight hours of dragging in the weed-choked waters of Collins Bay.

Kenneth Reid and George Leonard, who with other residents of the area had aided provincial police in the search, pulled the child's body out of the water at 11:45.

Young Charles, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kitchen of Collins Bay, and their dog "Queen" had just started on a fishing jaunt when the over-exuberant dog brushed against the tot, toppling him into the water less than 100 feet from the north shore.

Cottagers and bathers on the shore watched as the child's father lurched over the side of the boat clutching frantically for a tiny hand that disappeared.

The father, a guard at Collins Bay penitentiary, told reporters he had just instructed his son to sit down or the dog would push him overboard when the dog sidled up to the boy and rolled him out of the boat.

"He came up once and was kicking and splashing. His hand was stretched up over his head. I made a grab for it but he sank and never came up again," Mrs. Kitchen, beside herself with grief over the loss of her only child, had to be taken home where Dr. John Tweddell administered a sedative.

Want Real Peace—Truman

TULLAHOMA, Tenn., June 25. (AP).—President Truman said today the United States is ready to join in a "real settlement" of the Korean war "which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security." While Truman did not so label it, that was obviously his reply to the proposal by Jakob A. Malik, Russian delegate to the United Nations, for a cease-fire and withdrawal of troops from the area of the 38th Parallel. Truman, on the first anniversary of the Communist attack on South Korea, said the Reds suffered 1,000,000 casualties and have been thrown back "behind the line they started from."

The president, in a major foreign policy speech, blistered Republican critics for "spreading fear and slander and lies" and trying to "destroy" Dean Acheson, whom he called "one of the greatest secretaries of state in our history."

In guarded language, which did not mention Malik or his proposal specifically, the president told a crowd gathered to dedicate an air force testing center:

"We are ready to join in a peace settlement in Korea now as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security to the area and to the gallant Korean people."

"In Korea and in the rest of the world we must be ready to take any steps which truly advance us toward world peace. But we must avoid like the plague rash actions which would take unnecessary risks of world war or weak actions which reward aggression."

His talk fairly bristled with denunciations of Republican supporters of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean policy and critics of Acheson, Defence Secretary George Marshall, Gen. Omar Bradley, and the joint chiefs of staff.

Without naming MacArthur, Truman said of those who would "take a chance" that the Soviet Union won't fight in the Far East: "They want us to play Russian roulette with the foreign policy of the United States—and with all the chambers of the pistols loaded."

Chased By Police Car Hits Hydro Pole

HAMILTON, June 25 (CP).—An early morning chase today for two cars on the Queen Elizabeth Way ended with one car crashing into a hydro pole and the second escaping. Scaffolding tools were found in the abandoned car whose occupants fled.

Police saw the cars turn off the lake road onto the highway at 1 a.m. and gave chase.

One car—police said it was stolen—swerved into the ditch and slipped a pole. The two men in it fled.

Switching off its lights, the second automobile sped away. Police said its licence plates were reported stolen from another Hamilton car early this month.

Drape King's Statue In Feminine Finery

WINDSOR, England, June 25 (AP).—Weekend pranksters who draped a bronze statue of King George III with feminine finery gave King George VI a hearty chuckle and the local bobbies a bit of a headache.

The 70-foot statue stands only 400 yards from the Royal Lodge where the King is recuperating from an illness.

It was found at dawn Saturday with a pink garter belt around the right ankle, a cape about the shoulders and a girl's scarf over the eyes. A wooden sword was tied to the upraised right hand.

The statue's horse was daubed "with the compliments of Denmark" in white paint.

Reports from the lodge said the King was highly amused. But police want to know how the pranksters evaded the guard, made up of Rangers and Scotland Yard men, who guard the King.

Will Explore Soviet Offer Very Carefully St. Laurent Promises

Pearson Believes UN Should Follow Up Russian Hint of Cease-Fire, But Notes Some Ambiguities In Statement

OTTAWA, June 25. (CP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent today termed the Malik statement on peace in Korea "an important development" and promised that it is going to be fully explored by the western powers. He told George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, that "there is no indication anywhere that there is going to be any brushing aside" of the statement by the Russian United Nations delegate.

He said in the Commons that Canada's representatives are conferring today with Foreign Secretary Morrison of Britain and State Secretary Acheson of the United States on Jakob Malik's proposal for a conference for a cease-fire in Korea.

Mr. St. Laurent expressed hope that the Malik move will turn out to be a real desire for peace in Korea and not just another Russian propaganda sham.

He noted that the Malik statement consisted largely of violent vituperation followed by the peace reference and that this same sort of thing has occurred in the past, with the peace references "intended to be serious."

Hope Desire Serious

Both Mr. Drew and Angus MacInnis, acting CCF leader, expressed the hope that the new development represents a serious Russian desire to see peace restored in Korea. Mr. Drew asked that the House be kept fully informed of developments.

Both he and Mr. MacInnis called the Malik statement an "extremely important one."

In London L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, said today it would be a "great mistake" not to follow up Russian references to possibility of peace in Korea.

Asked to comment on a weekend broadcast by Jakob Malik, chief Russian delegate to the United Nations Pearson said:

"If Malik's statement should be a satisfactory basis for a proposal from Moscow, then we should make the most of it."

"If the USSR is anxious to end the conflict in Korea on terms we can accept," Pearson said at a press conference, "then we should certainly follow it up."

Some Ambiguities

He noted there were "ambiguities" in Malik's statement. UN representatives seeking to end the conflict in Korea had some pretty unhappy experiences and

600 Work For Nothing To Put Plant On Feet

JEANETTE, Pa., June 25 (AP).—Here's one way to save your job when the plant is threatened with financial disaster.

Work for nothing until the boss gets the place back on its feet. That's what 600 employees of the Jeanette Glass Company are doing.

The plant was damaged June 13 in a flood. Damage was estimated at $500,000. Not a wheel has turned since the flood.

Saturday the workers decided to work eight days for free. Each man will contribute one day's labor each week for eight weeks.

Tale Of Entombed Germans Said European Folk Myth

LONDON, June 25 (AP).—A London newspaper suggests that reports of entombed German soldiers in Poland are really an eastern European folk myth.

The Sunday Reynolds News quoted this account from a 20-year-old copy of a Berlin magazine.

"During the clearing up of the fortress Ossowietz, a living Russian soldier from (the first) World War was found in a ruined food store. He had been nine years under the earth."

Ossowietz is 180 miles from Gdynia where two Germans were reported a week ago to have escaped from an underground food store after six years of imprisonment below ground.

The Berlin story said the Russian had been trapped by the explosion of a mine.

"All the time he was in the store he fed on preserved meat and milk and a large supply of canned food."

After that he lived in darkness.

"When he was found, the first rays of the sun destroyed his sight. Slowly he recovered the power to see."

Press reports from Poland last weekend said two Germans escaped from a food store near Gdynia, one of them dying of a heart attack on reaching daylight.

The other is said to have turned blind.

The Reynolds News suggested the story "must have been floating round eastern Europe for 20 years, becoming a kind of folk myth."

Two Canoeists Found Safe On Small Island

BEAVERTON, Ont., June 25 (CP).—For 12 unforgettable hours two 14-year-old canoeists huddled under a canoe on a lonely Lake Simcoe island while a storm raged about them and their parents had given them up for lost. The youngsters paddled home early today.

Clad in light summer clothing, Donald Fick and Mary Munn, both of Aylmer, set out Sunday for an evening paddle on Lake Simcoe. They were caught in the tail-end of a severe wind storm which swept this resort area and were tossed about on the waves seemingly for hours. The couple finally got to Thorah Island, about four miles off the mainland, where they took shelter under the canoe for the night.

Cold, wet, hungry and "scared to death," the youngsters were sighted early today paddling for home. Searchers had spent the night combing the shoreline, and had given them up for lost.

"We never expected to find either of them alive," said Dr. C. W. Sinclair at whose Cedarhurst home the boy and girl and other young people had been vacationing.

Cedarhurst is about five miles south of Beaverton which is 60 miles north of Toronto.

15 Under Arrest In Alberta Riot

EDMONTON, June 25 (CP).—Fifteen persons were under arrest Sunday charged with carrying offensive weapons Saturday night as the week-long feud in Edmonton between young hoodlums and servicemen again flared into violence.

Police reported 11 of those arrested are airmen. Three are civilians between 18 and 21 years of age. The other is a 52-year-old man who suffered a broken arm in Saturday night's fighting.

Police also reported no persons were injured in half a dozen scuffles between the warring gangs, who travelled the streets in packs. Earlier in the week, three airmen, one with a fractured skull, were taken to hospital.

Downtown Edmonton again was the scene of a big traffic jam as thousands of pedestrians and motorists came out in force to get a round view of the war.

Police patrolled the streets in a round track appealing to citizens to go home.

Huge crowds surged around police and service provost men whenever they separated unruly teenagers and servicemen.

A group of soldiers were reported to have hauled teen-agers out of a car waiting at a stop light.

Charge Trenton Man With Injuring Airman

BELLELEVILLE, June 25 (CP).—Provincial police Saturday charged Gerald Goodwin, 50, of near-by Trenton, with wounding in connection with the shooting Thursday night of LAC. Joseph S. Ally, 19, Trenton.

Police said they did not believe Ally's original explanation of the shooting—that a motorist shot him as he walked toward the Trenton air force station. They said Ally had been prowling around the Goodwin home near Trenton.

Awakened by the noise, Goodwin investigated, armed with a flashlight and small rifle and the shooting followed.

Soviet Makes Proposal For Parley

First Red Peace Bid
Omitting Conditions Favorable To China

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 25. (CP) — Russia proposed Saturday a conference of both sides in Korea for a ceasefire, armistice and withdrawal of troops from the 38th Parallel.

Jakob A. Malik, chief Soviet delegate to the UN, made the proposal which diplomats noted was the first Russian peace bid omitting conditions especially favorable to Communist China.

He spoke on the weekly UN Peace series, broadcast across the United States Saturday and internationally Sunday.

The extraordinary Soviet move made the headlines all over the world and touched off UN hopes that an end to the peace organization's first military venture to stop aggression might be in sight—just one year today since the North Koreans invaded South Korea.

Can Be Settled

At the end of a 15-minute speech made up largely of the usual Soviet attacks on the western powers, Malik said the Soviet people believed the Korean War can be settled.

"The Soviet people believe that as a first step discussions should be started between the belligerents for a ceasefire and an armistice providing for the mutual withdrawal of forces from the 38th parallel," he said.

"Can such a step be taken? 'I think it can provided there is a sincere desire to put an end to the bloody fighting in Korea.' 'I think that, surely, is not too great a price to pay in order to achieve peace in Korea.'"

In past proposals in the UN for settling the Korean conflict, Russia and the Soviet-bloc countries have always included the conditions of Communist Chinese membership in the UN, turning Formosa over to Red China, withdrawal of UN forces from Korea, and that Russia and Red China be among the participants in any parley.

This time Malik made no reference to Chinese troops in Korea—who claim to be merely volunteers.

Believes Yukon, NWT To Become Provinces

OTTAWA, June 25 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said in the Commons Saturday he believes that in time the Northwest Territories and the Yukon will acquire provincial status.

The Prime Minister made the statement as he put through a bill amending the Federal District Commission Act to provide for representation of Newfoundland on the non-salaried commission set up to promote beautification of the capital.

George Murray (L. Cariboo) said he would like to see the Northwest Territories and the Yukon also represented.

"I think in time they will be added," said the Prime Minister, "because I think, in time, they will probably acquire provincial status."

The Pearl and the Price

Most people know the parable of the pearl of great price, and the man who sold all that he had to buy it (Matt. 13:46).

Have you ever asked yourself what it meant?

The "price" is our surrender of the afflictive human thinking causing our troubles. How to give up these human fears, how to grasp and find freedom would indeed be the "pearl."

The way of this liberating understanding is explained fully in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. Whoever will put its statements to the test will find this great Science of Christianity to be demonstrable.

Science and Health may be read or obtained at all Christian Science Reading Rooms. The coupon is also for your use.

Boat Founders 9 Men Saved

ERIEAU, June 25. (CP) — Nine men were pulled to safety from a foundering launch in a nip-and-tuck rescue two miles off this Lake Erie port at 3 a.m. Sunday.

Shouts and a flashlight's wildly waved beam attracted a second fisherman, Oliver Vidler, 24, of Erieau, who sped an approximate mile and a half to the scene in the off-shore darkness.

The men were waist-deep in water, still standing in the sinking craft when Vidler's 30-foot launch pulled alongside.

"They swarmed on us like flies," said 19-year-old Gordon McCorkwick, also of Erieau, who is Vidler's mate.

nationalist China. A spokesman for the government of the Republic of Korea called Malik's proposal a "trick."

Malik's proposal came on the eve of the Korean war's first anniversary. Lie issued a statement urging immediate negotiations for a cease-fire to be followed by UN discussion of the political issues involved.

Asks Elaboration
The president of the UN assembly, Nasrallah Entezam, of Iran, planned to ask Malik at once to expand on his proposal.

Western leaders said they hope the proposal is genuine. Moscow's two official newspapers printed the Malik text without comment.

In Hong Kong, Far-East observers feel certain Malik can speak for Peiping.

Warns Against Compromise

The Chinese Nationalist Premier, Chen Cheng, on Formosa warned in a war anniversary statement against compromise in Korea or indirect recognition of what he called the enemy's ill-gotten gains.

Either of these things, he said, would mean UN troops killed in Korea had died in vain and that "we will be as far from peace as when we accepted the aggressor's challenge one year ago."

While the US awaited word from President Truman, the State Department voiced open skepticism about the sincerity of Malik's proposal, made in a "price of peace" broadcast from the UN Saturday.

Lie acted as soon as he studied the Malik text.

He telephoned to his aides from Oslo, Norway and issued his statement.

"From the outset, the UN has made it clear again and again that the first step to the restoration of peace in Korea must be a cease-fire," it said. "Such a cease-fire should involve only the military arrangements necessary to stop the fighting and to ensure against its renewal."

"I urge that negotiations for a military cease-fire now be entered into at the earliest possible date."

"If such a cease-fire can be attained, the political issues involved in the restoration of peace and security in Korea can then be appropriately discussed in the competent organs of the United Nations."

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison in London discussed the proposal with the cabinet before making a statement in the House of Commons. He advised a cautious line until it was seen if there were any strings attached to the Russian move.

In Japan, Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida said his government is paying special attention to the question of a settlement with a view to establishing good relations between his country and China.

Commons Hopes To Adjourn On Thursday

OTTAWA, June 25 (CP) — The Commons today set its collective sights on this Thursday as the target date for adjournment of the current session, now in its 99th day.

Both government and opposition sources agreed that they hope to have the sessional work completed by then and to adjourn the House until a new session opens in the fall.

More than a dozen bills and a raft of departmental estimates still await attention.

In the first Saturday sitting of a session which began Jan. 30 last, the Chamber adopted legislation modifying pensions for the blind and opening the way for pensions for needy Canadians aged from 65 to 69.

The 65-to-69 bill authorizes the federal government to share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of paying the pensions, at a rate of $40 a month. The Dominion now must negotiate agreements with the provinces.

In another phase of the expanded program, the federal government itself will begin Jan. 1 next paying $40-a-month pensions—regardless of means—to Canadians aged 70 and over. The system will be contributory.

To Beautify Ottawa
The Chamber also adopted a bill taking further steps toward beautifying Ottawa as the national capital.

Finance Minister Abbott tabled further supplementary estimates of $195,000,000 for the current fiscal year, bringing to $3,784,000,000 the estimated grand total of government spending in 1951-52.

Late in the evening, the House resumed study of Agriculture Department estimates and heard Agriculture Minister Gardiner report that the department expects hog marketing across the country this year to run about the same as last year.

The Russians would have only themselves to blame "if we were to appear to anyone to approach this most interesting and most important statement with some reserve."

"However, it would be a great mistake not to follow it up so we can find out exactly what it means."

Asked whether he thought Malik was speaking for Communist China in expressing hopes for a cease-fire, Pearson said he couldn't say, but it did seem obvious that Malik was talking at least for Russia.

Pearson spoke as diplomats around the world studied the Malik references to a cease-fire and tried to decide whether the broadcast could be taken at its face value.

There is a tendency here to note a similarity between the present Russian overtures and those that led to the lifting of the Berlin blockade two years ago. In the latter case, it was Malik's initiative that led to settlement.

Pearson said that any Korean settlement should be followed by East-West talks on a general Far-Eastern settlement.

On the question of including Greece and Turkey within the framework of the North Atlantic treaty organization, Pearson said carefully that Canada would naturally be in favor of anything that increased the security of western Europe.

If expanding the treaty organization further that objective, without adding "unduly" to Atlantic pact membership, Canada would be in favor.

Prices Drop Sharply On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 25 — (CP) — Prices dropped sharply under nervous selling as the session progressed on the stock market today. Prices tumbled from the opening bell on news of Russian peace offers.

Industrial declines ranged to more than $2. Steels led the downturn and were followed by papers, utilities, agricultures, foods and refining oils.

Construction and banks held steady and manufacturing companies, retail stores, liquors and textiles were fairly mixed.

In base metals Consolidated Smelters dipped $2.50 and Noranda $1.75. The rest of the section was down fractions over a broad front. Key issues lower included Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Queanmont and International Nickel.

Western oil declines ranged from pennies to the 1/2 drop of Royalite.

Gold attracted little attention. McIntyre was down $1 in a fairly mixed senior list while a handful of secondary golds eased pennies.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, June 25 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 63 3-4 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1-32 from Friday's close. That is, it took $1.06 3-4 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.98 7-8, down 1-8.

Strawberry Festivals Bloom In Rural Areas

The ripening year has come to the brief season of the strawberry festivals in rural communities. Three of them are booked in the Peterborough area for Tuesday at Centreville, Warsaw and Omemee churches, and for Wednesday evening there is Bethel church in Emily. If you miss these delectable opportunities, prandial, social and otherwise, you can't blame the women of those churches, for their invitations in the Examiner are pointed right at you.

Meanwhile the first domestic cherries are on the fruit stands, early Tartarians, and it is likewise time for making hay if the weatherman turns off the main and let the grass mature for barn storage.

Civil Defence

Council appointed a civil defence committee, comprised by Deputy-Reeve O. Mason of Campbellford; Reeve Roy Dodge of Cobourg; Reeve G. F. Jamieson of Bowmanville, and Reeve Elmer Scott of Hope township.

Accounts passed between sessions totalled as follows: administration of justice, $7,854.38; maintenance of indigents, $6,600.71; registry offices, $972.02; county roads, $123,022.12; counties home, $18,559.51; counties jail, $8,988.36; child welfare, $17,273.47; municipal government, $12,545.55.

Statement

The finance committee recommended that the agricultural representatives of both counties be asked to render a statement to the counties council for monies received from the counties council. The committee decided to ask the two hospitals outside the counties (Trenton and Peterborough) for permission to have a committee appointed on each hospital board. The committee raised the pay of weed inspectors to $7 a day plus 8 cents a mile.

Request for a cost-of-living bonus increase to the jail staff was turned down. The committee recommended an increase of $300 to the clerk in the counties treasurer's office. The bylaw which appointed Alan Field as counties solicitor was rescinded and it was decided to seek applications for a new solicitor with a stated salary.

Shortage Of Nurses

The Board of Health for the Counties reported that the health unit was being operated efficiently and in a manner beneficial to the counties. There was a shortage of nurses due to so many of the staff nurses getting married and the situation might become more serious by September in view of the number of resignations of nurses to get married.

The equalization committee recommended that the counties council appoint a court of revision. The reforestation committee recommended purchase of 280 acres for reforestation purposes. The recommendation of this committee that a bylaw be passed establishing regulation of tree cutting in Northumberland County, the same as in Durham, was later carried out. The road and bridge committee raised the engineer's salary by $500 per year and the road office clerk an increase of $300 per year.

Korea and Canada

A year ago this morning the war in Korea began. It started as an invasion of South Korea by the North Koreans. The United States intervened and almost immediately U.N., under U.S. leadership, began a "police action". Canada subscribed to this. The police action became a war. China took the place of North Korea. Now Canada has armies, seamen and a whole fighting brigade hammering in Korea.

What has Korea to do with us in this provincial town? Not much. We tend to our business, feed our faces, take holidays, hose the grass. Korea is thousands of miles away. Canada has only one brigade of soldiers in the fight, a brigade composed entirely of volunteers: adventurous young men, veterans of the last war, and professional soldiers. They do their job in Korea and we at home respect and admire their valour. Our district has had but one serious casualty and the whole war is something detached from us: like a story in a book, a news-reel, or the tale of a traveller in bad lands.

Thus on the face of it, Korea means little to Canadians. But the appearance is not the reality. We know how the war has quickened industry and commerce, geared factories to war-time production, created shortages and great new taxes, devalued the dollar. Over this looms the shadow of a great new world war. The war in the peninsula of Spain fifteen years ago was, apparently, a civil war. In reality it was the testing-ground for and the beginning of the world war between political democracies and fascist imperialism. The war in the peninsula of Korea, which had the appearance of a civil war between north and south Koreans, could be the beginning of a new world war between political democracies and communist imperialism. A noted military analyst discusses in a special article on this page today the tactics and military strategy in Korea during the last year, from the point of view of lessons that may be learned before a third world war. Spain was also used as a military class-room.

The war in Spain meant little to Canadians, although hundreds of Canadian volunteers fought in it. But that war was the vicious sputter before the main explosion. Is it thus with Korea today? Ideologies, spheres of influence, power-politics and racial prejudices are in conflict over Korea. They are the compost for war. That is why Korea should have very grave meaning to Canadians. That is why the Russian proposal for an armistice touches Canada nearly.

Best Wheat, Worst Bread

Rumours are being manufactured that the staff of life is to become more costly. That is a serious matter, but there is something even more serious the matter with Canadian bread, equally perennial, perhaps more pernicious. Canadian Number One hard wheat, from which our bread is made, is reputed to be the best wheat in the world. People who get around and whose palates are sensitive, say that, along with U.S. bread, ours is the worst in the world. Why should we have the best wheat and the worst bread? (This is an overstatement, of course; undoubtedly Russia produces some good Number One wheat in the Steppes) and we have a suspicion that Russian bread is not all that western taste buds find desirable.)

The fact which our own palate has noted and other Canadian travellers have affirmed is that English, French and even Italian breads taste better, chew better and sit more nourishingly on the stomach than Canadian bread. This is no effete opinion.

Canadian soldiers abroad in the last war remarked it too. True, during their first few weeks on British bread, they objected, because their palates had been inured to the sweet, fine inferiority of Canadian bread. But they quickly came to rely with satisfaction on the British staff of life. They complained about Canadian bread when they returned home, until their recollection of the European breads faded and their palates and stomachs again were softened to the home product.

The fault with Canadian bread is not due to the wheat. The wheat is good. It is what happens to the wheat in the milling, to the flour in the baking and to the loaf in the retailing. Too much of the best of the wheat is milled out of it to produce the snow-white flour bakers use. The best of it is saved for roughage and nourishment for farm animals. The flour is too refined.

This flour again undergoes refined treatment at the bake-houses. The loaves are standardized. Only minute air-spaces are allowed to occur in the risen bread, and the stuff, when freshly baked, might as well be cake. It is nothing one can get one's teeth into. The loaf has been scientifically treated in an attempt to inject into it by ultra-violet-ray and other much-touted means some of the vitamins which have been robbed from the wheat in the milling. It is sliced to standard widths (presumably the bakers have established scientifically the exact thickness of a slice which everybody's average jaw best suits) it is hygienically wrapped while the heat is still in. And so the Canadian loaf reaches the table.

It is not the stuff to breed a hardy race of men as the colonial administration of Newfoundland found in the '20's when they banned the import of refined, all-white flour.

Our standardized, despoiled, over-refined, cake-like bread with the texture of half-baked clay, the cloying taste of pudding and half the nourishment of Balkan black bread, is what Canadians have to feed on. Who wants to eat cake all the time? Many in despair turn to so-called whole-wheat bread (what is whole about it?), to rye bread, and other variants, but the bakers and millers successfully reduce even these, in their refining way, to crustless substitutes for the real thing. Will Canada ever have a culture of her own so long as Canadians accept the bread they have?

McCarthy, Bilbo, and the Skunks

With circumspection perhaps due to U.S. libel laws, United States columnists have been likening the tactics of Wisconsin's Senator Joseph McCarthy to those of a "certain musteline mammal." Since the senator's tactics consist of indiscriminate spraying with rather sickening slander, the mammal is easily identified, and the little creature has been used before by at least one newspaperman in connection with a United States Senator.

We presume it is permissible to speak ill of the dead, if the dead person, when living, gloated over derogatory descriptions of himself. That was the case of Theodore Bilbo, for years senior Senator from Mississippi. He had a most unenviable reputation, yet despite stories of deals and double-crosses, political back-stabbing and looting, the voters of Mississippi kept on sending him back to the Senate. This irritated a Southern editor so much that one day he came right out in print and called the late Mr. Bilbo a skunk.

According to the story, which may be apocryphal, Mr. Bilbo was advised to sue. He declined, on the ground that it would be difficult to sue because of an understatement, and went on to tell his favourite yarn about himself, which originally had been told by fellow Senator Tom Connally of Texas.

This yarn had Senator Bilbo walking in a Mississippi woods one day, where he came across an abandoned hut in which two skunks had taken up residence. All unknowing, the Senator walked into the hut and closed the door. A terrific rumpus ensued; shrill animal cries and grunts were heard; the hut creaked and bulged, and a terrible stench arose. Finally the door burst open and the two skunks headed for the tall timber with the smoking speed of panic. And that, Senator Bilbo would crow, with a sort of sour glee, was the kind of person he was.

Yet Senator Bilbo never took advantage of his Senatorial immunity to spread slander and thus blacken reputations; he never issued blanket charges of homosexuality, corruption and conspiracy against persons made virtually defenceless by that immunity. It would seem that any United States commentator could logically develop the above yarn into a situation in which Senator McCarthy walked in on Senator Bilbo and closed the door. The yarn could then continue as before, until the door burst open—and Senator Bilbo streaked for the tall timber.

Unsigned Letters

We continue to receive daily letters which have been written under a pen-name and which do not contain the name and address of the writer. Although some of these letters deal interestingly with lively topics—for instance, the dust on the Exhibition Ground track and the car-racing there—we shall not publish them. For our own legal protection and to ensure the authenticity of the letter, we require the true name and address of the writer.

If a correspondent wishes his name to be withheld from publication, we do consider, and may publish, letters under a pen-name. But we must have in addition, even though we do not print it, the writer's name and address. Letters sent otherwise go into the waste paper basket. We are very pleased to have letters from our readers, and sorry to have to reject so many because they are unsigned.

We read that there is a piano-playing dog in the U.S., and that Petrillo insists that the clever creature have a human pianist as a stand-by. Natch, but what we want to know about the dog is this: Is its Bach worse than its bite?

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

A STRANGE ignorance persists among amateur musicians, and indeed among some professionals—who ought to know better—concerning the meaning of even the commonest of the terms to be found in a musical score. It has happened by an historical accident that nearly all these terms are Italian, for the simple reason that the Italians were preeminent in music at the time when a greater interest in the "expressive" side of music began to make itself felt. There are a few old German and French terms in general use, mainly in orchestral music, such as "Flatterzunge" and "cui-vire", and certain composers, such as Schumann (and, for a short time, Beethoven) used their mother tongue for general directions, presumably on nationalistic grounds. Fortunately their number is few, and so far as I have been able to observe the Russians have all used Italian. Of modern composers Hindemith uses German, the French have a penchant (I think that is the most just) for French, and of the English-speaking composers Percy Grainger uses an English all of his own, which includes such beauties as "bumplingly", "louden lots" and "Room Music Tibbits" (Suite for Chamber Orchestra). Nevertheless Italian is still by far the most widely used, and it is incumbent on musicians to learn the most common terms, which can be found in any book on the rudiments of music. Might I suggest to my readers that they might, as a holiday task, brush up their knowledge of these terms?

UNTIL comparatively recently we have been too content to view the masterpieces of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries through nineteenth century spectacles, as it were. Additional accompaniments, heavy re-orchestrations and changes in the text have been sanctioned by usage. The tide has turned now, and efforts are being made to present these works more or less as they must have sounded to contemporary ears. Instruments such as the harpsichord and the viol d'amore have been revived. Inevitably these "reconstructions" are somewhat incomplete, as a good deal was left to the performers to improvise. The soloists of those days inserted all manner of grace notes and expanded the plain cadences with florid passages (hence the word cadenza). The player of the continuo, who acted as conductor of the band, played his part from a simple "figured bass"—a sort of musical shorthand which gives the chords to be used without any indication of the distribution of the parts; in this way he could, if skilled, give full rein to his fancy. We know from contemporary writers that men such as Bach and Handel excelled at this type of work, but unfortunately we shall never know what they were like, except by intelligent conjecture. In any case they probably never played the same way twice.

A PERFORMANCE of Handel's "Messiah" was given earlier this year in London at which great pains were taken to restore the original conception of the work. Instead of the mammoth choirs of the Victorian tradition quite a small choir was used. One of the most startling features of this performance was the restoration of the male alto or countertenor. This type of voice is very rare in Canada, and yet a good deal of vocal music was written with it in view. The male alto voice is a falsetto voice specially trained for singing. The compass is rather smaller than the female contralto voice, and has a special hollow, rather unemotional timbre that suits it for ecclesiastical music. The male alto is still in demand in England for the cathedral choirs, which are still male preserves—long may they remain so! It is, however, a slight shock to hear well-known arias such as "He shall feed His Flock" sung as Handel intended by a male alto. Not that shocks are always a bad thing; something is needed at times to jerk us out of our natural complacency and lazy thinking.

I HAVE just been listening on the radio to a recording of Schumann's violin concerto. The soloist was Menuhin, and he did much to bring to life an otherwise patchy work. Schumann had shown signs of being mentally unstable in his youth. His happy marriage with Clara Wieck had initiated a period of tranquillity during which he wrote most of his best work, but towards the end of his life he began to show alarming symptoms of depression, and the quality of his output deteriorated considerably. This concerto was completed in 1853, a few months before his attempted suicide in the Rhine. In spite of many passages of undoubted beauty the concerto is by no means a representative specimen of Schumann at his best; the finale in particular is weak, and the orchestra throughout is content to provide a very tame accompaniment. For this reason it was never published during the composer's lifetime and remained for some years in manuscript in the collection of Joachim, the famous violinist and friend of Brahms. After Joachim's death it was deposited in the archives of the Prussian State Library in Berlin, where it remained in oblivion for some years.

THEN, in 1937, a strange thing happened. Jelly d'Aranyi, the violinist and great-niece of Joachim, claimed that she had received instructions during a seance from the spirit of Joachim, instructing her to have the concerto performed. He also told her where to find it. A good deal was made of this story in the press at the time: it is only right to point out, however, that the existence of this concerto was already known to scholars: the 1929 edition of Grove's dictionary of music even gives its whereabouts and particulars of the movements that comprise it. It may very well have been a case of "subconscious memory" on the part of Miss d'Aranyi based on what Joachim may have told her while he was still alive. Be that as it may, the work was duly brought out of its living tomb in Berlin, published and performed, in spite of a protest from Schumann's only surviving daughter, Miss Eugenie Schumann, on the grounds that, after careful consideration, her mother and Joachim, with the concurrence of Brahms, had decided that the work was not to be performed. If the spirit story is true it is interesting to note that even ghosts sometimes change their minds!

A PROPOS of opera in English the first performance of the "Ring" took place in 1908 at Covent Garden, produced by a Canadian, E. C. Hedmont, who also sang the part of Loge. Who knows of Hedmont today? Yet in his time he gained much success in England; in Germany, though, his voice was considered scarcely powerful enough for Wagnerian "Heldentenor" roles. His "Lohengrin" and "Tannhauser" were thought to be his best parts. There is no record of him appearing in public in this country.

Korea: Lessons of the First Year

By ROBERT JESSEL

(Ed. Note: Mr. Jessel was military correspondent and leader-writer for the "Manchester Guardian" from 1946-50 and subsequently was until recently military commentator and leader-writer for the "Daily Express".)

BEFORE dawn on June 25, 1950, leading elements of the North Korean army drove southwards across the then almost unknown 38th Parallel to mount a blitzkrieg that narrowly failed. The blitzkrieg became a war of attrition. In December even the identity of the main Red combatant changed, when the Chinese Army took over the brunt of the fighting from the bruised North Korean remnants. But this strange campaign, now exactly a year old, has remained with all its vicissitudes and changing champions of peculiar interest to the student of war. For Korea could give us, as Spain did in the 1930's, a preview of the shape of war to come.

There is something distasteful about looking at a bloody campaign in which millions of civilians have lost their lives and in which many of our friends are fighting with the cold eye of the professor in a laboratory. But we ought to swallow such distaste. In a rearming world no country can afford to neglect the lessons of the Korean fighting. For twice each side in turn has tasted the sweets of near-victory and the bitterness of near-defeat. From an examination of those four phases of the war the world's General Staffs are in a position to pass judgement on the merits of post-war Eastern and Western-style armies in localized land warfare.

What the layman may easily overlook, to his cost, is just how peculiar the Korean war has been so far, and the huge advantages which this peculiarity has conferred in turn on General MacArthur and General Ridgway.

First, the United Nations army has enjoyed virtual air supremacy for the whole twelve months. It has used this supremacy as a battering ram. Yet should a Third World War break out within the next three years, the enormous advantage of tactical air superiority for at least the opening phases in Europe and the Middle East would lie with the Communist commanders; the United States would be striving towards parity, but hardly more. In brief, the Red armies in Korea have been deployed under the worst possible conditions, and can reasonably attribute to these conditions the failure of land tactics in the mass assault which are not necessarily faulty in themselves.

Second, the fighting has taken place, as it took place in Italy in 1943 and 1944, in a narrow peninsula. This narrowness has prevented the Reds from using their overwhelming numerical superiority on land to impose a war of movement round one or both of the United Nations' flanks. At the same time it has allowed the Western commander-in-chief to man at least one defensive line continuously across the whole neck of the peninsula, sometimes with enough margin to provide a strategic reserve, sometimes with virtually no margin at all, and once—in mid-September, the month of the Inchon landings—with a whole army corps available for amphibious attack in the enemy rear. Such circumstances could not recur on a European battlefield, though Denmark bears interesting similarities. In general, the steamroller tactics of Communist mass armies demand unlimited space for manoeuvre.

Third, the war has been fought in a place where naval supremacy could be used in direct relation to the land battle, and where it could pay immediate, short-term dividends. Fourth, it has been fought, at any rate since October, with the United Nations forces armed with the latest mass-produced weapons from American arsenals while the Reds have chosen—or been forced—to make do with World War Two weapons of various origins. Finally, this peculiar war has been conducted without the employment of either bacteriological weapons or atomic bombs, a circumstance unlikely to be repeated in full-scale, all-out war.

From the first four of these circumstances the Communist world can fairly draw comfort in studying the first year of the Korean campaign. The fifth circumstance will hardly be a comfort. If anything, it may be a warning that, militarily, Korea should be considered as the last (or nearly the last) of the old-type wars rather than a prototype of mid-20th century land-warfare.

I have tried to emphasize the "oddness" of the campaign so far because nothing could be more dangerous at the present time than for the free world to draw the inference from the past twelve months' fighting that Western fire-power and mobility can normally expect to check, far less shatter, the mass assault of numerically superior Red armies. Through the gallantry of the United Nations soldiers, their ability to learn quickly from mistakes, and the capacity of their commanders to stage-manage narrow-fronted close contact battles in which the napalm bomb and the artillery box can cause withering casualties, we have emerged from twelve months' fighting without serious damage. Our senior officers have been given a brisk reminder that the "rich man's war" in Normandy is best forgotten in favour of the poor man's war of the pre-Montgomery era.

But they are left with a teasing problem.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. . . . And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow; and much people of the city was with her.

And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And he came and touched the bier; and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother.

And there came a fear on all; and they glorified God, saying, That a great prophet is risen up among us; and That God hath visited his people. (Luke 7:11,12-16.)

Letter To The Editor

SAYS NEWS SUPPRESSED AND DISTORTED

Sir: As a professed upholder of freedoms of various kinds, I am rather surprised that you are so consistent in the suppression, rather than the publishing of the news. I refer to your editorial of Tuesday, June 19, 1951, also to a news item published by the Examiner a short while previous to the above date.

You raise a great cry about the justice of a ruling by a one man tribunal, while not giving all the facts regarding the functions, and the constitution of the Ontario Labour Relations Board.

I think that, as you have said in the past that the honour of the press is so dear to you, it would have been only common courtesy to the public for whom you publish, have advised them, that both employee employer may submit evidence to "board", to which neither party may have access through the "board", but at the same time the members of the board are representatives of the employer, the employee and the government—all parties concerned being declared acceptable to the groups represented. Naturally, "labour" is going to protest double dealing of this description.

Yours sincerely,
EDWARD S. HUMPHREY.

NOT NEW

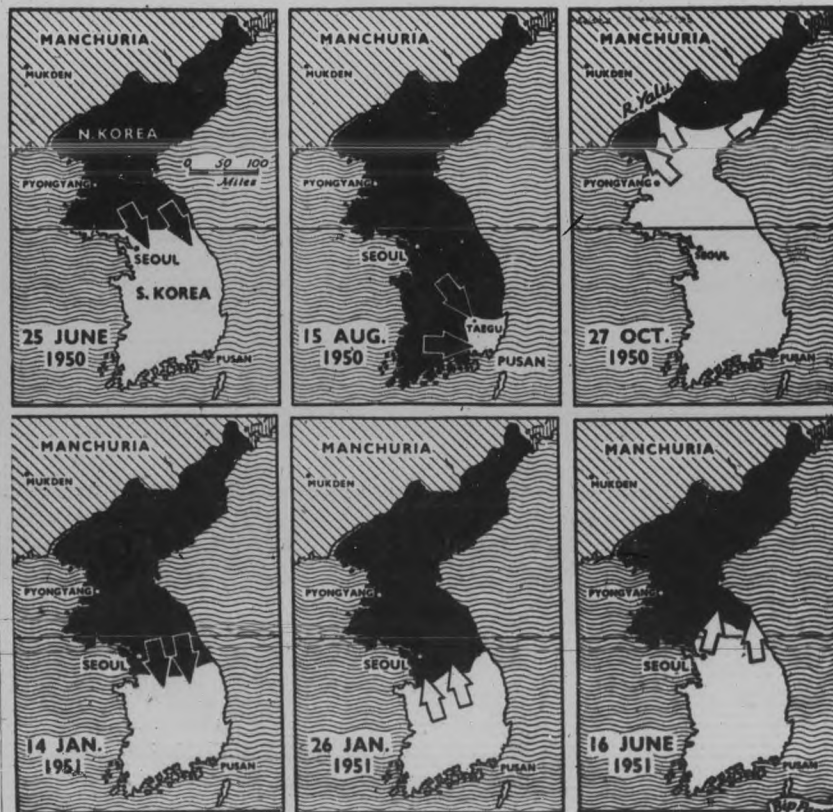

"Daddy thinks you're just after me for my money, Cyril. Isn't he an old silly?"
"Well, er... I used to think so."

Suppose that from east to west the Korean peninsula had been 400 miles wide instead of 160; suppose that the forces on either side had remained unchanged; suppose that the United Nations' air and naval supremacy had not persisted. In such circumstances, could General MacArthur or General Ridgway have kept even a toe-hole in Pusan?

Almost certainly not. The urgent military problem of the next few years is gradually finding down to the problem of canalizing a mass assault on a 400 or 500-mile front into a killing area of a third that width. General Eisenhower's main task in Western Europe has been made clearer—but no easier—by the course of the Korean fighting.

A YEAR OF WAR IN KOREA

Today marks the first anniversary of the Communist invasion of South Korea. As shown in BIP Pares maps, the battlefronts have shifted far to the North and to the South, the 38th parallel having been repeatedly crossed and recrossed. Both sides have suffered heavy losses. Communist casualties, according to latest estimates are approaching the million mark, while the United Nations losses amount to more than a quarter of a million. The severest losses amongst the United Nations forces have been sustained by the South Koreans (approximately 200,000) and the United States (70,317). United Kingdom casualties up to June 1 totalled 2,167. (See article above.)

Trained Leaders Needed For Sunday Schools

BETHANY, June 25—(ENS)—The area convention of the Sunday schools of the townships of Manvers and Cartwright was held in Bethany United church on Thursday afternoon and evening. Anglican, Presbyterian and United church Sunday schools were represented.

Rev. R. J. Scott, Whitby, was the guest speaker. In outlining the opportunities and obligations of township officers, Mr. Scott said there is a great need for leadership training courses and every teacher and officer would benefit by same.

Mr. Scott's main address at the afternoon session, "Church Schools Reach Out," enlarged on his earlier suggestions. "Sunday schools must reach out to meet the changing conditions of the present day."

"There is a danger of the church and its program of christian education being crowded out by the many other service groups. A church school program must be made attractive to have a telling effect. Teachers are never too old to learn and they should keep up with modern methods in teaching the young. The parents have their responsibility in taking, not sending, their children to Sunday school."

"A Church Vacation Bible School," he said, "is a good thing for the junior members of the community. A church centre program for boys and girls should be carried through in every community, with home help and co-operation. Family worship should be encouraged and midweek church activities promoted which will provide a background of training for future leadership in the community."

At the evening session Rev. Mr. Scott titled his address "Education by Accident."

Percy Rowe, Janetville, presided at both sessions.

Rev. James Hampson, Bethany United church, welcomed the members of the convention. Rev. T. S. Gault, Bethany, had charge of the afternoon worship period. Rev. Claire Kellogg, Janetville, led the evening worship service and also had charge of the afternoon recreation period.

During the discussion period several suggestions were made as to better methods of giving temperance and mission instruction in the Sunday schools; how to keep teen-agers interested in christian education; how to gain better attendance; the importance of attending summer vacation camps run by religious instructors, the value of visual teaching by means of slides and pictures; highly qualified teachers especially in the primary and junior departments; ministerial teaching in the public schools.

Mr. Gault gave a report of the resolutions committee who planned a leadership training course to be held in October with a special demonstration in primary department work to be given. Also, he it resolved that the Sunday schools seek strongly to impress on boys and girls the necessity for reverence and respect of the Sabbath Day, the church and God. Mr. Gault also conveyed the thanks of the convention to the Board of Session.

The choir will compete in the Welsh Eisteddfod July 3 at Llangollen, Wales.

Pirates Knock Out Dodgers In Doubleheader Upset

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

It may not be a breeze for Brooklyn after all. Unless Sunday's signs are wrong, those dashing Dodgers may find the road to the National pennant rough and rocky.

Chuck Dressen's darlings dashed into Sunday's doubleheader with last-place Pittsburgh all set to sweep both games and return to Flatbush pacing the NL by at least eight games.

The Pirates lost 14 of their last 15 games at Forbes Field and 10 straight to Brooklyn.

But lightning struck twice as the Pirates dumped the Dodgers 10-7, and 5-4 to chop 1½ games from their lead.

The second place Giants beat the Cubs 10-7 and climbed within six games of Brooklyn. Stan Musial practically was a one-man show as he paced St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over Boston Braves in 14 innings. Cincinnati and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader. The Reds took the opener 3-1; the Phils grabbed the second 4-2.

Cliff Indians
In the American League the Yankees clipped the Indians 5-3 and now trail the White Sox by one game. Chicago split twin-bills in Boston, taking the opener 6-5 and dropping the second 8-6.

Detroit drubbed Washington 10-5 and Philadelphia Athletics trampled St. Louis Browns twice, 6-3 and 7-1.

Murry Dickson went all the way to win the opener for Pittsburgh. It was his ninth triumph.

Ed Walsh, a former Cardinal, won his first game of the season. Wilks hurled three runless innings in relief, allowing only one hit. Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the sixth to overcome a 4-2 deficit. Gus Bell's single drove in the tying and winning runs.

Gil Hodges rapped three homers for the Dodgers. He now has 24 and is two days and two games behind Babe Ruth's record pace of 27.

Split Doubleheader
Paul Richards' White Sox return to Chicago with only one victory in Fenway Park where they lost three heart-breakers.

After dropping 6-5 and 6-7 decisions Friday and Saturday, they lost another toughie Sunday after winning the opener 6-5. The Chicagoans overcame a 5-1 deficit to pull even at 5-5 in the top of the seventh inning of the nightcap. But the Red Sox loaded the bases on Marv Rotblatt in their half. Ted Williams' infield single broke the tie.

Two homers by Phil Masi and one by Eddie Robinson won for Chicago in the opener before 34,869. It was Robinson's 15th homer and tied him with Philadelphia's Gus Zernial for the league lead.

Gene Woodling smashed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and give the Yankees a sweep of their three-game series.

Monte Irvin and Don Mueller drove in three runs each to spark the Giants to their win over the Cubs. Irvin hit his 10th homer and Mueller collected four hits to extend his hitting streak through 16 games.

Musial singled and scored St. Louis' first run in the sixth. He homered in the eighth for the second run. He led off the 14th with a double, went to third on a fly and scored the winning run on Nippy Jones' infield single. Max Lanier, who allowed one hit in five innings on relief, was the winner.

Ken Raffensberger spun a seven-hitter for the Reds over the Phils to register his seventh victory in the first of their two games. Bill Nicholson whacked a two-run homer in the ninth off reliever Frank Smith to win the second for Philadelphia 4-2.

Gus Zernial batted in seven runs on two homers, his 14th and 15th, and a double as the A's beat the Browns 8-3. Allie Clark got four hits including a homer and drove in two runs to lead the A's to their second-game triumph 7-1.

Vic Wertz led a 15-hit Tiger attack on four Washington pitchers with a home run, double and two singles.

Maxim Suspects Being Drugged

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 25 (AP)—Light-heavyweight boxing champion Joey Maxim, who suspects he may have been drugged, today is expected to tell the Illinois State Athletic Commission he fought as if in a trance in his 10-round beating by heavyweight champ Ezzard Charles here May 30.

Maxim and his trainer, Al Del Monte, were summoned from Cleveland to appear before the commission which two weeks ago began investigating rumors Joey might have been doped in the Memorial Day title bout.

Maxim's manager, Jack Kearns, and commission physician, Dr. J. M. Houston, already have testified before the commission.

Kearns said Maxim acted like he was doped, but admitted he didn't know whether Joey was "drugged" by one of Charles' punches, "or what."

Dr. Houston said his post-fight examination did not indicate

Chiefs Sweep Twin Bill From Buffalo

By The Associated Press.
"Where's that rabbit ball," International League batters are moaning today.

Pitchers dominate the triple-A circuit this year. The boxscores show 53 shutouts, one no-hitter, eight one-hitters, 14 two-hitters and 18 three hitters.

Syracuse moundmen highlighted an all-doubleheader card Sunday. Jack Griffore pitched the Chiefs to a 1-0 13-inning victory over Buffalo Bisons in the first game and Bill Miller followed with a 5-1 two-hit conquest in the nightcap.

Loren Babe homered to win the opener. Griffore granted six hits in bagging his seventh victory. Rookie Tom Acker also allowed only six blows in going down to his fifth setback.

Augie Bergano drove in two runs on three singles to lead the Chiefs to victory in the second game. The triumphs moved the Chiefs to within four games of the league-leading Montreal Royals.

Down Orioles
The Royals downed Baltimore Orioles 5-3 and were leading 3-1 in the nightcap when the game was called after six innings to allow both teams to catch trains.

The second game will be resumed on Montreal's next visit to Baltimore. Jackie Gilliam collected three hits to spark Montreal to victory in the first game.

Ottawa and Springfield split pitching duels. The Giants won the opener 1-0 behind the three-hit pitching of Ed Wright and the Cubs the nightcap 2-1 behind the three-hit tossing of Frank LaManna. Stan Jok doubled home the winning run in the opener and Ray Cash and Ed Ehlers knocked in Springfield's runs in the nightcap.

Toronto Maple Leafs took both ends of a doubleheader from Rochester Red Wings 9-7 in 12 innings and 14-4. Charley Grant's three-run homer decided the opener. Johnny Ostrowski drove in four runs to lead the Leafs to victory in the nightcap.

Alberta Stages Successful War On Flies

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. —(CP)—Flies are finding things mighty tough around here this summer. What with the recent big June snowfall and now a war on their hands, the carefree life of a fly is hardly worth living.

For the citizens of Lethbridge and nine other communities in this part of southern Alberta have launched an all-out war on the common house fly.

Health authorities say the campaign is the first major effort in fly control in Canada.

The idea was started by Dr. Margaret O'Meara, former Lethbridge medical health officer, and the first spraying was carried out last summer, using DDT.

Great Results
Results were so successful the city decided to carry out an operation DDT every year. Then the provincial and federal governments got behind the idea and provided grants for the purchase of a spraying machine.

Provincial entomologist J. H. Brown of Edmonton suggested setting up a fly-control area, so the towns of MacLeod, Cardston, Magrath, Raymond, Stirling, Coaldale, Taber, Picture Butte and Barons joined the project.

Health authorities feel that by getting rid of flies, one of the greatest health menaces would be removed.

If the fly control program is successful over the entire district, there is a strong possibility that a mosquito control campaign will be undertaken next year.

Suspend Publication

BOMBAY, India, June 25 (Reuters)—A special plenary session of the All-India Newspaper Editors' conference resolved Sunday to suspend publication of all the country's dailies July 12 in protest against the recent "press curb" amendment to India's constitution. The Indian parliament overwhelmingly passed Prime Minister Nehru's bill June 2 amending the constitution by writing into it "reasonable" curbs on freedom of speech and expression and changing the land-revenue system.

Restrict Schedules

NELSON, B.C., June 25 (CP)—Canadian Pacific Railway freight train schedules west of here have been restricted as a precaution against possible derailling of tracks by Sons of Freedom radicals. It was learned Sunday that freight between Nelson and Midway and Nelson and Rossland has been restricted to the hours between 3 a.m. and 9 p.m. except in cases of emergency.

Union Parley Ends

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 25 (Reuters)—Trade unionists from eight Commonwealth countries ended their second annual conference Sunday. The conference, presided over by Arthur Deakin, chairman of the International Committee of the British Trade Union Congress, was attended by labor leaders from Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Ceylon and South Africa.

Active In Politics

MONTREAL, June 25—(CP)—For the first time in the history of Quebec politics, a recognized party is to be headed by a woman. Mde. Pierre-F. Casgrain, widow of Mr. Justice Casgrain, of Quebec Superior Court, Sunday night was elected party leader of the Quebec section of the CCF. The party will enter the field in the next provincial elections, expected in the fall of 1952.

Union Buys Tourist Camp In Kawarthas

Club Whitesands Sold For $140,000 To Chemical Union

Club Whitesands on Lake Katchewan has been sold to the International Chemical Workers Union (AFL) so members and their families can enjoy their summer holidays at the swank resort.

It will also be used for educational courses on union matters. The 80-acre property, valued at $500,000, was sold to the union for $140,000.

Announcement of the purchase was made by the executive board of the union in Akron, Ohio.

It was formerly owned by two Oshawa brothers—Charles and Edward Robson. Tex Leonard will continue on as manager. Club Whitesands was built four years ago and is considered the most expensive summer resort property in the Kawarthas district.

The sale does not mean that the resort will only be open to union members from Canada and the United States. The general public is welcome to stay there as well. It is expected that eventually the resort will be entirely given over to union accommodation.

The main lodge has lounge rooms, facilities for a cocktail bar, gift shop, and dining room. A separate five-acre property, connected by radio-phone, accommodates the staff and contains the power and marine facilities. The club cannot be reached by highway. A cabin cruiser provides a ferry service.

Not Lucky Enough

Mrs. Harry McNaughton, Downie St., won the evening draw prize for mothers at the CGE picnic Saturday. Mrs. McNaughton concedes that she's lucky, but not lucky enough. Before her ticket was drawn for the electric kettle she remarked that there was one prize she didn't want: an electric kettle. The reason? She has one already.

Recover Body Of Boy Lost In River

Two Crescent St. men, while out boating Sunday morning, discovered the body of five-year-old Gary Yates, 450 Mark St., who drowned Thursday night in the raceway south of the Quaker Oats powerhouse.

Firemen and volunteers have been dragging the water in the raceway and the Otonabee river during daylight hours since early Thursday night.

Near CPR Bridge

The two who found the body were Cliff Pirie, 25, 71 Crescent St., and his chum Vernon Gosselin, 24, 67 Crescent St. They saw the body floating face downward midway between a small island and the west bank of the river, 100 feet north of the CPR bridge.

The two men were idling along in Gosselin's boat, testing his new outboard motor for trolling speed. Pirie first saw the body but didn't know at first if it was just a floating object.

They investigated and found it was the drowned boy. After shouting their discovery to a group of boys on the CPR bridge they brought the body ashore.

Their discovery was shortly after 11 a.m.

Going To Assist In Search

They were going upstream at the time to assist other volunteers in the search for the body.

The boy drowned early Thursday night when he fell from an eight-foot cement shoring wall on which he was climbing and fell into the raceway, 30 feet south of the powerhouse.

He could not swim and was caught up in a back eddy of the turbulent water and swirled almost within reach of an older lad who was fishing from a near-by abutment. Then he was carried out into the fast-moving main stream and disappeared from view.

He is survived by his mother and father; two sisters, Sharon 4, and Dianne 1; one brother, Donald 2; two step-sisters, Mildred 15, and Marlene 12, and one step-brother, Robert 10.

The funeral was held today from the Kaye funeral home at 1:30 p.m. The Rev. B. Morwood of Mark St. United church conducted the service. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

PETERBOROUGH'S LARGEST INDUSTRIAL FAMILY, Canadian General Electric, held their mammoth picnic on Saturday at Nicholls Park. There was fun for everyone: races, horseshoe pitching, bait casting, golf driving and paid entertainment. It was estimated that 10,000 people attended. The park slides were busy and, according to the line-ups pictured (in Top photo), there was seating room only. Nine-year-old girls in the foot-race class (Lower photo), made a dashing start; the event was won after three heats by Faye Harding. (Examiner Staff Photos)

Runs Into House Youth Arrested

Kenneth Cuthbertson, 19, Norwood was taken into custody Saturday night by Constable William B. Parsons after an accident in which the youth failed to make a right-hand turn and crashed his car into a brick house.

He will appear in city police court later today and will likely face charges of reckless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Cuthbertson started to make a turn onto Aylmer St., Norwood, after driving out of the exhibition grounds entrance. Somehow the car went out of control and continued straight ahead.

It crossed the sidewalk and a lawn and ran into the brick house. The house was not damaged but the car received about $150 damage.

After the accident Cuthbertson drove the car to the home of Constable Parsons and he was later arrested there.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Lorne Russell, of Oshawa, is beginning his second week of unconsciousness at the Civic Hospital. He was struck by a car on June 16 near the filtration plant. His condition today was still described as "serious."

Annual Decoration Day Said Day of Threefold Revelation

"This day shall be unto you for a memorial." This text from Exodus 12:4 was chosen by Major C. G. Everitt of the Salvation Army for his address at the IOOF decoration day parade and service Sunday afternoon at Little Lake cemetery.

The IOOF service was in conjunction with the annual Little Lake cemetery decoration day. Approximately 150 members from Peterborough and Otonabee lodges and other district lodges attended the service.

Threefold Revelation
"This day is a threefold revelation," Major Everitt said. "It is a day of memory, a day of decoration and a day of resolution."

He explained that such a day brings back memories of those who have died—that they had achieved and what they meant to their loved ones. By the decoration of their graves, we perform a duty to demonstrate that what these people achieved and what they were has not been forgotten by the living.

"By calling this also a day of resolution, we mean that it reveals challenge for tomorrow," Major Everitt concluded. "It is a challenge of what God expects of us. These people are not dead merely for decoration but for a purpose—the purpose of freedom, liberty and death which we, the living, must carry on."

During the service, Stan Gillespie, a member of Picton Lodge and Mr. Long, a visitor from the United States, laid a special wreath on the IOOF plot in memory of members of the lodges who have died.

Flowers Placed
Boyd Stinson, vice grand master of the Peterborough Lodge was chairman of the service. The lodge ritual for the service was given by Robert Pulford, noble grand of Peterborough lodge and acting Chaplain for the day. Norman McMurchy, noble grand master of Otonabee lodge.

A wreath was placed on the war memorial by Gordon Wyatt and Elmer Pierce in a brief service before the service at the cemetery. The lodge members then marched to the cemetery led by the Salvation Army band. The special music during the service at the cemetery was also provided by the Salvation Army band.

Following the service, lodge members decorated the graves of deceased members. This added to the great number of flowers that had been placed on graves in the cemetery Saturday and Sunday morning.

CGE Families Make Merry At Employees Picnic Despite The Threat Of Rain

Social and Athletic Club Sponsors

Annual Outing At Nicholls Park

With 10,000 Employees and Families Present

Despite the constant threat of rain, 10,000 parents and children turned out Saturday for the annual CGE employees' picnic. The outing at Nicholls park was sponsored by the social and athletic club and the canteen fund. In between the races excited children stormed the five refreshment booths for soft drinks and hot dogs. Entries were reported larger than usual in all events.

A crowd of at least 2,000 hillside spectators saw the 8:00 p.m. stage performance. It offered a variety of entertainment that included a three-girl dancing team, singer, novelty, juggling, a unicycle act and clowns.

One of the most popular acts with the kiddies was the troupe of performing dogs and Mary Jane, the monkey.

A similar show was put on in the afternoon. Bill Holliday was the master of ceremonies of the show.

Besides the organized entertainment and the refreshments the younger children enjoyed themselves with the swings, slides and teeter-totters.

In Charge Of Picnic

Officials in charge of the picnic said that an even larger crowd might have attended but for the threat of rain. Damp grass and damp benches were a cause of fewer families with babies or toddlers coming out.

Winner of the large refrigerator was John G. Adams, 193 Mark St., employed in the machine shop. And the other big winner was Mrs. William Lanouette, 503 McGill St. Her husband is a drill press operator.

Oswald Price, Brock St., a CGE draftsman, won the draw prize for fathers for the second time in as many years, and Mrs. A. Paudash the prize for mothers. Draws for mothers and fathers are held both afternoon and evening. Last year Mr. Price won the afternoon one and this year he won the winning ticket at the evening draw. He's trusting his luck holds out next year when he hopes to win the major draw.

Adults had lots of fun as well as the children. Particular interest focused on the golf approach competition and the bait casting contest. There were also horseshoes and the usual number of novelty races.

A pickup softball team skippered by Howie Dalton defeated a team led by Ken Guilfoyle, 10-2. Draws were made by J. E. Girven and Ian F. McRae.

Pat Calladine was chairman program committees and Bill Bennett was general chairman of the picnic. Lowery McQuade was general secretary. Other officials in charge of the program were Thomas McCabe, E. G. Myles, (Continued on Page 17)

Parked Cars Take Beating Over Weekend

Two minor hit-and-run accidents, involving a parked truck and a car, were among the weekend accidents reported to city police.

On Sunday, Dr. John H. Fraser, 377 Stewart St., told police that his car was sideswiped while parked at his home. The fenders and doors of the car were damaged. The other car failed to stop. A truck, owned by the Cope transport, followed the fleeing car, but lost it.

Harry Bartlett, 316½ Charlotte St., reported to the police station Saturday that his truck, while parked on Water St. near King St. was hit by a car which was making the turn on to King St. It struck the left front fender, scraping the paint off.

At the time his wife was sitting in the truck.

A driverless car was involved in a third accident. Mr. A. Farnell, 430 O'Connell Road, parked his car, facing north in the alley at the rear of the armouries.

While there his car gradually moved backward. It rolled down a slight incline, across Murray St., over the sidewalk and crashed into the cement steps at the home of Mrs. E. Beresford, 223 Murray St.

The top steps of the verandah were demolished and the rear bumper of the car damaged. PC Edward Patterson investigated.

A fourth accident occurred on George St. above Dalhousie on Saturday. Cars owned by William H. Ashby, 588 Water St., and J. B. Dossett, 560 Rose Ave., met in collision; slight damage was done to both. PC Sherman Kellele investigated.

On Friday, during the rain, a bicycle ridden by Stanley Hood, 588 Park St., collided with a parked car owned by Leonard Johnston, 472 Brioux Ave., at the corner of McDonnell and Park Sts. Damage to the bicycle amounted to $5. PC Patrick Gillis investigated.

2 Bank Buildings Mirror 50-Year Changes

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

One of the proudest looking buildings anywhere is the new Bank of Nova Scotia head office, whose 25 storeys rise massively, yet gracefully, amid the rapidly-developing canyons of Toronto's King and Bay Streets.

And one of the most melancholy of sights is the old head office, across the street on King, which was deserted this weekend.

The two buildings in their contrasts give a glimpse of the vast growth of Canada in less than 50 years, and mirror the change in the pace and manner of life.

In 1903 the now-abandoned building of five storeys was itself put up to meet the needs of widening frontiers; but it was built in the tradition of sedate banking premises.

Grilled iron gates opened from the street on to stone steps which led up through great pillars to the halls of finance. It was a place to invite top-hatted gentlemen and long-gowned ladies whose carriages awaited without, rather than the throngs of average men and women who keep their savings accounts in the banks of today.

In 47 years it must have seen much of happiness and tragedy. Today it is blackened with the smoke of years.

Everything Moved
During the weekend, virtually everything that had made it a bank was moved out, and into the new clean-lined Colossus across the street.

Millions of dollars in cash and securities, tons of silver and pennies, and more than a century of bank records, made the short trip under close guard—with an awareness that there was the scene of an $82,000 robbery from bank messengers in 1923.

The 500 people who worked there, moved out too, and today greeted customers from their handsome new quarters.

The old building, through the years, had changed. Like people, it had spread around the middle. In fact it had spread through four neighboring buildings, cutting their stone walls and sending long aisles and corridors through them.

Later this summer the new head office will be opened officially with appropriate ceremonies. But, from today, it is a going concern as a bank.

The United Nations forces of which we are part, in resisting this aggression, have inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. We must continue to inflict heavy damage on the enemy at every opportunity so that the battle for freedom in Korea may be won."

Seoul Wreckage Reminder Of Year Of War

By STAN CARTER

AT THE 38TH PARALLEL ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Korea, June 25—(AP)—This is where the Korean war began. Here, in the Seoul-Uijongbu-Chorwon corridor, Communist tanks rolled into South Korea one year ago today.

Three times, Communist armies have marched past this point into South Korea. Three times United Nations armies have pushed them back up north.

Today, barbed wire is still in evidence along the parallel. Sand-bagged machine-gun positions still can be seen along a little piece of high ground overlooking the parallel.

Allied trucks and jeeps kick up clouds of dust on the road down which the Red tanks came. Some are carrying supplies to the battle-front, in North Korea.

In a way, this is a pretty place. The hills on both sides of the corridor are green with vegetation. Fields of grain, sown when the battlelines were farther away, are maturing in the valley. On the hills there are wild flowers.

At the side of the road is a freshly painted black-and-yellow sign: "The war began here June 25th, 1950—38th parallel—courtesy Cavalry Division." Here is the rubble of war.

Two rusty Korean trucks—you can't tell whether they are North or South Korean—lie on their sides in a grain field. One has a shell hole through the cab. The frame of the other is twisted.

The headquarters camp of an American tank company is located at the parallel. Just a little up the road there is a cluster of pup tents and half-shelters, where fresh UN troops are billeted before being sent to the line. Combat veterans are processed here prior to going home.

A mile or so up the road are the ruins of a North Korean town. The dwellings have been levelled by artillery and bombs. At the side of the road, an old Korean woman is drawing water from a well which has been left intact.

Perhaps 10,000 North Koreans lived in the town before the war. The old woman is the only civil-

Hope Cancer Cure Search Will Aid A-Bomb Victims

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, June 25—(AP)—A great new search to cure cancers is under way at Memorial Hospital's Sloan Kettering institute.

It could bring a tremendous dividend—the discovery of ways to save people hit by radiation from atom bombs.

The key to both goals is X-rays, and what X-rays do to human bodies and tissues.

X-rays can cure cancers. But they can also hurt healthy cells and may cause radiation sickness. If doctors learn how to prevent or cure radiation sickness and damage to health tissues, they could use bigger doses of X-rays to cure more cancers.

If that is learned, the radiation danger in A-bombs might be lessened or abolished. Their dangerous radiation is mostly X-rays.

The radiation sickness is the same, whether from too much X-rays in treating cancer or from the bomb.

Damage Production

X-rays damage production of red and white blood cells, leading to anemia and less resistance to disease.

The puzzle is just how and why

X-rays cause these changes.

Some clues are coming already from the new studies directed by Dr. C. P. Rhoads, director of research at Memorial, and Dr. James Nickson, chief radiation therapist.

One phase is tracing exactly what happens in the bodies of patients treated with X-rays for cancer.

Another question is what radiation does to glands and hormone secretions. If hormone output is changed, radiation sickness might be offset by giving hormones that are lacking. There is evidence, said Dr. Rhoads, that the amount of hormones coming from the adrenal glands are changed.

Somewhat, X-rays can change the chemical balance inside living cells. They can change the heredity of cells, leading them to suicide or sometimes leading them to wild, cancerous growth.

The heredity of a cell is determined by its chromosomes and genes.

Have Four Chemicals

The chromosomes seem to be made up mainly of four chemicals. These are like gears in a gearbox, necessary to let the cell live and grow. Dr. Rhoads explained. Each can be made synthetically.

The vital point is that different kinds of cells apparently need different amounts of the four gears.

The hope is that maybe there are differences in the amount of each gear needed by a cancer cell compared with a healthy cell.

If this is true, then scientists could make fake gears, chemicals that almost fit but which are just different enough that the cell can't use them. A cancer cell might take up the fake gears and be stopped in its growth. Healthy cells wouldn't be affected because

UN Diplomats Convinced Military Victory Obtained

By MAX HARELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 25—(AP)—As a full year of fighting in Korea comes to an end, most United Nations diplomats are firmly convinced the UN already has achieved both a military and a moral victory.

Even more important they say, is the impetus the Korean war has given to the UN's efforts to build strong machinery for collective security.

One Western delegate summed up the year's results this way: "We have taught the Communists that aggression doesn't pay and we have learned a lesson ourselves. We have learned that we must not be caught unprepared again."

One of the difficulties last June 25, when the North Korean Communists launched their attack on the UN-sponsored South Korean government, was the fact the UN had no armed forces at its disposal. In future cases of aggression UN diplomats hope there will be a real UN army and a real UN command.

Take Major Steps

In the 12 months since the Korean war started, the UN has taken these major steps to prepare for future aggression:

1. Created the collective measures committee, which is pushing ahead rapidly with plans for military, political and economic cooperation on a permanent basis. 2. Strengthened the 60-member General Assembly by giving it authority to act quickly if and when the Security Council is paralyzed by the big power veto.

Looking back over the year, representatives of the free countries point out several reasons for general satisfaction.

Foremost is that UN forces averted threatened disaster and succeeded in driving the Communist invaders back across the 38th parallel, the line between North and South Korea.

Prospect for Peace

It is on this basis that the diplomats claim military victory. They point out that the initial aim of the UN was to expel the aggressor and restore peace. The aggressor has been expelled. They now feel there are good prospects for peace.

There later was another objective—at the time when it appeared the UN would be able to occupy all of Korea quickly last October. This was to unify the country under a single democratic government. UN delegates now contend that, while this objective still stands, it is a political problem and should be settled by negotiations.

UK Magistrates Given Rebuke

LONDON—(CP)—Viscount Jowitt, Britain's Lord Chancellor, has decided that the magistrates who sent a young mother to jail overnight for plucking three tulips made a "grave error of judgment."

The Lord Chancellor thus gave his considered opinion on Britain's "battle of the tulips," which started after authorities in South Shields, Durham, remanded Mrs. Margaret Johnson in custody 24 hours and then fined her £5 for picking the flowers.

Mrs. Johnson, 28, admitted she picked the flowers from a civic garden on a "mad impulse." Edwin Thompson, who presided when the case was heard, said at the time he wanted to make an example of Mrs. Johnson.

The case aroused widespread interest in press and parliament. Almost unanimously, commentators deplored so heavy a punishment for so trivial an offence.

In commenting on the magistrates' decision, Lord Jowitt told the House of Lords that placing Mrs. Johnson in a cell overnight and then fining her appeared to be punishing her twice for the same offence. But although they had made a grave error of judgment, he did not propose to take action. They were trying to do their duty and he did not doubt their competence.

Blames Poor Salaries

ST. CATHARINES, June 25—(CP)—Lack of adequate salaries is responsible for a shortage in Canada of public health workers. J. M. Homer, of Hamilton, president of the Ontario branch, Canadian Institute of Sanitary Inspectors, said Sunday. Public health workers are being lured to the United States and to other countries, he said.

NORTH BAY, June 25 (CP)—Tony Iati was shot and severely wounded Sunday night and police said they have arrested his father, Paul Iati, on a charge of attempted murder. Police said the son was wounded near the heart by a bullet from a .32 calibre revolver owned by his father. Police said the shooting occurred during a quarrel between the two men.

Thieves Take Cash Register

Thieves broke into the dry-goods store of Earl Hamblin, Peterborough St., Norwood, early Sunday morning and escaped with a cash register containing $15.

The theft occurred shortly after Saturday midnight.

Entry was made by breaking a window on the west side of the store. The cash register was carried out through the same window.

Nothing else in the store was touched, says Mr. Hamblin. The thieves were apparently interested in cash only.

Police believe the store must have been under close observation by the thief. Mr. Hamblin locked up shortly before midnight, but he returned at 1:10 a.m. to pick up something he had forgotten.

That's when the break-in was discovered.

OPP Constable George Rose and Jim Healey are assisting Constable William Macleod of Norwood in the investigation.

Presentation Made

MILLBROOK, June 25—(ENS)—The south group of St. Andrew's United Church Women's Association met on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Merton Thexton. It was decided to sponsor a concert to be given by the Orono band in the Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena on July 20.

The president, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, read a short address and presented Mrs. T. G. Husser, who leaves on Wednesday for her new home in the Aylmer United Church parsonage, with an umbrella from the group.

GUSSIE MORAN may lay claim to putting glamour into tennis togs but it took these attractive twins, Denise and Helene Moshonas to show that the track and field girls can doll up too. They were point winners in their recent school championships in Montreal. Their sheer plaited nylon racing tops with trim white shorts caught the eye of officials accustomed to the regulation club type uniforms. They may have started a new trend for the girls tracksters.

St. Catharines Scores Two Lacrosse Wins

By The Canadian Press.

St. Catharines' rampaging Athletics took over sole possession of first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior race during the weekend, with wins over Hamilton and Toronto West Yorks.

The A's, playing before a bulging home crowd of more than 2,000 Saturday, routed the fourth-place Hamilton Tigers 12-5 and then moved to Toronto to edge the Yorks 7-6 on Sunday.

In other O.A.A. senior action, Brampton's fifth-place Excelsiors downed last place Fergus Thistles 14-8, in a Saturday night home game.

The Tigers, leading St. Catharines 3-2 at the end of the first period, were allowed two goals in the second period and then held scoreless for the rest of the game by the red-hot Athletics.

Jim McMahon led the Athletics attack with three goals. The rest came in singles by Bill Nelson, Emil Uhrmuk, Don Frick, Bob Melville, Max Woolley Bill Bradshaw, Frank Bird, Ted Howe and Doug Smith.

Playing coach Jack Gair scored two for the Tigers and Blain MacDonald, Jack Dorney and Tommy Love each scored one.

Scores Tie-breaker
In Toronto St. Catharines, scored the tie-breaker for the A's with seven minutes to go in the game.

Max Woolley and Jim McMahon each scored two goals and Tony Damico and Bill Nelson accounted for the rest.

Wimpy Wilson, with two counters, paced the sixth-place Yorks. Steve Kapasky, Frank Facto, Leo Teaster and Frank King were the other goal-getters.

At Brampton, the Excelsiors' attack was led by Bob Hilson with five goals and Al Garbutt with three. Don Beatty, Bob Lakeley, Gus Chard, Bob Sutherland, Nick Ferri and Clark Lyons all scored one each.

Three Fergus players, Elmer Harris, Hec Mackenzie, and J. J. Hill scored two apiece. Jack Lumley, Don Smith each scored one.

Struck By Fans
Robinson's wife, Edna, who was standing by the ring during the fight, said she was struck several times by angry fans.

"Come in here, honey," Robinson had called to her from under the ring.

The "no-decision" ruling came at the council session—apparently so stormy that Dr. Hans Aumann, one of the three members of the commission, resigned.

The conference, however, couldn't have been much more stormy than the arena where the scheduled 10-round fight was held Sunday night. Hecht went down once in the first round, writhing in pain, and was given a rest.

Then, in the second session, Sugar Ray, world middleweight champion, hit him with two lefts and a right.

Robinson Disqualified
Hecht went down again, clutching his back. The bout was stopped, and Robinson was disqualified.

The judges ruled he had hit Hecht with kidney punches, illegal in Germany. Hecht was declared winner in the second round.

This brought about a round of cat-calls by the 25,000 spectators and many pop bottles hurtling into the ring.

Officials, reporters and managers tried to duck the missiles. Meanwhile, police rushed the bewildered Robinson to his dressing room.

When some order had been restored later Robinson gave this account of the fight:

He told referee Otto Nispel, when Hecht went down for the first time: "you know that was no foul."

He quoted Nispel as replying: "I can't leave this ring. Do you want me killed? We must give him a rest."

"I'm sorry if the Germans think I'd come all this way to win on a foul," Robinson continued. "How ever, I'm glad that many Germans at the ringside know it was not so. I don't care if I ever fight here again. This was the most un-sportsmanlike conduct I have ever seen."

This program, which has been carried out for the past three years, is arranged to keep the children in contact with the library during the summer months.

Hatter's Clerk On George St.

Died Head Of Big Cincinnati Store

Bolton S. Armstrong, president of Mabley & Carew Co. departmental store in Cincinnati, died of a heart condition Friday June 15, and was buried there on the following Monday. His age was 80.

Mr. Armstrong was born in Peterborough in 1870, and received his education here at the Collegiate Institute and business college. He began his career in merchandising as a clerk with the late Joseph Mills, retail furrier and men's hatter on the east side of George St.

Fifty-nine years ago he started as a clerk in the men's furnishings department of Mabley & Carew Co. at $10 a week, and in 1914 he succeeded the late Joseph T. Carlew as president, continuing in that position until his death. It was on May 7 last that he was re-elected to serve his 37th consecutive term as president of the company.

Business Leader
One of the leading business men of Cincinnati for years, Mr. Armstrong was president of the board of trustees of the Cincinnati Southern Railway and a director of the First National Bank of Cincinnati. He was a former president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association and the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants. He had also been a trustee of the American Retail Federation, director of the Chamber of Commerce, Community Chest and Cincinnati Boy and Girl Scouts.

He had maintained memberships in business and social clubs up to his death.

Of the youth who had been a clerk on George St., a press sketch of his career recalled that in the early 1890's he signed to move into the new Carew Tower development across the street from the original site of Mabley & Carew.

Lynn Revenaugh, executive secretary of the Retail Merchants Association gave this report: "He had a lease on the other building, and many told him it was too much of a gamble to give up the low cost operation for the new premises. Yet, with the vision he always seemed to possess he went right ahead. His friends also recall how he weathered the depression proving himself to be one of the city's top merchants."

"Mr. Armstrong was known to thousands of school children as 'Johnny Applesed' since he carried on a tradition begun by Mr. Carew of distributing Arbor Day flowers and shrubs to all of them. It is estimated that during his life time he distributed more than five million.

"He was prominently identified with social welfare, and his charities, public and private, have been large through the years."

Sustained Interest Here
Mr. Armstrong retained an interest in Peterborough in spite of his long absence, and furnished a room at the new Civic Hospital.

Private Zoo
CALGARY —(CP)—Someone here must be establishing a private zoo. Officials of the pound reported theft of animals almost every weekend in the last few months, losses even including a goat.

He also contributed to Peterborough YMCA in a financial campaign for expansion.

The Armstrong family has been associated with Peterborough affairs since the days of the pioneer settlers. The first member of the family to arrive here was John Armstrong who was with Peter Robinson and was responsible for the distribution of parcels of land among the people of that first immigration from the Old Country.

"No garret for me!"

"Time was when people used to joke about the typical artist who starved in a garret. But today those jokes have a hollow ring.

"Look around and you'll see lots of commercial artists like me making a very good living, thank you. I own my own home. Have a pretty good car. Everything's going my way. And yet . . .

"There'll come a day, years from now, when I'll want to start taking it easy. What will happen then? Will the garret get me?

"No sir! I've got things worked out so that I can go right on living comfortably.

It won't be long before old folks will be paid some kind of benefits. And I'll be glad to get that help when my turn comes—just like everybody else. But I'll have to add to that income with my own life insurance.

"That way, I'll be able to live a care-free independent life later on. And my family is being protected with that same life insurance from now till the day I retire.

Ring Board Reverses Ruling Sugar Ray Robinson Disqualified

BERLIN, June 25 (Reuters).—The Berlin Boxing Commission ruled today that Sugar Ray Robinson is to get his full $14,000 of prize money from his fight on Sunday night with the German Gerhard Hecht.

Sunday night the fight dissolved into bottle-throwing chaos with a disqualification decision against Robinson, which the commission changed to "no-decision" earlier today.

The disqualification came in the second round when the American was accused of fouling the German with a kidney punch struck in the first round.

But the commission said the referee should have turned Robinson into a neutral corner immediately and that the interval between the rounds was too long. And, the commission added, the referee should have warned Robinson of the alleged low punch after the first round.

Struck By Fans
Robinson's wife, Edna, who was standing by the ring during the fight, said she was struck several times by angry fans.

Pilots Suggest Truce Agreement

CHICAGO, June 25 — (AP)—Striking United Airliner pilots on Saturday night announced their willingness "to return to the service" of United Air Lines under a truce arrangement.

David L. Behncke, president of the Air Line Pilots' Association (AFL), made public a telegram to President Truman which read in part:

RELIEF AT LAST—CONSTIPATION GONE!

"After trying many kinds of remedies to relieve constipation, I finally turned to a daily helping of ALL-BRAN. No constipation now!" Mrs. Irene Leonard, 1262 Lafontaine, Montreal, P.Q. Just one of many unsolicited letters from ALL-BRAN users. If you, too, suffer from constipation due to lack of dietary bulk, eat an ounce (about 1/4 cup) of crispy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily, and drink plenty of water! If not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont. Get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

"After a 10-hour conference today with the representatives of the National Mediation Board, the pilots... have expressed a willingness to return to the service of United Air Lines under a truce arrangement."

"During this truce period, conferences between the company and the pilots can be carried on assisted by National Mediation Board mediators to resolve the remaining issues in the dispute."

The pilots ask more money because of faster planes and longer mileage covered during their working hours.

Defence Program Revolutionized By Korea

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, June 25 (CP)—The first anniversary of the Korean war finds Canada in the midst of a defence program few would have conceived possible a year ago.

Korea, in fact, revolutionized the entire concept and scope of that program. It did so in two stages that have brought the country into the present state of limited or twilight mobilization. The first stage developed within two months, the second after China's intervention.

Before the war broke out June 25, 1950, Canada's effort was showing signs of tapering off at a level that included 50,000 men in the armed forces and just enough fighting units ready to meet the estimated, relatively small requirements of home defence.

In financial terms, it was costing the $425,000,000 a year.

A year later the budget runs to $1,700,000,000 or more than four times the 1950 figure and the country is committed to spend $5,000,000,000 in three years.

1954 Target

The target—not the ceiling—of strength for the three forces is 115,000 men and women by 1954 and Defence Minister Claxton has predicted they'll hit the target 18 months ahead of schedule and keep on going.

With Korea's first year, manpower in the forces has grown to roughly 77,000 from 47,000 or a gain of 30,000. Recruiting for women has started well with the RCAF taking them for the regular force and the Army and Navy soon to recruit them for the reserves.

Significant in this growth is a fundamental change in concept of the first magnitude of importance for the country. Pre-Korea defence policy aimed at having enough forces to defend Canada plus the trained core to mobilize around for another overseas war if and when war came.

Post-Korea policy aims at having enough forces in being by 1954 to be able to fight the first year of a general war. It aims at having, and already has, forces ready to back overseas commitments under both the United Nations Charter and the North Atlantic Treaty.

Thus Canadian defence policy, for the first time in peacetime, accepts overseas commitments as of roughly equal importance as home defence.

The country is by no means on a full wartime footing. It is somewhere between peace and war. In some ways, it is just stepping over the threshold into twilight mobilization with aircraft, shipbuilding and other major construction swinging into stride.

In Korea's first year, the Army has grown from one brigade to three with thousands more men to back up those units as reinforcements or—the peacetime word—replacements. The 25th Brigade is fighting in Korea, the 27th Brigade is being mobilized to go to Europe and the Airborne Brigade or Mobile Striking Force is being kept ready for home defence.

Three brigades comprise a division.

The RCAF singled out for the main emphasis in expansion, has started growing towards a 40-squadron, 3,000-plane force by 1954. There are about a dozen regular and reserve fighter squadrons now and by 1954 there should be 28. By late this year, new fighter planes will be coming off Montreal and Toronto production lines fast enough to allow a new fighter squadron to be formed every month.

The new air training program is expected to turn out 3,300 Canadian and Atlantic Pact fliers annually. For Korea, the RCAF has maintained an air transport squadron on the Trans-Pacific run.

The navy is taking ships out of its reserve fleet as fast as it can and has ordered more than $150,000,000 worth of new ships, including 14 anti-submarine escort vessels. It has kept three destroyers off Korea since last July.

Korea's first anniversary finds the country trying to get ready to fight at any time. It still isn't ready but it is getting there.

Smugglers At Hong Kong Real Problem For Police

By WILLIAM PARROTT

HONG KONG, June 25 — (Reuters)—It will take more than a political decision to stop the flow of strategic materials to Communist China. The smuggler has to be taken into account.

In Hong Kong there are thousands, possibly tens of thousands, of potential smugglers. They are among the most astute in the world.

Authorities trying to enforce embargo regulations are waging a night-and-day battle against them.

The British crown colony realizes the regulations must be conscientiously applied if it is to continue to get strategic goods for domestic use or legitimate trade.

Authorities admit that some goods slip through. The total amount is probably not large, and officials claim it is being steadily reduced.

Police, revenue officers and the Royal Navy are engaged in anti-smuggling work. Patrol boats are out night and day, the mainland border is closely watched and the docks are under constant scrutiny.

But the colony has an enormous seaboard on islands and mainland across which contraband may be moved. Countless junks and other small craft continually move in and out of Hong Kong waters.

The ingenuity of the Chinese smuggler is the chief problem of the authorities. Baskets of peanuts and a live goose, carried by coolie women were examined recently. Inside the peanut shells were tiny gold bars. More bars were found in the goose's gullet.

Fuel oil is a favorite item of the smuggler. At triple the normal price coolies found it worthwhile to smuggle small quantities in medicine and liquor bottles. Border restrictions stopped most of this.

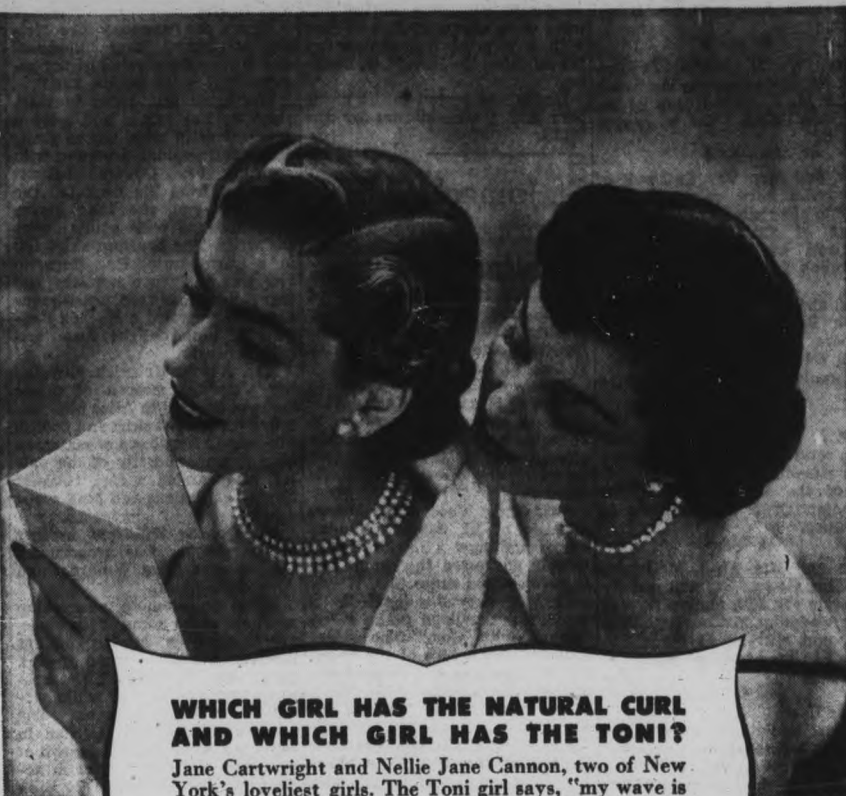

The main flow of smuggled oil now goes by junk.

Some engine-driven junks get through and the masters once out of harbor revert to sail or proceed under tow selling their oil to the Communists.

Communists undoubtedly play some part in this illegal traffic. But the great mass of smugglers are Chinese whose interest lies simply in the hard cash.

Significant in this growth is a fundamental change in concept of the first magnitude of importance for the country. Pre-Korea defence policy aimed at having enough forces to defend Canada plus the trained core to mobilize around for another overseas war if and when war came.

Post-Korea policy aims at having enough forces in being by 1954 to be able to fight the first year of a general war. It aims at having, and already has, forces ready to back overseas commitments under both the United Nations Charter and the North Atlantic Treaty.

Thus Canadian defence policy, for the first time in peacetime, accepts overseas commitments as of roughly equal importance as home defence.

The country is by no means on a full wartime footing. It is somewhere between peace and war. In some ways, it is just stepping over the threshold into twilight mobilization with aircraft, shipbuilding and other major construction swinging into stride.

In Korea's first year, the Army has grown from one brigade to three with thousands more men to back up those units as reinforcements or—the peacetime word—replacements. The 25th Brigade is fighting in Korea, the 27th Brigade is being mobilized to go to Europe and the Airborne Brigade or Mobile Striking Force is being kept ready for home defence.

Victoria Woman Praises Scottish People

AIRDRIE, Scotland—(CP)—Mrs. Norris Harwood of Victoria, B.C., has been living here for nine months with her husband, an exchange teacher at Coatsbridge secondary school where her 13-year-old son is a pupil.

Not even the intricacies of housekeeping with ration books have marred the happiness of this Canadian family in Scotland. When the school term ends, Mrs. Harwood plans to make an extensive tour of England before sailing for home in August. During the Easter holidays they spent two weeks on the continent and visited Paris, Nice and towns in Italy.

Mrs. Harwood speaks highly of the hospitality she and her family have been shown in Scotland. "We have been entertained in many different homes and have thoroughly enjoyed ourselves," she said.

One of the many things she admires about Scottish women is the way they manage to vary their meals on rationed foods. She finds food and clothing much cheaper in Scotland than in Canada, but thinks that the proportionately higher wages in the dominion make the cost of living about equal in both countries.

A nurse before her marriage, Mrs. Harwood is a native of British Columbia. She was taken as a baby to Canada when her parents emigrated.

DOROTHY DIX

Finance Opposed To Girl Learning a Profession

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a daughter of 20 who has had two years in college. She is engaged to a nice young man, but it will be at least two or three years before he can afford to marry. We are anxious for our daughter to finish her college course, or take a business course, but her fiancé strongly objects to her doing either one, as he says he will never consent to his wife working after they are married. That is all right, but my husband and I both think that every girl should be taught some way of making a living, whether she follows it or not after marriage. Is it fair for the young man to take the position, he does, and should my daughter give in to him?

A MOTHER

ANSWER: The young man is very unreasonable in the position he takes. A trade or profession is the best protection a girl can have against the rainy day that possibly may come to anyone. A Wise Precaution

It is hard to see how anyone can be so narrow and bigoted and prejudiced as to fail to see the wisdom of this. Who is so helpless as the girl who has not been taught any gainful occupation, who has no business experience and who finds it impossible to compete with women who are expert in some line of work? You would think that any man in the world would be glad to know that his wife could stand on her own feet and support herself if the necessity arose. It is a fine thing for a man to want to support his family and stand between his wife and the world and keep her soft within the circle of the home. It is the way things should be, because being a good wife and mother and a good housekeeper and manager is the woman's end of a marriage, and it involves all the work that any one woman should be expected to do. Besides, it leaves the jobs open for unmarried women. Even if the wife never has to use her knowledge, it gives her poise and self-respect to know that she could make a living if she had to.

Your daughter will be very foolish if she gives in to her young man's silly objection to her taking a business course. It will give her something to do to fill in her time while she is waiting for him. Instead of sitting at home and sucking her thumb. And it will give her something to fall back on if she falls out of love with her, or if she loses her taste for him. A lot of things can happen to young people in two years that change all of their plans.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am entrusted with the sending of cards (Get Well, Sympathy, Anniversary, etc.) for a club. I'd like to know if it is good taste to write a message on the inside of these cards.

It has been my custom to sign the name of the club below the verse, then write a little a message or appropriate poem inside the card. When a member is very ill, or hospitalized, I send a gift, such as a hankie, with the card and message. I have been told that this is wrong, and I should use a separate sheet of paper for the extra message.

KATHRYN

ANSWER: Not only is your idea in good taste, but it is a very courteous and gracious gesture to write an additional message on printed greeting cards. The warmth of your own words enhances the value of the printed poem and will certainly be more appreciated by the recipient than a plain signature. The road to friendship is paved with just such thoughtfulness; one who has softened pain or sorrow with a personal blessing or added a cheery note to the jubilation of an anniversary is not soon forgotten.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 26 years of age, my parents still try to tell me I shouldn't date and marry too young to think of marriage. I am in love with a man who has been married, but his wife has been dead for two years. He has declared his love for me, too. My parents refuse to meet him and say if I marry him they will never speak to him. I love my father and mother, but how can I let them know I also love this man?

MARION

ANSWER: At 26 you are certainly old enough to marry, and as your beau seems quite ideal, I think your parents' opposition is very foolish. Better go ahead and marry the man, or you'll just grow old waiting for your father and mother to decide when you have reached the age of discretion. They'll be hurt, of course, but you have no choice except to marry and make your own life, or sit at the family hearth for the rest of your days.

Pop Bottle Band Teaches Music, Physics

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) — An old aluminum teapot and a pile of soda-pop bottles are the mainstays of Swift Current's unique "Bottle Blowers' Orchestra."

They aren't a commercial music-producing aggregation, but 27 school pupils whose principal, Kenneth Aberdeen, thought a pop-bottle orchestra would be an economical method of teaching his pupils music and physics.

Using small medicine bottles, ordinary-size pop bottles, and quart-size pop bottles (the "bass" section) for accompaniment, the youngsters supplement the musical group with tonettes, an auto horn, drum, and a set of melodica bells.

Each bottle is filled with colored water to a different level, producing a musical note when the player blows into the top of the bottle. The bottles are tuned to the school piano before each performance, the "tuners" using a water-filled teapot to fill the instruments to the right level.

All musicians play from music. Mr. Aberdeen says the orchestra actually teaches the pupils more than to read music. It teaches each student how musical notes can be obtained by the length of an air column in a bottle by adding or subtracting water from the teapot.

Thus the children have learned the principles of such wind instruments as the pipe organ.

Saskatchewan's school supervisor of music, R. J. Staples, calls the "bottle blowers" one of the most remarkable orchestras he has ever heard.

Sclerosis Victim Leads Fund Drive

MONTREAL (CP) — A dark-haired Montreal woman of 36, laughs, smiles and chatters pleasantly these days despite the fact she is paralyzed from the waist down and confined to a wheelchair.

Founder of the Canadian Sclerosis Society in 1948, Mrs. Evelyn Opal explains that as long as she is able to work at raising funds for the fight against multiple sclerosis, she will do it, and be happy in the task.

She was attacked at the age of 20 by the malady, a chronic disease of the central nervous system.

Mrs. Opal has had several remissions of the strange disease, and during these times she has been able to walk. One occasion was during the marriage of her second sister, when she was able to walk up the aisle as bridesmaid.

"Rather than congratulating the bride, they were all crying with happiness around me," she said as she happily recalled that time.

As far as can be determined there are some 9,000 known cases of multiple sclerosis in Canada, while medical authorities estimate there may be 25,000 more who are unaware of what they have.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hayett were the recent guests of the former's brother, Dr. R. E. Hayett at Bancroft.

Chic Tricorne Hats Lead Autumn Styles In London

By MURIEL NARAWAY

LONDON (CP) — Saucy tilted tricorne hats with gilt-tipped feathers brought a reminder of side-saddle days to the chandeliered ballroom of London's Dorchester hotel.

The tricorne, so familiar with velvet riding habits when riding was a sport practised by the privileged, dominated the styles shown at a recent display of fall fashions. In velvet, satin, hatter's plush and peach-bloom felt, the hats ranged from high-backed guardman models to a tiny squared black felt with two white dice dangling on long black quills.

Preview of the tricorne-hat trend was given at the trooping of the color ceremony June 7, when Princess Elizabeth, riding side-saddle, wore a long-skirted, scarlet-coated habit and black beaver tricorne with high brush mount.

The latest hat trappings include such bizarre effects as knitting needles stuck into balls of orange wool, champagne-colored ice-cream cones on beige felt, a miniature parol of feathers and an imitation shaving brush.

Expensive Models

Hats costing more than £100 each were trimmed in mutation mink. One with regent-pink stitched velvet crown has halo brim of dark-brown mink. An elaborate side pin of gold supports shoulder-length tails of mink and a rounded muff of gathered velvet has encircling strands of mink.

A lichen green bonnet with scooped forward movement, trimmed with dark mink, has matching gloves with deep elbow-length cuffs of mink. The twosome costs around £110.

Eye-catching hats include a deep-crowned beret with long white wings of hatter's plush supported by pointed white crown trim giving a seagull effect. A skullcap restaurant cap with pointed earflaps has a halo of pink flowers encircling the crown from a stiff central mount of up-standing stems.

New colors are festive flame, gorse gold, grouse green and winter white. Festive flame, a brilliant terra cotta, added a flaming touch of brightness to dark winter woollies. Hats in long-haired hatter's plush or velvet, trimmed with black and teamed with matching gloves gave an exotic glow to black town suits.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Get Rid Of Waistline In Summer

So you still want to reduce? Well, I want to reduce, so while I am helping you I am strengthening my own resolves.

Although I hasten to add that in the out-of-door months when I work in the garden every evening from five to seven hundred times per evening the excess tire around my middle is so deflated by August that I can eat all the peach pie with ice cream I can hold and not gain an ounce.

In other words, exercise of those waist-line muscles will evaporate the surplus fat like magic, and you do not have the pain of denying yourself your beloved food. Of course, I am not mentioning the backache from doing the gardening!

The following day's meals will give you about 1,000 calories and if you eat on this scale for one week you will lose from two to three pounds—the variation depending on how active you are.

These details for two days menus will give you a clear picture of how strict you must be. Every little scrap of butter must be watched. This is true of gravy and mayonnaise too. Of course you know you cannot have cake, pie, cookies or desserts that contain any sugar. Your tea and coffee should be clear and unsweetened unless you want to use saccharin or sucaryl or sorbitol to sweeten them. These are the artificial sweeteners so commonly used by diabetic patients.

15 Violent Deaths Over Weekend In E. Canada

By The Canadian Press

A shooting which police say was caused by a family quarrel heads the death toll reported in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

Fifteen violent deaths were reported—seven in Ontario, six in Quebec and two in New Brunswick.

Five persons were drowned and six died in highway accidents. The remaining fatalities were caused by a fall, suffocation and burns.

Five persons are missing in Ontario and feared drowned—two in a canoe in Lake Simcoe and three in a rowboat in Lake St. Clair.

Police at Chicoutimi, Que., said an argument with his wife led to the suicide of Joseph Simard, 71. They said the man went berserk, shot his wife in the arm, then turned the gun on himself.

Elsewhere in Quebec, three persons died in highway accidents. Marthe Desbiens, 22, of Jonquiere, died in a car carrying six passengers which overturned on the Quebec-Chicoutimi highway.

Claude Gellien, 20, of St. Joachim de Shefford, was killed when the truck he was riding in struck a car, bounced through a ditch and then back on the highway where it struck a taxi.

Struck By Bus
Rene Brouillette, 36, of Granby, died shortly after he was struck by a bus near his home.

Two persons were drowned in Riviere Des Prairies in Quebec—Louis Derouin, 15, when he fell into the water while trying to get a sailboat, and Roger Dagenais, 23, who fell from a yacht.

Highway accidents and drownings took two lives each in Ontario. Mrs. Thomas Sammons, 45, died in a two-car collision at Dundalk, 40 miles southeast of Owen Sound. James Bloomfield, 71, died of injuries received when he was struck by a car in Toronto.

Two-year-old Charles James Kitcher was drowned at Kingston. The boy's father said he stood up in a rowboat and fell over the side when nudged by his pet dog.

Murray Ixon, 16, was drowned near Caledonia, 13 miles southwest of Hamilton. Dixon—a non-swimmer—toppled from a pier into deep water.

Child Suffocates
At Toronto, the month-old son of Mrs. William Braybrook was suffocated in her narrow bed.

Police said the woman unsuspectingly rolled over on the child.

Another Toronto woman was killed at London when she fell from the second-storey balcony of her brother's home. Police said Elizabeth Mary Fordyce Barr died of a fractured skull.

In New Brunswick, Raymond Leblanc, 30, of St. Wilfred, died of a fractured skull received in a motor-cycle accident near his home.

Ivan Brown, 27, of St. Stephen, died after suffering severe burns while working on high-tension lines at Bayside, near St. Andrews.

Crew Member Drowns
William Hudd, 20, of Dunedin, Ont., a member of the crew of the freighter Howard L. Shaw, was drowned while swimming in Toronto Bay.

Four other persons in Ontario are missing and feared drowned. Donald Fick and Mary Munn, both of Aylmer, were caught by high winds while canoeing in Lake Simcoe near Beaverton, 60 miles north of Toronto. No trace had been found late last night.

Rough waters and darkness put a temporary halt to a search for three young Windsor boys, missing since Sunday afternoon. They were last seen in a rowboat off Emery's Beach in Lake St. Clair.

Missing are Domenico Testani, 11, Joseph Bocchini 11 and Philip Marinelli, 8. A Provincial Police officer said their clothing had been found on the beach following a school picnic.

Rinfret Heckled At Postal Meet

TORONTO, June 25 (CP).—Postmaster-General Rinfret was sharply heckled Sunday at a meeting of Toronto district postal employees.

The meeting, which grew heated at times, unanimously voted an eight-point resolution calling, among other things, for a 40-hour five day week and an "adequate" cost-of-living bonus, retroactive to last Dec. 1.

The Postmaster-General outlined economy measures taken by the department and thanked employees for the extra efforts they had made in handling service with a reduced staff.

"Ah, drop dead," interjected an unidentified person from the floor.

Need Co-operation In US Air Defence

NEWBURG, N. Y., June 25 (AP).—The Eastern Air Defence Force wound up a three-day, 19-state test Sunday with emphasis on the need for army, navy and civil observer co-operation in air defence.

Smith, Jr., EADF commander, said because of the bad weather Saturday, many "attacking" bombers flew in a narrow levels, below the range of radar, he said, showing the "need" for the 200-man ground observer corps.

EADF's exercise, covering the northeastern section of the country from Minnesota to the Carolinas, was part of a country-wide manoeuvre under the air defence command at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Curb Market Rough Place In Old Days

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—It was rough in the old days in Wall Street's famous Curb Market.

Brokers stood in the street, shoved and shouted and made frantic hand signals to clerks to beat out competing brokers.

Business was so tough that many brokers ate their lunch in the street, buying pork-and-bean sandwiches off push carts at two for a nickel.

Finally the brokers, their incomes fattened by good business, moved into their own building on Wall Street just 30 years ago next Wednesday.

The anniversary will be observed quietly by the curb exchange.

There still are 91 regular members left of the 499 who once operated in the street.

When the Curb Market actually started no one knows.

Ignored Weather

Every trading day, no matter what the weather, brokers gathered and opened their market.

Clerks and brokers were so adept at one-handed sign language they could carry on conversation at considerable distance in good weather. With a few flips of the wrist and fingers they could give a symbol for a stock together with the fractional price and indicate a buy or sell or a bid and ask price.

When a trade was made, the broker signalled by hand to his clerk perched in a nearby window with a telephone line to his brokerage office.

Identification was a major problem. Brokers wore big red canvas hats, or caps, with an initial in a bright color on top, or tall colored silk hats. Each brokerage house had colors like a racing stable.

RE-UNITED—Mrs. Anne Parker, who went to Lima, Peru, to retrieve her three children who had been allegedly taken there by their father, relaxes with them above in a Manhattan hotel room. The family is expected to return to Montreal while the father, Joseph Bailey, faces abduction charges.

Toughest Hills In Korea Left To Patricias To Hold

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 25 — (CP). — Latecomers in Korea, the Princess Patricias are on the way "up" for the second time. They have been on the "down" route once. It's the first time "up" for the rest of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade.

Looking back at one year of war in Korea, other United Nations forces have had the full course—six times down and up. They were rolling southward at a great clip last December when the Princess Patricias hit Pusan.

The Patricias anticipated a short spell of garrison duty, for they had ringing in their ears Gen. Douglas MacArthur's promise to his troops: "You'll be home by Christmas." That was the word even before they left Fort Lewis, Wash., late in November.

Reality hit them promptly. Only the obstinate insistence of their commanding officer Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone of Salmone Arm, B.C., won them the time sorely needed to complete their training, for the plan was to use them forthwith.

Defeatist Atmosphere

It was a defeatist atmosphere into which they had arrived. The great "bug-out" was on. Heavy equipment and supplies were being sent back to Japan. Ships were unloading troops evacuated from the north by sea. And a tin hat was invaluable any time an American soldier began telling his stories about the "invincible Chinese."

Stone got his men up into Miryang and trained them night and day.

Gen. Matthew Ridgway succeeded the late Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker as commander of the Eighth United States Army in Korea, stopped the bug-out in its tracks, wheeled his United Nations forces right about and in no time had galvanized it into a winning army.

It was already on the "up" swing for the second time when the Patricias hit the line Feb. 19.

Tough Assignments

"Give those tough Canadians the high hills," must have been the reaction to their arrival. Anyway it's just what happened. Invariably the toughest, highest, most rugged peaks in a mountainous country were drawn by the Patricias.

Fifty miles of mountain-studded Korea, the sort of land that's anything from dark green to dark brown in the atlases, they covered.

From just north of Yaju to east of Chipyong, then to the hills east of Yongdu and on to Mount Maehwa. From Kapyong to Mount Myongji and on eight miles into North Korea. Fifty on the map—twice that at least on the ground by mountain trail, up the slopes and rock faces and down the forward sides.

Came the Chinese spring offensive at a time when the Canadians were resting at Kapyong. They were sped up into the hills. In a 24-hour stand the 27th British Commonwealth Brigade ground to a halt an offensive that had rolled the front back 29 miles in 24 hours.

The Australians stalled the Chinese in the plains during the first phase of the battle. The Patricias stopped them cold when that night—April 24-25—the enemy switched their full weight onto the hills.

There followed a couple of holding roles while the Canadians screened off the approaches to the Seoul-Chunchon highway at Chong-Pyongchon and Masogu, and then they went to the north bank of the Han eight miles east of the Seoul and raised formidable defensive positions 20 miles southwest of their Kapyong stand. Then, after a three-weeks' delay waiting for the Chinese to come and bounce themselves on the mined barbed-wire barricades ("Gosh, what wonderful killing," said Stone, almost rubbing his hands at the time) they began the second "up" swing.

It's still on. One thing about it: the swings seem to be narrowing to arcs closer to the parallel.

Japan Anxious To Join Fund

TOKYO, June 25 (Reuters)—Japan announced her "firm intention" to apply for admission to the international monetary fund and the general agreement on tariffs and trade.

In a statement on economic policy, the government committed the country to observing the "principles of good faith in international economic relations."

The government promised to follow a deflationary policy to be operated through a balanced budget, to keep the yen at the present exchange rate, and to control the allocation of world-scarce commodities.

Japanese Films Begin Showing Kisses

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 25 (AP)—Here's something else the occupation has brought to Japan: More kissing on the screen.

This report comes from Shirley Yamaguchi, one of Japan's top movie stars. She came here some months ago to learn how to kiss in films. It seems that there was no kissing in Japanese films prior to the occupation.

"Now we are putting kisses into our movies. It has not been easy for us, because we traditionally do not show our emotions," she said.

"That is why foreigners think that our films are dull. The actors do very little but talk. You see, even when a Japanese is very angry or very sad, he never shows it. And he would never think of kissing in public."

Despite the American influence, kissing is still not done in public, she said. But there has been more of it in the films, particularly since her research on the subject in Hollywood. "Can you think of a better reason for a trip," she grinned.

The Japanese public seems to approve the addition of kissing sequences, she said.

Miss Yamaguchi is here to appear in "East is East," in which she plays a Japanese girl who marries an American soldier.

Sometimes I wonder . . . Why a studio will toss a big preview for a picture like "The Hollywood Story" (a good one, too) and then release it on the lower half of a double bill. Why a studio assigns Gregory Peck to another western when he needs a change of pace. Why some studio doesn't hire Quebec-born Mack Sennett now that the public is clamoring for slapstick comedy. Why a producer doesn't sign Arthur Godfrey for a movie. Why MGM doesn't co-star Ethel and Lionel Barrymore in a picture and let each try to steal it. Why a studio doesn't lure Deanna Durbin back to films, since the singing cycle is on again.

Police Check On Phones Reconsidered

Garson Withdraws Code Amendment After MP's Opposition

OTTAWA, June 26. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson withdrew in the Commons today a proposed Criminal Code amendment which would allow police to check on telephone calls from places suspected of being gambling houses.

Mr. Garson said the government would "reconsider" the clause, which had been submitted by the Ontario Government to help stamp out bookmaking.

The withdrawal came after John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), who first raised the issue Monday night, again criticized the clause. The withdrawal was approved by M. J. Coldwell, CCF Leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit Leader.

Mr. Garson said the clause would allow police to check on numbers called from suspected lines, but not to record conversations. It had been given careful study.

The government had thought the clause would be acceptable. But in view of the "strong opposition" presented by Progressive Conservative members and considering the fact that many of the Opposition were from Ontario ridings, the government would be willing to "reconsider."

Mr. Diefenbaker thanked the minister and said he hoped that the clause would be "dropped without qualification."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Monday night that the section introduced a type of wiretapping, although it did not permit information being obtained. However, it bordered on the "sort of thing one expects in a police state and must be guarded against."

It allowed police to sit in and watch telephone calls, but this was a step which would "lead to the desire of law officers to go the whole way and deny freedom of communication and the right of privacy."

UN delegates, puzzled by the lack of further conditions and frankly suspecting a Communist trick, began trying for a fuller explanation of Moscow's stand.

While some western diplomats in Moscow adopted a wait-and-see attitude, others expressed optimism that the time might be near for over-all big power talks which might ease international tension. These observers noted that the Malik remarks were made with full Kremlin consultation, and apparently were aimed at bringing about some kind of negotiations to end the Korean war.

Fail To Change Law

OTTAWA, June 26. (CP)—Two Opposition groups in the Commons tried unsuccessfully today to make a treasonable offence to assist Communist China while her troops are fighting Canadians in Korea. The Social Credit attempt, backed by the Progressive Conservatives, was the second in two days. Monday, the House turned down a similar move by the Progressive Conservatives.

Trying To Learn Moscow's Peace Terms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 26. (CP)—The United Nations today was trying to find out Moscow's terms for ending the war in Korea.

The consensus among UN delegates here ranged from guarded optimism to frank skepticism regarding the Saturday proposal by the Soviet UN delegate, Jakob Malik, that both sides withdraw from the 38th Parallel and start talks for a Korean peace settlement.

Some observers in Washington felt there may be strings attached to the Russian bid—endorsed Monday by Peiping radio even while Chinese Reds were assaulting UN battle lines.

American skepticism was pointed up by Ridgway, who made a flying visit to Pusan to see the Korean president, Syngman Rhee. The general, who remarked that things are looking up, commented on the case file.

"I would want an iron-clad agreement, I'm not willing to take a bill of goods," said Ridgway.

Japanese foreign officials thought the Malik proposal was a Russian strategy to delay completion of a Japanese peace treaty.

Meanwhile, Nasrallah Entezam, general assembly president, took personal charge of UN efforts to determine Moscow's terms.

Entezam, Iranian delegate, arrived late Monday from Washington with the announced plan of seeing Russian delegate Jakob Malik as quickly as possible. Malik started the world Saturday with a suggestion that the belligerents discuss a cease-fire and an armistice in which the opposing forces would withdraw from the 38th parallel.

Held Line After Big Red Advance

Truman Decoration Says Gallant Stand Big Factor In Victory

TOKYO, June 26. (Reuters)—Canadian, Australian and United States units credited with saving the Allied line during the Communist spring offensive have been awarded presidential citations. It was announced today by Lt.-Gen. James Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander.

The citations have gone to the 2nd Battalion, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the 3rd Battalion of the Royal Australian Regiment and Company "A" of the 72nd United States Heavy Tank Battalion.

Fighting as units of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade, the Canadian and Australian units were honored "for gallantry, determination and esprit-de-corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions" against Communist forces near Kapyong during the Chi. See offensive April 24 and 25.

With the American company the Canadians and Australians were credited with blunting and halting a deep penetration which endangered the entire United Nations line in the central sector.

The action was believed to have been decisive in the final defeat of the initial communist spring offensive.

The citation said: "The seriousness of the breakthrough on the central front had been changed from defeat to victory by the gallant stand of these heroic and courageous soldiers."

The Princess Patricia's fought until every bullet was gone to stop the Chinese spring offensive dead in its tracks the night of April 24-25. Then they hurled their empty, bayoneted rifles like spears into the faces of the enemy, advancing in waves upon the Canadian positions. But they did not give an inch.

Pinned Under Jeep Reserve Soldier Dies

LONDON, Ont., June 26 (CP)—Pinned to the ground by his overturned jeep, his windshield frame pressing against his throat, William R. Sharpe, 26, of RR 4, Komoka, Ont., was found dead early today by a passing motorist on No. 22 Highway, 2½ miles west of Calamity Corners.

Robert Tuckey of Komoka spotted the jeep, its four wheels in the air and lights still burning. Sharpe was dressed in an army battle dress and police said he had been in London, Ont., attending the Monday night drill of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps reserve unit.

Police believe Sharpe's privately-owned jeep hit the shoulder of the road, struck a culvert and hurtled 24 feet through the air before landing upside down.

RCAF Planes Taking Part In Channel Manoeuvres

LONDON, June 26 (CP)—Aircraft of Canada's maritime squadron flew high over the English Channel today, providing convoy escort in an exercise involving 85 ships and 15 squadrons of aircraft.

Countries participating in the week-long exercise are Canada, Britain, the United States, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark and Norway.

Reconnaissance planes from the RCAF's No. 405 Squadron, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. A. G. Daggs of Vancouver, will break from the patrol occasionally to simulate attacks on submarines, using practice bombs instead of depth charges.

The operation, known as "Exercise Velox," marks a third phase in the Canadian squadron's month of training in the United Kingdom. The second stage was completed last week with an operation known as the "Flag Officer Submarine Summer War," staged in the Irish Sea against 17 subma-

UK Orders Cruiser To Abadan, Tankers Told Sail

LONDON, June 26. (CP)—Britain today ordered the cruiser Mauritius to "proceed forthwith" to the vicinity of Abadan, the Iranian oil port where 27 tankers are caught in a jam in a dispute over payments for oil. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, announcing the action in the House of Commons, said the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has ordered all its tankers to leave Abadan immediately. Ten of the tankers are loaded with oil but have been refused clearance by Iranian authorities because the captains refused to sign receipts acknowledging payment was due Iran's new nationalized oil company.

The captains with oil aboard were told to pump it off if necessary to obtain clearance, Morrison said.

The company issued its order "with the full agreement of His Majesty's government," Morrison announced. He described the situation as "very serious."

Departure of all tankers presumably would mean the shutdown of the Abadan refinery, the world's largest. It is filling storage tanks because of the shipping tie-up. There is enough storage capacity to keep the refinery going about a week.

Morrison said if Iran persists in her present tactics AIOC will be forced to halt operations "within a matter of days."

"The House may rest assured that preparations have been made to take action at short notice," he said.

The Mauritius, an 8,000-ton cruiser with a normal crew of 730 men, has been in Bahrain Island in the Persian Gulf since early June.

Will Take Action Morrison said the British government would "take any possible action" for the protection of any Briton who might be arrested by Iranian authorities under a proposed anti-sabotage law which carries the death penalty.

Labor member J. B. Hynd had asked Morrison if Britain would intervene with armed forces in the event of such arrests.

Morrison said if the anti-sabotage law is passed the 3,000 British employees of AIOC would be in an "intolerable position."

He noted that Eric Drake, the company's manager at Abadan, already has been accused in a letter by Iranian officials of sabotage because he refused to allow tanker captains to sign receipts for oil in the form demanded by Iran.

"In view of this unfounded charge of sabotage," said Morrison, "the company with the full agreement of the government, has instructed Mr. Drake to proceed to Basra," in neighboring Iraq.

At Basra, Morrison said, Drake will continue to act as general manager of the company's activities in both Iran and Iraq.

Narrow Escape BELLEVILLE, June 26 (CP).—Harvey Schryver, 65, wheeled his truck around a waiting automobile and started across railway tracks. He escaped from a collision with a train with a bruised ankle. But police charged him with careless driving.

All nine defendants—five of them Roman Catholic churchmen—made trial confessions of their part in the alleged conspiracy, and seven made use of their right to make a "final statement" today.

Police Dept. Inquiry Begun At Oakville OAKVILLE, June 26 (CP)—An inquiry into police department activities started Monday with Mayor James R. Black accusing police chief John B. Darby of sloppiness and lack of responsibility and initiative.

The mayor said the chief occasionally neglected his duties and was away from his town, 20 miles west of Toronto, when needed. However, the mayor said that, as far as keeping down crime was concerned, the town was well policed. Oakville has a six-man force including the chief.

The inquiry was ordered by Attorney-General Porter at the request of the chief after Mayor Black and other council members said last April that the chief was not doing a proper job of policing.

Gen. Ridgway Optimistic As War Flares

TOKYO, June 26 (AP).—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today he doesn't know what is happening to cease-fire proposals, "but things look better than ever."

The allied commander made the statement on a flying visit to the South Korean President Syngman Rhee as the war flared anew, fanned by new Chinese fighting spirit on the ground and aggressiveness in the air.

Red planes twice struck at US B-29 Superfort bombers and engaged in two battles with American Sabre jets. One Red MIG-15 was shot down.

Communists fought so stubbornly on the western flank of the erratic 100-mile front one officer said "indications are the Chinese are preparing for an offensive."

Ridgway said it was just one of his usual trips and "had no connection with anything regarding a cease-fire."

Question Motives Before he returned, a memorandum came out of his Tokyo headquarters raising official doubts about the latest Communist cease-fire proposal. It questioned the suggestion as a Russian "political move" that might give the enemy a military advantage.

Reds launched a series of probing attacks. Some allied patrols were turned back by bitter resistance and others roamed for miles without finding Reds.

UN patrols bumped into Communist barbed wire entanglements on the east-central front. "The Reds definitely are building a heavy defence, probably parallel to our lines," an officer said.

Progressive Conservatives Sweep Four By-Elections

OTTAWA, June 26. (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives scored a sweeping victory in four federal by-elections Monday, gaining three seats from the Liberals and an increased majority in the other. From the Liberals they won Queens in Prince Edward Island and the Manitoba constituencies of Brandon and Winnipeg South.

Centre. They retained the Ontario constituency of Waterloo South. Standing in the Commons: Liberals 185; Progressive Conservatives 46; CCF 13; Social Credit 10; Independent Liberal, four; Independent, four; vacant, none; total 262.

The Progressive Conservative total includes A. L. Smith, member for Calgary West, who announced last January that he was resigning his seat for reasons of health. His resignation has not yet been received by Speaker Ross Macdonald of the Commons.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the result of the by-elections "speaks for itself."

Sees It Tribute "Above all it is a well-deserved tribute to the character and qualities of the candidates who represented our party," he said. "They will make a very valuable addition to the membership of the House of Commons, and will greatly strengthen the opposition."

Prime Minister St. Laurent said he naturally was "disappointed at the results and the lightness of the vote." He was sure, however, that the winning candidates "will do their best to uphold our free parliamentary institutions."

Winner for the Progressive Conservatives in Waterloo South was Howie Meeker of New Hamburg, 26-year-old right winger with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. He succeeds the late Karl Homuth, Progressive Conservative member for the seat from 1938.

With all 75 of the riding's polls heard from, Mr. Meeker had 8,963 votes to 6,463 for J. Mel Moffatt, Liberal and 5,737 for Mrs. Peggy Geens, CCF.

UK Cash Betting Shops Favored By Archbishop

CANTERBURY, England, June 26 (AP).—Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, came out today in favor of cash betting shops for the country's horse players.

The top-ranking prelate of the Church of England said that since Britain will gamble—law or no law—they might just as well do it legally.

The Archbishop expressed his views on the problem at a conference of his Canterbury diocese. The statement by the spiritual head of the church represents a major breach in its long opposition to any loosening of the British gambling laws.

At present, the law permits cash betting only at the horse or dog tracks. Off-the-track handbook betting is legal only on a credit basis. The poor, who can't get

Report Iowa Tornado Has Destroyed Town

DUNCAN, Ia., June 26—(AP)—A tornado ripped through Duncan, a small north central Iowa community late Monday and the town was described as "destroyed."

There were no known fatalities but damage has been unofficially estimated at more than $100,000.

Witnesses said a Roman Catholic church, community centre, general store, garage, service station and dozens of houses were destroyed.

Stole 3 Purses Gets 4 Months

Charged with breaking and entering, Norman Leslie Rendell, 726 Chamberlain St., was sentenced Monday to four months definite and two months indefinite in the Ontario reformatory at Guelph.

Rendell pleaded guilty to entering the home of Russell Riches, 223 Rink St., on June 2 but asked for suspended sentence saying "I had more put me on the black list. I've quit drinking; drink was getting me into this."

His previous record—four other similar offences since 1947—was examined. Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McDermid said:

"I don't want to seem harsh but from what I've heard, I don't think it (referring to the suspended sentence) would do any good."

At first Magistrate E. A. Gee, Lindsay, suggested only three months in jail but Mr. McDermid said that Rendell "wouldn't be taught anything there." The magistrate then passed sentence of four months definite and two indefinite.

Constable Eldon McDonald said that a call from 223 Rink St., was received by the police at 1.15 a.m. on June 10. Going there, he was told that Rendell had been caught sneaking into the back of the house. Rendell was shoeless. Later Constable John Conlin found the shoes in a nearby lane.

At that time Rendell admitted entering the house a week before and taking three women's purses. "I never do these things unless I've been drinking," said Rendell.

Pass Criminal Code Changes On Drunk Driving, Sex Cases

OTTAWA, June 26. (CP)—The Commons Monday night approved a series of Criminal Code amendments tightening the laws against drunken driving, sex offenders and treason.

Justice Minister Garson, piloting the legislation, predicted that the number of convictions for drunken driving will increase as a result of amendments in this category.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), the Progressive Conservative Opposition's chief legal spokesman, said he did not think the new drunken-driving provisions were tight enough.

One of the new provisions provides for admission as evidence in drunken-driving court cases of the results of chemical tests taken of the breath or blood of the accused. However, the tests are not obligatory. Further, said Mr. Garson, they will not be available in some rural areas.

Would Insist On Tests: Another creates a new offence—that of driving while the ability to drive is "impaired" by alcohol, as distinct from the customary charge of driving while drunk. This is expected to facilitate convictions in cases where outright intoxication cannot be proved.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested the chemical tests should be obligatory. While this would interfere with the freedom of individuals, drunken driving had assumed the proportions of a major problem which threatened the lives of thousands.

W. F. Carroll (L. Inverness-Richmond), a former justice of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, suggested the tests would be of little value because of the varying effects alcohol has on different people.

Wants Jail Sentence: Mr. Diefenbaker opposed the substitution of a fine for the present mandatory seven-day jail term for those convicted of drunken driving for the first time. The jail sentence, he suggested, has served as a deterrent.

Gordon Higgins (PC, St. John's East) disagreed with Mr. Diefenbaker on the question of chemical tests. He said no such tests should be made unless advance warning is given by the arresting police officer.

Mr. Garson accepted suggestions by Donald Fleming (PC, Toronto Eglinton) and Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC, Nanaimo) that action being taken against convicted sex offenders who loiter or wander near a school ground or a playground be extended to cover public parks and public bathing areas.

The new law provides that the sex offenders, if found loitering in those areas, will be guilty of vagrancy.

In the 1949 general election, Mr. Homuth polled 8,740 votes for a margin of 343 over Mr. Moffatt, with 8,397. Paul Dufresne, CCF, ran third with 5,425.

Farmer Elected: In Queens, J. Angus MacLean, a farmer with a distinguished record of service in the Second World War defeated Cecil A. Miller, Liberal, in a two-party fight.

An RCAF wing commander, Mr. MacLean was shot down in the first 1,000-bomber raid on Berlin. He was listed as missing for six months, but reached safely on foot with the aid of the French underground.

With 116 of 118 polls reported, Mr. MacLean had 9,436 votes to 9,013 for Mr. Miller. Both men were unsuccessful candidates in the last general election in Queens, one of the few remaining dual constituencies.

In the general election the vote was: W. Chester S. McLure, Progressive Conservative, 10,657; J. L. Douglas, Liberal, whose death caused the vacancy in the seat, 10,680; Mr. MacLean, 10,016, Mr. Miller, 9,742; and Lorne E. Houston, CCF, 444.

Churchill Elected: Gordon Churchill, 52-year-old lawyer and a veteran of the two World Wars, won in Winnipeg South Centre, defeating Liberal and CCF candidates. The seat was made vacant when Ralph Maybank resigned as Liberal member to return to private law practice.

With all 158 polls counted, Mr. Churchill had 6,004 votes to 5,286 for Norman Wright, 45-year-old school teacher, Liberal, and 2,497 for Charles Bleisak, 47, CNR boilermaker, representing the CCF.

Woman Appeals Fine For Ill-Treating Dogs

OSHAWA, June 26. (CP)—Mrs. M. H. Page of Toronto Monday filed notice of appeal against a fine of $50 or one month imposed when she was found guilty earlier in the day of ill-treating 63 dogs by keeping them in shipping crates and stalls in a nearby Pickering township barn.

Magistrate Frank Ebbs said he found the dogs were "mistreated" because Mrs. Page hadn't the necessary financial means.

He doubted that Mrs. Page visited the premises daily, although she insisted this was the case. Magistrate Ebbs said the woman was not living on the property, was commuting only occasionally from Toronto and had no help from anybody to look after the dogs.

"I still maintain I'm not guilty, sir," Mrs. Page said, when asked if she had anything to say before sentence.

attack. But it did not say what happened to them in the second strike.

It was in this last battle that a Red-nosed MIG-15 was shot down. Twelve Red jets attacked the B-28s and in turn were hit by 24 US Sabre jets. After a brief dog fight, surviving Red streaked for the Manchurian border.

Forty MIGs and 29 Sabre jets were involved in an afternoon air battle.

Bayonet fighting raged in the rolling hills. Fire-bombing planes swooped close to the lines and blasted Chinese attackers.

For the 131st consecutive day UN warships bombarded Wonsan, east coast port and transport centre.

Reds mustered a force strong enough for a major attack north of Inje on the east-central front.

Allies Withdraw: The Reds also smashed into Allied lines northeast of Kumhwa on the central front. Allied troops withdrew under cover of a heavy artillery barrage after a bitter seven-hour battle.

Peiping radio had barely finished a long broadcast saying the Chinese people were behind the cease-fire move advanced by Russia's UN delegate, Jakob Malik, when Communists slammed anew into Allied outposts.

And as fighting sharpened in Korea general headquarters in Tokyo issued a memorandum saying Washington officials looked with caution on Malik's proposal.

Responsible officials in Washington were fearful that the cease-fire part of Malik's proposal might have been a cover for military advantage, the memorandum said.

"If, for instance, the Malik proposal were accepted and UN forces withdrew from Parallel 38, it raises the military question whether such a move would be just a shift in battle lines to place the enemy in a better position militarily."

Allies are operating as much as 20 miles north of the 38th parallel, dividing line between the Red North and Republican South.

"There is always the danger of a counter-attack and the breaking of an armistice," the memorandum noted.

"The idea of a demilitarized zone is not rejected as such and it is recognized that this part of Malik's proposal has some validity, but not necessarily a withdrawal from Parallel 38."

Simultaneously the South Korea cabinet announced "any so-called peace plan which involves the division of the nation along any artificial boundary is entirely unacceptable to the people of Korea, north and south."

With other battalions of the 27th British Commonwealth Brigade, the Patricias were taken out of a holding position and thrown into the breach when the enemy broke through a South Korean division and made a 20-mile bulge in the front. They had been guarding the approaches to the vital Chunchon-Seoul highway, near the villages of Kail and Cheryong, and technically were "resting."

Stood Fast: The Chinese diverted their attack to an assault on hills held by the Canadians. The brunt of the initial assault was borne by a company under Major Vince Lilley of Hamilton. Throughout the long night, the pressure continued, seemingly relentless. But the Patricias stood fast, enemy dead piling up before their slit trenches. On the flanks, the Middlesex and Royal Australian Regiments also stood their ground. The enemy offensive was stopped.

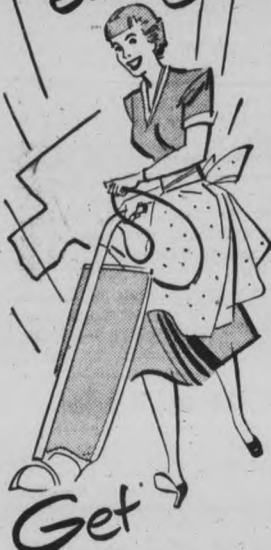

In Ottawa, Defence Minister Claxton said the award of a presidential citation to the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry at that time, said Mr. Claxton, was in keeping with the traditions of the regiment and the "high reputation earned in the last two world wars."

Self-Revelations Of A Cripple At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26. —
(ENS)—Rotarians heard a dramatic and vivid portrayal of the work of Rotary in their efforts to help crippled children on Monday, when Rotarian Norman Dan-field of Trenton addressed the local club.

The speaker was introduced by Past President Jim Holmes of Trenton, who in his own words,
"is a grandfather 14 times."
Mr. Danfield, in his address, told the local club there was more to Rotary than weekly luncheon gatherings of businessmen. His talk was entitled "Prelude to Success." He described a visit to a Toronto child's welfare home, and told of a 15 months old child, crippled with infantile paralysis, and with no hope of a better life, until one day the condition was noticed by a Rotarian, during one of their regular visits. The Rotary club called in three specialists, and during a period of ten years, during which time dozens of operations were performed, the lad was finally allowed to attend a Boy Scout camp, where the Scouts looked after him.

Rehabilitation

They fashioned crutches out of the branches of a tree, and after much difficulty, the lad finally learned to walk. After a number of years of further treatment, during which time he was adopted by a Rotary family, the lad was able to take his first steps unassisted, and vowed he would make a success of himself.

Today, that man is a member of the Trenton Town Council, a member of the Trenton Recreation Committee, member of the Community Planning Board, and the highest paid employee in his profession of accountancy at the RCAF station in Trenton, where he is in charge of all Non-Public Funds. He is married and has three children, owns his own home, automobile, and asks for nothing more out of life. The boy
Mr. Danfield referred to in his talk as "Johnny," was in reality, himself, and Mr. Danfield has since done all in his power to live up to the Rotary Motto of "Service above Self." He has travelled throughout the province, bringing his own story to various service clubs, in order to let them see what they are doing when they help crippled children.

The speaker was thanked by Rotarian, McDonald of the local club, who said he knew of the speaker's experiences.

Mrs. Joseph Robens, formerly of Robens Landing, Rice Lake, journeyed back to their old home on nual reunion, the first one to be held on their old homestead.

The Robens' farm on the shores of Rice Lake was sold and is now the large tourist home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite.

In the Robens family were four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Hall,
Campbellford; Mrs. Herbert Mc-Cracken, Mrs. James Brown and Mrs. R. B. Nichol, Roseneath.

These with their husbands, children and grandchildren were all present on this happy occasion.
Picnic baskets were brought by the members of the families and their genial host and hostess, allowed them the use of a cottage and the surrounding lawn where dinner was served.

Included among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Sagar, daughter Sandra and sons Gary,
Robert, Eric of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hall, Mr. and Mrs.

End Segregation

BALTIMORE, Md., June 26. —
(AP)—The park board voted Monday to end segregation at Baltimore's four municipal golf courses July 10 and to allow inter-racial tennis matches on certain courts. The board also said it would allow mixed play on city athletic fields upon application and if such fields were available.
It left unchanged its segregation policy at the city's seven public pools and at a beach.

Coventry, Eng. The occasion was the centuries-old pageant held in memory of legendary Lady Godiva who in 15th Century rode naked through streets of Coventry to persuade her husband, Lord of Coventry, to reduce taxes which were a burden to the people.

Senators Want To Quit Divorce Business

OTTAWA, June 26.—(CP).—The 12-member Senate Divorce Committee figures the time has come to go out of business. The committee Monday night presented its final report to the upper chamber, recording 295 divorces this session for couples in Quebec and Newfoundland.

Members suggested some other body take over the hearing of applications from the two provinces, the only ones without divorce courts.

Whether this comes about or not, the chairman, Senator William Asseltine, 64-year-old Progressive Conservative lawyer-farmer from Rosetown, Sask., wants to retire. After 10 years he finds the work takes too much of his time.

The committee said it regrets
"parliament has not seen fit to solve the problem of parliamentary divorce by setting up suitable courts or tribunals before which the numerous cases from Quebec and Newfoundland can be heard."
"It is hoped that something will be done in that regard in the near future."

The committee made a similar recommendation a year ago but nothing was done.

This year suggestions along this line were made in the Commons and Social Credit members combined for a time to block mass passage of divorce bills. They forced individual consideration of each bill, thus slowing passage.

They recommended the divorce work be taken over by the exchequer court or some other tribunal something long advocated by Sen.
Asseltine. He has been a member of the committee since 1934, a year after he came to the Senate.

But he says this would not completely solve the problem. A federal court would have no jurisdiction to deal with custody of children and rate of alimony which as civil rights are only within provincial jurisdiction.

Each At Church Given Rose

HAVELOCK, June 26 (ENS). —
A special Children's Day service was observed at the Free Methodist Church at Cordova Mines on Sunday, with members of the Sunday School taking part in the service. There was an attendance of 99.

A summary of the Sunday School lesson was given by the minister, the Rev. A. Thaxter. A flannelgraph lesson was given by Mrs. G. Hardy of Marmora. Marie Young extended a welcome in the form of a recitation. Other recitations were given by Donald Ellis and Ruth Cole. The service of song included the following numbers, vocal solos by Billie Ireland of Campbellford and Mrs. W. J.
Cornell of Havelock; a vocal number by the Victoria Quartette comprising Billy and Alvin Chase and Marjorie and Donna Lee Steenburgh; a chorus by the beginners' class and a closing chorus, "Come Again," by the school.

The church was attractively decorated with summer flowers for the occasion and each person in attendance had a rose pinned on him.

97,000 Acres Burned

TORONTO, June 26 (CP). —
Some 97,000 acres of forest were burned over in 528 fires this spring, the Ontario Lands Department reported Monday. Officials said almost all of the outbreaks were the result of carelessness.
Smokers were blamed for 123, railway operations for 109, campers for 66 and lightning for 52.
Six fires were reported of incendiary origin.

Youth Drowns

AURORA, June 26 (CP). —Roy Huntley, 22, of Newmarket, was drowned in Lake Wilcox south of here Monday night when he tried to swim 100 yards to shore after being warned not to. Trevor Shier, 16, of Newmarket who was rowing on the lake with Huntley, said he told Huntley he was too tired to attempt the swim. He said Huntley swam part way to shore, cried out and sank.

Resume Negotiations

OSHAWA, June 26 (CP). —
Representatives of the Ontario
Steel Products Company and Local 222 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) resumed negotiations Monday for the first time since 150 employees were suspended two weeks ago. Company officials, who said at the time that the men were suspended for slowing production, reported no progress was made during Monday's talks.

Town Council To Issue $20,000 In Bonds

CAMPBELLFORD, June 26. —
(ENS). — A special meeting of the Campbellford town council was held in the council chambers on Monday night, to discuss the new Hospital Debentures. In the absence of Mayor J. E. Ayhart, Reeve Ralph J. Locke took the chair.

It was decided to issue the new debentures ($20,000) in denominations of $100's and $500's.
Council thought the bonds would be more readily saleable in the above two denominations, rather than printing a number of $1,000 bonds. In order to save a considerable amount of money, the job of printing the bonds will be given to the Herald Printing Office of Campbellford. The bonds will be validated, and will afford the purchaser the maximum of security.

The bonds will be dated August 1, and all business in connection with the advertising of the sale of the bonds, and the validating of them will be left with the town treasurer, Eldon M. Ihey.

A request from the local Rotary Club for permission to close off a portion of Front Street on the evening of July 9 through 14 inclusive, for the purpose of holding their mammoth carnival, was granted. The club was also granted permission to close off the section of roadway on Bridge Street, by the Public School, in order that a soap-box derby may be staged on Thursday July 14. It is expected extra police will be secured to direct traffic and detour vehicles during the times the roadways are to be closed.

A letter from J. E. Ritchie, Deputy Fire Marshall of Ontario, was read, in which he said an engineer of his department will be in Campbellford in the near future, to advise on the action to be taken regarding removal of certain specific buildings within the town limits, that are considered to constitute a hazard. Council will await the arrival of the official before doing anything about the buildings, although the local building inspector and the Fire chief are both empowered to remove a by-law, to order the removal of such buildings.
The date for the next regular council meeting was changed from July 2 to Monday, July 9 due to the fact that the regular day falls on a public holiday.

Russia's Proposal

More than four months ago Russia agreed to attend a meeting of the foreign secretaries of the four great powers, provided an agreeable agenda could be arranged. For the last four months deputies of the Foreign Ministers have held daily sessions in Paris to try to agree on what their superiors should talk about, if they met. No agreement was reached. The deputies have gone home. There is no foreseeable meeting of the Big Four. Russia's proposal of an armistice in Korea was timed for the anniversary of the beginning of war there. Was there not also, in the timing of the announcement, a propaganda puff to smother world-wide regret, even annoyance, that Russia's disposition has made impossible any agreement to hold a conference of the Big Powers?

People hoped that the Conference would take place. They hoped that through it, some sanity and placidity would come into relations between East and West. These hopes were dashed. But within a day or two Russia puts herself in the right again—or attempts to—by proposing an armistice in Korea. Russia the peacemaker.

It is too early to say how genuine the Russian proposal is. Words are not action; Russia can make conciliatory noises while clawing with her cleft hoof. There are these two promising aspects. Russia has made the proposal with no strings attached visibly. The western world, with some partial exceptions in the United States, wants peace, an end to the messy affair in Korea. If both the West and East want this badly enough, and both fear a dangerous spreading of the war if the Korean war is not soon shut off, we shall have an armistice. Korea is the most fatuous war the world has had in this warlike century.

A Stimulus Of The Canadian Economy

"Capital investment" is a dull-sounding, uninteresting and even unimportant phrase to a general reader not aware of its implications. A person who will get excited about the rise or fall of exports will be unresponsive to statistics about capital investment. Nevertheless, domestic capital expansion is one of the two major stimuli of the whole Canadian economy, export trade being the other. The figures on projected capital spending in Canada this year, recently made public by the Department of Trade, are important.

It is estimated that private industry and governments will together spend on new construction, machinery and equipment the huge total of $4,561,000,000 this year. That is $233 million more than estimated at the first of the year. The increase is due partly to more orders for industrial machinery (for instance, for factories converting some of their production to war work), partly to higher prices.

The figure of four and a half billion dollars for capital expenditure during 1951 is a twenty per cent increase above the 1950 figure. The total in 1950 was $3,791,000,000. A large part of the increase is due to higher costs of building, material and labour. The vast sums being spent on capital outlay are, incidentally, proof that Canadian industry is not being ground to dust by government regulation and taxes. The companies and private persons would not spend the money if they thought they could not profit from it. Among the four and a half billion dollars, $612,000,000, or 13½ per cent, is going into government work. That is not an unduly large proportion.

It is provocative to compare these 1951 figures with figures and prophecies of earlier years. For instance, in 1947 the grand total of new capital investment in Canada, by industry, institutions, governments and individual farmers and householders was $2.4 billion, about half the 1951 estimate. And 1947 capital investment was a record, up to that time. In fact, the experts warned, in making their estimate of $2.8 billion for 1948, that some slackening must be expected, although the back-log of utility and government investment would be proceeded with should any surplus of labour and material develop. Now, four years later, capital investment is still mounting, there has been no slack to take up, and, indeed, the need for utility and government projects has been so great that some could not be delayed and have had to be undertaken at the same time private investment has been expanding.

These have put strains on manpower, materials and costs, but, on the whole, Canada has born them well. Actually, the industrial and financial expansion of this country during the last decade has been phenomenal. No other country in the world has leapt so far ahead in these matters. The figures for capital investment this year are another indication that Canada is in the midst of a development which may indeed make the twentieth century belong to Canada—given peace.

Burleigh-Bobcaygeon Bumps

The backwoods trail to Bobcaygeon, in late years known as Highway 36, is being widened and flattened. The road does need a face-lifting, for in recent years it has regained the look of a trail—or perhaps that is the impression one has of it in comparison with the more recently carved highways to Buckhorn and north from Lakefield to Burleigh.

There are some fascinating bends near Bobcaygeon which the roadbuilders are eliminating. One may lament the passing of these curves which give piquancy to the drive and a quick series of new views. But they are dangerous and the road has in fact become a highway. Scenery must, alas, take second place to convenience. Tourists may enjoy the curves, sauntering around them at ordinary speeds, relishing the change from the straight and flat in the south. But some tourists are in a hurry. When they meet residents and trucks drivers of the area who, it seems, are always in a hurry, the bends are made dangerous. The people who live up there know every curve and take each with a speed which is bred of familiarity. It is for them, rather than for the tourists, that the road is being straightened, we presume.

Near Nogies Creek—a few miles east of Bobcaygeon—there is an exciting series of knolls on the road. What fun they are—as good as a roller-coaster! The whole family looks forward to that stretch of the highway. As one nears the bumps really, it is belittling to call these lovely rolls "bumps"; the driver takes the middle of the road, accelerates to a good rousing speed—45 m.p.h. is about right to get the full benefit—to the crest of each roll, then lets the car purr down the hump. And so to the next roll—whoops! here she comes! up! ah! Incidentally, the best fun is had heading from the east side; approached from the west the rolls are not quite as exhilarating. It is a hilarious quarter of a mile. We hope that the highway builders will allow the road to continue to roll. There used to be such a series of bumps on the road to Marmora before it became a highway. These bounces have long since been eliminated. Please, let us keep the ones at Nogies Creek.

We note that while the rebuilding of Highway 36 goes on, the way for cars is being kept in good shape. There is almost no impediment and it is in very good condition: smooth, well-oiled, easy on tires, springs and passengers.

The Minister Leaves

This month's end is annually the time when Protestant ministers of several denominations change pulpits or retire. Congregations gather to say good-bye to their friend and pastor, to give him a "token of their esteem" and his wife a bouquet; then a few days later they have another ceremony to induct the incoming minister.

These farewells are always rather sad and upsetting to congregations, but one often feels more sympathy for the man and his wife who have tended the flock for five or six years, and are having to move on again. Either the people are tired of the minister, or the minister is tired of them. Perhaps the congregation feels it needs a younger man; perhaps the minister believes that the duties in his present church are too exhausting. Sometimes, of course, the minister is being called to a bigger church; he may be a young man with boundless stores of energy and enthusiasm to equip him for wider spheres. Whatever the reason for leaving the church, the minister and his family are once again on the move; once again they have to pick up life in a strange town, make new friends, cultivate a new flock, adjust themselves to a different house, different elders of the church, different pillars.

The peripatetic life which pastors of some Protestant denominations are condemned to undergo is not easy or made attractive because of the periodic moves. There is much to be said for the old English way, where a vicar or rector carried on his cure of souls in the same parish and same house until death (or occasionally the bishop) removed him. Is a church made, or broken by its minister? If so, may the demands made on the parson—the requirements exacted of him—not be out of proportion to a congregation's proper dependence on their own resources of faith? Is the church overly dependent on its ministers?

The Christian Church is both spiritual and temporal; an instrument of faith and an aspect of society. As a society, a church has fluctuating vitality and moods like other organizations of people, because a congregation is people and a parson is a person. People benefit from change, sometimes require it.

In The Steps Of St. Paul

By ANTHONY GEORGE (In Athens)

(Ed. Note: An international pilgrimage to celebrate the 1900th anniversary of arrival of the Apostle Paul in Greece has now begun.)

REPRESENTATIVES of all the main Christian Churches of the world except the Roman Catholic and Russian Orthodox Churches are taking part in the fortnight's special celebration which began last Friday (June 15) of the 1900th anniversary of one of the greatest events in the Christian calendar, the arrival in Europe of the Apostle Paul bringing the Christian Gospel which was to overthrow the pagan gods and change the history of Europe and the world.

The anniversary, strictly speaking, fell last year, but its celebration was postponed since the Greek guerrilla war had only just then finished and more time was needed to organize the ceremonies. It was in June of the year 50 A.D. that Saint Paul disembarked at a tiny port in Eastern Macedonia and began his apostolic journey to teach the new religion to the people of Greece from whence it spread to the rest of Europe. The Greeks, with prophetic insight and imagination, had already placed by the side of the altars of their Dodecatheon (the twelve Greek pagan gods) an altar dedicated to "the unknown God".

THE celebration is taking the form of a pilgrimage along the route followed by Saint Paul in his apostolic journey through Greece as indicated in the Epistles of Paul and the Acts of the Apostles. The route takes them through Philippi in Eastern Macedonia, Cavalla, Verria, Salonika, Nicopolis, Crete, Rhodes, Isthmia, Corinth and Athens. At each of these historic stages of the journey a religious mass is being sung and lectures delivered on Saint Paul and his activities.

THE climax of the celebrations will be reached in Athens with a religious festival on the Areopagus, the historic rock near the altar dedicated to the Unknown God, from which Saint Paul preached the Gospel. At the foot of this rock are the remains of an ancient basilica believed to have been dedicated to either Saint Paul or his faithful Athenian follower, Dionysius the Areopagite. This ceremony will be followed by a festive mass in which all the members of the Holy Synod of Greece will take part.

The celebrations will end in the ancient theatre of Herod of Attica, at the foot of the flood-lit Acropolis, where an oratorio specially composed for the occasion by the Greek composer, Mr. Peter Petridis, will be sung. A commemorative volume, containing the speeches and lectures delivered during the pilgrimage, will be published later as a permanent record of the anniversary.

THE idea of the celebrations originated with the Professor of Theology of Salonika University, Mr. Condaris. It was adopted by the Holy Synod of the Church of Greece which, with financial help from the Greek state, organized the ceremonies and the invitations. More than 150 leaders from Christian churches, theological colleges and seminaries, eminent Paulinists and a few outstanding laymen from countries all over the world accepted the invitation and are taking part in the pilgrimage. Among the representatives from the German Evangelical Church is Pastor Martin Niemöller.

POPE PIUS XII was invited to come in person or to send representatives, but declined because of the still unsettled differences existing between the Vatican and the Greek State—between which there are at present no diplomatic relations. Hopes that this decision might be revised at the last minute in spite of the diplomatic estrangement were disappointed.

Financial help for the celebrations has been provided through the sale of a special commemorative issue of postage stamps. The stamps are of four denominations; the first, at 700 drachmae, depicts an ancient altar with the inscription "To The Unknown God" and bearing a sword symbolizing the conversion of the colossus of the city of Corinth after the vision of Damascus. The second, at 2,600 drachmae, bears the portrait of Saint Paul after the painting of El Greco (the Greek painter of the Spanish Renaissance). The third, at 1,600 drachmae, has a picture of Saint Paul after the fresco at Mystras, the Byzantine Pompeii of Greece. The fourth, at 10,000 drachmae, depicts Saint Paul preaching to the Athenians.

Al Jolson's Age

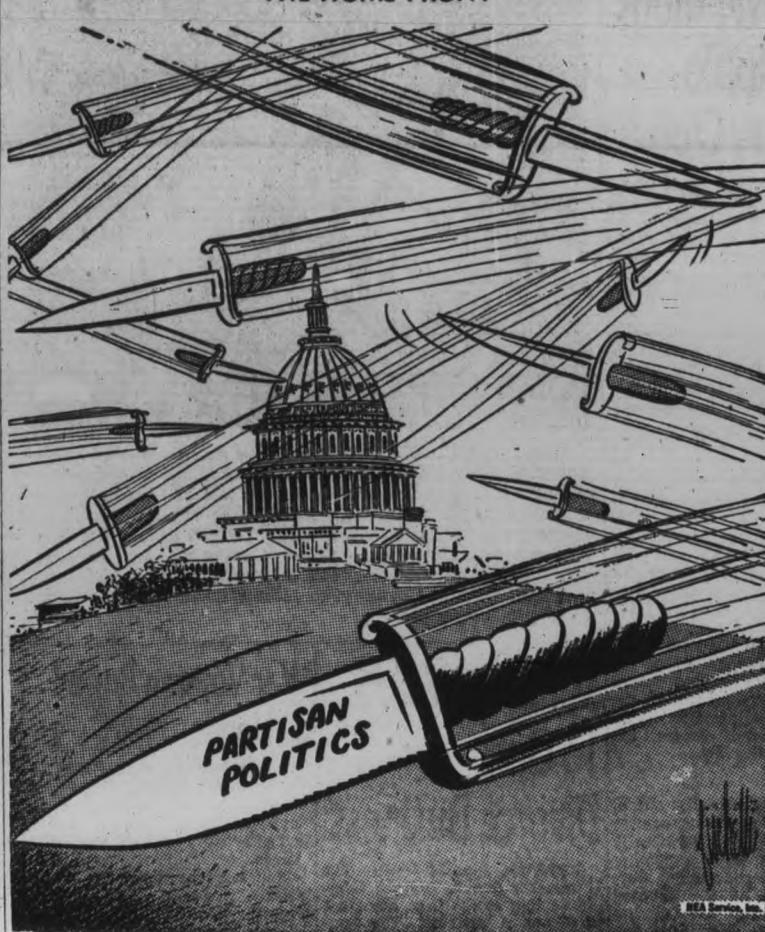

(Winnipeg Free Press)

It is odd that the age of Al Jolson, the late motion picture and radio star, should turn out to be a matter of real importance to the Jolson estate as well as an unending subject of wisecracks.

For some years before his death witicism concerning his age was always good for a laugh. It now turns out that his age can make a difference of $122,000 to his estate. If he was 64 at death the life insurance payment would be $400,000; if 70, $278,000. Jolson was born in Russia and had no birth certificate.

Al Jolson's age—a target for puns and coarse humour in his lifetime—has become in death a matter of big business.

THE HOME FRONT

Persia's Defence Problems

By FLORA LEWIS

FOR all practical purposes, the main defence of Persia against Soviet conquest is the assumption that, so long as they are convinced that it would cause a general world war, it is not worth the Russians' while to attack here. So far as can be ascertained, Western strategic planning has not yet taken a definite stand on Persia. It is unquestionable that in present circumstances Persia could not be held against any determined attack, but it is yet to be decided whether it would be worth trying to hold the country with the increase in strength that might become available when the Western rearmament drive has progressed.

Meanwhile, an American military mission is channeling a steady supply of American war material into Persia and is trying to build up the Persian army to the point where it could be a serious local deterrent. The army at present consists of nine divisions and four independent brigades, and manufactures its own small arms. Full details of equipment received under American grant are not available, but it is known that they include a number of Sherman tanks, howitzers, bazookas, recoilless anti-tank weapons—mostly light but up-to-date equipment.

No one is quite sure, however, whether the Persian Army would really fight on the side of the eastern Allies if it were called upon to do so. The Shah is not only commander-in-chief in name, but exercises a direct control over appointments and has, it is said, the loyalty of the army. Whether that would be sufficient to secure the kind of energetic resistance that could be expected from the Turks, for example, is quite another matter.

There is much political "neutrality" here, especially now that anti-British feeling is high, and the Persians are not a nation of military fighters, although they have a long military history. Inefficiency is so deeply planted in the Persian way-of-life that it would be far too much to expect of one sector of Persian society to change rapidly, simply as the result of a few years' training.

Almost all the officers and about one-quarter of other ranks are professional soldiers. The rest are two-year conscripts. The army seems to keep fairly well out of politics. Persia has not been a country of military coups d'état since the ex-sergeant Reza Pahlavi, father of the present Shah, seized the throne. But it has its element of Communists, mainly, it is said, among the junior officers and probably running most of the way through from top to bottom.

The terrain in Persia is exceedingly difficult. There are thick forest and jungle just below the Caspian shores, the tall, jagged Elbruz mountains running east-west parallel to the Soviet-Persian border, and the north-south Zagros range below the central plateau on which Teheran is situated. Roads are poor, the railway thin and shaky. The nature of the land in the north is advantageous for spirited defence by small forces against larger ones less acquainted with the countryside, but this assumes both fierce determination and good organization on the part of the defenders.

Persia has no air defence to speak of. A qualified observer estimated that half a squad of well-piloted jets could quickly wipe out the Persian air force. The country is almost wholly without air cover and the open stretches of sun-baked steppe and desert land make emergency landings and quick construction of air strips easy. Paratroops could easily overcome the barriers of the difficult northern terrain. The Abadan refinery installations offer a simple, unprotected target for bombing.

On the other hand, apart from its oil, Persia is not a great strategic prize. It seems unlikely that anyone could secure much oil production in wartime unless a large-scale air defence could be mounted.

Northern Persia does offer a passage to Iraq and the Mediterranean circumventing Turkey and it would, of course, be of immense advantage to the Russians to hold a Persian Gulf port if they could use it as a base against Indian Ocean shipping. But the ports are not very good, and there are narrow straits at the entrance to the Gulf that could make the subsequent value of such an operation hardly worth the cost.

For these reasons, Western military men here do not think Persia a likely starting-point of a Third World War. An invasion of Persia could happen, and it could be achieved with surprise much more complete than was the case in Korea, but so long as the Russians believe it would mean general war, it is considered improbable.

Internal aggression, either of the type of the 1946 Soviet-sponsored revolt in Azerbaijan, or a Czech type nation-wide putsch, is a different question. The Communists are not believed to be strong enough for such an undertaking now, but they are gaining force and audacity steadily; and even if they did not attempt to bring the country fully into the Soviet sphere, they could, even with their present strength, make the position of the Western Powers in Persia very difficult.

In many ways, Persia's international importance is political rather than strictly military, although secure bomber bases there would be invaluable to the Russians or the West. The West has been losing, rather than gaining, ground here in the past two years. If the assumption on which it counts for the security of Persia should break down, it is hard to see anything else that might provide effective defence for this country, its oil and the paths of expansion it offers to the south and west.

Smokers' Will Power

(Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph)

Tax-harassed Canadians should get a smirch of grim humour out of unofficial reports that the new Federal tax on top of other taxes on cigarettes has brought in little revenue so far.

Actually it is reported that the drop in cigarette tax revenues has been approximately equal to the recent increase in the new tax levy so that the Government is no better off financially than it was before the hoist.

This seems to indicate that smokers either have almost as much power as the late Mahatma Gandhi or else they do not have as much excess spending power as Mr. Abbott thinks. It is probably a combination of both stronger will and less money that is spacing puffs over longer intervals with smokers tapering off the habit and some quitting tobacco altogether. A lot of others still are "rolling their own".

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The mighty God, even the Lord, hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof. Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty, God hath shined. (Ps. 50: 1, 2.)

Make thy face to shine upon thy servant; and teach me thy statutes. Thy word is very pure: therefore thy servant loveth it. (Ps. 119: 135, 140.)

And there appeared a great wonder in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars; and she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered. And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads. And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne. (Rev. 12: 1-5.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Two men were having an argument about their physical powers.

"Why," said one, "every morning before breakfast I get a bucket and pull up 100 gallons of water from the well."

"That's nothing," retorted the other, "I get a boat every morning and pull up the river."

A high railroad official found that unaccountably, his train seemed to be going very slowly. In a hurry to reach his destination he identified himself to the porter and said he also was nephew of the railroad's president.

Porter—Mister, even if you were the son of the conductor himself, it wouldn't make any difference.

"Now, Andrew," said teacher, "suppose you had four dollars in one pocket; of your trousers and three in the other. What would that be?"

"Somebody else's trousers, miss."

Rules For Baby-Sitters

(Vancouver News-Herald)

A code for parents hiring baby sitters has been issued by the Vancouver Children's Aid Society.

The rules should be seriously pondered by all parents:

1—Know the sitter. Be sure she's suitable, has sufficient sense of responsibility. Age is not always a basis of judgement, for a teenager may be more reliable than a middle-aged woman.

2—Leave instructions for care of the child if it awakens.

3—Leave a phone number so you can be reached, and if there's no phone, call home periodically.

4—Instruct the sitter never to leave the child alone for any reason.

All this is good advice. It should be heeded. Too many parents these days are hiring mere children and placing on them too much responsibility.

And, while we're about it, we may as well say parents shouldn't permit their young daughters to act as baby sitters late into the night. Nor should they permit their daughter to sleep in houses where there are young children and no adults.

A 12-year-old girl, fast asleep, is just as dead to the world as a year-old baby, should an emergency arise.

Baby-sitting—a valuable occupation, but too many abuses are creeping in.

Parenthood is a tremendous responsibility; it cannot be shirked. It is criminal to do so, and public opinion must deal with parents who leave young children until 3 and 4 in the morning, even if there is a fast asleep 12-year-old in the house.

Vatican Resumes Routine Now Holy Year Finished

By PATRICK CROSSE.

VATICAN CITY (CP)—Roman Catholicism's central government concentrated in the one square mile of the Vatican City State, is gradually swinging back to its normal administrative routine after the upheaval of the 1950 Holy Year.

Seventy-five-year-old Pope Pius XII still receives many grims every day. But they are numbered in dozens or, at most, hundreds, each day, instead of in thousands as during the whole of last year.

The pope already has behind him the greatest ceremony of the year, in terms of popularity—the beatification of the "Peasant Pope," Pius X.

Two hundred thousand people joined with the pope in an open air ceremony of veneration of his newly-blessed predecessor on June 2 in the great square before Saint Peter's Basilica.

Apart from the regular ones of the church calendar, the pope will conduct only two other great ceremonies this year, both canonizations.

Speeches
The end of the constant stream of Holy Year mass audiences, which flowed on into the opening months of the present year, has meant that the pope is no longer obliged to make five or six speeches a week.

It has also enabled him to resume receiving the cardinals of the Curia, the equivalent of cabinet ministers in a lay government, and the bishops who come to Rome on their routine "ad limina" visits.

RECEIVE OXFORD DEGREES — Wearing traditional cops and gowns, Field Marshal Viscount Alexander (left) Governor-General of Canada, and Lester Pearson, Canada's Minister for External Affairs, walk in procession from Christ Church to the Sheldonian Theatre, Oxford, where they received honorary doctorates of civil law degrees.

The result has been that the detailed direction of the affairs of the Catholic church has returned to the hands of the pope.

Vigorous Leader
Despite his age, he appears to devote great vigor to his task. Visitors report he shows the keenest interest in each individual he meets, and in his ceremonial appearances he bears himself and speaks with energy and decision.

In nearly all his principal speeches this year, Pius XII has dwelt on four main themes, which he describes as the four great necessities of the age:

1. Peace.
2. Social Justice.
3. A new feeling of brotherhood among men, essential for the achievement of the first two aims.
4. The "great return" to the spiritual values of the Christian religion, essential to all the first three aims.

In his constant insistence on the necessity of peace, left-wing commentators, not all Communist, have claimed to see condemnation of the Atlantic Pact and European rearmament. But no support has been lent to this view by Vatican commentators, and the Pope himself has been more frequently insistent on the dangers to Christianity of Communism, as well as of all other forms of materialism.

The Pope, seeking to root out social injustice, has also constantly warned industrialists, financiers and others who directly or indirectly employ men to work for them, of the practical danger, as well as the grave moral default, of shirking the social responsibility of their power.

He has at the same time warned workers that their struggle to improve their position becomes evil if it is not directed towards the good of the community as a whole.

Family Sets Sail On Pacific Dream Trip

VANCOUVER (CP)—The incurable romantics who gaze on Vancouver's waterfront have just seen one family's dream coming true. Quietly and without fanfare, a little sailing ship put out to sea on an adventurous voyage.

On board the Wind Song were a man and wife and their wide-eyed child. The trip they had planned for six years was finally a reality.

Skipper of the vessel was Allen Farrell, 39-year-old artist, and his crew consisted of his wife and eight-year-old Kerry. For Farrell, the voyage was the start of a vagabond adventure he had planned years ago.

The Wind Song is schooner-rigged, built by the Farrells out of the best and stoutest materials. She was designed to meet grueling conditions and the family had tested her on several coastal voyages.

The 37-foot vessel has an auxiliary gasoline engine and is a stout craft. "Two old captains who came down to see the ship told us they'd sail it around the Horn without even thinking about it," said Farrell.

No set Schedule
Farrell studied navigation and sought first-hand advice from two Vancouver men who made the same journey two years ago, Bob Fortune and Jack Wells, sailors on the Vancouver schooner Escape.

On the first leg of their voyage the Farrells are heading for the Hawaiian Islands and the port of Hilo, 2,400 miles distant. From there they will sail to Fanning Island and Tahiti and "just around."

"We'll just make our plans as we go," said Farrell, already bronzed by life on the sea. They plan to earn their way from island to island by selling the skipper's paintings and stories or doing odd jobs.

"We've been lucky so far," said Mrs. Farrell. "Since we started the boat things just seem to have fallen our way, and I've a feeling they will continue to do so."

Bright sunlight dancing on the wake of the Wind Song seemed a good augury as the little vessel set out.

Mimico Beaten By Petes In a One-Sided OLA Game

Peterborough Timberrmen handed Mimico Mounties a ringing 19-7 defeat last night here before a good-sized crowd to register their third straight senior lacrosse win since June 18. The victory put Don Crowe's boys a game off the pace currently set by St. Kitts with a 9-2 record.

Leading 3-1 after a fast first frame with Petes having a fair edge in the latter half, the locals staged a strong offensive in the second quarter to pump nine tallies past Red Hartley. Mounties were able to dent Wooten's armour but twice as Moon proved a tough target, aided by fine defence work. Colorful Harry Wipwer scored twice in this frame with Thorpe a pair to lead the attack with Fitzgerald, Creighton, O'Hearn, Dugan, Slater, Vitarelli, Powless and Hildebrand all scoring or helping. Downer and Chard scored for Mimico.

Clean Contest
Mounties' best showing of the one-sided but clean contest came in the third quarter as led by Dennie Peterson, the visitors rifled home three smart tallies after Vitarelli's quick opening thrust and outplayed Timberrmen for a spell. The Crowe squad fought back strongly to gain a 4-3 edge on the close frame with Slater, Ashbee and Thorpe hitting the twine in the final five minutes of play.

In the lively final quarter, both teams fought hard but no scoring came till 9:20 when Petes kicked on a neat Thorpe to Ashbee thrust. Vitarelli and Thorpe, who started throughout, clicked seconds later with Thorpe and Dugan finishing off. Chuck Simpson scored Mounties' final tally.

Dootch Vitarelli led all point getters with five goals and two assists, closely followed by Bobby Thorpe with four tallies and a pair of assists. Harry Wipwer added four markers to his season's total while Fitzgerald, Ashbee and Dugan each got four points. Ron Powless and Ike Hildebrand played fine lacrosse throughout along with Ed Creighton, N. O'Hearn and Russ Slater. The work of Moon Wooten was up to his usual high standard.

Leading Mounties' offensive were Denny Peterson and Hop Chard with a pair of tallies while Bill Horwood, Ted Downer and Chuck Simpson registered one apiece. Scoop Hayes assisted twice, Harold Downer, Don McPhail and Hartley getting one apiece. A flustered battle between O'Hearn and McPhail drew majors later in the finale.

Westclox Girls Gain Win Against Ashbys

Westclox girls softballers took an 18-10 league victory over Ashby's last evening at the Bowl. They hit hard and fielded well behind steady hurling by M. Owen, while Ashby's kicked a few and appeared handicapped by players on night work. Also their base-running wasn't quite up to par. E. Brown took over in the fourth from J. Merrett on the mound.

M. Batley and M. Hawthorne stood out defensively for the winners which J. Reynolds and D. Thompson were good for the other squad. M. Hawthorne led Westclox at bat with four safe blows, one a double as M. Batley, B. Morrow, J. McIntyre and M. Hodson each clicked for three hits. P. Williams topped Ashby's with a triple and three singles in four and D. Thompson had three safeties. Westclox experience kept them atop the heap. Teams:

Westclox: M. Batley, cf; B. Morrow, ss; J. McIntyre, 1b; M. Hawthorne, 3b; A. Anderson, lf; G. LeBarge, c; J. Snape, 2b; M. Hodson, rf; M. Owen, p.

With good golfing weather prevailing and the fact that the deadline for the first round of the President's Cup was this past weekend, a goodly number of members scurried to get their matches played in time. For some it was "curtain" but for the victors it meant a step in the direction of the next round. The following were those who came "smilin' through"—to the second round—E. Gregson, H. McLean, J. Slaughter, D. Vitarelli, D. Mortimer, J. J. Riley, H. Gorrell, C. Reynolds, C. McDonald, A. Sanderson, D. Hough, G. White, S. Whiddon, D. Chamberlain, V. Rawlence.

The mixed two-ball showed signs of life too and the following are now in the second round waiting for others to move up: Mr. and Mrs. C. McDougall, Flo Riley and Fraser Dunfield, A. Allan and H. Barnett, and into the third round went Mrs. Reed and D. Mortimer.

In the men's two-ball C. Crowe and L. Ackford moved into the third round. Play in this match is lagging and the handicap committee are beginning to wonder if the boys are getting all of their vitamins.

Some real close games were played in the Kawartha Cup with the following disciples of the divot edging their way into the second round of the play: A. Todd, D. Bath, R. Burns, G. Webb, J. R. Clark, H. Hammell; while into the third round slipped E. Naish.

The greens committee were recently seen going to mow the bunker to bunker and from green to green around the course and despite the rumor that they were looking for lost balls, they were actually holding their meeting where it should be held, right out on the course, instead of in the arm chairs of the club house. Consensus of opinion is that the course is shaping up well even considering the couple of unruly spots on the back nine.

Excellent meals are being served in the club house and it goes without saying that a Sunday dinner away from home is much appreciated by the lady golfer of the house. A call to Frank Hughes on Saturday will assure this treat for her and the family, and guests.

Senior baseball returns to this borough tomorrow (Wednesday) e'en. It's an 8:30 touch under the lights at Riverside Park. Toronto Croftons playing the Petes in a Viaduct Major League fixture. A flock of frays have been played with more to come in the long Viaduct Loop grind as the summer wears along toward playoff time when the harvest is ready. Keen followers of the diamond sport can't see enough of baseball and have been seeing some neat numbers to date. No doubt, a hefty crowd will be on deck again to view the Croftons-Petes' clash tomorrow after supper, if the weather behaves in reasonable fashion.

'Twas A Honey, Indeed

Quite a gallery on deck there last p.m. and they saw a swell scrap. A 3-2 win for the Whitehill crew o'er Oshawa's imported Merchants. Bill Edger blasted home the winner late in the ninth to break up a nifty 2-2 ball game. Bill also pitched a good game against strong opposition. Stan Miller pitched okay, too, for the losers, and 'twas just a tossup on the night's play, but Bill call it right. He led the hitters, as well, with two in two official trips up, as Charlie Walsh hammered out three for four to lead Oshawa. Andy Milne clouted a lovely triple in the seventh, but was cut off right after at the plate. Both sides played sound baseball most of the route, and the fans cheered plenty at the satisfactory finish.

Another local victory came to Peterborough last gloaming, this time at Miller Bowl. Don Crowe's senior lacrosseers trimmed Mimico Mounties quite handsily, by a 19-7 score. Really rubbed it in, as a flock of the fellows fattened their batting averages. Mounties kept scrapping and played on fairly even terms the last half, but a big second quarter put the tussle on ice for the Petes ere the half ended. Dootch Vitarelli was plenty potent in the sniping line, as were Harry Wipwer and Bob Thorpe, several more being not far behind. Again Moon Wooten was solid in the home game. They play in Mimico on the morrow, and have Toronto West Yorks here on Friday. Both our ball and lacrosse clubs are in Toronto next Sunday.

Woollens Were Warmish

Westclox downed Ashby's 18-10 and Woollens took Marines 17-8 last evening in girls' Bowl softball tussles. Clockers showed too much experience for Ashby's in a free-hitting fray with Marg Hawthorne (a handy gal on a softball diamond) wielding a potent mace. The surprising young Woollens earned their victory against Marines with lots of hustle, plus a wicked wagon tongue swung by C. Ferguson, who hit a homer, triple, double and two singles in five. L. Weir of the losers clicked for a homer, double and two singles in five times up. Not too many miscues for rather high scores in these games. Tills tomorrow: Westclox vs. Marines, and Cobourg vs. Ashby's, the latter two meeting again Friday in Cobourg.

Speaking of girls' softball, there's a four-girl team doing a bit of touring around now as a takeoff on the King and His Court. It's known as the Queen and Her court, with Teresa Jones the brilliant pitcher. She is 25 years old and towers six-foot-three! At Kew Gardens o'er last weekend, Teresa threw a no hitter against the Ohio femmes and the Columbus squad said they'd never seen such fast pitching. She strikes out an average of two or more an inning and gives up few hits, while she and her mates club the apple hard. Also, Teresa tosses a number of trick balls as Eddie Feigner, who is king of his court. He drew a record crowd here last year, and may show in Peterborough again comes August. The Queen is at Cobourg on June 29.

Dealing 'Em Off The Cuff

Orfun gridders had a fine get-together last eve, but we had to miss it on account of too many sports goings on. A bantam PMLA game at 6:30 tonight, with the juves in a twin bill tomorrow. Junior OLA-ers, who go to Toronto tomorrow, are tied with Mimico after their group, each winning three and losing none. UEW and O'Halloran's have a soccer fixture at six Wednesday eve in King Edward Park. Mount Pleasant diad Norwood fastballers 5-2 last gloaming. Woollens play Mutuals at Brinton tonight, while tomorrow at Quaker it's Mt. Pleasant vs. Raybestos at 6:45, the prize draw being made then. Bell and Busmen go this eve in the civic circuit. Men's Bowl games tonight: Revoy's vs. Orphans, and Lakefield vs. UEW. St. John's and Sacred Heart angle in the Catholic League this p.m. George St. ousted St. Andrew's in church play. They meet Lakefield on the morrow. Central defeated King George to take the senior school title. North and west bantams go Thursday in the PMBA. Kingsways play the Petes here twice on the holiday Monday, at three and at eight. Petes changed their starting time last night from 8:30 to eight as Oshawa said they could make it at that time; Wednesday's tilt is a 8:30 here. That's it.

Woollens Take A Victory Over Marines

Woollens came up with a neat 17-8 girls' loop softball win against Marines at the Bowl last night. They turned in a swell effort throughout with timely thumping at the plate, snappy fielding and lots of hustle behind C. Ferguson's 11-hit hurling. Marines were minus some players and they couldn't get untracked till the late innings. The losers booted but one to three by Woollens, but the winners were tight in the clutches. E. Whittaker took over the slab from H. White in the eighth.

R. McIntyre and C. Ferguson shone on the defence for Woollens, with M. Behan and L. Weir strong for Outboards. C. Ferguson also starred at bat with a perfect night, hitting a homer, triple, double and two singles in five attempts. R. McIntyre got three hits and J. McIlwain belted a homer. L. Weir led the losers with a homer, double and two singles in five. There were few strikeouts.

71,289 Fans See Yanks Edge Dodgers

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP).—The largest exhibition game crowd in history—71,289 paid—saw the American League defending champion New York Yankees defeat the National League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3 in 10 innings Monday night.

Three Dodger errors contributed heavily to Yankees scoring, ruining fine pitching by Johnny Smitz and hard-hitting by Roy Campanella. The Dodger catcher homered, doubled and erased three base-runners to win a watch as the most valuable player in the game.

With the bases loaded and one out in the 10th, pinch-hitter Gene Woodling hit a ball into the right field seats which should have been a homer. But it counted only as a single because he passed Hank Bauer on the baseline for an automatic out. Bauer was loafing, after watching Phil Rizzuto score the winning run.

Mt. Pleasant Wins

Mount Pleasant took a 5-2 fast-ball win over Norwood last night on the latter's diamond. They scored a pair of runs in the fifth, adding one each in the next three, while Norwood got their two in the seventh of a neat tussle. Mitchell pitched four-hit ball, while Evans gave way to Payne on the other mound. Crawford had two triples and Mitchell a double for the winners. B. Gardiner hitting a double for Norwood. Teams:

Mount Pleasant: Mitchell p, Craig c, K. Bryan 1b, Fair rf, McKnight lf, Jamieson 3b, Parker 3b, Crawford cf, J. Bryan ss.

Norwood: Kelley c, W. Gardiner 1b, Payne rf, p; B. Gardiner ss, Spencer lf, Martin 2b, Wilford cf, Evans p, Scott rf, Stinson 3b.

Umpires: Quemy and Stephenson.

George St. Victors

George Street United ousted St. Andrew's United 7-12 to go in against Lakefield on Wednesday in church softball playoffs. The victors hit hard to tally seven runs in the first frame, six next time up, five in the third, two in the fourth, four more in the next heat, and three in the sixth. St. Andrew's counted two each in the second, third and fourth, one in the sixth and five in the seventh. Teams:

St. Andrew's: Atkinson ss, Mann 3b, H. Stinson lf, Brown p, Northrop 1b, Lincoln c, F. Stinson lf.

Petes Edge Oshawa By 3-2 In Nifty Senior Ball Game

Bill Edger's ringing double to right field with two out in the last of the ninth here last night sent Andy Milne scampering over the plate with the winning run as the Petes nosed out Oshawa Merchants 3-2. It was the best game of the Viaduct Baseball League season seen here so far and a good-sized crowd cheered Edger at the windup. The win tightened the Petes' grip on top spot over the second-place Merchants.

The hero of the piece was Edger, who hurled good ball all through against equally fine flinging by Stan Miller of Oshawa. Edger also led his squad with the willow, getting two for two. He whiffed four and walked one while keeping nine hits fairly well scattered but for three in the third when the Merchants got both their runs. The Petes got the two back in the fourth. Miller allowed but seven hits, though he walked three and struck out a pair. The Petes booted three.

Wasted Triple
Besides Edger's hitting, Andy Milne came through with a screaming triple to left in the seventh with none out, but was nipped at the plate when he tried to score on Menzies' grounder to second. Charlie Walsh led the

Giants Hoping To Slow Brooklyn Team

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer.
Back in 1934 Bill Terry, then manager of the world champion Giants, was asked what he thought of the dreary Brooklyn Dodgers.
"Are they still in the league?" he retorted.
Now 17 years later, another Giant manager, Leo Durocher, will attempt to prove that the Giants still are in the league.
Facing the pack by six games, the Dodgers are threatening to make a shambles of the pennant race in the National League. The responsibility of halting the Brooklyn runaway rests squarely on the Giants.

The bitter interborough rivalry opens a three-game series tonight at the Polo Grounds. The general feeling is that the Giants must win at least two of three to show that the chase is not hopeless.

Although the Giants won nine and lost four in the west, they failed to gain on the Dodgers. However, they climbed from fourth to second to mark themselves as the most likely challenger for Brooklyn.

There is a side issue to the Dodger-Giant battles. That is the threat of bean-ball hostilities. The two teams have not met since April 30 when some Brooklyn hitters accused pitcher Sal Maglie of throwing at them. A brush between Maglie and Jackie Robinson almost erupted into serious trouble.

Have Top Pitchers

Each side will have its top three pitchers ready. Dodger manager Chuck Dressen has Preacher Roe (10-0), his unbeaten southpaw, ready for tonight. He was to be opposed by Maglie (11-3). Right-hander Don Newcombe (9-4) of Brooklyn and Larry Jansen (8-6) of New York are tomorrow afternoon's probables.

Newcombe has two of Brooklyn's five wins over the Giants. Maglie owns the only Giants' victory over the Dodgers. Ralph Branca (3-1) is expected to hurl for Brooklyn Thursday afternoon. He will be opposed by either Jim Hearn (6-4) or Sheldon Jones.

In contrast to the National, the American League appears set for a blistering pennant race with Chicago White Sox, New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox all figuring prominently.

Their once-comfortable 4½-game cushion deflated to one game, the White Sox hope to regain some lost ground in the next two weeks. They open against Detroit tonight at home where they remain for nine games before moving to Cleveland and St. Louis for seven more. They split 16 games on the eastern swing.

Halifax Opera Debut Proves Big Success

HALIFAX, June 26 (CP)—The Nova Scotia Opera Association's "Madame Butterfly" Monday night won a storm of applause from a packed house.

The performance—fourth in the association's short life—will be repeated today and the ticket sale is so good officials were predicting the need for a third performance later.

The opera was under the direction of Mariss Vetra, with Alfred Stromberg conducting the big orchestra. The association's activities are sparked by these two talented Latvians who have drawn singers and orchestra from church choirs, military bands and dance orchestras.

Ferry Big Boon To Settlers

COCKRANE, June 26 (CP)—An army-type landing barge, brought from Vancouver four years ago on a railway flat car, is the only link with civilization for 500 settlers east of the Abitibi River near the northern Ontario town.

The Cassiopeia II, wearing a civilian suit of bright red and baby blue, plies from bank to bank of the 400-foot river by cables anchored to each shore.

Captain of the ferry is big Alex Brunet, employed by the Ontario Department of Highways. He and three alternate operators run the barge until Jan. 1, when an ice-bridge is formed across the river.

All is plain sailing for them at this time of the year but they have their troubles in early spring when the great run-off of snow plunges madly downstream.

Another Hazard

Alex says the ice slams so hard against the barge that sometimes he thinks he may have to swim to shore.

Winter and cold weather contribute another hazard to the operators' work. At 50 below temperatures, the ferry has to make shore-to-shore trips at five-minute intervals so that ice won't form in its narrow channel. By the time the ferry service is discontinued, ice has formed on either side of the channel to a depth of three feet.

From Jan. 1 until the spring break-up, settlers and workers from two lumber companies use the ice-bridge when it becomes thick enough to support a steam roller.

Highway officials say there may be a permanent bridge at the spot some day but not in the predictable future. The width of the river and the small population on the east banks almost guarantees that Captain Alex and his ferry will be there for a long time.

To Resume Work

MILLTOWN, N.B., June 26 (CP)—Striking employees of the weaving department of the Canadian Cottons Limited mill here decided Monday to resume work today. The 200 employees, members of the Textile Workers Union of America walked out last Friday in dissatisfaction with a new working system in the weaving department.

Australia Fights Witchcraft In Aborigines

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Dr. R. A. Brock, government "walkabout" doctor to the Aborigines is having medicine-man trouble.

Dr. Brock was appointed to investigate the health of the Nomadic Aborigines in North Australia by travelling with the wandering tribes and studying their life.

He has just returned to Darwin after his first walkabout and reports that many Aborigines are living at "half throttle" because disease lessens their energy.

Dr. Brock found many suffering from hookworm, tuberculosis, yaws, ringworm and leprosy—the reasons for their seemingly lazy attitude.

Most of the disease has been caused by native ignorance of hygiene, and Dr. Brock is battling against native witch doctors to help wipe out illness among the tribes.

No Apparent Competition

On the surface there is no apparent competition between the white doctor and the black medicine man.

When they meet at villages or in the bush, medicine or treatment is never mentioned. Friendly conversation is usually kept strictly to topics such as hunting and fishing.

Because of the power still held by the medicine men, many natives refused to be examined, but the health department believes this attitude will eventually change.

Dr. Brock also used aircraft, launches and native canoes during his visits.

Vet Gets Temporary 100 Per Cent Pension

VANCOUVER, June 26 (CP)—RCAF veteran Al Read has been temporarily reclassified as a 100-per-cent pensioner while the pension board investigates his claim for disability payments for back injury, it was learned Monday.

The decision means the Read family, left almost destitute by Read's eight years of illness, will draw a $156 monthly pension while his case is under investigation.

Read was injured in 1943 when he parachuted into Sweden. He did not get X-rays until January of this year.

Role of Advertising

MONTREAL, June 26 (CP)—The role of classified advertising in the North American community was discussed Monday in a "shop talk" session by 300 delegates representing 160 newspapers in Canada and the United States at the 31st annual meeting of the Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers.

Union Burials

DETROIT, June 26 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) announced Monday formation of a union co-operative burial service with which it hopes to cut costs of funerals by half.

Under the plan, the UAW said funerals will be conducted at a fixed price by a licensed funeral establishment with whom the union has signed a contract.

Will Rescind Bylaw About City Engineer

OWEN SOUND, June 26 (CP)—City council Monday night instructed Controller Alan S. Stewart to prepare a bylaw rescinding the appointment of city engineer Gerald N. Brisco.

To Restore Fort York

TORONTO, June 26 (CP)—Toronto finally has decided to restore old Fort York, which figures in the war of 1812. City council voted Monday to spend an estimated $199,231 to rehabilitate the slowly crumbling structure. The fort was captured by United States forces who burned the town of York surrounding it in 1813.

The council decision came following investigation into the operation of the city garage.

Conciliation Officer Goes To Windsor

WINDSOR, June 26 (CP)—James Hutcheon, Ontario Labor Department conciliation officer, will be here July 3, for meetings with representatives of Local 200, UAW-CIO and Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

The union applied for conciliation service when it was deemed unlikely that agreement could be reached between the parties who have been in negotiations since early this year.

Discuss Treason In Windsor Case

OTTAWA, June 26 (CP)—The Commons Monday discussed the question of whether Mrs. Nora Rodd, of Windsor, who recently made a broadcast on a Soviet-sponsored trip to Korea, would be guilty of treason under a proposed amendment to the Criminal Code.

The amendment, under consideration by the House, would make it an offence to assist troops engaged in a hostile action against Canada, regardless of whether or not their country is formally at war with Canada.

E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops) suggested Mrs. Rodd, if she did not assist hostile troops directly, appeared to have given help to an enemy country.

Justice Minister Garson said he could not make an offhand prophecy about her case, particularly without knowing the accuracy of newspaper reports.

Mr. Fulton said later he did not think the section was strong enough to cover a person making a broadcast from North Korea, though he would think such a broadcast would be as treasonable as giving direct aid to the forces engaged.

Large Influx Of Tourists Expected

Last Two Weeks In August Show Only Drop

Like the late afternoon power load at a hydro station, the Kewartha tourist industry will grind into high gear from Friday of this week until after Labour Day. There will be some depressions in the business graph during the last two weeks of August but resort operators and business people everywhere in the district are anticipating one of the best tourist seasons they have ever had.

According to a conservative estimate from figures on the books of the Chamber of Commerce, this business is worth $5,000,000, spent on accommodation alone. Barring adverse weather and a decline in the state of world affairs, they hope that this year will top them all. And despite the jitters of 1950 season, last year was the best to date.

The Kewarths have several advantages over other districts. It is not a long journey from the northern United States—a day will do it—and when tourists arrive there is plenty to keep them occupied. First and foremost is the fishing.

There is the scenic Trent waterways system for the water tourist. There are golf tournaments, and lacrosse games every Friday night. There are the usual numerous small summer regattas and for the first time this year, a week-long international sailing classic on Clear Lake.

Booked Solid
Manager of the Chamber of Commerce James Fraser says that it is a hard job to find suitable types of housekeeping cottages for accommodation. Everything is booked solid for the first two weeks of July and many until after Labour Day.

Provincial and federal travel agencies report the heaviest flood of tourist inquiries they have ever had, but bookings are down. They think, due to American continuous defence production, a great many vacationers will arrive later than the six-week peak and thereby take up the August two-week slack period.

The Peterborough chamber is very pleased with the upswing of inquiries, too, and say they can trace it back to the constant promotion of the district through such outlets as the district booth at the Cleveland sportsmen's show, and other programs.

Bus Tours Popular
Bus tours of city and district are becoming increasingly popular. There are several inquiries on the books. Peterborough has a reputation for the courteous treatment of tourists which no doubt

Inspect Wells

TORONTO, June 26 (CP)—Inspection of drinking wells in the Cameron Lake district north of Lindsay was ordered today in an effort to determine how Inspector John Storey of the Toronto police department contracted typhoid fever. Dr. J. T. Phair, Ontario Deputy Minister of Health, ordered the investigation after the inspector became seriously ill after he returned from a week-end holiday at his Cameron Lake cottage. Mr. Storey now is reported out of danger.

22-Year-Old Car Overtakes Driver In Civic

Raymond Feeley, 1, of 281 Lake St. is in Civic hospital with a possible fractured collarbone. The injury was sustained Monday night when the 1929-model car he was driving overturned on the River Rd. two and three quarter miles south of Lakefield.

The right wheels of the car struck the soft shoulder of the road and the vehicle rolled over in the west ditch. It came to rest upside down and with Feeley partially pinned beneath it in the driver's seat.

Two companions, who had previously jumped to safety, managed to free the injured youth with the help of a couple of other passersby.

OPP Constable T. H. Fitzpatrick investigated.

Fell Through Barn
Another patient in Civic hospital is Mrs. John Scott, 78, of RR 3 Havelock. She received a serious back injury when she fell through a hole in the barn floor Monday.

Mrs. Scott was walking along the upper floor of the barn while on her way to gather eggs. She got about a large trap in the floor through which feed is pushed down for the horses. She fell through into the horse stable and was found there by her daughter, Mrs. Eric Little. An ambulance took her to hospital.

Cut Tendon
Melville McCartney, 36, of Jackson Park will likely leave Civic Hospital later today after being treated for a cut tendon in his right hand.

Mr. McCartney was examining a power-driven wood saw and when he tugged at the drive-belt to adjust the saw blade revolved and cut the little finger on his right hand.

is another reason why visitors want to come back each year. The Canadian premium rate on American funds is another matter that something has been done about in Peterborough. Members of the Chamber of Commerce have been issued display placards and instructions so that all shoppers may understand that the money premium will be based on the daily premium quoted by the establishment's banks. It is suggested that payment be reduced to the nearest penny unit for convenience.

One Rice Lake operator remarked: "We have had enough inquiries for July accommodation to fill our lodge three times but, gosh, that last two weeks of August is a toughie."

Cobourg Bonds Interest Rate Raised To 4½%

COBOURG, June 26 (ENS)—Council was advised by the town solicitor last night that interest rates for municipal debentures would have to be 4½ per cent. in order to sell their bonds at par.

Already before the Municipal Board are three debenture by-laws: $32,000 for a recreational centre; $16,000 for a sewage disposal plant and $7,000 for the parks board.

These were set up on the basis of 3 1-2 per cent, but the financial market has changed since that time.

Council decided to advise the Municipal Board of the change in the interest rate, the feeling being that it would be better to sell the bonds at par than to issue them at a 1-2 per cent, and only realize about 90 per cent. of their face value, thus affecting the estimated municipal expenditure for this year.

Two readings were given to another debenture by-law last, for $14,000 to pay for a new grader. A letter from the town solicitor informed council that in connection with the new public school site, to cost $10,000, before the Municipal Board could pass judgment on the by-law, permission from the Board of Education had to come first. As it was a matter between the local school board and the department of education, council received and filed the letter and took no other action.

The Illahee Lodge committee wrote council for permission to erect a sign, which would direct those interested to this health centre for handicapped children. Council decided to inform the committee that the town was willing to permit the erection of the sign but that the committee should also contact the department of highways.

Permission was granted the residents of Spencer St. E. to have installed curb and gutters and driveway approaches on this street, to be paid for under Local Improvement by-laws.

All the residents on that street had petitioned for the installation. The clerk produced an exchange of letters between the mayor of Cobourg and the mayor of Port Hope.

Cobourg's mayor complimented Port Hope's chief magistrate on the recent announcement of a new large industry for that town and that with Cobourg's big army depot, also recently secured, the two towns should progress. Mayor Moore of Port Hope replied in appropriate terms.

MATINEE FOR FIRE FUND
The Summer Theatre management and actors are putting on, without remuneration, a special matinee of "Charley's Aunt" for school pupils. All money taken in will go to the Mayor's Fire Fund. The matinee is Wednesday at four o'clock at PCVS auditorium and admission, for school pupils only, is 25 cents.

SESSION WITH PREMIER
As president of the Ontario Municipal Association, City Clerk Outram will preside at a meeting of its executive in Toronto Wednesday morning for a conference with Premier L. M. Frost regarding provincial-municipal taxation preliminary to the government setting up a commission to study this broad question. He will be accompanied by City Treasurer W. S. Couper.

Charley's Whiskery Aunt Draws Biggest House

By T. J. ALLEN

The largest audience the Peterborough Summer Theatre has had since it was organized in 1949 was on hand to greet "Charley's Aunt" on the Collegiate stage last night, the opening of the third consecutive season. The audience got a "wow"-full packet. There was the pleasure of familiarity in seeing again popular Summer Theatre actors returned for another season of entertainment: Pat Atkinson, Kate Reid, Bill Needles, Frank Perry, Cal Whitehead, Ron Bailey. There was the interest in the new players with the company. And there was "Charley's Aunt."

What a bewhiskered Aunt she is! Brandon Thomas' farcical comedy was first produced in 1892, and—witness last night—is still going strong, surviving the Gay Nineties of Queen Victoria's last decade, the Edwardian era, the Georgian, half a dozen movies, and still outselling Noel Coward and "Harvey."

The phrase "Charley's Aunt" has become a household word of three generations. When Prince Charles was christened, say Princess Margaret said: "And now I shall be 'Charley's Aunt'." The CBC's chief dramatic critic who was in the audience last night hit on the right word for it: "Unquenchable."

Farce and Sentiment
A farce pure and simple would not live as this play has one. There is more to it, and that is sentiment. Not only the sentiment that adheres from time, but sentiment inherent in the play. Its world is a secure place, the principals fall in love, youth is at the helm, and the three chief girls are sweet sixteen (or twenty). It's lovely, as well as hilarious.

Bill Needles who directs the play has seen these qualities and worked them up, abetted by the sets and the delightful period-piece gowns of the young ladies. The show is paced fast, just right. Mr. Needles also takes a major part; that of Charley himself. He plays it quietly, leaving room for the vibrancy of Frank Perry in the role of Jack Chesney, his counterpart as undergraduate in love. It is like the breath of breezy summer to have Mr. Perry back among us.

The star of the show is of course Charley's Aunt. That is the way the play has been written, and Peter Mews carries it off with abounding warmth and vigour. The part can be overplayed, especially if the actor is as young as Charley's Aunt ("from Brazil" where the nuts come from) is supposed to be. Mr. Mews happily keeps exuberance in control while the artfully squeezes the last puff of comedy from the lines and situations. He does a full-sail job. Incidentally Mr. Mews designed the sets, and very satisfactory and convenient they are. He is a real asset to the company.

The belles in this play are not supposed to matter much, so long as they look charming, make the right girlish noises and posture gracefully. They do. It is a treat to see Kate Reid (Amy) and the other sweetheart of the Oxford men, Pat Atkinson (Kitty), and winsome Jan Campbell (Ela Delahay). An addition to the permanent company is Betty Leighton. She plays Aunt Lucie with grace and command of the stage. I look forward to seeing her in other major roles this summer.

John Frid gives an accomplished and suave performance in the role of Sir Francis Chesney, father of Jack and innamorato of the real Donna Lucia of Brazil. Ronald Bailey is suitably frittling as old, rich guardian Stephen Spettigue and Cal Whitehead plays the butler helpfully.

The script used is the original. Later, modernized versions sacrifice the archaic charm evident in the exit lines and the conventional closing curtain line, which are now flat but recall the play's period.

Michael Sadler is to be congratulated on his company this year and the success of the first play. A good season promises "Charley's Aunt" continues all week at PCVS auditorium.

Board of Works Oddments
Recommendations to the council by the Board of Works Monday night included the following items:
Probationary appointment of J. E. Davis, acting assessment commissioner, was made permanent in a motion by Ald. P. J. Anglessey. Mr. Davis wrote the council that he was engaged conventionally on July 17, 1950.
Need Oil Fuel
Purchase of fuel oil for the new city hall was referred to the property committee. Contractors wish to test the new heating system, another indication of the progress of construction.
Halt Highway Traffic
"Stop and Go" lights at the corner of George and Lansdowne Streets at the entrance to Morrow Park were approved in the adoption of that part of the special traffic committee report.

City Wants Parking In School Lot

Council Will Ask Board of Education For Use of Grounds

Board of Education will be asked by the council to permit evening parking on Queen Mary School grounds during the season of the Summer Theatre in its auditorium.

To the board of works Monday night that appeared to be the only satisfactory solution of the problem of getting audience cars off the curb lines and out of the lanes of houses in the west end residential district.

Shifting restriction from one street to another was only scotching the trouble in the conviction of Mayor Swanson, based on plans and protests from property owners objecting to the frontage and noise of cars along their boulevards.

"What will happen," said his Worship, "is that every few weeks people will come to the council asking us to prohibit parking out there. All we can do is push the cars off one street into another, and then the people on this other street will ask us to put on restrictions."

Ask For Report
That expressed the elusiveness of the council's position. Probably in the hope of some expedient developing for their aid and release, the council recently asked its special traffic committee "to bring in a report." Maybe that wasn't convenient evasion of decision. It might have been a way of deferring action and invoking some remedy of time's fortuity.

Anyhow, the Board of Education had discussed this matter of parking on Summer Theatre nights in the Queen Mary vicinity. The council had spent harassed hours trying to please most of the householders within parking radius of the school. Even town planning committee had wrestled with it, and came up with the observation that it is a residential area.

Finally, the finance committee appealed to the special traffic committee to have a go at it. The members of that committee are: City Clerk Outram, City Engineer Chalmers, Chief Constable Thompson and Lawrie Mitchell.

What's The Use
Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman, read that committee's recommendations to the board of works last night, with its thumping of cars off certain streets adjacent to the school grounds.

Department detectives are carrying on the investigation now.

Had Beer On Reserve Two Men Fined $25
Kenneth Lough of Madoc, John R. Clydsdale and George H. W. Houle, both of Keene, were each fined $25 and $4.50 costs in police court Monday for possession of liquor and beer on the Hiawatha Indian Reserve Saturday night.

The charge was laid by RCMP Constables G. B. Pickering and E. W. Giberson, both of Cobourg. The Madoc and Keene men entered pleas of guilty.

Cut Up Grounds
"And if the grounds became wet they would probably be pretty much cut up," Ald. Doug Miller said.

Mayor Swanson said he had driven around the school block a week ago when John Fisher was lecturing and "parking was just the same as in the past."

Unless the Board of Education was agreeable to opening the school yards to the theatre patrons Mayor Swanson said he could not see any clear way of removing cars from one street without permitting them to be shifted "to another."

Someone mentioned parking on the Dominion Woolens lot, but City Clerk Outram replied to several of the aldermen that the council had nothing of relief on file from that quarter.

Ald. Anglessey proposed "that we approach the Board of Education and ask them to permit use of Queen Mary School grounds. His motion was seconded by Ald. Braund."

Incidentally, the special traffic committee recommended that during the Summer Theatre season there be no parking on the east side of Monaghan Road from Weller St. to McDonnell St.; no parking both sides of Woodlawn Ave., likewise on the north sides of Elm and Murray St. for a distance 300 feet east from Monaghan Road; and again, no parking on the west side of Thompson Ave.

Another recommendation was: no parking on the west side of Monaghan Road between Weller St. and Hopkins Ave. at any time. Pending the "approach" to the Board of Education, Ald. Miller moved that the clauses relating to the school areas be suspended.

Runaway Truck

A runaway truck, not tethered to a parking meter, bounced over a curb and cracked the wall of the former Elliott's drug store at George and Hunter Sts. Monday. Driver of the beverage truck, Leslie McDougall, 541 O'Connell Rd., left it parked on Hunter St. near George St. While he was in a store, the truck somehow was set in motion and hit the store wall knocking out a piece.

2 Members Die In Downer Family Over Weekend

Members of the family of George Taylor Downer, 260 Reid St., who died suddenly Sunday night, were doubly bereaved at the weekend by the death of their aunt, Mrs. Patrick Moloney whose death occurred Sunday night. She was buried there this morning.

Her nephew, John Downer, accompanied by his wife and his brother-in-law, Charles Harris, left on Sunday evening by the 7:10 bus for Hamilton. Less than an hour and a half later his father was dead here. That was the first news awaiting him and Mrs. Downer and Mr. Harris when they arrived at the funeral home in Hamilton Monday morning. They arrived home in Peterborough Monday night.

Mr. George Downer was apparently in good health at supper time Sunday evening, and the three members of his family left for Hamilton without any misgiving about his condition, or premonition that death was to strike their household twice in 36 hours. They were on their way to Hamilton when Mr. George T. Downer died here with shocking suddenness.

Visited Here
Mrs. Moloney had come to Peterborough six weeks ago on a visit, and was staying at the home of her niece, Mrs. Violet Harris, Mainway Ave. She suffered a week's spell not long after her arrival and had to be taken home by ambulance two weeks ago.

Mr. Downer and his sister, Mrs. Moloney, were born in Peterborough. Their parents were Asa B. Downer and his wife, Julia McGlash.

Mrs. Moloney was predeceased by her husband who for 40 years was caretaker at the Hamilton Jockey Club. She is survived by her brother, Asa Downer of New York City, and sister, Mrs. George Cross (Carrie) of Hamilton.

The funeral of George Downer will be Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Nisbett funeral home, Charlotte St. to Little Lake cemetery. The service will be conducted by Major C. G. Everitt of the Salvation Army.

Vote Heavy At Polls In CGE Plant

No Incidents, Feeling High Results About 7:30

Voting was reported fairly heavy early today at the CGE plant where the two rival electrical unions are contesting the right to be bargaining agent. No incidents have been reported and voting is orderly.

A. M. Brunskill, examiner for the Ontario Labor Relations Board, is supervising the balloting. Three other OLRB appointees are also at the CGE plant, acting as returning officers.

The results are expected anytime after 7:30 p.m. Polls close an hour earlier. Counting of the ballots will likely be in the company cafeteria.

The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) are the present bargaining agent for the more than 3,600 production workers in the Peterborough plant. They are being challenged by the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (IUE-CIO).

An intensive campaign on both sides ended Friday midnight, complying with the OLRB regulation for a blackout on electioneering 72 hours before the day of the vote.

Only workers who clock into the plant today will be eligible to vote. Both unions, as in governmental elections, have a fleet of cars to take sick members to the polls.

To wrest control of the bargaining unit from the UE, the rival IUE must get an overall majority of the people in the plant today (including sick workers brought in to vote only). The percentage is based on this overall figure, not on the number actually voting.

Girl Cyclist Hits Parked Car, Hurt

Janet Hughson, 362 Hunter St., received a number of minor injuries Monday when the bicycle she was riding collided with a parked car on Hunter St. near Stewart St. She was treated by Dr. Robert Young at his office.

She had a cut lip a cut over her eye and numerous burns, caused when she hit the pavement. She also suffered from shock. The car was owned by J. Petersell, 556 Homewood Ave. PC-A. Beardsmore investigated.

Vast Electorate To Vote In India's General Election

NEW DELHI (Reuters).—Preparations are already in full swing for India's first general elections under the Republican Constitution, due to take place some time next winter.

Over 180,000,000 people, the world's biggest electorate, will go to the polls to elect almost 4,000 representatives to parliament and state legislatures.

The electorate will include about 45,000,000 women, many of whom will be voting for the first time in their lives, and a large number of peasants who have a right to vote under adult franchise granted by the constitution. Arrangements have been made for the erections of thousands of polling booths in India's cities, towns and villages. The position and size of these booths are themselves big problems, as the December rains will cut communications and flood many areas, making journeys difficult during polling time.

Have 496 Members.

The new parliament will have 496 members including 374 from nine premier states. The president will scrutinize state and district lists, to nominate if necessary additional members from the scheduled castes (backward section of Hindus) and minority communities.

The former penal settlement of Andamans in the Bay of Bengal will send a member to the Delhi Parliament for the first time. The Government of India is developing the archipelago as a modern colony and is resettling refugees from Pakistan in its coastal areas. India's political parties are looking to the elections to herald true democracy.

Congress Party Confident

The Government Party, the Indian National Congress, is most confident and, though weakened to some extent by inner-party cliques and resignations, is hopeful of getting a comfortable majority to form both state and federal governments.

second biggest group, are going all out to "capture" 20,000,000 votes this December and expect to form a strong opposition to Congress in state legislatures and parliament. They hope to make substantial gains in the industrial areas of Bombay, the Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal, as well as in the rural areas of Bihar, Madras and the Punjab.

Communists There

The Communist Party, battered but unbeaten in its three-year campaign against the "reactionary Nehru Government," is also in the field, though in a small way. Scores of active Communist workers and leaders are either "underground" evading the arm of the law, or in jail under the Preventive Detention and Public Security Acts.

Communist organization such as the Hindu Mahasabha, the Moslem League and the Scheduled Castes Federation are putting their hope mainly in local support to get their candidates into the legislatures. But their role in Indian politics and their hold on the Indian people have considerably declined with the advent of the secular constitution.

PRAISES ARMY—Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, former Commander of the 7th Infantry Division in Korea, testifies before the Senate MacArthur Investigating Committee. He said the nation has never had a "finer or more efficient army than the Eighth Army is, in Korea, today."

Political observers here anticipate that these groups will form election-time coalitions with some mushroom left-wing parties such as the United Socialist organization of the Bengal Krishak-Proja party.

Diefenbaker Objects To Phone Checking

OTTAWA, June 26 (CP)—John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) said Monday night serious objection should be taken to a new section of the criminal code which would allow police to check on telephone calls to places suspected of being gambling houses.

He told the Commons the section would allow police to go to central telephone offices to watch calls and judge the degree to which the telephone was being used.

He said once the precedent was set it would not be long before the state would ask for the power to "snoop" into the private affairs of citizens.

Find Credit Curbs Hitting Industries

TORONTO, June 26 (CP)—Several Ontario industries are facing reduced demands for their products as a result of restrictions on consumer credit, bank lending and increasing taxation and defence production, the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research reported Monday.

In its quarterly report, the bureau said "the automotive, electrical appliance, furniture, textiles and leather industries are already reacting to the reduced demand for their products and some layoffs have occurred."

The bulletin said some further downward adjustment may be expected before defence contracts take up the slack in production.

Farquharson Editor Of Saturday Night

TORONTO, June 26 (CP)—R. A. Farquharson, managing editor of The Toronto Globe and Mail, has been appointed editor of Saturday Night, national weekly magazine, it was announced Monday night.

He succeeds Dr. B. K. Sandwell, editor since 1932 and known across Canada for his writings and with public speeches. Dr. Sandwell, 75, remains as editor emeritus of the magazine.

Tommy Munns, 47, assistant managing editor, succeeds Mr. Farquharson at the Globe and Mail. He formerly was sports editor and city editor.

Mr. Farquharson, 51, a newspaperman for more than 30 years, was founder and for three years president of The Canadian Managing Editors' Conference. He had been Globe and Mail managing editor for the last nine years.

CONFESSION—Archbishop Josef Groesz, who succeeded imprisoned Josef Cardinal Mindszenty as ranking Roman Catholic prelate in Hungary, admitted at his Budapest trial that he led a plot to overthrow the Communist government and restore the Hapsburg monarchy. He pleaded guilty to all charges, as Mindszenty had also done.

Free Exchange Of Currency Said Solution

MONTREAL, June 26 (CP)—Canada's leader at the International Chamber of Commerce Congress in Lisbon said today the consensus seemed to be that "free exchange of currencies, combined with lower tariff and reasonable customs valuation policies, is the key to a further expansion in world trade and rising standards of living."

The statement on congress work was released by Gerald G. Ryan, president of the Canadian Council of the International Chamber. He returned recently from Lisbon where some 600 of the world's leading business men gathered for the 13th congress of the IOC.

Mr. Ryan said 10 delegates attended the meetings. These dealt not only with general questions of commercial policy but with many technical subjects. They included: ways and means for obtaining relief from international double taxation; protection of foreign investments; standardization of trade terms; adoption of ethical codes in advertising; and adoption of uniform banking practices in connection with the financing of exports and imports throughout the world.

Iron Out Problems

"While the differences of views on some points of commercial policy as between European and American business men probably provided the most headlines during the congress," said Mr. Ryan, "nevertheless the ironing out of many international business problems in the technical fields I have mentioned constituted sufficient reason alone for holding the congress."

Mr. Ryan said Canadians generally were on the side of freeing the world's currencies of governmental controls but they felt their position was a special one. It was perhaps more difficult for some European governments to free immediately their own currencies TIBET HANDED OVER—This photo, received from a Chinese Communist source, shows Mao Tse-tung (right), chairman of the Central People's Government of China, talking with Panchen Ngotrtehnai, the temporal ruler of Tibet in Peking. as the Canadian dollar had been freed.

But he found it "encouraging to note that business men from so many different countries appeared to be much closer in agreement on what should be fundamental objectives of government policy, including maintenance of private competition as well as currency convertibility, than the actual governments themselves."

Boss Believes Could End War Fairly Soon

By FRANK KING
TOKYO, June 26 (AP) — Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent in Korea, believes that the war there, as a United Nations campaign, could be ended fairly soon. But not on a treaty.

From contacts and experience, Boss thinks a solution would be to hold the sound tactical line that runs about 10 miles north of the 38th Parallel, along ridges and over plains and water areas. This could be held six months or so he believes, and then turned over to South Koreans who by that time would be able to hold it. This would enable the main body of United Nations forces to withdraw from Korea.

Boss expresses high-level opinions such as these only when asked for them, and on the basis of his experience as a war reporter, not a political analyst.

In Tokyo he enjoys for a few days the luxury of a good bed and a clean bath.

Need Direct Reporting

Boss can generally be found with the battalion commanders who are running the battle action. Observing, taking notes, catching the progress of the fighting from incoming reports, he later goes to company commanders and private soldiers for individual stories to round out the day's news. News coverage in Korea calls for a lot of direct reporting.

Boss keeps his small typewriter in his jeep, and has written mail stories during lulls in the fighting, but usually such news is written at night in his tent back on the gun line.

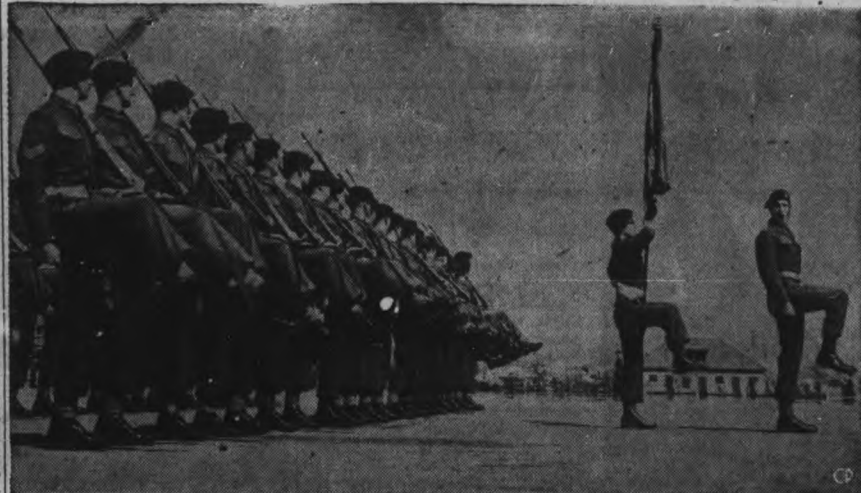

While the CP man is primarily assigned to the Canadian brigade and leaves to the Americans, British and others the reporting of their own news, there is close cooperation with other war reporters, especially those of The Associated Press. With more staff in the field and greater communications facilities, AP helps transmit some of the CP dispatches from division to army areas and on to Canada. As a result of this cooperation between CP and AP, as in previous wars, the US and Canadian public are closely and quickly informed about their fighting men.

Duke's Donut Dive Popular With Canucks

By WILLIAM BOSS.
WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 26 (CP). — Everything about Duke's Donut Dive was sizzling—the heat, the batter browning in the fat, the wit shot to and fro over it, and the speed with which the stand was being organized for the evening rush.

For it "See yuh tonight at the Duke's" has become almost overnight a byword in the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade, it spells a lot of hard work for the proprietor and his nine-man crew.

The popular proprietor in civilian life is Max Poyntz of Victoria. In the army he's company quartermaster-sergeant for B Company in the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment. And he's the Duke because that's what they used to call him in Germany.

There, as a lieutenant, he ran the McNaughton Club for the Canadian Army occupation force and flashed about the streets of Oldenburg in a glistering Mercedes-Benz. For the luxury vehicle's slim, good-looking, brown haired driver the title was a natural.

Does His Job

His flare for troop welfare which once before had him organizing recreational installations in Europe is being drawn on in Korea by his unit.

Says the Duke, "The men don't expect it when they're in the line but once out of it they want the extras."

He was lent by Major Don Duncan, his company commander, to the battalion to provide them. And he did.

In no time the RCR, in a rear area, after regrouping were seeing their first motion-picture since leaving Pusan, and he had five for them in seven days. He had a US Army live show perform for them. With the battalion sports officer, Lieut. Jim Connell of Kingston, Ont., he organized four volleyball courts and three baseball diamonds and a horseshoe pitch in every company area.

Others fell in and in no time a near-by stream had been dammed up into a sizable swimming and bathing hole. "It just happened," said Major Bob Saville of Hamilton. No one is quite sure who did it.

Meanwhile Poyntz got a dry canteen going which became The Emporium when Poyntz and his nine men pooled their resources and bought $500 worth of Korean silks, kimonos and other souvenirs for resale at cost to the unit.

Something Different

"Then," he said, "we wanted to give the boys something different. Ever since they joined the army, they've been rationed things—so many boots, so many shirts, so much food—and we had the idea of producing something of which we could give them just as much as they wanted."

"We settled for doughnuts."

The unit lent a tent and a stove. Everything else had to be scrounged or improvised, including the materials.

Well-scrubbed packing cases became pastry boards. The rolling pins were empty beer bottles and a smoothed-down sapling trunk. An empty ration tin was the doughnut cutter and the holes were punched out with the inner ring of an adhesive tape roll.

The staff were volunteers who sweated through an eight-and-nine-hour day after their normal morning parades, keeping up production and cleaning up each night for the new day's business.

1,200 Nightly

And what a business it became! Twelve hundred customers a night, 6,000 doughnuts a day, served up in four varieties—jelly, iced, cake and slab.

Always something with them to drink—from hot coffee through cold chocolate or lemonade to rich egg-nogs.

And all for free.

How they did it with no book-keeping, no access to unit rations, all on the scrounge, is a secret. But one way or another to keep that bakery going they had to get daily 200 pounds of flour, 150 of lard and 60 of sugar, two cases of powdered milk and two of powdered eggs.

There was one awkward shortage for a while, lard, and the frying was done in margarine.

Three thousand doughnuts were served with apologies that night. Has Big Plans

Total production during the week was 39,000. Drinks averaged 400 gallons a night.

But just because the battalion's in the line again doesn't mean that the flow will stop. The Duke plans to put his outfit on wheels, if he can scrounge a truck, and he has plans worked out to make ice cream and milk shakes for the boys in their next rest.

Cowboy Sculptor Gains Fame Western Art

BANFF, Alta. (CP). — Known all over the continent for his range sculptures, Charlie Bell started his career by raffling off jackasses in Western gambling halls.

They weren't real jackasses, but clay models of the long-eared critters which he fashioned between job when finances were low.

Charlie was a cowboy in those days, drifting around Nevada and Montana range country.

He made his money horse-wrangling, but whenever he needed a grubstake between bunkhouses he'd knead a model out of clay and raffle it off.

Back in 1921, when a guide in Glacier National Park in Montana, he met the late Charles Russell, famous painter of cowboys and Western scenes.

Becomes Livelihood

Russell influenced Cowboy Bell to regard sculpturing as a livelihood rather than a hobby.

So for nine years while working around Montana, Bell would go to California each winter to study, and as his reputation grew he was commissioned to do work for Will Rogers and William S. Hart, two of the famous movie cowboys.

While on a trip through the U.S. and Canada he rode around Banff and liked the country so much he's never left.

Foothills' Booster

That makes him one of the few artists who moved to Canada from the United States. Not only does he make his living at the job, but his art has a purpose in his life: his studio is dedicated to preserving the colorful life of Alberta's foothills.

During Calgary Stampede Week you can see his work all over the city—chuckwagon outfits, bucking horses, riders, and wild-cow milking in a bronze replica.

His work is a long process. First he makes his model in clay, then casts it in plaster of paris, then a wax cast, and then in bronze.

Today examples of his artistry can be found in all parts of North America. Much of it is in the Will Rogers museum.

His "Range Rider" is owned by the Society for Promotion of Arts in London. It was first the gift of a Calgary club to Viscount Bennett, former Prime Minister of Canada.

On his death, Viscount Bennett left it to the society.

"This pleased me," says Mr. Bell, "because most of his art works were sold. He had mine down in his will, so he must have thought quite a bit of it."

Her gown was of European lace over bluish satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice coming to points at the waist and a full skirt falling to a slight train. The bolero jacket of lace was fastened with tiny buttons and finished with a pointed collar and long sleeves with points over the hands. A bonnet-style headpiece held her floor length veil of tulle and she carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and sweet peas.

Mrs. Russell Downer as matron of honor and Miss Rena Warner and Miss Leone Manley as bridesmaids wore frocked in mauve, green and yellow. Their gowns were strapless with capes tying at the neck and had bouffant skirts. They wore matching mittens and hats and carried nosegays of gladioli centred with roses.

The groom's brother Roger Armstrong was his groomsman and the ushers were brothers-in-law of the bride and groom, Fred Hooton and Peter Shaughnessy. The reception was at the bride's home where her mother received in a gown of black faille and white straw hat. The groom's mother also received, wearing navy with a hat of white straw, and each had a corsage of pink carnations.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a blue suit and navy and white accessories and she had an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will live at Mount Pleasant.

Joseph Wiechorek Weds Bobcaygeon Girl

A wedding of interest here took place Saturday in the Bobcaygeon Baptist Church of Sheila Isabella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevenson of Bobcaygeon, and Joseph Casper Wiechorek, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wiechorek of Peterborough. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. B. Gillion of Watford, Ont.

The church was decorated with spring flowers and fern and Mrs. C. H. Pardy played wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gownned in French lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice buttoned to the waist and finished with a hand beaded Peter Pan collar and lily point sleeves, and the skirt extended in a full cathedral train. Her chapel length veil was of silk illusion, embroidered at the edges, and caught to a hand-beaded tiara and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and white gladioli.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Best Kier, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid Miss Gloria Wiechorek, sister of the groom. The bride's sister June Stevenson was flower girl and her nephew Douglas Oliver was ring bearer. Mr. Stan Deltor was groomsman for his brother-in-law and the ushers were Neil Oliver, and Don Robbins, a college mate of the groom. Dresses for the bride's attendants were similarly fashioned of embroidered nylon with fitted bodice buttoned to the waist and Peter Pan collar and bouffant skirts. The colors were mauve, light green and yellow and they wore matching flowers in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of Tallman roses inserted in yellow gladioli petals.

The reception was at the bride's home with her mother receiving in a gown in Lady Love shade with French lace insertions, a navy hat and corsage of yellow roses and cornflowers. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore a gown in rose shade with a light blue hat and corsage of white roses.

When leaving later for Hamilton, the bride had changed to a yellow embroidered nylon dress and yellow and white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow and white rose buds.

On return from a trip to the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Wiechorek will live at 529 Weller St.

The Neighbourhood Stores

It's funny, men having anything to say on a women's page, but here goes for a little story. "It's been a nice day, Jim." "So it has Jack, you know my wife has solved the problem, no more of this pushing around for me. She drops into one of Braund's Neighbourhood Stores at Park and King or Rutledge and Sherbrooke streets, selects her order and all I have to do on my way home from the office is to stop at the store and be home in a jiffy. Gosh it's a treat not to be pushed around. And Jack you know my wife is economical, and you can bet your life she knows the price at Braund's Neighbourhood Stores are downtown low everyday prices, so there is no need to go downtown to shop. Also Jack, she tells me that the people in these stores are so pleasant, she soon get to know your name, and it's really a pleasure to drop and meet them."

DOROTHY DIX

Broken Engagement or Unhappiness?

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 18 and had been going with a boy for three years when a misunderstanding arose between us and we broke up. Shortly thereafter my friend, just to spite me, became engaged to another girl. He called me up a few days ago to say he realized this engagement was a mistake and that he still really loved me. I'm sure he is telling the truth. Do you think he should break the engagement or should I try to forget him? The original trouble between us was caused by interfering people carrying false tales back and forth. PEGGY

ANSWER: There are few things that cause such heartbreak for one concerned as a marriage founded on nothing more substantial than spite. In fact, I might add, there is no human emotion so despicable and cheap as spite. Regardless of how things turn out between your ex-boy friend and you, he should not continue his engagement. He would be much more considerate to hurt his fiancée now rather than to wait and hurt her throughout marriage by his lack of love. Is It Love? But to get back to you, Peggy. Are you sure you and this boy really love each other? If false rumors could make you separate once, are you sure the same thing wouldn't happen again? Are you sure you want him back because you love him, and not because you, in turn, want to be a little spiteful? Your letter carries overtones of suspicion and jealousy, neither of which is conducive to a happy marriage. You are still very young and inexperienced and would probably be better off seeing other young men before you settle down to matrimony.

Marriage, remember, is for keeps, and the best foundation it can have is mutual love and respect between two partners. Trust in each other should be so complete that late-bearers can't make a dent in it with vicious lies. No one can help you be sure of these things, Peggy, but yourself. You must be convinced that your love is deep and pervading, your trust so high that scandal mongers cannot touch it. Consider all these things in your heart, then if you feel only this boy can give you happiness, go back to him. Otherwise, don't expect a reconciliation, but find yourself another beau.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am an attractive girl of 24, have a good job and a wonderful family life. Your years ago I met Paul, who was just starting college after being in the service. We went together for two years and wanted to be married but couldn't see our way clear. Rather than do anything we'd be sorry for, we stopped seeing each other, hard as it was. We kept in touch and dated occasionally. Now he is out of college and working in another state. I see him whenever he comes home and still feel as if I always did. He says the same, but can't see marriage until he's really established. Am I foolish to continue waiting? I have no reason to doubt his love. What's your opinion? PUZZLED

ANSWER: You say you have no reason to doubt Paul's love, but the best proof a man can give of his love is, wanting to marry the girl of his choice. I'm afraid, if he just evades the question of marriage now that he is working and could at least plan for the future, his love is not as strong as you think it is. You two are not children to be playing hide-and-seek with love, and I think you should ascertain Paul's matrimonial intentions without further ado before you waste a few more years waiting for him to make up his mind. Man's ardor can cool quickly, and many a girl has lost her youthful charm waiting for an altar-shy swain to set the date, only to lose him in the end to a not-so-patient dame.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a difficult problem. I'm newly married and my husband snores so at night that I can't sleep. Could you give me a remedy to stop him from snoring? I'd appreciate any advice, as it is becoming awfully bothersome. BROWNIE

ANSWER: If you can wait that long, Brownie, I can offer you the consolation that in about ten years you'll get used to the snoring, but in the meantime I'll recommend a recently published book called "How to Stop Snoring," which might suggest alleviations for your problem. The author is David Horwich; the publisher, Exposition Press, 386 Fourth Avenue in New York City; the price, $2.50.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Pan Cookies Interesting But Are Not Time Savers

For the past month plain living and high thinking have been the undeclared theme in our home. Everybody was so busy with his own pursuits, yet needed the help of all, that I had to streamline my housekeeping chores to the barest possible minimum.

I, for one, needed Pete to repaint the living-room and hall, roll the lawn and do my filing; Marianne needed him to help her with geometry. He needed me to get his documents ready to go to Oregon and to look after his clothes. Marianne needed me to tutor her in history (as if I knew it) and to shoe off the boy friends. Pete needed Marianne to get his pal a girl friend for the final "hop."

Well, we made it. Exams are over; Pete's safe in Oregon (I had a very welcome wire from him yesterday) and this is the last column I have to type before the week's release is mailed. The filing is nearly up to date.

In the midst of all that intense confusion I thought pan cookies, as compared to rolled or drop or refrigerator would be faster, but after you have made three different mixtures that some pan cookies require I doubt that they are time-savers.

What they do have that other cookies cannot, is that interesting series of flavors and textures, layer on layer.

I made a new combination last week to serve with ice cream and they started a lot of praiseful comments. (See Barbecue Supper in next Thursday's column.)

Cocoanut-Apricot Squares One-half cup chopped dates (or dates and raisins) and 1/2 cup drained canned apricots are cooked with 1/4 cup water until thick. Cream 6 tablespoons butter or shortening with 1/2 cup sugar, then beat in 2 egg yolks. Sift together 1 1/2 cups unsifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and mix this into the butter-sugar mix alternately with 3 tablespoons milk. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla if desired. Press this into a pan 10 x 14 inches or 2 pans about 8 x 6 inches which have been buttered. Spread the date and apricot paste over evenly while it is quite warm. Beat the remaining 2 egg whites until stiff.

Pretty Trgveller Top Saleswoman CALGARY (CP). — Young, blonde pretty, Miss I. M. Wilson of Toronto is a travelling saleswoman in a man's job.

She started work as a secretary for a Toronto floor covering company five years ago. Learning the business inside out, she was so successful with the public in company showrooms that she was made a representative.

Now she's a travelling saleswoman selling floor coverings and her first trip West was full of unusual features for her. It marked the first time she ever travelled. It was the first time she ever sold the company's products outside of home showrooms. It was the first time the company ever ventured into the Western market.

Despite the worries of finding her way around strange cities, overcoming a touch of loneliness during the evenings, and learning to give men a little time to recover from the shock of a female travelling salesman, Miss Wilson likes her job.

A minor drawback is tarrying around a 20-pound sample case, but her aching shoulder soon got used to that.

A big point in her favor, Miss Wilson feels, is that in the matter of floor coverings, a woman often has sounder ideas than a man.

Furs Attract Throngs At London Show

LONDON (CP). — One of the most comprehensive and fascinating fur trade exhibitions ever held is running for two months ending Aug. 14 in connection with the Festival of Britain.

The exhibition, sponsored by the British fur trade, tells the story of the trade since the 17th Century. Among exhibits is the original Hudson's Bay charter and documents showing how King Charles II and his cousin, Prince Rupert, provided ships for the merchant adventurers who first brought rich furs from Canada to Britain.

Of furs themselves there are 250 varieties, collected from all parts of the world. A section devoted to the dressing and dyeing of skins gives an idea of the intricacy of the work. The processing of one fur such as "beaver lamb" for instance is practically an industry in itself.

Women visitors especially are attracted by a stand where a craftsman cuts mink into narrow strips. Nine thousand cuts are made in the 70 to 100 skins used to make a full-length mink coat, and eight to 10 miles of cotton thread are used.

Magnificent coats of mink and sable are on view, not far from an exhibit of ancient craftsmen's tools dug out of the soil of historic London. These include a scraper of flint dating from 2000 to 3000 B.C.

Western Woman Enjoys Career

EDMONTON (CP). — There's nothing like being a postmistress. That's the opinion of Mrs. J. C. Knudson, who came from the little Alberta community of Irma to attend the Alberta convention of postmasters of which she is a charter member.

She's been a postmistress for nearly 30 years, ever since she was left a young widow on a farm with two small children to raise.

"Not a day goes by without some sunny little incident," says Mrs. Knudson. That includes everything from settling family quarrels to admiring the new baby.

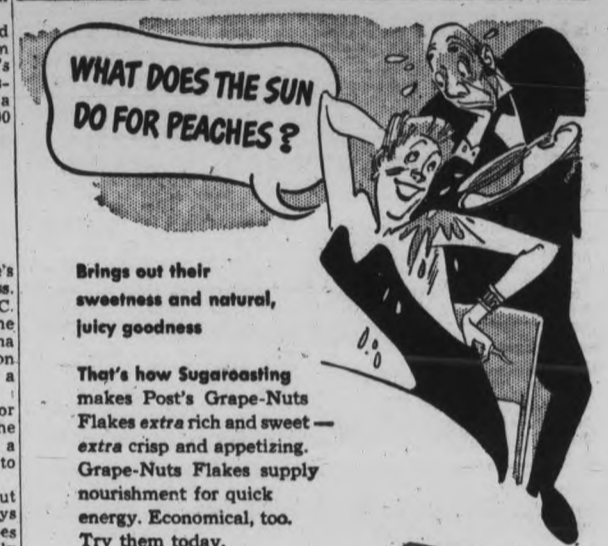

In the course of serving her community, the post office burned about 20 years ago and Mrs. Knudson, true to government regulations, saved the post office supplies first but lost her household goods.

Her children grew up in the post office and were sworn in as her assistants when they were 18. Once she was awakened in the

Crashed House

Youth Fined $20

Kenneth Cuthbertson, 19, Norwood, was fined $20 and ordered to pay $7.50 costs Monday in police court on a charge of reckless driving. A second charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident was withdrawn.

The accident occurred Saturday night in Norwood when the youth failed to make a right turn and crashed into a brick house. The house was not damaged but the car received about $150 damages.

Constable William B. Parsons of Norwood told Magistrate E. A. Geo. Lindsay that he first learned of the accident by the police radio. When he returned to Norwood, Cuthbertson was in his back yard waiting for him.

"He was going to your place to report to you," asked the magistrate. "Apparently so," answered Constable Parsons.

The second charge was withdrawn on the first count, Mr. Parsons said that the car had proceeded out of the exhibition grounds entrance, went across the street, across a lawn and into the side of the house.

Magistrate Geo. questioned Cuthbertson's sobriety and Mr. Parsons replied, "I think he was drinking but I'm not sure."

Magistrate Geo. in passing sentence which included cancelling Cuthbertson's driver's licence for six months, said, "By that time perhaps you will have some sense."

He gave him the option of $20 fine and $7.50 costs or 30 days in jail. The fine was paid.

Two Cars Turn Right

Collide At Corner

A car, owned by George McHenry, 42 Victoria Ave., met in collision with a car owned by Carmen English, RR 2, Peterborough, when both drivers attempted a right-hand turn on McDowell St. Monday.

Police reported that the McHenry car was stopped for the sign at Reid St. before making the turn north. The English car swept between the McHenry car and the curb, also with the intention of turning right. Mr. McHenry turned and the cars collided. Slight damage was caused to the English car.

APS Claire McGillen and PC Eldon McDonald investigated.

New Driller Used

Underground Wires

COBourg, June 26 (ENS)—The new equipment for drilling through earth was given its first workout by the Utilities employees yesterday in connection with installing underground wires for the new street lights on main street.

The workmen ran the wires through conduits under the sidewalk from the control station in the Utilities office to the corner of King and Division street. Eliminating the need of digging up the pavement at that intersection, the drilling equipment bored a hole underneath to receive the wires.

Service Chiefs Believe Soon Riots Will Peter Out

EDMONTON, June 26—(CP)—Police and armed forces commanders expect Edmonton's worst outbreak of street fights will peter out in the next few days.

"This is just flash-in-the-pan stuff," said Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, GOC Western Army Command.

Air Commodore W. E. Bennett, acting AOC Northwest Air Command, said: "The less publicity the better. Then it will quiet down."

Chief Constable Reg Jennings noted that the situation had eased since Saturday night and "with a minimum of publicity, we expect the disturbances to peter out within the next few days."

Fights between groups of youths and service men have broken out almost every night since June 18, attracting thousands of curious citizens.

Police and provost efforts to halt violence have been seriously threatened by the curious who cause big traffic jams.

Downtown Edmonton's atmosphere is electric every night. One fight starts off a chain of brawling. The word soon gets around and hundreds of cars pour into the centre of the city—some loaded with members of the opposing factions. The sidewalks become congested with droves of pedestrians—far more than during the peak shopping hours.

In the crowds, service men and teen-agers prowl in groups. They invariably meet head-on or seek out each other.

Many spectators suddenly converge on the downtown section

Royals Crush Springfield In 4-1 Victory

By The Associated Press.

Montreal's ability to defeat Springfield Cubs is one of the reasons the Royals are in first place and the Cubs last in the International League pennant race.

The Royals scored their 10th straight victory over the Cubs without a loss Monday night 4-1. Monk Dubiel of the Cubs deserved a better fate.

He allowed only four hits, including a home run by Jim Russell in the seventh inning he tolled. Rookie Joe Black stopped the Cubs on seven batters.

The victory enabled the Royals to stretch their lead to five games over the runner-up Syracuse Chiefs. The Chiefs dropped a 7-2 decision to Buffalo Bisons. Moe Savransky stopped the Chiefs on seven safeties to gain his seventh triumph.

Hal Rice banged out a triple, double and single to lead Rochester Red Wings to a 2-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. Rice doubled home a run in the third and tripled and scored the winning run in the eighth on Russ Derry's bunt. Little Jackie Colman checked the Leafs on six hits.

Lefty Lou Posedel pitched Baltimore Orioles to a 2-0 two-hit victory over Ottawa Giants. Bob Hoffman collected both Giant hits. Howie Moss singled in both Baltimore runs in the eighth inning.

Before the game the teams completed the suspended game of May 23 which was halted after eight innings. The Giants won 9-3.

Silverwoods Edge Viskings In 9-7 Game

LINDSAY, June 26.—Scoring three runs in the ninth, Silverwoods edged Viskings, 9-7, in the Lindsay Men's Softball League game here Monday night.

Young Ken Schinkel started for the Dairymen and veteran Dunc Daynes came on in the sixth to pitch no-hit ball in relief, fanning eight.

Daynes had a single and triple for the winners. Don Lucas struck out 10 for Viskings.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Players violating their contracts are endangering Canadian football, Myer Insky, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, said in a statement Monday in Montreal.

Insky added any attempt by CRU member leagues and clubs to encourage a player to break his word or contract would mean the collapse of the game.

While the Union has nothing to do with the signing of players, he said it looks with disfavor and will discourage any such attempts.

"We favor friendly relations with those governing football in the United States and it would be better for football, particularly in Canada, if the US and Canada worked together on a friendly international basis," he said.

The most arrests were made Saturday night when 15 men, nine airmen, were charged with offences ranging from possession of offensive weapons to disturbing the peace.

Each night strengthened police and provost details, led by several flying squads of radio prowl cars try to break up fights before they can spread. Suspicious looking groups are stopped and searched for concealed weapons. Police go up and down streets in a sound truck appealing to the crowds to disperse.

"Rowdy juveniles undoubtedly touched off the whole thing by hurling insults at servicemen and picking isolated fights with them," said Chief Jennings. "Why they picked on the servicemen we don't know. We're still doing research on the cause of the outbreaks."

Central Beats K. George

Central beat King George 19-7 yesterday to capture the senior boys' championship of the Public School Softball League. Brooks pitched seven-hit ball for them and fanned 10, walking eight. Ellis started for King George but gave way to Wilson in the third, both being hit hard. Wilson fanned two and walked three. Butcher relieved Dack back of the plate in the sixth. McIlmoyle went best for them at bat and Simpson and McKenzie were good in the field. Craymer's double in the third and a triple by Mathews in the sixth opened it up for Central, who were led by Gardner with five for six. Gibbs and Mathews pulled in fine catches.

Teams:

Central: Patterson 2b, Gibbs lf, Mathews cf, Gardner c, Brooks p, Craymer 3b, Martyn rf, Dunford ss, Gray lb, Tranter, Harrington, Findlay.

Harry Harris, 30, a leading steeplechase rider for the last 12 years, was killed Monday at Aqueduct Track, New York, while schooling John M. Schiff's Monted between the third and fourth races.

The green three-year-old ran into the wing of a hurdle at the far turn and a point of the wing crushed Harris' chest and ruptured his heart. The crowd in the Aqueduct stands was unaware of the gravity of the accident. His wife and daughter were at the track.

Ben S. Owen's Grattan McKillop, fifth biggest money winner pacer of all time and winner of Roosevelt Raceway $50,000 Nassau two-mile pace in 1949, has been permanently retired.

Trainer Neal Houslet said Monday the nine-year-old Grattan McKillop will be shipped to the Omaha, Neb., home of his owner where he will enjoy the life of a pensioner for the rest of his days. Grattan McKillop's earnings are $120,897.

CEGAR RAPIDS, Ia., June 26 (AP).—How does baseball's richest rookie at the promising age of 18 react to his sudden fame?

The rookie is Billy Joe Davidson of Marion, NC, the Cleveland Indians' $120,000 prep sensation farmed out to Cedar Rapids of the Class B Three-I League.

The big (six foot-3, 210 pounds) freckle-faced pitcher's start in professional ball was anything except sensational.

But to Cleveland stockholders Cedar Rapids players, opponents and fans the red head still has "plenty on the ball."

Davidson's beginning in the professional ranks June 13 was inauspicious. In a pre-arranged relief stint he gave up three runs on four walks, a wild pitch and a single as Cedar Rapids lost.

Since then Davidson has pitched in relief three times and started his first game against Waterloo.

"I just didn't have it at all," was the bonus kid's unhappy self-appraisal after he was belted from the mound. Davidson gave up two runs, five hits, six walks and struck out two in 3 2-3 innings.

For the record, Billy Joe has neither won nor lost a game in five appearances. He has given up eight runs, 10 hits, 14 walks, two wild pitches, five earned runs and fanned only four in 13 innings.

"Joe needs work, plenty of work," Cedar Rapids manager Kirby Farrell says.

"If I'm not ready the next time I pitch it won't be Kirby's fault," Davidson agrees.

Hollywood Plans New Canteen For Servicemen

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 26 (AP)—The Hollywood Canteen, which entertained 3,000,000 American servicemen in the Second World War, is gearing for the new war.

Carey Wilson, one of the three guiding forces of the canteen, has signalled his volunteer workers to be ready to start operations on Labor Day or thereafter.

"At first I told them to be ready July 4 or thereafter," he said, "but after a survey of the entire situation, I discovered that there were not enough servicemen visiting this area."

The new canteen, he said, will be able to handle twice as many servicemen as the old one—1,000 at a time.

The canteen organization has bought control of the Florentine Gardens, a defunct night club on Hollywood Boulevard.

The money came from percentages of two pictures, "Stage Door Canteen" and "Hollywood Canteen," Wilson said.

Senate Passes PO Amendments

OTTAWA, June 26 — (CP) — The Senate Monday night passed amendments to the Canada Post Office Act which provide for a $2,000,000-a-year increase in postal rates on newspapers, magazines and periodicals.

The Upper Chamber accepted two amendments made during examination by the Senate's banking and commerce committee, broadening the power of boards of review established to hear cases of persons denied use of the mail because of suspected unlawful practices.

One will give the boards power to make recommendations to the postmaster general. The other provides that at least one member of such boards be a qualified lawyer.

The bill will become law when it is given royal assent sometime this week.

Flying Rock Crashes Into Apsley Home

APSLEY, June 26 (ENS)—A rock thrown by a dynamite blast crashed through the roof and into the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott at the north end of the village.

It tore a hole in the ceiling and ricocheted off a wall and hit a piano. Mrs. R. Payne and her daughter Donna, sitting on a chesterfield in the living room were not hit.

Nearby Hydro workers were blasting a hole in rock to erect a Hydro pole.

Manslaughter Verdict In Sweetheart's Death

NELSON, BC, June 26 — (CP) — Leo Melorin, 17, Monday night was acquitted of murder but convicted of manslaughter in the Nov. 29 ax slaying of his 15-year-old sweetheart, June Bradshaw, in her Trail home.

Melorin was remanded for sentence until the end of the assizes by Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker. Defence counsel based its case on testimony that the boy was afflicted with migraine and "blackout" the night he visited her. The girl was found at the foot of the cellar steps, her head split by an ax.

Parents Neglect Seen Big Factor In Youth Problem

LONDON (CP). — Broken homes and parental neglect are the two main causes blamed for a steady increase in delinquency among adolescent youth in Britain.

The analysis is made in a report by the Joint Committee on Psychiatry and the Law, appointed by the Magistrates' and British Medical associations. The number of defaulting boys, convicted of indictable offences, it says, rose from 19,387 in 1938 to 27,454 in 1948.

In its exhaustive study of the problem, the committee contends that "shoddy" parents, lack of privacy at home, blind-alley jobs and lurid films, tell but half the story of delinquency. Too many youngsters, it adds, don't know the meaning of religion and get through their early years without learning the difference between right and wrong.

Much of the trouble is attributed to adverse influences of the last war. More married women with families had accepted wartime employment with the result that children often came home to empty houses. There was a jumbling up of human beings of all ages and sharing of everything from beds to clothing. With parental love and attention lacking, the inevitable harvest was delinquency.

Poor Example Set

"Many parents set such a poor example in honesty, self-restraint and perseverance," says the report, "that the surprise is not that the boys have such low standards but that their standards run as high as they do."

The report recommends that mothers with children of school age should accept employment during school hours. If necessary, local authorities should subsidize sitting-in services thus enabling parents to go out together more frequently.

Among other remedies, the report suggests greater encouragement in the adoption of orphanages, sex education, special schools, pre-marital advice for engaged couples and free or assisted legal aid to parents seeking divorce.

But special stress is laid on the need for restoration of normal love and understanding between parents and children with the re-establishment of family life on its proper pedestal.

CBC Board Approves Applications At Meet

OTTAWA, June 26 — (CP) — The nine-member CBC board of governors has recommended approval of all applications considered by it at meetings here last week.

The board said Monday it had no objection to a proposal for recapitalization of the Northern Broadcasting Company Limited with 4,500 preferred shares and 100,000 common shares. The recapitalization will not affect control of the company which operates station CFCH, North Bay; CJKY, Kirkland Lake, and CKGB, Timmins.

Emergency transmitter licences were recommended for station CJOY, Guelph.

New Swiss Discovery for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

Authentic photograph of Mr. J. Biller on February 11th. The Eczema was completely cleared up after 11 weeks of F "99" Treatment.

EMINENT Scientists have discovered that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in human nutrition is one of the main causes of skin diseases, such as Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. The modern diet, in which these essential substances are often completely lacking, have brought about a deficiency in a great number of individuals.

Remarkable Swiss Discovery

A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid in a concentration of 99% and therefore named F "99". Thanks to this hitherto unattained purity, F "99" is so readily absorbed into the blood stream, that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases.

Natural way to clear up skin troubles F "99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances. It is so harmless that it may be given even to infants without any hesitation. Its remarkable efficiency in the treatment of Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation. As its name suggests, the F "99" Two-Way Treatment acts internally as well as externally. While F "99" Capsules or Liquid give the body the power to suppress the cause and combat successfully skin disease, the F "99" Ointment treats its external, visible symptoms. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F "99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value and is being used with outstanding results even on cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

UE Will Do Bargaining For CGE Production Unit

Drew Smears Howe PM Charges

Hubbub Breaks Out In Commons Over Contracts Given

OTTAWA, June 27. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today in the Commons accused George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader or using "smear" tactics designed to reflect on the reputation of Production Minister Howe.

The flare-up, which brought charges and counter charges, catcalls and roars of applause, was sparked by a reference by Mr. Drew to Mr. Howe and government contracts in a free-time political speech over the CBC Tuesday night.

Mr. Drew had charged that Mr. Howe "has arranged government contracts with his own family company, C. D. Howe Company Limited, which will give that company more than $500,000 in fees."

The Rev. Dan McIvor (L-Fort William) asked Mr. Drew to withdraw the charge. He said that Mr. Howe was not in the Chamber and added that the Minister has no connection with the company.

While Speaker Ross Macdonald pondered whether he should allow a debate on the matter, Mr. Drew stated he would not withdraw the charge. Mr. Howe, he said, with his "immense power" had granted the C. D. Howe Company a $300,000 contract to build an atomic reactor at Chalk River.

Family Company
While he himself was not personally connected with the company, his son and son-in-law were and that made it a "family company." It was the obligation of members of the government to see that no contracts were issued either to themselves or members of their family.

Mr. St. Laurent said that if the leader of the opposition had any charges against a member of the government he should make them in the House. The "smearing remark" against Mr. Howe would bring Mr. Drew no good results.

At this point, the two party leaders were on their feet, glaring across the aisle at each other, while the Progressive Conservatives tried to match the Liberals in cat-calls and desk-pounding.

Friendly Scalping

LOS ANGELES, June 27. (AP)—Josephine Amaya 17, has been scalped by her sister, Vella, 14. It was an amicable scalping. In fact, it was Josephine's idea. She wanted a Mohican haircut, like some of the 'teen-age boys are wearing here this summer. Vella obliged and did a good job. Josephine is shaved bald except for a three-inch wide strip of hair that extends from her forehead to the back of her neck. As a concession to feminine vanity, Josephine has a pigtail that hangs below the shoulder line, permitting a bow ribbon, if wanted.

West Pressing Moscow For Explanation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 27. (AP)—The west pressed Moscow today to spell out what Jacob A. Malik meant by the Russian proposal for a Korean cease-fire.

Acting on Washington's instruction, United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk called on Andrei Gromyko, deputy Soviet foreign minister in Moscow. Moscow dispatched said clarification of Malik's suggestions was expected by the end of this week.

State Secretary Dean Acheson said the US had not learned the intentions behind the Malik proposal, "but we hope today will bring further light." At the time he made this comment in Washington Acheson evidently had not received Kirk's report on his meeting with Gromyko.

Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, proposed Saturday that the belligerents in Korea open talks about a cease-fire coupled with mutual withdrawal of forces from the 38th parallel. The west wanted to know, among other things, what "belligerents" the Soviet Union considered to be involved, and what guarantees would be given against reopening of the fighting if a truce were declared.

Back From Norway
UN Secretary General Trygve Lie, "always hopeful," returned from Norway. He discussed developments with his chief aides and Nasrallah Entezam, General Assembly President.

Entezam said he had not seen Malik—reported ill since Saturday—and had no guarantee to see him. He talked today with the ranking Russian in the UN secretary, Constantin Zinchenko.

One informant who in the past has been somewhat familiar with Russian thinking expressed belief the Russians, in their mention of "belligerents," had in mind the North Koreans and the unified command of the UN.

This would leave out the Chinese Communists, who Moscow portrays as volunteers in Korea. Such an omission could raise immediate objection from the west.

Malik is scheduled to make an appearance tomorrow night at a dinner he has arranged as retiring president of the Security Council. The council presidency rotates monthly and the dinner is a usual formality marking the change in presidencies.

WOULD WRITE OFF DEBTS
OTTAWA, June 27.—(CP)—The write-off of $30,506,622 in uncollectable debts owing the federal government prior to 1940 was recommended today in a report by the Public Accounts Committee of the Commons.

British Staff Called In From Fields

Unless Compromise Announced Soon Will Be Evacuated

ABADAN, Iran, June 27. (AP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company today started calling its British staff from the oil fields in readiness to fly them out of Iran.

The last plane-loads of women and children left for their British homes this morning.

Unless a last-minute compromise is reached, an emergency evacuation of British employees themselves will mark the beginning of the end of billion dollar oil empire Britain built over the last 50 years in this southern desert land.

Barring some unforeseen development, word is expected from London within the next few hours to go ahead with "operation exodus."

Crude oil pumping of Southern Iran's largest field has been halted because of an Anglo-Iranian Oil Company decision to withdraw its tankers, British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd announced today in Tehran.

His announcement came as a showdown appeared near in the British-Iranian oil dispute. Tension was growing over reports that all Britons would be evacuated from the oil fields.

Production at the Abadan field about 100 miles northeast of Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, has been stopped because there is no more loading at the deep sea port of Bandar Mahshur.

Production at the Aghajari field is 322,000 barrels a day. Meanwhile, it was learned an Italian oil expert, Dr. Mario Caraffa, arrived here secretly a few days ago at the invitation of the Iranian government. He is vice-president of Agip, Italy's national gasoline company, in which Anglo-Iranian has substantial interests.

No Comment
Neither the Iranian government nor the Italian embassy would comment on Caraffa's visit. Shepherd estimated that production at the Abadan refinery, which is fed by six other oil fields in Southern Iran, could continue another 10 to 14 days before storage facilities were all used up.

Jackson Wins Vote By 1909-1582 Big Blow To Rival

Production workers at the Peterborough CGE plant on Tuesday voted to retain the left-wing United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UE) as their bargaining agent. The bid of the right-wing International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) was defeated by a majority of 327 votes, 1909 to 1,582. Since the split in UE ranks in the fall of 1949 both union factions have claimed a majority of the more than 3,000 production workers in the plant. But this is the first time that the issue has been put to a vote.

The defeat was a heavy blow to the IUE who have twice applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for certification.

At present Local 524, UE, has a two-year contract with the company, part of a master agreement covering some 7,000 production workers in Peterborough and Toronto plants.

Breakdown Of Voting
Here is a breakdown of the voting held at the plant under the supervision of A. M. Brunskill, examiner for the Ontario Labor Relations Board:

UE	1,909
IUE	1,582
Spilled ballots	6
Not counted	2
Total votes cast	3,499
Total eligible	3,595
No. in bargaining unit	3,659

George Wallace, president of Local 524, UE, called the vote a clear-cut decision, and that it had ended five years of "disruption, sabotage and division in the shop."

"Our consolidated unity with the Toronto CGE workers, and with the workers throughout the electrical industry, will add greatly to the security and advancement of all," he said.

President Wallace extended a hand to those who had voted IUE. "We call upon the workers who voted IUE to rejoin the ranks of the vast majority of the CGE workers and establish that full unity which, alike wins respect and full attention from management," he said.

Plans Unknown
Future plans for the IUE in Peterborough are not known at the moment. Policy on whether or not to stage a third campaign will likely be decided later.

It was a fair vote and the IUE offers no apologies for its vigorous campaign. That was the general tenor of a statement issued jointly today by Joe MacKenzie, CCL

$10,000 Glass Cargo Crashes At Destination
KITCHENER, June 27.—After safe passage from Belgium, a shipload of glass came to grief Tuesday at the entrance to the Hobbs Glass Co., Young St.

The eight-case load, containing $10,000 worth of glass, shifted on the tractor trailer and spilled to the pavement as the vehicle turned to enter the firm's driveway. Damage was several thousand dollars.

The trailer upset, blocking the street for more than four hours.

Long 38-Month Civil War Going Strong In Burma

RANGOON, June 27.—(AP)—Burma's rolling, round—the country civil war is a close approach to perpetual motion. For 38 months Loyalists and Rebels have chased each other through jungles, across rice fields and in and out of towns.

This grim game of cops and robbers has cost the country an estimated $2,100,000,000, tied up nearly 30,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen, and taken a toll of 50,000 lives. Defence costs have more than doubled since 1948.

Communist action plunged the Burmese into fratricidal conflict three months after united effort won them freedom from Britain. By the end of 1948 the urge to rebel spread among the People's Volunteer Organization, main government prop, and a section of the armed forces. It was climaxed early in 1949 by a revolt of the Karens, a minority group which feared annihilation of tribal tradition without a separate state.

The government claims rebel strength at no time exceeded 20,000. It said half this number surrendered under amnesty by Jan. 4, 1951.

The government claim does not tally with other estimates of rebel numbers. Breakdown figures by competent sources gave these as: Communists 12,000, Karens 20,000, PVOs and Army Mutineers 14,000.

It took election excitement to force the admission that security exists mainly in the imagination. Co-operatives Minister Kyaw Nyien, regarded as the "brains" of the Socialist Party controlling the government, confessed that the government held the towns but beyond municipal limits the rebels were in control.

Much of the rice-growing delta is held by Communists and Karens who occasionally join forces in the war against the government.

Apart from rice, all other industry is at a standstill.

It is against this sombre background that the Burmese are holding elections.

3 Canadians Win Decorations

OTTAWA, June 27. (CP)—The Canadian officer who called artillery fire down on his own position when Chinese swarmed into them was awarded the Military Cross today for "bravery and conduct above normal devotion to duty." Capt. John Graham Wallace Mills, 31, of Winnipeg, thus joined two other ranks—one evacuated from London as a boy during the blitz—as the first Canadian soldiers to be decorated

Calgary and Lethbridge Shiver After Snow Storm

EDMONTON, June 27. (CP)—Unseasonable cold gripped Alberta today with frost reported in the foothills and other points. But a storm that dumped wet snow on the southern part of the province Tuesday moved on into northwestern Saskatchewan. The coldest spot today was Banff, with a low of 25. Whitecourt, 110 miles northwest of Edmonton, had two degrees of frost. Calgary had an overnight low of 34, Edmonton 37.

The Lethbridge area reported more than three inches of snow and slush at some points Tuesday. In Calgary, it snowed for seven hours. The snow melted fast but up to one inch was on the ground at one time.

South of Lethbridge, flood waters from the fourth torrential storm within a few weeks brought a threat to the $7,000,000 St. Mary River irrigation dam.

Depth of a huge artificial lake behind the dam Tuesday was reported to be 152.2 feet—only 2.8 feet below the level of the uncompleted spillway. A 40-foot length of siphon was washed out and only about half of the St. Mary River's flow could be diverted from the lake.

At Raymond, 20 miles south of Lethbridge, citizens sandbagged the town's water supply reservoir. Three secondary dams and the town's sewage disposal plant also are threatened.

The storm, moving southwest into the mountains tonight through the Crow's Nest Pass, came out of the Mackenzie River Valley Monday. It brought chilly temperatures and high winds to all of Alberta, but snow only to Calgary and Lethbridge areas.

A sudden drop in temperature heralded the storm's approach. The mercury lunged from a high of 70 Monday to the freezing mark at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Records tumbled with the snowflakes and raindrops.

It was the latest June snow on record in Calgary and the 32-degree minimum eclipsed the previous low of 37 in 1920 for June 26.

Won't Hit Ontario
TORONTO, June 27.—(CP)—"Oh no!" said the weatherman today when asked if the storm that dropped snow on southern Alberta Tuesday will do likewise in Ontario.

It will reach here Friday in the guise of cool air, he added, and temperatures likely will drop about 10 degrees with its arrival. It may bring showers, but should "melt" enough on the way to leave snow behind.

US Ships Return To Seas After 11-Day Disputes

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—All American-flag ships returned to the seas today after 11 days of labor disputes. At one time, non-defence shipping was tied up in every major port in the United States.

The CIO National Maritime Engineers Beneficial Association won contract concessions from 40 Atlantic and Gulf Coast ship-owners Tuesday night to mark the complete restoration of maritime labor peace.

West coast ships started moving last Friday after the CIO American Radio Association settled a six-day strike with Pacific ship operator.

Some East and Gulf Coast vessels sailed during the last two days following weekend agreements with the owners and the Radiomen's Union and the 52,000-member National Maritime Union (CIO).

Early Start On Housing Plan

TORONTO, June 27. (CP)—An early start on the construction of 1,500 houses for rental purposes under the Ontario government's rental housing plan was forecast today by Planning Minister Griesinger.

The minister said inquiries had indicated that a number of houses could be started in various municipalities as soon as legal formalities have been met.

The plan provides for the construction of rental homes on the basis of the federal government paying 75 per cent of the cost, the province 17½ per cent and the municipality 7½ per cent.

"We have had a gratifying response to the proposal and now that we have asked the various municipalities to what extent they wish to share in the plan we hope to get going soon," said Mr. Griesinger. "We expect many more applications in the next few days now that they have the details in their possession."

Cost-of-Living Index May Be Levelling Off

OTTAWA, June 27. (CP)—Canada's cost-of-living index for May, expected to be issued next Tuesday, may show a levelling off from its record-breaking climb, it was indicated today.

The latest United States index, announced in Washington today, reached a record of 185.4. Canada's index for April—also at a record high—was 182. Composition of the index is different in the two countries, but both are based on the assumption that average living costs for 1935-39 equal 100.

The Canadian index, however, recorded a smaller-than-usual jump of only two tenths of a point during April, and the latest Bureau of Statistics report on wholesale prices—generally an advance indication of the trend in consumer costs—shows a decline in May.

France's original plan stipulated German units must not exceed 6,000 to 8,000 men—that is, combat team strength.

Italy, France, Western Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg were represented at the sessions as full members. The United States, Britain, Canada, Norway, Denmark, Holland and Portugal attended as observers.

Navy Blimp Makes Dramatic Mercy Trip

ABOARD USS PALAU OFF CAROLINA CAPES, June 27.—(AP)—A navy blimp made a dramatic race with death Tuesday carrying a critically ill sailor from this escort carrier to the naval hospital in Norfolk.

The seaman, Raymer Extor Stormes, 21, of Norwood, O., was struck by a heart attack.

It took just 47 minutes for the blimp to drop down, take the sick man aboard and clear the Palau's deck on its mercy mission.

The blimp, with two others, had been engaged in landing exercises on the carrier.

Demonstration Given Of New British Rifle

LONDON, June 27. (Reuters)—Commonwealth defence ministers and their military advisers today saw a demonstration of the British army's controversial new .280-calibre rifle.

Defence Minister Emmanuel Shinwell has claimed it is the best rifle in the world. But it has been criticized on the grounds that its adoption hampers efforts to standardize weapons among North Atlantic Pact countries.

The United States and Canada have decided against adopting the new weapon. Other Commonwealth countries have not yet announced decision.

The .280 rifle is automatic and has more than twice the rate of fire of the 303-calibre rifle, standard British army weapon for the last 50 years.

King Of Ireland's Tinkers Plans To Abdicate Many Undesirables Lower Tone Of Gypsies

LOUGHREA, Republic of Ireland, June 27. (AP)—Larry Ward—hereditary "King" of Ireland's wandering tinkers—has decided to abdicate. Too many "undesirables," he says, are lowering the tone of Erin's ancient Gypsy clan.

The monarch, 26, made the doleful announcement Tuesday in a Loughrea courtroom where the judge had just found him guilty of drunken and unkindly conduct in a public street.

"Some undesirables have joined the clan and, as a result, I no longer wish to wear the crown," Ward announced. Furthermore, he said, he's going to leave Ireland.

The judge appeared little moved. He said:

"I cannot comment on whether or not the king should migrate, but I will fine him 10 shillings and six pence."

King Larry said he will nominate a successor before he leaves Ireland. The Wards have been kings of the Irish tinkers for many generations, getting their food, clothing and other needs from thousands of "subjects."

In return, they handed down judgment on delicate legal matters like feuds and horse-trading deals.

Some tinkers—especially those who battled the English during Ireland's struggle for independence—were a bit hurt by one aspect of the local abdication crisis. Larry said he plans to join the British army.

Bill Opposed Giving Judges 20% Increase

OTTAWA, June 27—(CP)—The Commons, shooting for a summer adjournment some time this month, ran headlong Tuesday into time-consuming opposition to a government bill to give judges a 20-per-cent increase in pay.

The measure finally won first reading, but only after the Progressive Conservatives urged that it be deferred at least until the fall session and the CCF and Social Credit groups suggested it be dropped altogether.

The opposition generally was based on the argument that this is not the time to raise salaries of one specific group when the people as a whole are fighting inflation.

The CCF forced a formal division on a government motion to go into committee on the preliminary resolution. The motion carried 144 to 24, but the vote produced a minor split in the Liberal and Progressive Conservative ranks.

Vote Against It
Voting against the motion with the CCF and Social Credit groups were John Sinnott (L. Springfield), Douglas Harkness (PC, Calgary East), Percy Black (PC, Cumberland), R. H. McGregor (PC, York East), P. E. Garson (Ind., Chicoutimi) and Dr. Raoul Poulin (Ind., Beauce).

A bill making a series of changes in the Criminal Code was adopted after Justice Minister Garson acceded to a Progressive Conservative request for withdrawal of a section which would have allowed police to check on telephone calls from places suspected of being gambling houses.

The new provision had been requested by the Ontario government. Also approved was a measure revamping federal control over dairy products and substitutes moving interprovincially.

First reading was given a bill providing for elections in the northwest territories and making minor voting alterations.

Refuse Gov't Right To Outlaw Red Party

SYDNEY, Australia, June 27 (AP)—Two state governments refused today to concede the right of the Australian Commonwealth to outlaw the communist party. The power to do so now must be sought in a referendum, probably in October.

The acting premier of Queensland's Labor government, Vincent C. Gair, sent a telegram to Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies saying that the Queensland government considered the principles involved to be of such importance that the matter should go to a vote of the people.

The government of New South Wales also decided that it would refuse to delegate the power to the federal government.

Ship's Cook Killed With Galley Knife

OCEAN FALLS, BC, June 27—(CP)—A ship's cook from Panama was stabbed to death Tuesday with an eight-inch galley knife. A charge of murder was lodged later against another cook aboard the same vessel.

RCMP identified the dead man as Sidney Ferguson, 40, second cook aboard the American freighter Washington.

Charged with murder was first cook Winfred Stansill Young, 43, whose hometown was given as Tacoma, Wash.

Police said the slaying was the result of an argument between the two men.

Crew members told officers at this coastal pulp town of hearing an argument and then seeing Ferguson run from the galley, blood gushing from his chest.

The vessel, which was loading paper, will be held here for an indefinite period, police said.

representative, and Joe Wirtz, international representative. "The vote was fairly conducted, in accordance with the regulations of the OLRB," said the two leaders of the IUE campaign. "The fact that we were successful will not prevent IUE-CIO from continuing to serve the 1,582 workers who supported our union."

"We have nothing to detract from statements made and the position taken by our union throughout the campaign. We continue to look forward to the day when CGE workers in Peterborough will again be represented by an organization which has a place in the established and united labor movement."

Celebrating Begins
As soon as word of the victory reached the rank and file of IUE membership the celebrating began. Some of the more exuberant, standing outside the George St. office of the UE, let out a shout of triumph. And there was a general air of handshaking and congratulations.

Banners with UE slogans prepared well in advance by members who anticipated victory, appeared on the streets. For a couple of hours cars of UE supporters drove down the main streets to celebrate the outcome.

President Wallace, in a loud-speaker equipped car, announced the results to residents as the victory parade went along. When a section of the parade reached the Green Building, where the IUE have their headquarters, catcalls and jeers were exchanged between the two groups. But there were no scuffles.

Generally Orderly
Generally the celebrating was orderly. No incidents were reported by city police who kept an eye on the two factions. However, one UE member was badly cut up about the face after an argument that led to blows in a beverage room. He required medical attention.

Ross Russell, UE director of organization, said the UE victory was a defeat for some of the top brass of the CCL.

"It should be a warning to the CIO-CCL officialdom that the rank and file want policies of unity and sound bargaining instead of raiding and red-baiting," he said.

Key Stronghold
The Peterborough plant is the largest in the CGE chain in Canada and was regarded as the key union stronghold. In their second campaign to capture it the IUE brought in top CIO-CCL officials to persuade the local production workers to reject the left-wing UE.

The climax was a mass rally in the Brock Street Summer Gardens on June 18 when James B. Carey, international head of IUE, and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the CCL, spoke in support of the CCL union.

The UE now has a two-year contract that runs to March 27, 1953. But 10 months after the anniversary date the IUE may intervene again. That would be December 27, 1951.

Bitter Campaign
The present campaign was bitter right down to the blackout on electioneering last Friday night. IUE campaigners accused the UE leaders of following the Communist line and urged the production workers to rejoin the CIO-CCL affiliation. The UE spokesmen denounced their rivals for splitting their union and mainly confined themselves to defending their existing contracts.

Led By Morton
The UE was ousted from the CIO at the annual CIO convention in the fall of 1949. James B. Carey set up the rival IUE. And in Canada the right wingers were led by John G. Morton, former president of Local 524, UE.

At the time the union was negotiating on a new contract and the Peterborough local was excluded from talks with the company until one union or the other was declared the legal bargaining agent.

The IUE made application to the OLRB in December 1949 but it was rejected after a hearing.

In March this year the IUE made its second application and filed 1,727 eligible cards. This was one card less than 48 per cent of the bargaining unit at that time.

Between that time and Tuesday the IUE lost the allegiance of at least 145 voters.

Three Squadrons To Serve In UK

OTTAWA, June 27—(CP)—A three-squadron RCAF fighter wing will be established in the United Kingdom by next summer prior to moving to the continent of Europe to serve as part of the Atlantic Pact wall against Communism, Defence Minister Claxton said Tuesday.

He reported that Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, RCAF Chief of Staff, has come back from Paris to report that considerable progress has been made in completing plans to dispatch overseas the first squadrons of what will become an 11-squadron air division by 1954.

First to go will be No. 410 Squadron, now converting to F86 Sabre jets at Dorval airport, near Montreal. The squadron will leave in the fall and two more will follow it to England before next summer to form a three-squadron wing.

No. 421 Squadron, now rated "one of the best operational fighter squadrons in Britain," would return home from its base in Odham, near London, in time for Christmas.

As the uproar continued, Mr. Drew said Mr. St. Laurent has "obviously lost his temper." He would leave it to members to judge whether the use of the word "smeared" was parliamentary or not.

Urges Committee
Mr. St. Laurent had suggested that if there were any charges against a member of the government they should be made in the chamber so that they could be referred to a special committee or the public accounts committee.

Mr. Drew said a royal commission was required.

Too often, the public accounts committee was a means used by the government to dispense with anything the government did not really want to have examined.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Howe had already made clear that he had severed his connections with this Fort William company when he entered politics in 1935. Yet there still were attempts to "smeared" the production minister.

Mr. Howe's devotion to the country was as high as any member in the House, Mr. St. Laurent added. He recalled that Mr. Drew at one time previously had referred even to fees received by the prime minister when he was a member of a firm of Quebec lawyers.

Standing tensely at his desk Mr. St. Laurent said sharply that it was "quite unnecessary" for Mr. Drew to have made this remark. The fees received by the law firm were made before Mr. St. Laurent had been elected to parliament 11 years ago.

Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe was charged with the handling of "hundreds of millions of dollars" in defence contracts and his method of awarding these contracts therefore must be examined with great care.

Premier Mohammed Mossadeq is reported preparing to summon a special cabinet meeting to discuss latest developments in his drive to nationalize the British-controlled company's holdings.

Iranian leaders, already alarmed over the news that Britain has ordered her cruiser Mauritius to the Persian Gulf, were little soothed by the reports that British personnel—totalling about 3,000—would be evacuated soon and the Abadan refinery shut down.

Shepherd said he assumed the cruiser Mauritius already had arrived off Abadan. He said the big ship would anchor in the Shatt-el-Arab river in Iraqi waters, only 200 or so yards from the refinery on Iranian soil. He said the cruiser was being stationed in the river to protect British property in the event of disorders.

"I am sure the Persian government is taking all precautions to preserve order," Shepherd said to reporters, "but obviously it is the duty of His Majesty's government to take all precautions, also."

Likely Protest
Observers said Iran probably would protest to the British against the presence of the cruiser even though it stays in Iraqi waters. The boundary between Iran and Iraq runs in the centre of a deep channel roughly in the middle of the 500-yard-wide river.

The Anglo-Iranian company has ordered all its tankers to withdraw from the Abadan refinery port immediately—presumably to avoid being involved in any trouble. Ten of the 27 tankers reported at the port were loaded. Skippers were instructed to dump their oil cargoes, if need be in order to get Iranian clearance papers.

The Mossadeq government has demanded that the British sign receipts for all oil cargoes clearing the port to show that fuel is the property of the Iranian National Oil Company. The British captains so far have refused to sign such receipts.

Mossadeq made a public appeal yesterday to British technicians of the AIOC to stay on as employees of the Iranian National Oil Company. The latter is a government agency, officially described as the AIOC's successor.

Moves Fast
L. Cpl. Douglas, an Alberta farm boy, acted when some Patricia erringly stepped into one of their own fields of booby traps consisting of grenades. One grenade exploded seriously wounding one man and killing another.

His citation goes on: "Two men were close to another grenade which had been tripped—its mechanism set in motion—and was smoking. L. Cpl. Douglas yelled to them to lie down, rushed forward and grabbed the grenade in an attempt to throw it away. It exploded, blowing his hand off."

He was born at Red Deer, Alta., and went to school near the family farm at Delburne. He worked on his mother's farm and occasionally drove tractors for construction companies before enlisting in the special force last summer.

In Bayonet Attack
Pte. Barton, 10 years old when the Germans were bombing London, came to Canada last year and worked as a farm hand in Ontario before enlisting. On March 7 his company was attacking a hill, got held up by vicious fire and orders were given to assault with bayonets.

Pte. Barton was batman for the Lieutenant commanding his platoon. In the attack, the lieutenant and others were wounded. So was Barton. But, "showing great initiative and resource, he rallied the remainder and carried on."

"He was next shot through the leg when leaping over a trench, but immediately turned and killed the man who had shot him. Pushing ahead, he was wounded a third time by machine-gun fire but carried on until ordered out. He walked back to medical aid unassisted. The position was consolidated the following morning."

tossing battles broke out. And in the west UN patrols were forced back by field guns.

Fighting was vicious, but on a small scale.

Fifth Air Force pilots supporting ground troops with fire bombs and rockets reported they killed or wounded about 600 Reds. Most of the casualties were inflicted in the Kumson area by two F-51 Mustang strikes.

(A dispatch from Canadian Press Correspondent Bill Boss said at least 75 Chinese were killed and four field artillery pieces knocked out north of Chonwon by UN planes supporting United Nations ground troops.

(Censorship precluded mention in his dispatch of the nationality of the UN troops. Boss is in Korea to report the activities of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade.)

Far East air forces stepped up bomber raids on Red air fields in Western Korea. Twelve fields were cratered Tuesday, and five more during the night.

One US F-80 Shooting Star was shot down by ground fire while strafing Red troops.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McIlwain Celebrate 50th Anniversary

June 26, 1901, Gertrude Freeborn became the bride of Mathew J. McIlwain at George St. Methodist Church parsonage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Wilson.

Tuesday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. McIlwain were at home to relatives and friends who came to their residence at 335 King George St., for their 50th wedding anniversary celebration. Seated midst flowers, gifts and cards of greetings and congratulations the couple recalled some of the details of their wedding day.

The bridesmaid, 50 years ago, was Laura Gray and the groomsmen, William Wheeler. Following the ceremony, the bride and groom drove away in a horse-drawn buggy to their new home on Stewart St.

Since their marriage the couple have always lived in Peterborough except from 1947-49 when they lived on the Lakefield highway approximately five miles from the city.

Born In Smith

Mr. McIlwain was born in Smith township, son of the late Mathew McIlwain and Sarah Ann Graham. He moved to Peterborough in his early teens. His first job was at the Walter Bates bakery. Later he was employed at the CGE where he worked until his retirement two years ago. He was at the CGE 35 years.

He has three brothers, William, Peterborough; Herbert, Carleton Place; and James, Lindsay, Ontario. He has four sisters, Mrs. Norman Fraser (Jennie), California; Mrs. Betty Burns and Mrs. W. R. Bradley (Eva), both of Toronto; and Mrs. Edward Cooney of Peterborough.

Mrs. McIlwain was born and educated in Peterborough. She is the daughter of the late George Freeborn and Elizabeth Shackleton. She has one brother, Vernon, Montreal and three sisters, Mrs. C. Chapman (Bertha) and Mrs. S. Kennedy (Julia), both of Vancouver, British Columbia, and Mrs. Ida Shearer, Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. McIlwain are members of George St. United Church.

16 Grandchildren

They have five sons, Melville, Donald and Earl, all of Peterborough; Clayton, Lakefield, and Jack, at home; three daughters, Mrs. W. R. Rogers (Jean), Toronto; Mrs. C. Workman (Geraldine), Lindsay, and Bernice, Peterborough; 16 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

All the members of Mr. and Mrs. McIlwain's family as well as friends and neighbors visited the couple's home either in the afternoon or evening Tuesday.

The tea table was centered with a wedding cake for the occasion.

Two Sons Graduate In Law On Same Day

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27 — (ENS).—Two proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelly of Campbellford, witnessed graduation ceremonies at Osgoode Hall in Toronto on Thursday last, when their two sons, J. J. Kelly and J. M. Kelly, received their degrees of Barristers at Law, and were called to the Bar. Both boys have previously obtained their BA degree, and J. M. Kelly, the older of the two brothers, received his BSc. degree in Mechanical Engineering at Queen's University in 1948. J. M. Kelly received his degree in Science about the time his younger brother was entering the law course in Toronto, and so gave up his profession to join his brother in the law course.

Chief Justice Robertson of Toronto presented the boys with their degrees at the ceremonies at Osgoode Hall on Thursday June 21. J. M. Kelly will practice in Ottawa, while brother J. J. Kelly will start his practice in Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelly of Campbellford have received numerous telegrams and cards, congratulating them on their sons' achievements.

Town Police To Bring Offenders Into Court

CAMPBELLFORD, June 27 — (ENS).—Campbellford police, in their recent crackdown on violators of traffic regulations, have had so many cases to deal with that Chief George H. Hardy believes the next move will be to not allow the drivers to settle their fines out of court. It is believed that by hauling the offenders into court, that motorists will pay more attention to traffic regulations, and will think twice before they drive at excessive speeds and mix gasoline with alcohol.

Claxton Outlines Atomic Bomb Targets At Kiwanis Meet

OTTAWA, June 27—(CP).—Defense Minister Claxton said Tuesday the Russians may have 25 or more atomic bombs and there are two main routes across Canada for air attacks if war comes. Canada has about seven targets which might invite use of one of these bombs.

Those were among the facts he marshalled in an address to the Ottawa Kiwanis Club to back his statement that even if something comes of Russia's Korean peace overtures Canada must not slacken defence efforts.

The minister reaffirmed the cabinet's opinion that the time is not ripe for general economic controls and the hope they will never be needed. He also intimated that the United States is going to help foot the bill for some defence installations in Canada which would benefit the whole of North America.

Mr. Claxton said the armed forces have been getting men at a satisfactory rate, that they now have 80,000—the total was 47,000 when the Korean War started a year ago—and that 31,000 civilians are working at defence. Every effort would be made to raise the joint total to 150,000 from 111,000.

Ten per cent of the 80,000 men now in uniform were in the 27th Army Brigade which was expected to go to Europe. There were enough replacements now available, in addition, to reinforce the 25th Brigade in Korea for six months or more.

Takes 12% of Income
Canada's present defence program was taking 12 per cent of the national income compared to 45 to 50 per cent at the peak of the Second World War. Thus, financially, it could be described as 25 per cent of an all-out war effort.

The three-year $5,000,000,000 program could be achieved while the economy was maintained, but it couldn't be done without giving up some of the goods the people would like to have.

"Any further increases in defence requirements for men materials or money will have very much more serious consequences on the whole economy. All we (the cabinet) hope is that it may be possible to achieve the results we want without imposing a system of general controls, rationing, price and wage fixing. We believe that course is not yet justified. We hope it will not become necessary."

Mr. Claxton referred to Russia's A-bombs in an appraisal of the threat to Canada. If war came, there would likely be air and submarine attacks on Canada. There were two likely avenues of air approach.

The first might be from the northwest, from Siberia, swinging across Alaska either to the east of the Rockies into the industrial centres or to the west coast cities. The second approach might be from Northern Europe across Iceland, the tip of Greenland, Labrador, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and down to the industrial centres.

"It is believed the Russians are making atomic bombs. If this is so, they may have 25 or they may have more."

The Russians had four-engined bombers to carry the bombs here but probably not enough to make saturation raids.

Therefore there were about 30 targets reported likely to attract an A-bomb in the U.S. and about seven in Canada. Air attack against at least some of them was considered likely.

Have Master Plan

Some Canadian targets might be hit when the Russians found it impossible to get through to the U.S. target. A master plan of radar protection, communications and fighter interceptor planes had been worked out with the U.S. and was being built up as fast as it could be done.

"Since any attack on the U.S. almost certainly would come across Canada, it is only reasonable that they should assist" in the defence of Canada.

"So far Canada has paid for all the defence equipment purchased from the U.S. and we shall continue to do that as long as the equipment is for the defence of Canada here or abroad but where it is used for the defence of all North America... we shall work together."

U.E. Is Affirmed

The vote that was taken yesterday at the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough touches every home in Peterborough. It was not something apart from, of no consequence to, the life of this city and district. The Canadian General is our biggest shop. The production workers entitled to vote yesterday on whether the United Electrical Workers (U.E.) or the International Union of Electrical Workers (I.U.E.-C.I.O.) should be their bargaining agent—these voters come from or are the bread-winners of a quarter of the families in Peterborough. Most other families and all business in the district—from farmer to novelty store—are directly or indirectly linked with the C.G.E. people who had the right to vote yesterday.

That is the local, civic importance of the matter. There is a national significance, for the struggle between U.E. and I.U.E. for control has been watched by every labour organization and leader in the country. Peterborough is the focus.

We propose to discuss the issues and results of the vote later. We wish now to make the point plain, that this labour issue is vastly important. . . . These comments are obvious: that the vote was heavy — of the 3,595 persons entitled to vote, 3,499 did cast their vote; that U.E. confirmed its power and convoked the loyalties which such a conservative populace as ours gives slowly but holds to long; and that the devotees of both unions took the results with a jubilation or dejection which betokened a heart-felt cause.

In the parades and heat of the moment this fact may be overlooked by the leaders: important as the union issue may be, a man at his job in the C.G.E. uses up only a third of his day. . . . The rest of the time he is part of his family, his circle of friends, his community. He is not body and soul a unit in a union any more than he is a worker in a factory. For two-thirds of his time this person who voted yesterday belongs to a larger world of citizens and a smaller world of family and friends than anything the union or the industry comprises. Whether union leaders like it or not, the man or woman in the C.G.E. plant, or any other plant in this city, belongs to Peterborough and his family first. That is what limits the union and puts yesterday's vote in perspective. Unionists are not a separate class of society in this town, thank God. We are one community, where each is a neighbour.

Strengthened Opposition

As a result of the four by-elections held on Monday, the Progressive Conservative Party will have three more representatives in the House of Commons. The Party retained its Waterloo (Ontario) seat, and won from the Liberals the constituencies of Queens (P.E.I.), Winnipeg South and Brandon. The Conservatives will now have 49 seats in the Commons, against the Liberals' 185. The issues over which the elections were fought—if that word is not too strong for such quiet campaigning—were regional rather than national: wheat marketing and the like. For that reason, and because by-election results do not indicate national temper at General Elections, it would be rash to say that the Conservatives are on their way to power. Three swallows do not make a summer.

The Opposition needs strengthening if it is to do its job of criticism adequately. For that reason we greet the election of three more Conservatives with satisfaction. A Government with too heavy a majority to support it becomes magisterial. There are not enough members of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition to examine bills being passed through the House and to prod the Government when it needs prodding. The Cabinet can become lackadaisical in its attitude to the House of Commons, and parliamentary government thereby suffers a diminution. There are indications of this now at Ottawa; there are stronger signs of it in Toronto.

Queen's Park and not the Legislative Assembly has become the ruler of the Province. The Cabinet members hold power in their hands and the yearly brief sessions of the Assembly at Toronto are like tea-parties to approve Cabinet legislation. The Assembly no longer legislates, except in name. Behind the Iron Curtain legislative assemblies which do not legislate are referred to on this side of the Curtain as puppet parliaments. If Ottawa needs a strengthened Opposition, Toronto needs it too. The Progressive Conservatives hold 53 of the seats, the C.C.F. 21 and the Liberals 14. The Opposition, being both numerically weak and split is ineffective. It would be good for Ontario if by-elections were to strengthen the Opposition.

First Class For Immigrants

The other day we boarded the 3:30 p.m. train out of Windsor Station, Montreal, going Toronto-ward. The coaches seemed to be full, and the new air-conditioned one which we entered was especially crowded. Men in strange and coarse clothes, foreign-looking children galore, infants being breast-fed by their mothers, a litter of packages, blankets and rope-tied cases: these filled the carriage. Except for the wide plate-glass windows, the gleaming chromium, the tasteful, bright colour scheme and the comfortable reclining seats, the train could have been something out of central Europe. This was a coach full of immigrants.

Some other—and fully Canadian travellers by the same train—seemed affronted by the spectacle of one of their good coaches being occupied by a bunch of immigrants. What right had the central Europeans to this—people who looked as if they had never travelled by train before or had never had anything first class in their lives? Why were they not sent by colonist car? Immigrants fifty years ago never had it as soft! Why are we squandering our luxury on these people? The smartly-dressed real Canadian traveller who entertained these prejudices might himself have been a son of one of the earlier immigrants, whose father or grandfather laid the rails.

There are the ordinary facts that, first, colonist cars are no longer available; and, secondly, the immigrants, or somebody on their behalf, had paid for the first class accommodation which they were occupying. A third fact in that Windsor station incident should have eased any personal discomfort the genuine true-blue Canadian might have been subjected to: other good new carriages were available with seats and no immigrants. The railway officials had segregated the new-comers, for the convenience of the immigrants as well as out of regard for the sensitivities of other travellers.

Immigrants are valuable assets to a country like Canada needing more workers and a bigger population. Times have changed from half or three-quarters of a century ago. People expect better things—even immigrants. The rough, sometimes inhumane treatment which agents, governments and employers meted out to immigrants in other years is not good enough now. People, even central European immigrants, are not packing cases, and the days of slavery are officially ended.

These immigrants are lured to Canada by hopes of a better life. The evidence of that better life—like a first class carriage—presented to them immediately, will help keep their spirits up during the long journey to western Ontario or western Canada under trying conditions. It is good to give them a good first impression of the new land.

In this day when flowers are tenderly flown from British Columbia to Montreal, and expensively ice-packed salmon solicitedly shipped from the Restigouche to Toronto, can Canada not afford to transport a much more important cargo, human beings, in first-class manner? These strong men, the thrifty, hard-working mothers, the bright-eyed, silent children, are much more valuable to us than a crate of orchids or a case of fish. They may not now look as attractive as orchids, but they are not as odorous as the fish; and they are people, future Canadians.

Advice To New Wives

June is a marrying-month, and perhaps we may be allowed to give the brides a bit of advice, before the month is out. We read this in a book this morning: "In the variety of female acquisitions, though domestic occupations stand not so high in esteem as they formerly did, yet, when neglected, they produce much human misery. There was a time when ladies knew nothing beyond their own family concerns; but in the present day there are many who know nothing about them." That sounds like a very modern grievance; actually, the paragraph is from a cookery book published in 1823, under the heading "Miscellaneous Observations for the use of The Mistress of a Family." It is from these observations that we dare offer the following words of counsel to brides of the month:

"To attend to the nursing, and at least early instruction of children, and rear a healthy progeny in the ways of piety and usefulness:—to preside over the family, and regulate the income allotted to its maintenance: to make home the sweet refuge of a husband, fatigued by intercourse with a jarring world: to be his enlightened companion and the chosen friend of his heart: these, these, are women's duties! and delightful ones they are, if happily she be married to a man whose soul can duly estimate her worth, and who will bring his share to the common stock of felicity. Of such a woman, one may truly say, 'Happy the man who can call her his wife. Blessed are the children who call her mother.'"

Those words of wisdom, a century and a quarter old, do not ring too badly in this year of grace and its gracious brides.

ON THE MARGIN

Midsummer Miscellany

IN SEARCH OF LONDON, by H. V. Morton (British Book Service).

WHEN we open a new travel book by H. V. Morton, we know pretty much what we may expect: smooth writing, a great deal of out-of-the-way information, a pleasant and never too obtrusive nostalgia, a strong whiff of sentiment and an unfailing sense of what will interest most tourists. How good it is and how clearly he does it! Not always with unstained success, of course. His book about Wales was not good enough to appeal to a Welshman, and Scots have said the same to me about his book on Scotland. But when he is dealing with what he knows best—England, and especially London—Mr. Morton is the ideal writer for all except the most pernickety travellers.

This book about London has given me great pleasure. I have visited London many times, and for two years I lived there, but I was always too busy to see the sights, and to visit the places where history has been made. "In Search of London" fills me with a keen desire to go back again and repair my omissions. The London of the theatre, I think I may say, I know better than Mr. Morton; he does not seem to care much for the playhouse and its fascinating history; he likes churches, and can become enthusiastic even over those which disappeared three hundred years ago. But his knowledge of Royal London fills me with despairing envy. He has an understanding tenderness toward Charles I, whose execution I have long thought to be one of the greatest errors and injustices in English history. Charles was condemned, without a hearing, by an irregular court; a court not unlike the government boards against which there can be no appeal, which we are told today are necessities. He is rather hard on Henry VIII, and indulgent toward his wives, which is a popular (though perhaps mistaken) point of view. But one of the pleasures of reading Mr. Morton's book lies in arguing with him about things which we think we know better than he, and rejoicing in his knowledge of what is unknown to us.

In short, this is an excellent book whether you know London or not.

20TH CENTURY SCANDINAVIAN POETRY: Martin S. Allwood, general editor. Marston Hill Mulsjö, Sweden.

WE are grateful to the Royal Norwegian Legation at Ottawa for calling our attention to this anthology. The book illustrates the development of poetry in Iceland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland in the half-century 1900-1950. It is a chunky book, running almost to 400 pages, and includes specimens of the work of 209 writers of verse in the Scandinavian countries.

Each national section is edited separately and prefaced by a brief summary and analysis. An appendix to the anthology gives biographical sketches and bibliographies. All the poems are in English translation (Watson Kirkconnell of Canada has Englished six); some are also given in the original tongue.

This reviewer is in no position to do more than call attention to the publication. It should interest Canadians of Scandinavian extraction, as well as literary scholars. But primarily our own writers should pour over it. Climate, size of population and physiography—their very northernness and cultural positions under the shadow of bigger political and economic entities—give the Scandinavian countries a peculiar relativity to Canada. It was an exhibition of Scandinavian painting (in Buffalo) some thirty years ago which is said to have given the Group of Seven painters their impetus. Perhaps this anthology will kindle Canadian poetry, now lagging behind graphic arts, and mainly derivative from England and the U.S.A. Certainly its pages can be a voyage of discovery.

The quality of the poems in the book must be uneven because it is too broad a representation to be selective. There are, for instance, 18 writers with 32 poems in the Icelandic section. I hazard a guess that Canadian composers and song-writers (the few there are and those who might be) would find this anthology a fruitifying mine.

The book is, by the way, a fine example of international co-operation for a cultural purpose. It was printed in Denmark, published in Sweden, edited by nationals of five countries under the general editorship of a Swede, and reached us through the Norwegian legation.

THE GOOD FOOD GUIDE (British Books)

NORMALLY I would not review this book, for it has no application to Canada and is of no use to any Canadian reader except those who are going to travel in Britain. But I intend to review it because it is a book of a type badly needed in this country. It is a book which sets out, honestly, to tell you where good food may be found by the traveler in Britain.

We need such a book in Canada, for our food is less than mediocre in general quality. But such a book cannot be written by anyone; it must be the work of people who know good food when they find it. What we do not understand in Canada is flavouring, our food is usually under-flavoured, and too often Canadians seize the salt and pepper shakers and smother their food with these flavour-killers even before they have tasted it. The bottle of ketchup is another enemy of good cooking; drowning a steak in ketchup is a poor compliment to any cook. A taste for food is not the same thing as being greedy; it is, rather, an intelligent interest in one of the recurring pleasures of life.

In Britain there is a Good Food Club, the members of which recommend or condemn the inns hotels and restaurants in which they eat. They send their notes to a central office and it is there that The Good Food Guide is compiled. No place is condemned: it is not mentioned and the reader may draw his own conclusions. Those that are mentioned are described in short, informative paragraphs, with notes about prices, services, and the special dishes which can be depended upon. The organization of the Good Food Club is a loose one, and its chief interest is in encouraging and requiring good, individual food, instead of mediocre food.

Canada needs such a guide and such a club. Nothing but public opinion, intelligently at work, can improve the low standard of food which is common in this country, even in expensive places.

THE ILLAD: Translated from Homer by A. H. Chase and W. G. Perry (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto).

AT a single reading, the structure and the subtlety that produce the Illad's dramatic power tend to be obscured by its mass, so that readers, and translators with them, have turned away toward the more immedi-

ELBOW ROOM ONLY

Hungarian Deportations

by ELISABETH BARKER (UK Information Office)

A PARTICULARLY gloomy aspect of life for many people in iron curtain Europe today is the sense that no one in the outer free world knows what is happening to them. The Communist governments in Eastern Europe have certainly worked out an effective system of preventing undesirable news getting out. In particular, they have made a practice of excluding western journalists whenever possible, and they make clear to the few remaining correspondents the risk of eviction or arrest if they send dispatches displeasing or embarrassing to the regime. Hence, many east Europeans suffer the foreboding feeling they are forgotten by the free world.

This is not so. The news blackout is not complete, and when reports get through showing how the Communist governments are wrecking the lives of ordinary men and women, they arouse distress and indignation in the West. There are signs the Communist rulers are not yet entirely insensitive to public opinion in the west. There has been a striking instance in Hungary during the last few days. In the latter part of last month, reports began to trickle out about large-scale deportations of families from Budapest. Nothing was said by the Hungarian press or radio and it was clear the Government wished to prevent discussion of them inside Hungary and conceal them from the outside world. When western radio stations began to give the news, they were bitterly attacked by the Hungarian radio—but, at first, only in its foreign language services; not in its home service. Finally, on 16th June, the Hungarian authorities were compelled to issue an official statement which then, for the first time mentioned the subject to the home audience.

This and subsequent Hungarian press comment attempted to present the deportations as a small-scale affair designed to remove from Budapest "aristocrats" and collaborators of the pre-1945 Horthy regime. The deportations, it was said, would provide much-needed housing for deserving workers. It was claimed only 924 families had been removed and these were grouped under such would-be derogatory headings as former princes, former Barons, Horthy generals, former factory owners or ex-owners of large ately comprehensible Odyssey. The present revival of interest in the Illad must spring from a variety of causes, perhaps among them our refusal to shun any longer, through romanticism or cynicism, the facts of war. Thus the translators introduce their work. They are Harvard and Phillips Academy, Andover, scholars. The translation is in prose, and keeps enough of the doublets and conventional epithets of the Greek to give it the familiarity which readers who know any Greek at all would expect to find. The prose diction is carefully arranged to convey the epic style, but the vocabulary and phraseology are modern in idiom, without being colloquial.

It is a deliberately different treatment from George Herbert Palmer's rendition of the Odyssey—less feminine, more muscular. Is not the Illad itself more passionate than the romantic Odyssey?

The translation is well printed and bound, with pleasing black-and-white chapter-head drawings by Steele Savage. T.J.A. (Book reviews will not appear until Autumn.)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side. And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore. And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened. (Matt. 13: 1, 2, 10, 11, 33.)

Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you. . . . If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father even with the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me (John 15: 16, 19, 26.)

I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you. (John 16: 12-14.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Boss: "Do you know what becomes of boys who don't tell the truth?"

Boy: "Yes, sir. You send them out as travellers."

Sunday School Teacher—"Who can tell me anything about Ruth?"
Johnnie—"He made sixty home runs one season."

"Last week I lent you ten dollars for a day."

"So you did. And, boy, what a day!"

Golf Pro: "Tee the ball."

Fellow: "Sure, I see it, but why the baby talk?"

Bulgaria in the last war, King Boris' government deported sympathizers of the allies to remote villages; and two or three years ago the Bulgarian Communist government deported a number of middle-class people and other "undesirables" from the capital. Similar deportations have taken place in Poland and Rumania. But large-scale systematic deportation on the present Hungarian model, carried out by such harsh methods, marks a new phase in inhumanity. The Communist rulers of ex-enemy satellites, of Eastern Europe have already shown they are determined to flout human rights of peace treaties. But the rulers of Hungary cannot entirely ignore the indignation both of their own people and of Western public opinion.

Old-Time Barn Raisings

(Windsor Star)

Injuries at barn-raisings, such as those suffered by a Forest farmer, now are rare. The reason is, of course, barn-raisings in Ontario now are relatively few.

But 75 years ago, or even less, they were common. As farms were harked out of the bush, barns were necessary to stable the stock and provide storage for fodder. Most of the original Ontario barns were of log. They sufficed until frame barns could be built. There aren't many log barns left, though occasionally one can be spotted, particularly in Eastern Ontario.

Barn-raisings were a social as well as utilitarian event. The menfolk gathered for miles around to do the difficult and often dangerous work of hoisting the big beams into place. Teams would be called up, to see which group of men could erect its side of the barn the fastest.

Meantime the women prepared substantial dinners, fit for a hard-working man. There are some old-timers still around with vivid recollections of these affairs.

The key men were the framers, those artisans who prepared the timbers, knew where they were to go, and directed the raising. It was no light job, for many of these Ontario barns have beams a foot thick and 40 feet long of solid timber.

Weakness

(London Free Press)

We live in an age of license and recklessness. There is a devil-may-care attitude abroad. It is this spirit that causes many of our highway crashes, and is at the core of vandalism and juvenile misbehaviour. It is a sign of lack of self-control and reflects a weakness of character. What has happened to our old sense of sportsmanship?

Pension Plans Ready Sept. 1

GODERICH, June 27—(CP)—The Ontario government is moving with all haste to ensure a pension for persons of 65 to 70, Minister of Public Welfare for Ontario W. A. Goodfellow said Tuesday.

Addressing the convention of the Ontario Association of Managers of Homes for the Aged and Infirmed, Mr. Goodfellow said machinery to take these applications for those qualifying will be ready to function Sept. 1 and cheques will go forward to this group in January 1952.

In Ontario some 260,000 men and women over 70 will be eligible to receive a pension from the citizens of Canada at large—and paid for by every earning person by means of a security tax. The municipalities in Ontario will benefit with an estimated saving of one million dollars a year when people on relief are transferred to the province, Mr. Goodfellow said.

Princess Pats Launched Big Imjin River Operation

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 27 (CP)—The vast patrolling operation now under way northwest of the Imjin River was launched by the Princess Patricia's Infantry.

The Patricia's emerged briefly from quasi-retirement to do the job, then returned to a rear area to complete the re-equipping necessary on their reunion with the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade group.

The Imjin crossing was a 28th British Commonwealth Brigade operation. It was expected to be opposed by the Chinese, the current was swift, and Brig. George Taylor had been promised a battalion of Canadians to swell his force.

The Patricia's, as the freshest troops in the Canadian brigade group and as old hands in the 28th, were made available.

Nothing to It

It was their first river crossing, but there was nothing to it. The Chinese did not intervene. The stiffest opposition was from the Imjin itself.

The current was strong, and sturdy rowing was needed to take the rubber rafts across the 200-yard waterway.

The kick-off was at first light. Two hours later the operation was complete. The Patricia's had a solid foothold across the Imjin from which patrolling forward could begin.

While US Army engineers were building the pontoon bridge behind them that would link the Canadians with the rest of UN-held Korea, the Chinese finally reacted.

They pumelled the area with the heaviest artillery and mortar concentrations the Patricia's had experienced to that point. By then, however, the Canadians were well dug in, and the enemy fire claimed but one casualty.

After three days' holding the position and patrolling forward the Patricia's were relieved, and returned to the 25th brigade.

In a masterpiece of organization, they conjured up that same evening as though by magic a mess party to "welcome the brigade to the battalion," as Capt. J. K. Vallely, the Roman Catholic chaplain, expressed it.

Officers from brigade headquarters and other units of the formation were entertained to a buffet supper incredible in Korea, fortified with suitable liquid refreshment.

Two nights later RSM Les Grimes of Edmonton and the sergeants' mess entertained warrant officers and sergeants of the brigade to a beer feast which Brig. John M. Rockingham also attended.

Maj. Pat Tighe of Victoria is commanding the Patricia's in the absence of Lt.-Col. James R. Stone on compassionate leave in Canada.

Citation 'Wonderful' Lt.-Col. Stone Says

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., June 27 (CP)—"Hurray! That's wonderful!" said Lt.-Col. J. R. (Big Jim) Stone when he learned Tuesday that the Eighth Army commander in Korea has awarded a presidential citation to the Princess Patricia's.

The commander of the 2nd Battalion of the regiment is in Canada on compassionate leave because of the serious illness of an infant daughter. Col. Stone commanded the Patricia's in the action for which they were cited. "I think it's absolutely wonderful," he said.

Propose New Education Act

BIGWIN INN, June 27—(CP)—A new consolidated education act based on the Hope Report was proposed Tuesday at the 32nd annual meeting of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association. The Department of Education was asked to prepare the necessary legislation for the act.

Members attending the meeting passed a resolution which suggested that negotiations with teachers' organizations would be aided by adoption of a mutually acceptable salary schedule based on population.

Trustees asked Education Minister Porter to amend the Board of References Act to include salary matters. They also asked the School Act to be amended so that principals of public and secondary schools would not be eligible for membership in the Ontario Teachers Federation.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jack Spalding, 22, was to have graduated from the University of Western Ontario this month. But Jack, in third year of a General Arts course, died after a short illness last February.

Professors said he was one of the most popular boys in the university, whose death "ended what would have been a brilliant career."

Now a group of Jack's student friends have placed 50 modern French books in the university library to perpetuate his memory. Sparked by Gordon C. Heymans, the students contributed the money to purchase the works.

In the front of each volume will be placed a picture of Spalding.

As you grow older haven't you noticed — the more pills you take the worse you get? Haven't you suspected there must be something wrong? Decide today to break that vicious habit of dosing yourself with harmful drugs.

Now there is a better — a safer — a more effective way to daily regularity — one designed especially for people over 35.

It is SERUTAN — based on nature's fresh fruit and vegetable principle — the corrective method for constipation that today stands medically approved above all others.

Have Daily Regularity

SERUTAN gives you the same mild, satisfying action found in naturally laxative fruits and vegetables.

SERUTAN contains no chemical drugs — no salts — no irritating roughage. Its gentle "push" differs completely from violent action methods.

SERUTAN is a more lasting way to help you be regular the way you want to be.

If you are over 35, don't wait. Accept this outstanding offer. Try SERUTAN today — if in 3 days daily regularity has not returned — send the empty package to SERUTAN, Dept. SC-14, 2299 Dundas Street West, Toronto, Ont. — and get double your money back.*

No other product for regularity has dared to make this unusual offer. Act today! *Introductory size package only

HERE'S WHAT SERUTAN IS:

Two teaspoonfuls of SERUTAN contain hydrogel* equal to that in (approx.) . . .

*The water absorbing portion of the non-digestible carbohydrate residue of fruits and vegetables known technically as hemicellulose.

Read what these people say — You too can expect wonderful results like these. In just a few days a years-old condition may be corrected!

NEW!

Concentrated Serutan In Powder Form

FASTER ACTING — fine new powder jells quicker — is ready to go to work faster — so-o-o gently.

WONDERFULLY EFFECTIVE — higher concentration of hydrogel assures better results in more sluggish constipation. Yet it acts so differently from salts, oils, pills.

PLEASANT TASTING — refreshing flavor gives Serutan a clean, inviting taste — so easy to take.

LAWN BOWLING

One of the biggest scores for a schedule game was handed in last night. It was the Northrop-Callan affair—34-21 for Northrop, a total of 55 shots in an 18-end game, or an average of three shots per end. We believe that to be a record.

Those were good cigars. Bill Jones passed around Tuesday evening—it's a girl.

Some of the games in the local provincial playoff will take place this coming Saturday evening. Half-holiday comes again and open tournaments are the order of the day.

Top Golf Stars Pray For Rain, Course Tough

By FRITZ HOWELL

OAKMONT, Pa., June 27 (AP) — America's top-drawer golf stars prayed for rain today as they dashed into the first half of the 36-hole qualifier for the 33rd PGA championship. Showers were forecast.

Lew Worsham, former national open champion and host pro, said the 6,367-yard Oakmont Country Club layout with its lightning-fast greens plays "several strokes easier" when it's soaking wet.

The 140 entrants had their last free swing around the up-hill, down-dale 72-par plant Tuesday. Most of them failed to find all the answers to questions the course will ask through match play ending next Tuesday.

The greens, trimmed closer than a crew haircut, caused the hot-shots plenty of trouble.

Tough Going

"When those greens are dry, it's like putting down a 15-step staircase, and trying to stop the ball on the eighth step," said former open champion Lloyd Mangrum, from Niles, Ill.

Mangrum was the hottest favorite in the field, defending champion Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., being given little consideration.

The title-holder said he has been playing poorly since a mid-winter pneumonia attack. Just now he has a stomach ailment — and he said he might give up competitive golf unless he does well here.

Veteran Gene Sarazen, who won the PGA the last time it was played at Oakmont in 1922, estimated that 158 strokes, 14 over par, will get into the championship match play bracket of 64 — but Worsham set the figure at 152.

"This is the toughest golf course in the country," Sarazen said, and no one is going to take it apart."

Cobourg Team Bows To Port Hope 6-1

COBourg, June 27. — Two consecutive singles in the sixth inning spoiled Mike Harrison's bid for a no-hitter in a Lakeshore Juvenile Baseball League game here as Port Hope won, 6-1, over Cobourg.

Harrison allowed one run and that on no interference ruling by Umpire Bob Cane in the fourth frame. He fanned 10. The two sixth-inning hits were collected by Sleep Dawe and Jumbo Poley.

Cobourg used four hurlers, Roly Campbell, Frank McIvor, Len Morris and Sleep Dawe.

The game was called because of darkness after six innings.

Get $2,800 Pledges Toward Ball Team

UTICA, N. Y., June 27 (AP) — Sportsmen trying to raise $10,000 to finance a baseball team report pledges of $2,800.

They set Saturday noon as a deadline on a decision.

Charles Daly, chairman of a meeting Tuesday night, said officials of the Rome team in the Canadian - American League would allow Utica to put an entry in Can-Am but not the Border League.

Under baseball regulations, a team may keep out competition within a radius of 10 miles. Rome and Utica are 9.6 miles apart.

Two teams in the Border League folded last night—Geneva and Cornwall. The other four teams are talking merger with Can-Am.

BREAKING IT UP — The heads-up and swift White Sox make it difficult for the opposition to complete double plays. Jerry Coleman's throw to Joe Collins at Yankee Stadium was too late to nip Floyd Baker when the second baseman was upset by Phil Masi, after the pinch-hitter grounded to Phil Rizzuto.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A guy gets tired of writing "weather permitting" every time he mentions a game coming up. But if he doesn't, it's sure to rain pups and pussies as game time approaches. So, we'll say there's a senior ball game tonight at 8:30 in Riverside, if the weather permits: A Viaduct Major League fixture between Toronto Croftons and the loop-leading Petes. The way the Whitehill squad has been going for the past month, the team rates lots of fan support. They're dishing up a lot of good, winning baseball and deservedly sit alone on the top rung at present by a couple of games. They play Kingsways tomorrow in Toronto and have a twin bill here Monday. Tonight's tilt was moved up from Friday so as not to conflict with a lacrosse match.

After that 6-3 game Saturday in Oshawa, Scribe Campbell (after warning all that Oshawa was on the road back) wondered aloud if the Merchants can beat Daddon. He says, "It didn't look like it here Saturday. He didn't issue a walk, fanned five and seemed always to be on top of each batter. Has fair speed, a dinky curve and a nice down-slender, but his success lies in the fact that he seldom gives a batter one where he likes it. In Dick Golden, the Petes have a shortstop who has just as good an arm if not better than Danny Brown flashed for them last term." Since then, Edger also beat the power-packed Motor Citizens.

Gallant 100F-ers Return

Glad to hear that the Oddfellows intend to carry on with an OHA junior "B" club, and a juvenile PMHA team, this coming puck season. They lost all their hockey equipment in the fire, about $1,300 worth in replacement value, but they're gallantly going ahead to raise money to replace it with brand new stuff. Elmer Pearse is president of the Junior puck club this year. With Herb Youngs the Vice-prexy; Glen Edwards, secretary; Bob McCusag, treasurer, and Len Symonds, manager. All but Youngs served in these offices last winter. There'll also be a working executive of six from the 100F. The club may work with Boston Bruins again, but that'll be decided later. They don't lose many 1950 players.

Pro wrestling has vanished from the local scene till next fall, but we note where the moneyed matmen are toiling in other centres. Big Hi Lee gets quite a writeup in the Sudbury paper on his first appearance. They were amazed at the size of the huge villain, who showed here so often. He is six-foot-eight and goes somewhere around 275 pounds. If we recall rightly, Shaggy-maned, he has a rumbling tone, a mean look and an assortment of illegal ring tactics. The tall Texan at one time was a glass and fire eater in a carnival, has busted broncos in rodeos, labored in South Africa, modelled for medical students, and finally settled for wrestling. Had his nose broken 23 times, among other injuries. Hopes to save up enough dough to retire and run a dude ranch.

School Champs Declared

School will be out in another day or two for the summer months, and the Public School Softball League wound up its playoffs this week. Central captured the senior boys' championship, King George were intermediate victors, and Prince of Wales took the junior title. Our congrats to them. Sportsmanship awards, voted by the various teacher-umpires, on the basis of two points a game on the season's play, went to Central seniors, Central intermediates, and a junior tie between Prince of Wales and Central. We are informed by C. Crown, secretary of the boys' athletic association. A fine showing by the Central lads. Thus endeth a good school semester.

Over Bowld last gloaming, Revoy's had to go 10 innings to defeat Orphans 17-14 in the men's loop, while UEW slugged out a 24-7 win over Lakefield. Allen relieved Dalton of UE in the fourth, the tilt being called after eight heats for rain. Heffernan and Garbutt saw slab service for the losers. Blewett and Cam Wasson hitting best for 'em. Thompson and Robson were solid at the plate for the victors. Blair Thomson smacked out six for seven to top Revoy's who have won seven of nine games so far. Crowe and Legrow were also potent up there, while Jaquith and Scriver were best for the O's. Woods gave way to Wade in the sixth for the losers, as Don Bigford went the distance for the winners. Games tomorrow: Revoy's vs. UEW, and Orphans vs. Lakefield.

Dese, Dem And Dose

Owing to the death of G. T. Downer, grandfather of many O'Halloran soccer players, the game tonight has been set over till three Saturday in King Edward Park, UEW vs. O'Halloran's. Don Woods of this city placed third in the junior men's 100-yard free-style event at the Ontario swim championships yesterday in Toronto. Two PMLA juvenile jousts at Miller Bowl tonight starting at 6:30, and a bantam tilt tomorrow. Senior Petes are off tonight for Mimico and tackle Toronto West Yorks here Friday. Junior OLA-ers are in Toronto this 'en and at home Saturday. A ball sweep at Peterborough Golf Club this week-end, while first rounds in the McRae and Glover Cups must be completed at Kawartha by July 1. Girls' Bowl games tonight: Westclox vs. Marines, Cobourg vs. Ashby's. Bell beat Busmen 11-7 in the civic; Police play Grant & Loucks tonight. Mutuals won from McGinness in football; Mt. Pleasant tackles Rays at Quaker tonight when the draw is made. St. Alphonsus and Immac. Conception have a Catholic League encounter tonight. North and west bantams go in Riverside at 6:30 p.m. this eve in the PMBA. R. Brady advises that Belleville and Anthony's pee-wees go at three p.m. Monday in the Bowl, a share going to the fire fund. Mike Harrison (Hep's son) pitched a two-hitter as Port Hope beat Cobourg 6-1. End of the line.

Revoy's Defeat Orphans In 10th Inning

Revoy's won their seventh game against two defeats at the Bowl last night as they set back Orphans 17-14 in 10 innings. A three-run rally in the 10th proved decisive for the Guilfoyle pack after Orphans had tied the ball game in the bottom of the ninth with a four-run rally. Three men died aboard as Orfs just failed to notch the payoff tally and Darky Bigford gained another victory, though a weird one at that.

Terry Woods started for the Dorman boys but gave way to Wade in the sixth when Revoy's took the lead for the first time. Orphans fought back and made it a nip-and-tuck struggle to the finish. Don Bigford went the distance to win number four.

Blair Thomson proved the big-sticker last night with six solid blows in seven trips to the plate, one a triple, to drive home six runs. Crowe hammered in three and scored as many; Legrow batted in two and scored three, as this trio looked strongest offensively. Crowe also fielded in grand style.

For Orphans, Jaquith and Scriver tripled and each smacked home a brace of tallies and each scored a pair.

Revoy's: Giardino, cf; Spencer, 3b; Legrow, lf; Crowe, 2b; Thomson, c; Wyatt, ss; Fryla, rf; Conlin, 1b; Bigford, p.

Orphans: Curry, 2b; Jaquith, c, 3b; Sullivan, ss; Scriver, cf; Wade, 3b, p; Turner, lf; O'Donoghue, 1b, c; Woods, p, 1b; McGrath, rf.

Eight Teams Anxious To Form OHA Series

KITCHENER, June 27 (CP) — Senior clubs of the Ontario Hockey Association will meet July 9 in Toronto to plan senior operations for next season.

Tight teams have expressed a desire to form an OHA Senior A series. The Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen said they would be willing to turn over players to the new Stratford entry—possibly the entire forward line of Roth, Flanagan and Flick—the top scoring trio in the major circuit last year.

A former Senior A series was discontinued last season in place of a major series.

Frank Stukus To Manage Team

LINDSAY, June 27. — Frank Stukus, former Toronto football star, has been named manager of the Tri-County Baseball League All-Stars who will meet the 1950 champion Stouffville Red Sox at Lindsay Friday.

Stukus, owner of a summer resort in Fenelon Falls, was one of the two stars chosen from the Cataract village team, runner-up last year. Fenelon's other nominee is the 41-year-old southpaw curve ball artist, Mel Junkin, who played with Waterloo Tigers in the intercounty. Another all-star and Waterloo graduate is Lloyd Tamblin, who has been chosen along with brother Carl to represent Cambray Cardinals.

Three young Lindsay Walkwoods players have been selected for the eastern section team: Hank Debois, Bob Lewis and Arn Karrys. Karrys is at present with Yonge-Eglinton Motors of the North Toronto Junior Baseball League. Right-hander Percy Nichols of Bobcaygeon Red Sox rounds out the squad.

Games' History

The Toronto Highland Games were inaugurated in 1950. With the Toronto Scottish and the 48th Highlanders regiments as a nucleus, it was decided that the Games be dedicated to "establishing and retaining true Scottish traditions and culture in the City of Toronto," and no less than 17 Scottish societies stepped in to boost the event.

This year, under the chairmanship of Dr. Iain MacKay, the annual event got under way with a military tattoo on Friday evening (June 15) when 21 bands took part, with trumpets, bagpipes and drums rolling out a thundering echo of Scottish pageantry before 10,000 spectators in the gigantic CNE grandstand.

On Saturday afternoon the Games were officially opened by Major-General Howard Graham, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D., and the fun began. Mr. John Cobb of the Toronto Police Athletic Association supervised the sporting events which were run simultaneously like a massive five-ring circus. The quarter-mile track fronting the grandstand seemed constantly alive as race followed race. The sixty and hundred-yard dash races for the girls, the one-mile relay and the one-mile grind for men were some of the events we caught. Over in the centre plot the high jump was hotly contested and still further the pole vault and the shot were played to a winner.

If our memory serves, the winners in the above events were: Gwen Hobbs, 60 yards; Tiny O'Halloran, 100 yards; Messrs. Wallace, Harding, Cassin and Wilson, mile relay; Selwyn Jones, the mile; Paul Pace, the five-mile; Terry Anderson, high jump; Eddie Bretta, pole vault; and Stan Raikes, the 16-pound shot put.

Caber Tossing

Of all the events we witnessed at the Highland Games, however, the most uniquely Scottish sport was tossing the caber. To us, the caber itself was a man-sized chunk of telephone pole weighing 150 pounds. But when Bill Rutherford tossed it up and over for its required spin in the air (throwing a total of 40 feet, 9 inches from the chalk line, to win the Corby Trophy) we decided then and there that if Rutherford wished to call it a caber, he'd get no argument from us. Caber tossing is quite a caper and we were satisfied to stand well back.

The two Scottish regiments met in their yearly tug-of-war for the O'Keefe's Trophy and this time the Toronto Scottish pulled the defending 48th Highlanders off their feet.

Hamilton Games

Remember the dates (Friday and Saturday June 29 and 30th) when the Annual Hamilton Scottish Gathering takes place at the Civic Stadium, held by the Scottish Societies and Clans of Hamilton district and the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada. This 5th Hamilton gathering is being presented under the distinguished patronage of their Excellencies the Governor General and the Viscountess Alexander and includes, of course, a military tattoo with massed pipe and brass bands, Highland dancing competitions, and track and field events.

Hoot mon! When they drag out those telephone poles—run for cover!

Bisons Whip Rochester In 6-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

Rudy Minarcin, 21-year-old righthander of Buffalo Bisons, is a hot candidate for International League rookie-of-the-year honors.

Minarcin, one-time Philadelphia Phillies' bonus boy, blanked the opposition his last two times out and owns a five-game winning streak.

The lanky rookie, now owned by Cincinnati Reds, turned back Rochester Red Wings, 6-0, Tuesday night on three hits. The triumph was his eighth.

Buffalo supported Minarcin's classy pitching with a nine-hit attack that included home runs by Archie Wilson, Fred Hancock and Bob Wellman. Wilson's clout was his 15th, top output in the circuit.

Meanwhile, the league-leading Montreal Royals edged Springfield Cubs 5-4 in 12 innings. Jim

Film Business Far From Dead Bob Hope Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 27 (AP)—When Bob Hope returned home from his extensive tour of the United Kingdom and Europe last week, one of his children, a budding comedian, leaned out the window and said:

"Hey, Mom, who's that strange man?"

There was more truth than humor in the youngster's remark. Hope does so much traveling that his family might have trouble remembering what he looks like.

Hope will be off again shortly on a vacation but he is taking his wife and two oldest children with him. The destination is still undecided. They may either go to Banff or Jasper Park in Alberta, or Hawaii, with Hawaii most likely.

I talked with old scoop-snoot as he paused before a round of golf. In one of his rare moments of relaxation, he said his traveling proved valuable.

"I really get a perspective on the movie business," he reported. "In the last three months, I have talked to about 500 theatre men and film distributors in all parts of the US and Europe. I found out from them that the movie business is far from being dead."

The Movie Habit

"The habit of going to the movies is still too ingrained with the public. Of course, television might be able to get people out of the habit but I think the movies are holding their own."

"But Hollywood has to have a new attitude. We've got to go back to the old circus tactics and raise a lot of hoopla. We've got to create exciting attractions. Every picture has to be a special. The 'program picture' is dead."

British Welcome

The comedian was still enthusiastic about his reception in Britain, where he made appearances with the proceeds for charity.

"The English are the greatest audience in the world," he said. "They don't just sit there and wait to be entertained. When they come into the theatre, they're your friends from the start. It's just like entertaining in somebody's living room."

Loyalty Tampering Punished Under Code

OTTAWA, June 27 — (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said Monday night that under a new section of the Criminal Code anyone will be guilty of an offence who wilfully attempts to interfere with the loyalty of the RCMP or members of the forces.

A person would not be guilty under the section if by his statements or actions he unwittingly caused a lessening of the loyalty of members of the forces.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asked if External Affairs Minister Pearson would be guilty if as a result of his statements he caused a lessening of loyalty among the forces.

Mr. Garson said he would not be guilty because he did not make the statement wilfully to lessen the loyalty of the forces.

Olson learned to fit himself into the files of infantrymen and during one operation last March, with a company under Maj. Jack George of Edmonton who now is back in Canada instructing at Wainwright, Alta., he was at times ahead of the climbing infantry.

Armed only with his cameras and a flashing smile, the tall, brown-haired sergeant has taken pictures that have made Canada's Korean forces known throughout the world.

Quiet-spoken Olson keeps a unique collection—not of his published pictures, which would fill a library shelf—but of pictures he's come across for which others have got credit.

Not Worth It

He never makes a fuss. "It's not worth it," he says, "just so long as they keep on getting published."

Sheer satisfaction in the job keeps him going, often 24 hours a day.

He's had to hitch his own 6 a.m. lifts to the front. He's spent whole days until the last good moment of daylight taking his pictures in his tent. He's worked until midnight and later, transcribing his notes, packing his film for shipment to Tokyo—and often faster than not, even processing it himself first.

The operation over he flies to Kure to follow up the casualties, report photographically on their progress, perhaps slip over to Tokyo and do pictures of Canadians on leave there, and then, back to Korea.

Olson was working in Ottawa with the National Film Board when the Korean force was raised last summer.

Around the Patricia's, where he's a familiar sight to everyone as the CO, he must have exposed thousands of negatives. They're all good.

Canadian Army Sergeant Whizz At Getting Pictures

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 27. — (CP) — The battle had just been joined on the mountain-top ahead when the lieutenant at the CO's command post said:

"There's Sgt. Olson. He shouldn't be up this far, should he sir?"

Maj. Pat Tighe of Victoria, then commanding the Princess Patricia's, didn't bother putting down the binoculars through which he was following the fight.

"How else do you think he's going to get his pictures?" he asked.

Tighe thus gave his passport to battle to Sgt. Bill Olson of Vancouver, official Canadian Army photographer assigned to the Patricia's. During the earlier campaigning Olson had to "smuggle" himself into the line to get his job done.

It had taken the Canadians a long while to realize that reporting, and especially photo reporting, can't be done anywhere except on the spot.

Lots of Training

Olson, a 29-year-old native of North Battleford, Sask., and veteran of service with the Royal Canadian Navy during the Second World War, had shared the battalion's life since leaving Fort Lewis, Wash. last November. He'd climbed the hills around Miryang with them during their six-weeks' preparation for the front. He could stick it out with the best of them.

And yet with other correspondents and photographers he had to fret behind at the rear command post, a good mile from where the pictures were.

"You can go up when it's safe," was the word—as though anywhere is "safe" in a theatre of war, and as though the job would wait till later.

Olson learned to fit himself into the files of infantrymen and during one operation last March, with a company under Maj. Jack George of Edmonton who now is back in Canada instructing at Wainwright, Alta., he was at times ahead of the climbing infantry.

Armed only with his cameras and a flashing smile, the tall, brown-haired sergeant has taken pictures that have made Canada's Korean forces known throughout the world.

Another New B-A Refinery goes "on stream" to bring more "TOP RATED" 88 & 98 gasoline

Edmonton is the latest city to see a new B-A refinery go "on stream." The huge new catalytic cracking and catalytic polymerization units now are working at full capacity to produce B-A 88 and 98 gasolines. Today these two great Canadian gasolines are refined and processed from Alberta's rich "on the spot" crude oils.

With this newest development in its all-over expansion program now in operation, B-A can promise a more plentiful supply of economical and peak performance gasolines. Good news indeed for Canada's motorists, for thousands of Canadians do rate B-A gasolines as "tops" in economy and performance. B-A 88 is gasoline economy with power excellence and B-A 98 is gasoline performance at its very peak.

Drive into a B-A service station for a new experience in gasoline economy and performance. Fill up with B-A 88 or 98 gasoline and you soon will learn why B-A is boosting and building for these two top-rated Canadian gasolines.

The Capitol theatre that re-opens Thursday afternoon will look completely new to its patrons.

PRESIDENT J. J. FITZGIBBON of Famous Players Canadian Corporation will be in Peterborough Thursday to attend the re-opening of the Capitol theatre.

JACK ARTHUR, district manager of Famous Players Canadian Corporation will be in Peterborough Thursday following the $85,000 renovation of the building which has been carried out during the past month.

Retail Picture Has Many Favorable Signs

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

Some favorable factors in business prospects were reviewed recently by R. F. Chisholm, a director of the Canadian Retail Federation.

Mr. Chisholm, who is vice-president and general sales manager of Gordon Mackay and Co., Ltd., Toronto with wide retail interests, listed some of them as follows:

"The defence spending program is definitely going ahead and will be reflected in business conditions to a greater extent in the fall.

"Production in most fields is at an all-time high. There is no serious shortage of soft goods or foods, and even in hard goods we are unlikely to be badly restricted in our sales for some time. Most goods will still be plentiful in the fall.

"The Canadian economy is unlikely to be hampered by price and wage controls; and the alternative devices to fight inflation appear preferable in every way.

Further Inflation

"There is likely to be a further degree of inflation which, however, will probably be reasonably controlled, provided that inflation is not too severe in the United States and United Kingdom.

"The highway building program, though costly, is expected to produce employment, mobility, tourists, and general business activity.

"The credit restrictions will be tough, but actually favor the sound independent retailer.

"Our various measures, such as bonuses, are of help to the moderate and low-income groups on which we depend for retail business."

Further comment is contained in the current analysis of business conditions by the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Ltd., which says:

"The consumer goods inventory situation in the United States in certain lines at least would appear to be giving grounds for some concern, as evidenced by the sales now taking place."

"To what extent similar conditions exist in Canada is a question, but inventories of those durable goods which have been most affected by higher excise taxes and credit control are in many cases, and temporarily at least, in excess of immediate requirements. The automotive industry appears to be the one most adversely affected."

FIRST PIPELINE

The first pipeline to carry natural gas in the United States was built in 1872.

Oven Explosion

GUELPH, June 27.—(CP)—An oven explosion Tuesday night rocked the Leland Electric Company plant and sent workman William Glazie, 26, to hospital with severe head cuts and shock. Glazier's condition later was described as fair. Cause of the explosion was not determined. The oven was used in baking insulation on armatures and stators of electric motors. An official said the plant would be out of operation for at least 24 hours.

Water Pressure Up Fire Chief Reports

Improvement in the water pressure in the vicinity of Hunter St. and Armour Rd. was reported in a summary of recent tests by Fire Chief Smith to the board of works Monday.

Mayor Swanston said he had consulted R. L. Dobbin, Utilities manager, about the results of the test, and was informed that the Commission planned further main extension in that part of Ashburnham to increase the water pressure, particularly for fire protection.

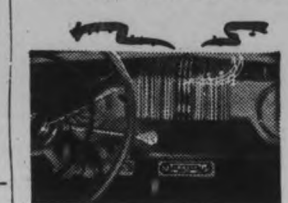

Two lines of 2½-inch hose were laid 100 feet each, from the hydrant on Hunter St. 375 feet east of Armour Road. Nozzle tip was one inch; hydrant pressure 44 lbs. to the square inch; pump pressure 140 lbs.; nozzle pressure 106 lbs.; volume of flow 255 gallons per minute off each line or 510 gallons. Second test, from the hydrant at the northwest corner of Hunter St. and Armour Road; two lines, each 2½-inch hose, 100 ft. long; one inch nozzle tip; hydrant pressure 52 lbs.; pump pressure 150 lbs.; nozzle pressure 124 lbs.; volume 275 GPM off each line; total 550 gallons.

Third test: both pumpers working from their respective hydrants with same hose layout, and operating at the same time. Pump pressure 80 lbs.; nozzle pressure 68 lbs.; flow 203 GPM off each line, or 812 gallons. This is a gain of four pounds pressure from the hydrant on

British Columbia Becomes Modern Boom Country

By DAVE McINTOSH

VANCOUVER, June 27 — (CP) — B.C. stands for more than British Columbia. Today, it means boom country.

Along the far-north coast where the coast range tumbles the rivers steeply into fjord and sea, on Vancouver Island's timber-clothed slopes, in the deep interior where the Rockies tower above the ugly smelters, in the Okanagan where the hot sun is ripening the fruit, along the banks of the swift Fraser, plunging like a sword through the Cariboo rangeland, in the quiet, green pastures of the lower Fraser Valley, men are dreaming of a new empire.

Since the war, it has struck British Columbians, like a bolt of lightning, that they have within their borders the stuff for a mighty industrial upheaval.

Provided, as author Bruce Hutchison told university of British Columbia graduates recently, they do not desecrate the land. Must Preserve Land

"We ask you," he said, "to preserve this land—to preserve it from the ravenous prodigality and pillage which already has gutted a large part of the American continent, consumed its forests, fouled its waters and swept its precious cargo of life-stuff, the top soil, down to the sea."

In this sentence, he was probing at the very core of this province's well-being—the vast stands of timber which cloak her mountains and valleys.

Cut down the forests and the earth dries up and blows away. The rivers become puny dribbles. The fish die, the pastures erode and brown replaces green as the dominant color of the land.

For it is upon her rivers that the future greatness of British Columbia, still an infant, will depend. They will supply the power to feed young and growing industry.

Just 102 years ago, B.C. was made a crown colony. It was less than 50 years since Simon Fraser had made his fantastic and courageous voyage down the river which now bears his name.

Population Up 43 Per Cent

In 1881, there were only 49,459 persons in B.C., 25,000 of them Indians. By 1940, there were 805,000. In the last 10 years, the population has increased by nearly 43 per cent to its present 1,150,000.

In 1940, the gross value of manufacture was $311,000,000. Today, it is around $1,100,000,000, an increase in 10 years of 214 per cent.

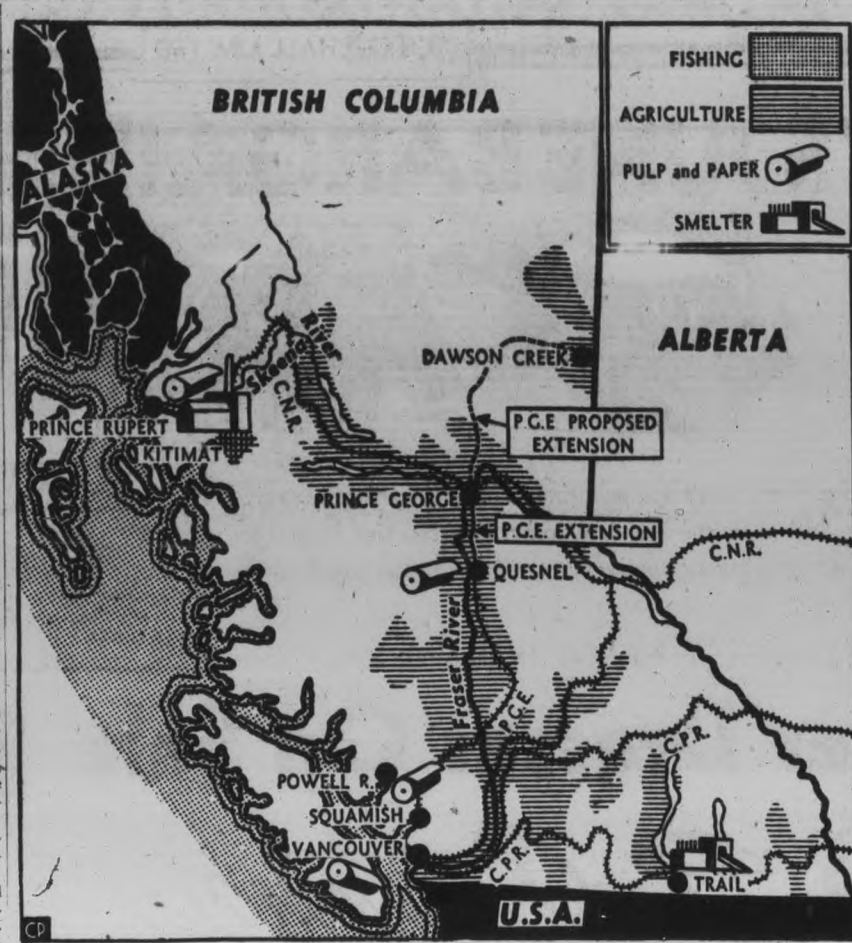

Production in the four basic industries—forestry, mining, agriculture and fishing—showed an increase last year of some $40,000,000 over the previous year. Forestry topped $400,000,000, mining $135,000,000, agriculture $131,000,000 and fishing $68,000,000.

Bank clearings were nearly $1,000,000,000 greater than ever before.

British Columbia's industrial empire-builders are only beginning to realize the fabulous potentialities that lie within the province's 366,255 square miles of river, forest and valley between Ceepeece on the west and the Spillinscheen on the east and from the Pend D'Oreille on the south to the Liard on the north.

And man has hardly yet looked at that half of the province north from the Skeena to the 60th parallel of latitude.

When he does, what may not be done in British Columbia, if he does not pillage the land?

B. C. GROWS UP — A trapper's and prospector's paradise at the turn of the century, British Columbia has become a vast industrial empire which seems only now to be striking its real growth. This map shows the rich fishing grounds of the Pacific Coast, the rich agricultural lands up through the interior, the industrial empire around Trail, in the southeast, and the expanding forest industries, particularly pulp and paper. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway is being extended north to Prince George and south to Vancouver to provide an artery for the interior. A $35,000,000 cellulose plant was opened recently at Prince Rupert and a $500,000,000 aluminum project is being put under way in the Kitimat area, east of Prince Rupert.

Toronto Musician Noted Harpist, Builds Them Too

TORONTO — (CP) — John Duncan, 47-year-old Toronto harpist, is one step up on angels who play the instrument while drifting through space on cushioning clouds.

He not only plays harps—he makes them.

The round-faced Englishman has made 45 in the last quarter-century and has done repairs on almost every harp in Canada since he came here in 1927.

Making a harp single-handed is no simple task, Mr. Duncan says. He spends anywhere from 12 to 18 months on each instrument, working largely in his spare time. He does all the work himself—everything from wood seasoning to lacquering and stringing.

Making harps is mostly a hobby with Mr. Duncan. He doesn't intend to become a big-time builder. But he has more than $5,000 worth of delicate machinery needed in their manufacture. Dozens of glass jars in his workshop hold minute parts used in the construction of a harp.

Mr. Duncan's interest in the instrument dates back to the age of 10 when his parents took him to see a symphony program in Derby, England. He has been fascinated by the harp ever since.

With Different Bands

He needed no encouragement to practise and eventually graduated with honors from the Royal College of Music. After coming to Canada, he played with various pit bands and Reginald Stewart's Maple Leaf Symphony and later took a teaching post at the Toronto Conservatory.

Now, when he isn't building harps, he can be heard with Howard Cable's orchestra and on such programs as Ford Theatre and Stage 51. He recently built a harp for the daughter of Lucia Agostini, musical director of the stage series.

The harp is a delicate instrument and all kinds of delicate fittings are used before the 5,000-odd parts are assembled. Although all sorts of calamities can befall them, they are a rather remote danger.

"Can you imagine any one trying to sneak out of the CBC studios with a harp?" Mr. Duncan asks.

Wind Destroys Newly-Built Barn

LINDSAY, June 27 — Windstorm destroyed a newly completed barn on the farm of James Jewell, Rm Woodville, Sunday night.

The new barn was being built to replace Mr. Jewell's barn that had been destroyed by fire September 12, 1950. At that time the building and contents—equipment and crops—were a complete loss estimated at $14,000.

Sunday night's loss was also not covered by insurance. Sunday's windstorm also ripped a large chunk from the roof of the barn on the neighboring farm belonging to John Imrie. The remainder of the building was so damaged that it may have to be torn down.

A barn on the farm of John Jones, Argyle, was also levelled by this windstorm.

Three barns were razed by winds in the Riverview section of Thorah township during the past week. They belonged to George Ross, Sam Ore and Mr. Colborne.

Front-Line Officers Paid Less Than In US

OTTAWA, June 27 — (CP) — A Canadian brigadier serving in Washington gets twice as much money as one serving in Korea because of special allowances, the Commons public accounts committee was told Tuesday. The same would go for any other officer.

W. A. Robinson (L-Simcoe East) obtained that information from C. M. Drury, deputy defence minister and a wartime brigadier himself. The explanation, said Mr. Drury, is that special living and rental allowances are given to officers stationed in Washington because of high living costs.

Re-Elected President

WINNIPEG, June 27 — (CP) — Joseph Scott, of Ninette, Man., Tuesday was re-elected president of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists. Gordon Traill, of Pembroke, was elected first vice-president. Helen Smith of Hamilton was re-elected secretary, and Elizabeth Robertson, also of Hamilton, was returned as treasurer.

Oxygen Saves Life

OWEN SOUND, June 27 (CP) — Oxygen pumped from a tank kept life in a hospital patient for more than six hours Tuesday while doctors and nurses waited for delivery of an iron lung from Toronto. Duncan Robinson, 56, of Mar, 12 miles north of Warton, was operated on for ruptured ulcers. Attending surgeons said his blood pressure and pulse were good but he could not breathe. Artificial respiration had to be kept up after completion of the operation until the iron lung arrived.

Power Demands Jump Sharply

TORONTO, June 27 — (CP) — Primary power demands jumped sharply last month following a normal seasonal decline, the Ontario Hydro Commission reported Tuesday.

In the Thunder Bay system, peak demand recorded during a 20-minute period reached 189,776 kilowatts—an increase of 3.9 per cent over the previous record.

Peak demand in Southern Ontario was only 2.4 per cent under the monthly record. In Northern Ontario it was 15.5 per cent more than in May, 1950.

The commission said power production in the Thunder Bay and Southern Ontario systems had reached new heights during the month.

Decision Reserved On Train Service

CORNWALL, June 27 — (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners Tuesday reserved decision on the application of New York Central Railway to discontinue passenger service between Helena, N.Y., and Ottawa.

Hugh Wardrope, assistant chief commissioner and chairman of the two-day hearing, said some of the evidence required further study. Cuthbert Scott, railway counsel, said the railway suffered a financial loss of $31,380 in 1950.

Pilots Continue Strike

CHICAGO, June 27 — (AP) — Striking United Air Lines pilots Tuesday night decided to continue their strike and rejected a company proposal to halt the eight-day walkout. A spokesman for the AFL Air Line Pilots' Association said pilots turned down a United Air Lines proposal to restore service at midnight Tuesday. The union is seeking a shorter work week.

Peter Cheyney Dies

LONDON, June 27 (Reuters) — Peter Cheyney, author of crime novels, died Tuesday after a long illness. Cheyney, 55, was one of the century's most prolific novelists. In 14 years it was estimated he earned almost $1,000,000. His gold mine was in producing tough crime novels, nearly all of which had their biggest sales outside Britain.

Allowed In Plan

TORONTO, June 27 — (CP) — Municipalities of 5,000 population will be allowed to participate in the recently-announced Ontario rental housing plan, Premier Frost said Tuesday. The plan, in which federal, provincial and municipal governments contribute to the cost of building one house for each 500 population applied previously to municipalities of 20,000 population, or greater. To date, 10 municipalities have indicated that they intend to participate in the scheme.

Wants Ottawa Pay Full Taxes

OTTAWA, June 27 — (CP) — Senator John T. Haig, opposition leader, said Tuesday in the Senate that municipalities should be paid full taxes on federal and provincial property within their boundaries, even if it means a constitutional change.

He spoke during consideration of legislation under which the federal government will pay 75 per cent of the taxes on federal property above four per cent of municipal assessment.

Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario), sponsoring the bill, described it as more equitably distributing the burden of taxation.

In reply to a question by Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario) Senator Haig said it necessary he would change the British North Act to allow municipalities to pay full taxes on federal property.

Storm Drains To Cost City $39,249

Property Owners To Pay $7,479 As Their Share

Cost estimates of storm drains on Monaghan Road, from Edison Ave. to the river, and in the Maria-Rogers Streets area of Ashburnham, were submitted to the board of works Monday night by City Engineer Chalmers.

The Monaghan Road drain, south from the CNR, is estimated at $39,249.63 of which the city would assume $31,770.59.

Mr. Chalmers proposed that the corporation bear two-thirds of the main drain, cost of which is placed at $26,749.63, plus $12,500 for catch basins and connecting drains amounting to $39,249.63. City's share is estimated at $17,833.09 for the main drain, plus $12,500 for catch basins, and $1,437.50 flange and intersections. Annual levy on the city would be $2,857.48 for 15 years.

Cost to frontage property would be $1.09 a foot, and spread over 15 years, would be 9 83/100 cents per foot annually.

Mr. Chalmers plans to use the outlet of the old sewage disposal unit into Little Lake for the Ashburnham job.

East City

Total estimate of that work is $8,606.75, of which the city would pay $2,642.70, or 40 per cent of the cost of the main drain, plus $2,000 for catch basins and connecting drains, and $294.33 for flange and intersections. Annual cost to the corporation would be $444.04 for 15 years. Cost to property annually for that time is only a matter of cents per foot.

That drainage system would include Maria St. from the easterly limit of Rogers St. and on Rogers St. from Maria St. to James St.

A motion by Mayor Swanston and Ald. Young proposed that these projects be advertised.

City Engineer Chalmers has still some work to be done on the drainage systems between Lock and Park Sts., south of McGill St. Freshet level of the river halted operation this spring, and in the meantime, the streets department decided to put in odds and ends of sewers around the city, for which citizens had petitioned.

These jobs also had been approved by the council.

The drainage plans are to extend the system the city has already laid extensively to carry off surface water.

Council To Inspect City Hall Progress

Tribunes of the people are going to look at the progress of their handiwork at the new city hall Thursday at 2 p.m.

Mayor Swanston and the members of the council will be the first corporate group to visit the municipal offices which will probably be ready for occupation before the end of the year.

"The architects are expected and we are inviting representatives of the Board of Education, Separate School Board, Police Commission, Board of Health, provincial laboratory, those who are going to share in the occupation of the building," Mayor Swanston said.

Found Guilty Of Carelessness Woman Fined

Mrs. Verna Fletcher, Baileboro, was found guilty Tuesday afternoon in police court of careless driving and fined $10, with costs amounting to $10.50.

The charge arose out of an accident on Highway 28, about 300 feet south of Scott's Corners, on May 17. No one was hurt.

Tony DeCarlo, 639 Reid St., driver of the other car involved, said that just after he passed Scott's Corners going south he saw a car coming north, passing a truck at the top of the Springville hill.

"I saw her coming and didn't think she'd get by. I crowded to the right with my foot easing on the brake. To avoid going into the deep ditch, I pulled out again and the rear end swung around."

DeCarlo said that then Mrs. Fletcher's car hit his front right wheel.

Could Have Stopped

During the cross-examination T. J. Carley, K.C., defence for Mrs. Fletcher, suggested that DeCarlo could have taken his foot off the gas when he first saw the Fletcher car and in that way slow his car to a stop. Mrs. Fletcher could have then passed by.

Mr. Carley then presented photographs of the cars' skid marks, causing heated arguments between the crown and himself whether they would be accepted. Acting Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., said that they couldn't be used without his consent, and first he wanted proof that they were taken at the accident.

Mr. Carley then had Gordon Stillwell, Peterborough insurance adjuster, called.

OPP Constable Russell Pollard was next called by the crown and presented measurements taken at the accident.

Said Too Fast

A Mrs. Fisher, also of Baileboro, a passenger in the Fletcher car, when called by the defence said that she couldn't see why there would be any contact if the other car (DeCarlo's) "had been coming at a reasonable rate of speed."

Mrs. Fletcher said that she saw the DeCarlo car "at the white house at the corner" and then pulled out to pass a truck.

"The next thing I knew it was right in front of me."

During his summary Mr. Carley stated he did not see why the provincial constable (Pollard) did "not see fit to charge both" because "on DeCarlo's own evidence a complete lack of care is indicated."

Sentenced On Bootlegging Woman Appeals 2 Months

PORT HOPE, June 27.—Mrs. Mabel Hart will appeal to the Attorney-General for leniency on a two-month jail sentence. Mrs. Hart was sentenced to two months in county jail in police court Monday on a bootlegging charge. She was convicted after Chief Graham testified that 111 pints of beer had been found at her home after a police raid last month.

Three traffic charges were laid against Myrie Ross Scott, 29, but were adjourned until July 6. They were: driving while intoxicated, driving while his license was under suspension, and driving without a chauffeur's or operator's license.

Boy, 6, Hit By Car Suffers Brush Burns

Wayne McIntyre, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. McIntyre, 243 Westcott St., suffered brush burns when hit by a car Tuesday on Westcott St. The boy ran from behind a parked car and was struck by a car driven by Michael Drumm, 19, of 220 Westcott St.

The boy was taken to Dr. Donald Clarke's office at the medical centre.

Police Constables J. P. Gillis and Wilfred Perry investigated. In a second accident, a car driven by Boyd Kelly, Peterborough St., Norwood, collided with the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Rylott, 504 Patterson St. The accident occurred at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. Slight damage was done to the Kelly car.

Acting Sergeant Gordon Trennum investigated.

Port Hope Police Get Pay Raises Of $100

PORT HOPE, June 27.—Mayor Wilbur Moore cast the deciding vote Monday night which gave three policemen a raise of $100 a year each and a fourth a raise of $200 a year.

Raises for the policemen came up for discussion for the third time in a fortnight at the council meeting when it was faced with the resignation of Constable Donald Henderson.

The council tied four-all in the vote and then Mayor Moore cast the deciding vote.

The effect of the pay boosts will be: Sergeant William Smith, $2,300 to $2,400; Constable Thomas Fournier, $2,200 to $2,300; Constable Vernon Lees, $2,000 to $2,100; Constable Donald Henderson, $2,000 to $2,200.

Board decided to discuss with Lions Club the seriousness of the Davis, Thompson Co. implication: "We are very disturbed over this. It was only on the understanding that proper supervision is maintained at all times we agreed to this policy. The class of this policy is not too desirable from a liability standpoint."

It was said the accident a year ago was caused by the "young lad attempting to dive from a height instead of using the diving board."

Lack Of Supervision Said Caused Accident

An accident to a boy in diving at the Riverside swimming pool last summer cost Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Co. $1,022.75. It was attributed to lack of "proper supervision," and prompted the company to write Davis, Thompson Co. "We would be happy if you could find another market for this risk."

Circumstances were reviewed to the board of works Monday in a letter from Davis, Thompson Co. who have transferred the insurance to Western Assurance Co. Premium on the new policy is $135.

When asked if he ever asked Sampson about the horse, Godier said he hadn't. He had sent two others up for it because he was sick in bed. He added that there were no penalties to an advertisement in the Peterborough paper.

No Fence

Under cross-examination by W. J. Fair, K.C., defence counsel, Godier said that the horse had been at the farm two winters before and admitted that there was no fence to keep the mare in the lot.

Godier said that he sent the man who was supposed to be looking after the horse while he was sick to the Sampson farm after the neighbors told him the horse was there. But it was not until two weeks later that action was taken.

Referring to the mare as "sassy-backed, short-winded and not-bellied," Mr. Fair said that he understood the "horse isn't worth very much." Godier answered that it was in foal.

"If I were as healthy as that horse, I'd be tickled to death," said Godier.

After several others were called the case was dismissed.

13 Fishermen Paid $225 In Court Fines

Most Charges Laid For Illegal Baiting; $50 Beaver Trap Fine

A total of $275 was paid in fines and court costs Tuesday on 14 charges under the Game and Fishery Regulations. All entered written pleas of guilty.

The largest fine of $50 was paid by Richard Jeff, Anstruther township, for setting traps closer than five feet to a beaver house on April 17. Court costs amounted to $2.50.

The charge was laid by Robert H. Trotter conservation officer, for the Department of Lands and Forests.

Three other charges, involving persons fishing from an anchored boat with artificial bait, were laid by Mr. Trotter on Anna Marie Kunde and R. E. Kunde, both of Buffalo, New York, and Horace Taylor, Burleigh Falls. All were fined $10, costs amounting to $2.50.

Conservation officer, Raymond Simpson, Bobcaygeon, laid 10 charges under the regulations.

David Moore, Buckhorn, was fined $20, with $2.50 costs, for using unbaited hooks for snagging fish in Harvey township on May 24.

Bass Out Of Season

Two Highland Creek residents were fined $20 and costs $2.50 each for catching small-mouthed black bass out of season. Percy Fuery and Gordon McKinnon were fishing in Harvey township on May 26 when arrested.

Other charges involving people fishing with artificial bait from an anchored boat were: fines of $10 and costs of $2.50 E. J. Hamilton, Danville, Louis Cocomie, 2984 (a) Dundas St. west, Toronto, and J. T. Wilkins, 27 Waverly Road, Toronto. Fines of $20 and $2.50 costs, Mervin Duggan, Malton, William Coyle, Melton, William Goodman, 55 Ringley Ave., Toronto, H. Smith, 18 Leeds St., Toronto.

No Joy In Hospitality

Mr. Hamilton, Dunnville, wrote to the court: "I'm guilty of something I was ignorant of. I knew I couldn't cast, troll or drift with a boat, but I didn't know I couldn't use a spinner. I didn't catch any fish."

"My grandson and I were still fishing when the game warden came along and wanted to see what we were fishing with. He took my spinner and said we could only use a hook and sinker with live bait."

"Incidentally it will be a long time before we try to 'enjoy' the hospitality of Peterborough again and spend our money."

Name Commissioner

Judge J. C. Anderson, Belleville, has been appointed commissioner in the company-union dispute over the dismissal of two employees of Tilco Plastics, Parkhill Rd. The employees are Frank Merrett and Carmen Caccavella. The company says they were dismissed because of absenteeism and the counter-charge of Len Velleman, UE representative, is that they were fired for union activities. UE is organizing the plant.

Hour Parking Uniform During Day

Uniform parking time of one hour between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., suggested by the council's special parking committee, was approved this week by the board of works.

The pertinent clause from the report was: "To secure uniformity of parking regulations and overcome additional cost of preparing a variety of 'no parking' signs, it is recommended that present by-laws be amended to provide that in all areas where parking is limited the period of limitation be one hour between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. daily."

(At present, parking regulations vary from place to place about the city, from two hours, one hour, and half an hour.)

"Your committee feels that one hour should be the limit, and if this is enforced such limitation is all that is necessary."

Water Level Up Scum Thins Out

LINDSAY, June 27.—The height of the water level is believed to have something to do with the amount of scum on Sturgeon lake.

This conclusion was reached following a rise in the water level last weekend which was accompanied by an almost complete disappearance of the green scum which the lake was impregnated with a week ago.

It is believed that the higher level permits a greater flow with surface movement in progress over the Bobcaygeon dam moving at a greater depth.

Another theory is that the operation of the hydro plant in Bobcaygeon has something to do with the disappearance of the scum. While the plant is in operation there is always considerable run-off which keeps the lake in a freshened condition. At present, the plant is not in operation.

Lands and forests officials are investigating the nature of the scum.

Pierce To Inspect Incinerator Devices

Board of works approved Monday the recommendation of which Ald. N. G. Graham is chairman, authorizing J. Elmo Pierce, superintendent, to inquire into incinerator safety devices in other cities.

Francis Hanksen Co. is completing protective equipment and certain other work at the incinerator, and it has been recommended that he be permitted to investigate what has already been done in that respect elsewhere.

The company proposed any or all three of St. Catharines, St. Thomas and Kitchener.

Ald. Graham said an item of $150 had been placed in the estimates for Mr. Pierce to attend a convention, but he could not go. Expense money is available for the proposed trip, and board of works gave its assent.

Members also approved purchase of a new body for sanitation department truck bought in 1948 and used in collection of garbage, replacing the only army unit now in use.

Optimist Club To Sponsor Harness Racing

Peterborough's first harness racing meet of the year will be held Thursday night at Morrow Park. About 30 entries, including top horses, are expected from stables in Kingston, Port Hope, Oshawa, and the Peterborough district.

The meet is being sponsored by the Optimist Club, and proceeds will go to furthering their work among boys.

There will be four races. Classes are 2.30, 2.24, 2.20, and free-for-all.

A purse of 250 will go to the free-for-all winner and the other three purses are each $200. From six to eight entries are expected in each race, to be run off in two heats.

Horses Entered

Spectators at the floodlight racing will see seven horses entered in the 2.30 class. They will include Lili Abner, Port Hope, County Lass, Kingston; and J. J. Crowley of Peterborough has entered Jim Forbes.

Probably most interest will focus on the free-for-all. Stan Blawett has entered his consistent winner, Victory Hi. This horse won 67 heats in the racing season last year and this year he is continuing his winning pace. Two other horses in the free-for-all are C. Worthy, Port Hope, and Scott Ship, Kingston.

The 2.20 class will include V. Blawett; Jimmy Brewer, Oshawa; and Rose Worthy, Kingston.

Races are for a mile, which means two laps on the half-mile Morrow Park track.

The Optimist Club committee vian McKinney, owned by Mr. in charge includes Don Irving chairman, Frank Patterson, Walter Murphy and Elmer Williamson.

Charles Quinlan, chairman of the Fair Board racing committee, is assisting by arranging for judges, timers and starters. Dave Fleming, Fair Board racing secretary, is also helping plan the meet.

Racing will start under the floodlights at 8 p.m.

Partial Strike

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 27—(Reuters)—Less than half Belgium's 47,000 postal, telephone and telegraph workers obeyed a call to strike today. Telephone and telegraph services remained normal through the country. The workers, who are claiming a five-per-cent wage increase promised by the government last December, were told by Socialist unions to down tools for 24 hours Tuesday night. Catholic unions, who control about half of the workers concerned, told their members to ignore the strike call.

Mack Bombing

ROME June 27—(AP)—The French Air Force within the next 24 hours will attempt a mock bombing of Rome, Naples and other Italian cities in a three-day military manoeuvre planned by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic Treaty organization headquarters. One of the chief aims of the combined Italian-French operation will be to follow through on Eisenhower's demand that the forces of his European command carry out their operations in a single language—English.

Miss Dorothy Fisher Honored At Shower

HASTINGS, June 27—(ENS)—Misses Carol Baker and Andree Crate were co-hostesses at a kitchen shower to honor Miss Dorothy Fisher, a bride of Saturday, June 30, when about 30 friends gathered for the evening. Contests were enjoyed.

To the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Madge Jones, the future bride was asked to come forward to a table with a canopy of pink and white streamers where a tiny doll bride looked down on the table filled with useful and lovely gifts.

A delicious lunch, served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. L. M. Baker, Mrs. P. S. Crate and Margaret Rose Baker, brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Sentenced To Death.

COLUMBIANA, Ala., June 27—(AP)—Cooper Drake, 29-year-old Negro was convicted of murder Tuesday and sentenced to death in the slaying of a four-year-old white boy. Mrs. Kathleen Holley, 37, had pointed Drake out as the man who fatally shot her son, Dale, at the Holleys' farm near Calera, Ala. Drake also is under indictment for raping and shooting Mrs. Holley.

Skin Too Big

ALLEGAN, Mich., June 27—(AP)—Mrs. Gertrude Levandowski whose skin became too big for her after an operation, had part of it removed Tuesday. Mrs. Levandowski, who once weighed more than 600 pounds, lost 300 pounds during an operation last February. Most of it was in tumorous tissue and liquid. The second operation was to remove excess skin and tissue. She is reported doing well.

Seize Chinese Junk

HONG KONG, June 27 (AP)—A Royal Navy patrol boat today seized a Chinese junk laden with rubber tires and raw rubber. A Hong Kong court confiscated the cargo and the junk. The rubber, valued at $42,000, was presumed to be destined for Communist China and the Portuguese Colony of Macao.

Finish Plans For 1953 Record Air Races

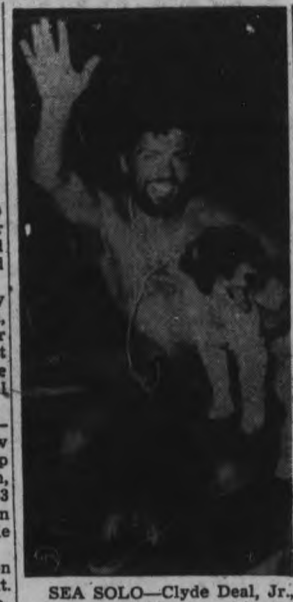

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z.—(CP)—Plans have been completed for the longest air race ever promoted—the 1953 contest from England to New Zealand.

Sponsored by the Canterbury International Air Race Council, the race is due to start on or about Oct. 10, 1953. The shortest great circle route between the start and finish is 10,208 nautical miles.

There will be two sections—speed and transport. Aircraft now in operation could fly non-stop from England to Christchurch, and it is possible that by 1953 there will be planes which can complete the course in a single day.

Aircraft in the speed section are permitted to refuel in flight. Pilots may use any route provided they check in at the one intermediate check point, which will be in the vicinity of Basra. There are numerous great circle routes which could be followed, some taking a northerly course and others following routes much further south. Some cross Iron Curtain countries for a considerable distance and may be ruled out by pilots on that score.

Entries are open to any country, organization or individual. Provisional entries have already been made in the handicap transport section by British Overseas Airways, British Empire Airways, Royal Dutch Airlines, Qantas Airways, and Armstrong-Whitworth Ltd. De Havillands have also indicated that they will enter in at least one section.

The Royal Aero Club in London will control the race as far as Basra, and the Canterbury International Air Race Council the remainder. In each section the prizes will be: first, £10,000 ($30,000); second, £3,000; third, £1,000; fourth, £500.

Ft. William Plans Gala Fete To Recapture Fur Trade Days

FORT WILLIAM, June 27 (CP).—For three days next week, Fort William's 38,000 citizens will try to recapture the spirit of the community's fur-trading heyday of 200 years ago.

Like the old-time fur company partners, voyageurs, traders and Indians who gathered here once a year for feasting and carousing, the present-day residents of this city at the head of Lake Superior have set aside July 2, 3 and 4 for a "rendezvous" named after the lively fur fete.

The stockaded fort whose log walls rang to the exuberance of the hardy fur men has vanished. The 1951 edition of the rendezvous will centre in the Fort William Gardens, the city's handsome new million-dollar ice palace.

Guest stars of the program will include Suzanne Morrow, Canadian figure skating champion; Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens; Frank Stack and Gordon Audley, ice speed kings. The rendezvous will be dedicated by Premier Frost of Ontario.

Outdoor events will include a canoe and portage race down the Kaministiquia River, ancient route of the fur trade, with a final portage through town to the city hall.

Opening the rendezvous will be a three-mile parade of floats and thousands of marchers representing the two-score national strains at the lakehead, seven bands, and military units.

Miss Morrow will appear in a midsummer ice fantasy staged by the Thunder Bay Figure Skating Club. Richard will referee a hockey game between two pee-wee teams.

Two of the lakehead's National Hockey League stars, Danny Lewicki of Toronto Maple Leafs and Gaye Stewart, now of New York Rangers, will referee a game between Sioux Lookout Blackhawks, an all-Indian boy team, and Fort William all-stars.

On July 4 throngs of United States citizens are expected to cross the border and join Canadians in the festivity.

Other rendezvous highlights will include a great fireworks display, old-time street dances in costume, and a moccasin dance in the gardens.

Kill Angry Husband

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 27 (AP).—Police rifle and machine-gun bullets killed an angry husband in near Northwest Indianapolis Tuesday night after he fatally wounded one patrolman and critically wounded another with shotgun blasts. Police identified the dead man as John Hoard, 37. The dead man's widow, Mary, told officers she and her husband had quarrelled and he told her, "I'm going to shoot me a couple of policemen so they'll kill me."

Bell Beats Busmen

Bell Telephone downed Bus Drivers 11-7 in a neat Civic Softball League encounter last evening. They scored three in the first, one each in the fifth and sixth, two next time up and four in the eighth. Busmen counted four in the second, one in the third and two more in the seventh. Each side got eight hits while Bell had five errors to three for the losers. Harrison relieved Brown in the eighth for Bell and Guerin hit a homer that inning. The game went an inning over-time. Simmons homered in the second for the losers. Cochrane hit for Deal in the seventh of the tight tilt. Teams:

Bell: Greatrix, Tushingham, James, Smith, Guerin, Ackford, Jamieson, Gillespie, Brown, Harrison. Busmen: Brown, Sage, Sullivan, Snape, Moore, Deal, Cochrane, Gordon, Edmunds, Clarke. Umpires—Reid and Hempstead.

No One Wants Island

OTTAWA, Ill., June 27 (AP).—An island in the Illinois River, west of Ottawa, went begging at auction Tuesday. Three bidders showed up hoping to buy the 63.81-acre island which the State of Illinois put up for sale. When the bidders learned the state had assessed the value of the tract at $3,000, none was willing to go that high. The land has been used mainly for farming but farm machinery must be hauled to the island by boat.

Rescued From Raft

WASAGA BEACH, Ont., June 27 (CP).—Two sun-bathing Toronto women and a 16-month-old child on a rubber raft drifted four miles out onto Georgian Bay Tuesday before they were spotted from a plane and rescued. They were Mrs. Marion Moriarty, Grace Carter, and Mrs. Moriarty's daughter, Deborah. The water became rough and the women were unable to paddle the rented raft against an offshore breeze. After they were sighted from a private plane, men in boats rescued them.

Navy Experimenting

CHARLESTON, S.C., June 27 (AP).—Tests of a shipboard salt-water spray system to combat contamination resulting from an underwater atomic explosion were conducted on a full-scale basis for the first time recently at the Charleston naval shipyard. The test, announced Tuesday, is expected to afford data for use in designing a full protective system by the navy. Officials who observed the tests said results indicate the system can provide a high degree of safety for ship personnel.

Tornado In Kansas

WAKEENEY, Kas., June 27 (AP).—A tornado ripped through a residential area of this western Kansas town of 2,000 early today, killing three persons and injuring an estimated 50. Winds and heavy rain swept across a wide section of central and western Kansas last night and early today.

Expensive Weekends

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP).—Representative Errett Scrivner (Rep., Kas.) estimated Tuesday that it costs the taxpayers more than $500,000 yearly "to provide President Truman his weekend relaxation on the Potomac." Scrivner, member of the House Appropriations Committee, said in his weekly newsletter to constituents that the navy keeps eight officers and 156 enlisted men on duty to keep the presidential yacht Williamsburg "ready to go."

Saved From Death

DENVER, Colo., June 27 (CP).—Clifford Shrum, 52, who said he had eaten nothing but a potato for 24 days was saved from death Tuesday night. Shrum's weight had dropped from 150 to 80 pounds.

Shooting On Road 3 Youths Fined

WHITBY, June 27—Firing their 22 calibre rifles across a public road cost three Toronto youths $10 and costs or 10 days each Tuesday. Robert Nash, Lloyd Belk and Donald Stephens were charged following the wounding of a Dutch immigrant, Jan Balhuis, on his Port Perry district farm. A slug recently was removed from Balhuis' side, where it lodged after passing through his arm.

"It might have been death," said Crown Attorney Alex Hall.

Provincial Constable N. A. Cowie testified he found 55 empty cartridges where the three were shooting at bottle caps stuck to the side of a fence. The officer confiscated 15 live rounds.

Balhuis had gone to investigate the sound of rifle fire and discharged two rounds into the air to warn the others of his presence. Then he was hit, the officer said.

Dorothy Dix: Woman Has No Conscience When She Leads Double Life

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: For ten years I have been leading a double life and I have finally decided that I will not go on that way any longer. I am a woman in my early thirties. Have a wonderful husband who is kind and thoughtful, a good provider and devoted to his home and family, and I have an adorable child. The only fault I can find with my husband is that he does not care about going to parties, whereas I am fun-loving. For ten years I have had an affair with a man who loves me and who would marry me if I were free, but the trouble is that while I do not love my husband, I am not sure at all that I love this other man. However, I have decided to choose between these two men and not go on with this double dealing any longer. Which one shall I take?

ANSWER: Well, I am sorry for the man, whichever one you take, for you are one of the women who make a mockery of love and a desecration of marriage. Any man who has that kind of a wife has plenty of grief coming to him.

There's No Excuse

Some excuse is to be made for the wife who is unfaithful to her husband if she is driven into a passion that she is unable to control. We can understand her and have sympathy for her, but we can only have contempt for the woman who betrays her husband just to gratify her vanity.

I am glad, however, to hear that you are tired of leading the double life. I should think that ten years of hypocrisy, lying, deceit and double-dealing would be wearing on the nerves, even if one had no conscience to bother one.

Let's hope that you have found out there is no happiness in dishonesty and that the way of the double-crosser is hard; that you really are ready to abandon the primrose path for the strait and narrow way.

As for your choice between the two men, let me urge you to stick to your husband, as you have no real affection for either one. That will save you the scandal of divorce and secure to your child the blessing of a father and the security of a home. Don't break your husband's heart by tearing his child away from him. You owe him at least that much atonement for the sin you have committed against him.

You say you don't love either man, so there is no emotional choice between them. Your husband has this much advantage over his rival—that you know him to be good and kind and a good provider.

DEAR MISS DIX: For four years I have been in love with a man three years older than I. We have gone together on and off during this time. We have a quarrel, then he wants to come back to me and I don't want him, or I want to make up and he doesn't. We have gone with other people and he has even gone so far as to become engaged but he always ends up back with me. My mother doesn't like him because he can't keep a steady job. I've tried to forget him but find it impossible.

PAULINE

ANSWER: Get off the merry-go-round, Pauline, and settle down. There's no future for you (Continued on Page 19)

Elizabeth Edging Out Sister In Smartest Fashion Race

LONDON, June 26 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth, a dark horse in the fashion stakes, may make a race of it yet with her younger sister.

When it came to buttons and bows, society writers thought instinctively of Princess Margaret. The 20-year-old younger princess, it was whispered, wanted to be known as the world's best-dressed woman.

Princess Elizabeth? Nice but a little on the serious side, experts said.

Since then there's been a marked change. Elizabeth has slimmed considerably since the birth last August of her daughter, Princess Anne, and now competes with Margaret in waist and hip measurements.

She has also broken completely with the somewhat-fussy styles she favored a few years ago.

The four-day Royal Ascot race meeting in mid-June provided a conspicuous example. Elizabeth chose four outfits.

One was a tailored coat of princess line with long revers, neat waist and classic shoulder-line. Combined with the cartwheel hat of classic severity, dark gloves, shoes and bag, the outfit had an unbroken, clean-cut simplicity that suited Elizabeth's new slimness.

The princess shows marked preference for simple styles with straight-cut lines in both day and evening wear. She scorns the heavy trimmings and over-elaborate collar-effects that were once her choice.

Unlike her sister, Elizabeth dislikes strapless gowns, preferring those with deep-cut necklines.

Fashion Vignettes By Evelyn Kelly Croucher

ARTICLE 5

A lovely little extra, year-round and therefore justified extravagance, is a short, well-cut topper such as you'll find in any of the pattern books. Very ultra ultra in white tweed, completely compatible in white fleece. And very, very new in white, pinwale corduroy.

We'll never part with our beloved old faded blue jeans, but let's cast a speculative glance at the newest ingratiating fad in denim . . . a true charcoal shade, gorgeous tan flatterer.

New York markets are intensely interested in the all-Canadian clothes which, affirms their Canadian manufacturer, do not blindly follow New York trends. These are casual togs planned for Canadian outdoor life. There are slacks, shirts and skirts made up in wonderful plaids, imported, among them lightweight worsteds from France. This same manufacturer remarks that plaids are in ever-increasing demand, not only among us Canadians. The American tourists love them!

FOR CANADIANS—The black silk shantung cocktail dress (left) has a full pleated skirt worn over a stiff crinoline. Tweed and soft leather are combined in the ensemble (right) which has stole jacket and belt of leather.

Strictly to drool over: a cape bolero of mutation mink, so cleverly cut that it fastens in front to form a huge cape collar rippling out over full, gathered sleeves which are elbow length.

Thoughts for an early autumn bridal frock: white corduroy, ankle length, touched with pearl and crystal sequin embroidery at neckline and wrists. And all year round, for business, trousseau or casual living, the new tweeds which are diagonally plaided and flecked with gold.

Newest brightie . . . and we do mean brightie! . . . in lingerie is a fire-engine red nylon nightie.

Three looks for summer: "The Creamy Look," which is a non-burned summer complexion. Then there's the smooth natural tan teamed up with brilliant lipstick, known as "The Vibrant Look." And described as sunkissed but not sunburned, is the romantically termed "Golden Look." Take your choice, just so long as you have "A Look!"

Newest jewelry innovation will start necks craning, cause second glances wherever they appear. Because the newest ornaments are stuck right on to your skin with a liquid cement that apparently stays put just about forever. There they are . . . a rhinestone pretty . . . a chunk of gold or whatever you choose, seemingly growing right out of your own skin . . . on your throat, your arm. Lovely and weird it is too . . . no chains . . . no pins . . . nothing. Just you and your jewelry!

The site of Prince Albert, Sask., was so named in 1886 by a Presbyterian missionary, after the Prince Consort.

MONTREAL, June 26 — (CP) — Housecoats, from the toddler age to adult, are shown at the current Montreal fashion week show. Corduroy, in pleasing colors, is used for a coachman-style coat with self-covered buttons above the tiny waistline. This fabric appears in the children's group, as does wool, outlined in contrasting satin. Back-to-college coats in wool tartans and checks have quilted dusters, a carry-over from a favorite summer fashion. Quilted jersey is used for full coats as well as for lounging pyjama tops.

Great Variety In Coat Styles

MONTREAL, June 27—(CP)—A complete range of coats and suits entirely in wool is shown at the current Montreal Fashion Week show. Most of the styles have fairly deep armholes.

One gray coat has a button arrangement forming two semicircles, one from collar to belted waistline and the other on the full skirt. Other coats in the same group have trapunto work on the large pockets. Northern Ontario beaver forms the cuffs for another coat in palest beige, its semi-pyramid lines falling from softly rounded shoulders.

Black Persian lamb is used effectively on a coat of gold peach-bloom. Uneven cuffs contrast with the full sleeves and the dark fur ties in a huge bow at the collar line. Black on black, always a favorite, appears in a full coat with a wide collar of lamb narrowing to the hemline.

Deepest brown velvet forms decorative ovals for a suit in cocoa barthea. The inserts of the velvet are outlined in bands of the suiting intricately stitched for detail. Deep gray, in a slim-skirted suit, has a cuffed sleeve matching the double pocket flap, set just below the waistline.

Satin pipes a slim black suit, the sheen of the black trim pointing up the smartness of lines.

MARY MOORE SAYS: Fish Loaf Supper Special Menu

Jellied Salmon Loaf (featured recipe)
Boiled New Beets chopped with greens and Butter
Creamed Cauliflower
Toasted Rolls
Annie's Cheese Pie
Iced Tea

Directions
You will see that I have given the jellied salmon salad in some detail. This basic recipe will stand you in good stead this summer for it is what you use when you have leftover fish of any kind—especially white-fleshed fish. With the flaked white fish a few shrimps look most attractive and unusual.

Clip this recipe for future use this summer. There are very few jellied fish recipes in cook books.

Jellied Salmon Loaf or Salad

Soak 2 tablespoons best quality gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water. Add 1/2 cup boiling water and stir it over boiling water until gelatin dissolves. To it add the juice from 1 lb. can red or pink salmon (this amounts to about 1/2 cup), the juice of 1 medium lemon and 1 cup cold water. Add the salmon flaked, 1 cup very finely chopped celery or cucumber with skin on or half and half of each, and 4 large radishes grated on the finest shredder. It needs no salt but color is improved when pink salmon is used if you add 1 teaspoon paprika. Stir in 1/2 cup best quality mayonnaise and pour into mould or moulds rinsed out with cold water to chill. If moulded in individual moulds this is appropriate for luncheon plate for a company meal.

I promised last week to give you this recipe for Annie's Cheese Pie. Annie is our little "char" who can neither read nor write but no one ever lived who hated dirt more than Annie does. That is why she is such a treasure.

She got up at six o'clock on the morning she was to be here by nine to make a fresh cheese pie for our lunch. It was delicious to us because we all like cottage cheese. If you do not like cottage cheese I doubt that you will like this pie.

It is a favorite Romanian dessert and looks like a Canadian custard pie.

Annie's Cheese Pie
Three-quarters pound cream cheese bought in Jewish delicatessen (I used fresh cottage cheese from our milkman and produced the same effect); mix this with 1/2 cup sugar, and 3 well-beaten eggs. Add 3/4 to 1 cup whole milk or part whole milk and part top milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into unbaked pastry-lined deep pie plate. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 3/4 hour.

Annie cut the wedges of pie about 3 inches wide at the top. She said it is rich and some "pipples only ly-ke a leddle pie." I wasn't one of them—I ate two big pieces. Marianne and my two sisters polished off the other half of the pie in short order for dinner that night.

Remember when you are making iced tea to fill the glasses full of ice cubes, put in the sugar and plenty of lemon juice then pour over the double strength tea boiling hot—it will not break your glasses.

Dorothy Dix:

with this boy, and you know it. Do you want a married life of continual bickerings with a man who doesn't love you enough to make an attempt to support you? There is no such thing as "not forgetting." It may not be easy, but it can be done, and I'd advise you to do it.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in love with a girl who has a wonderful personality, good looks, and fine taste in clothes. What has me puzzled is the fact that she claims she likes me, yet everywhere we go she brings her girl friend along. I like this girl so much I enjoy spending money on her, but having the girl friend along all the time is emptying my pockets. I introduced her friend to some of my pals but no one seems to suit her. What can I do to get a date alone with my girl?
JOE

ANSWER: As a drastic measure, you could try dating the friend and leaving your girl home some evening. The shock might jolt her into tossing her chaperone into the discard.

Your girl is probably still a little afraid of men and is taking her companion along as protection. Why not have a heart-to-heart talk with her about the situation, assure her of your trustworthiness, and insist that she either go dating with you alone, or on double dates, but no more "third party" affairs.

Feature Styles For Children

MONTREAL, June 26 (CP)—Children's clothes, featuring style and workmanship in apparel for play, school and leisure hours, are getting their share of attention at Montreal's fashion week.

Overalls for the hard-playing youngsters are available in corduroy, tackle twill or, for warmer days, in fine woven cotton. The overalls have been made to aid the child in dressing himself.

Corduroy skirts for little girls have matching jackets in tri-color schemes. A brother-and-sister outfit matches except that slacks are worn with the six-fastener coat. Red, grey and a lighter-than-navy blue, or brown with green and yellow, are among the sets.

A diversified collection takes its cue from the all-nylon snow-clothes last season.

For the little toddler who will play in the snow there is a one-piece suit, with quilting at the knees adding both protection and decoration. Full zip-fasteners are so placed the child may be undressed in a moment.

Nylon velvet forms a yoke on another suit, made for the clothes-conscious little girl who wants style as much as her mother wants service and wear in the suit. One suit in royal blue nylon is sparked with velvet in contrasting red.

Terazzo Floor Depicts Regina

REGINA—(CP)—When Joy Sundeen was a resident of the Richardson, Sask., district, her friends often received letters in which most of the news was depicted by clever drawings.

Joy now is a 1950 graduate in architecture of the University of Manitoba and hopes to become a licensed architect after completing further examinations.

Working for a Regina firm, her drawings and ideas have paid off. The proprietor of a marble, tile and terrazzo company asked for a floor design which would be emblematic of his trade. The job was assigned to Joy.

The work called for a suitable design for the floor of the front office which would include 70 kinds of terrazos, or marble chips. Miss Sundeen chose the map of Regina for the design. Various blocks are set out in the varied terrazos, including a few buildings, the railway with a miniature train complete with smoke, the airport, Wascana Lake and Creek Bed, and—a touch of humor.

In one section is the emblem of the tile-laying trade, a little man with a trowel on a partly-completed floor. There is another little man enjoying a meal from a lunch box.

Purely Accidental.

"This was purely accidental," Miss Sundeen explained. "I was doodling when I drew the second little man and when the proprietor saw my work, he insisted that it be included."

Most of the terrazzo chips were shipped in 100-pound bags from the United States. But a few were from the Italian district from which it comes; Georgia white from the State of Georgia; verona antique, which is green in color; Belgian black; red levante, a red and green mixture; pink Tennessee, and botticino, which is cream. The various terrazos are separated by strips of brass which adds its own color to the over-all design.

Strathconas' Tankless Men Finally Get Shermans

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 27 —(CP)—The song must have been written for horsemen like the Lord Strathconas. "Give a man a horse (i.e., any horse) he can ride . . ." it used to go.

A horseless rider couldn't be unhappier than an armored fighter without a tank—which is precisely the way "C" squadron of the Lord Strathcona Horse reached Korea.

A tank, almost any tank in which they could fight, would have satisfied them.

Originally they had been half-promised United States Army Patton.

Supply and replacement problems fixed that.

Then the word was that the newer, heavier British Centurion would be their charger. But supply and replacement were even more delicate.

Maj. Jim Quinn of Saskatoon, their commanding officer, shopped around the theatre and found he could equip his unit with the latest Shermans. Main armament is their 76-mm. gun and they have three heavy and medium machine-guns.

Quinn got authority to outfit his unit with them.

Good Choice

The Sherman has proved indeed "a horse a man can ride."

In fact, the Strathconas already have shown a thing or two to warriors longer experienced in the Korean variety of armored fighting.

Notably, they've taken their tanks right up into the hills with the infantry.

Quinn works on the principle that virtually any country is armored country and he's willing at least to "have a go" at supporting the infantry wherever they are. The infantry like the psychology.

And the Strathconas say in an official report: "It has been found that if tank support (for the infantry) is to be intimate the tanks must be prepared to climb the hills themselves."

"There are limits to the hill-climbing capabilities of tanks but the troop leaders certainly managed to manoeuvre them into the most astounding places."

Most of the manoeuvring so far has been done with the 2nd Battalions, Royal Canadian Regiment and Royal 22nd Regiment, which the tanks supported in their broad sweep up the hills astride the Uijongbu - Kumhwa Highway as far as the village of Chail, late in May.

Most of it was skirmish fighting, the tanks going into the hills with the infantry, shooting them onto position by silencing or knocking out enemy machine - gun posts.

There was one pitched battle, when two troops, under Lieut. Harold Wyatt, Collingwood, and Strathcona Macdonald of Oakville, covered the withdrawal of the RCR from May 31.

The tanks underwent the same artillery, mortar and small - arms lacerations by the infantry, but suffered only minor vehicle casualties.

Result of the action was to confirm the Strathconas' confidence in their new chariots, and the infantrymen's confidence in the tanks.

Says the Strathcona report: "We like the Sherman very much. It is not a modern tank as far as tank-vs-tank fighting is concerned, but it fills its role here very well."

"We think we are very well found, indeed."

Hasty-Pees Hold Exercises Defend Bancroft District

'Operation Bancroft,' a defensive scheme staged by The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and a signal section from Belleville College's Army Cadet Corps on Sunday, showed how a fortified position could be prepared to control the east-west and north-south roads of North Hastings.

In command of the exercise was Lieut.-Col. Max Porritt of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Hasty Pees and Capt. John Field was in charge of the cadet signalers. Companies from Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Madoc and Bancroft combined in the first battalion strength exercise on the training ground of 'A' Company.

In a few hours the troops had dug slit trenches, placed mortars and anti-tank guns, strung signal communications, placed mine fields, camouflaged and arranged battalion headquarters while foot and mobile patrols scouted for signs of the 'enemy.'

Leaving Belleville after supper on Saturday, the convoy arrived in Bancroft early in the evening. The night was spent in sightseeing and visiting, followed by a sleep on the floor of Bancroft Armouries. To finalize their plans for the next day, the officers were briefed on defence tactics by Maj. H. W. Strehem, G.2. Eastern Military Command. Probably the most pleasant part of the evening was the battalion pay parade by the paymaster, Capt. W. Bowman.

After breakfast, everybody rode down to the defensive line on L'Amable Creek, just north of Green's Corners. As the officers and NCO's had been assigned to their respective areas the previous evening, the companies immediately deployed to their respective positions and started to work under the watchful eye of Maj. Strehem, the referee and military critic for the day.

By noon everything was in shape, even a field kitchen that served a hot meal, under the supervision of the battalion quartermaster, Capt. Lloyd McKay. Theoretically the Hasty-Pees were part of a division in defence, as their advance had been slowed by stiffening enemy resistance and to the right and left were other units, while imaginary air reconnaissance circled overhead.

Lieutenant-Colonel Max Porritt, OC of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, expressed satisfaction with 'Operation Bancroft' and all ranks agreed that Bancroft's company training ground was an ideal spot for a day in the open. In charge of the individual companies were Maj. C. H. Broad, 'A', Maj. J. Naylor, 'B', Major H. Reed, 'C', Maj. J. Bird, 'D', and Maj. F. Burt, 'Hq.'

Decoration Day Held In Hastings

HASTINGS, June 27 (ENS)—Decoration Sunday was held at Trent Valley cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Large numbers of people had gathered from the countryside and the graves were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and plants.

A service was conducted by the Rev. N. Cole, assisted by the Rev. J. M. Ritchie. Hymns were sung with the recital of the Apostle's Creed. Mr. Cole addressed the gathering on the appropriateness of holding in memory of those who had died by such an annual event as a decorative service.

L. E. Kelly of the cemetery board read a list of names of those who were buried since the last annual service.

J. Humphries, chairman of the committee spoke briefly complimenting the caretaker W. J. Fleming on his fine work in that capacity. He also thanked Mr. Cole and Mr. Ritchie for their service.

Give Emigrants More Sterling

LONDON, June 27 —(CP)— Britain announced Tuesday she has decided to loosen up on the amount of sterling British emigrants may take to Canada.

Hugh Gaitskell, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons that Canada and Britain have agreed upon these concessions to emigrants:

1. The present limit of £1,000 for four years which may be taken to Canada will be increased by £250 for each dependent member of the emigrant's family, up to a limit of four dependents. A wife qualifies as a dependent.

2. Emigrants will be allowed to buy in Britain such things as tools of trade. The Canadian government will allow such effects to be brought into Canada duty free.

The concessions apply to emigrants already in Canada as well as to persons settling there in future.

The provision concerning purchase of tools of trade means that four years of their residence in WINDSOR, June 27 — (CP) — Chrysler Corporation of Canada Tuesday night laid off about 1,000 employees until July 3.

Howe Challenges Drew To Stake Seat On Charges

OTTAWA, June 28. (CP)—Production Minister Howe today challenged George Drew to stake his Commons seat on a charge that the Minister had favored a firm bearing his name with defence contracts. He said Mr. Howe in a running Commons debate over the charge, would stake his own seat on his denial of the Opposition leader's assertion, made on Tuesday night in a broadcast address and repeated in the Chamber yesterday and today. Mr. Howe denied, too, that the C. D. Howe Company Limited of Port Arthur, Ont., is a "family company."

Mr. Drew did not take up Mr. Howe's challenge.

He said Mr. Howe had "quite clearly indicated the association of his family with the company, and he has established exactly what was said."

He went on to say that, after the Seven Islands contract had been awarded, the Howe company had opened an office in Montreal. A member of the minister's family had been very actively associated with that office in a responsible capacity.

"Before there is talk of smear tactics, both by the minister and by the Prime Minister, it is time the government cleaned up this improper situation," Mr. Drew said.

Violent Clash
Mr. Howe's challenge was followed by a violent clash between Mr. Drew and Prime Minister St. Laurent, in which the Progressive Conservative leader threatened to leave the chamber rather than withdraw a charge that Mr. St. Laurent was "too cowardly."

At one point, amid a swelling uproar, Mr. Drew began to start from the chamber in apparent anger, but returned to his seat after stepping a few feet along the aisle.

His charge had been that Mr. St. Laurent was "too cowardly" to apply to his ministers the traditional parliamentary rules that no benefit must go to cabinet ministers, their families and their friends.

Despite an order from Speaker Ross Macdonald, he told the chamber he would not withdraw until Mr. St. Laurent withdrew a charge that Mr. Drew "lacked the courage" to substantiate his assertions about Mr. Howe.

Mr. St. Laurent denied using the words "lacked the courage" and both he and Mr. Drew finally agreed to allow the official record to indicate whether or not they had been used.

If they had, the Prime Minister said, he would withdraw the words.

Mr. St. Laurent asserted he had suggested that Mr. Drew take "the manly course" and support the charge.

Reporters Couldn't Hear.
So great had been the uproar in the chamber that reporters in the parliamentary press gallery could not hear clearly the wording of the prime minister's statement.

It was a bitter, explosive word-battle which stemmed from Mr. Drew's charge in the Tuesday night broadcast that Mr. Howe had "arranged" government contracts for "his own family company."

PUSAN, Korea, June 28 (AP)—South Koreans this week saw what they call their "star of good omen" and predicted it might bring peace.

The star again became visible at 4 p.m. Tuesday. People in the street voiced hopes it might bring peace.

Emergency Plans Drafted
To Send Oil To Europe
WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP)—American oil companies are drafting emergency plans to rush oil to western Europe if Iran's refineries and fields are shut down in the bitter controversy over nationalization.

An informed American official said today the plan now being worked out by 16 companies—with United States government approval—is "nearly ready to go."

This official, who asked not to be identified by name, told a reporter he doubted the American overseas firms could completely fill the gap which would result if the Iranian flow stopped. But they could meet "a good share of this demand."

Whatever oil American firms could rush to western Europe presumably would come from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Venezuela. No oil would be shipped

Urge Three Commanders Negotiate Korean Armistice

Allied Guns Smash Red Attacks

Sharp Fighting Flares Across Front As Blows Exchanged

TOKYO, June 28. (AP)—Allied artillery today smashed a series of Chinese attacks which Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet warned may be forerunners of a new Communist offensive in Korea.

The United Nations ground commander foresaw no "major thrust immediately." But, he said on a tour of the fighting fronts, "the Chinese appear to be building up for another effort" to overrun UN lines.

Neither Van Fleet nor the Supreme Allied Headquarters of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway would discuss a Russian cease-fire proposal.

Sharp fighting flared all across the central front as opposing armies continually probed enemy lines.

Heaviest action was near Kumhwa, where a Red battalion attacked a UN division Wednesday night. Allied artillery broke up the attack in the early morning hours.

Other attacks followed until daylight. All were smashed.

In the adjoining Kumsong sector, two other Red battalions beat back Allied efforts to probe defenses in that Red build-up area.

Stubborn Defense
The Reds are "continuing to defend stubbornly all across the front," Van Fleet commented. "This stubborn defensive attitude shows that they do not want us to go farther north."

And, he added, it "could be screening an attack build-up."

In Tokyo a spokesman for the American Joint Chiefs of Staff, Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of US Naval Operations, was aboard the battleship New Jersey when Red shore batteries sent shells screaming across her decks.

Red artillery fire just missed the New Jersey. As Sherman watched, the Warship's big guns silenced the batteries. No one aboard the New Jersey was injured.

Transfer UK Officers
Let Wife Visit Front
TOKYO, June 28 (Reuters)—Several British army officers, on the carpet for their part in allowing the young wife of an English officer serving in Korea to dodge the security network and visit her husband near the front, have been transferred out of this theatre.

The transfers follow an official inquiry into the trust, sources near the commonwealth command said today.

The officers were alleged to have aided Mrs. Benita Lasseter to fly from Tokyo to Iwakuni and across to Seoul in Korea where she met her husband, Capt. Matthew Lasseter of the Northumberland Fusiliers, this month.

From the United States, it was said.

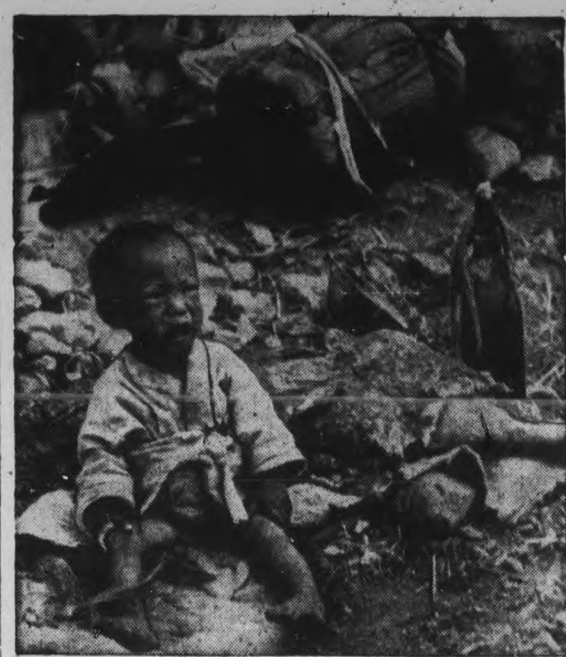

The outlines of this probable joint action by American companies came to light after State Secretary Dean Acheson appealed urgently to Iran to effect a stop-gap agreement with Britain to permit continued oil shipments.

Acheson criticized the Iranian government for fostering an attitude of "threat and fear" which he said was causing British technicians working for the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to leave.

He said Iran itself would invite "instability and economic distress" by "hasty effort" to force the nationalization issue.

Britain and France would be hardest hit by a stoppage of Iranian oil. Both countries depend on Anglo-Iranian for the bulk of their imports.

Turkey, India and Australia also depend heavily on Iranian oil.

NEITHER TALK of a Korean cease-fire nor the bottle nearby hold comfort for the wailing refugee, one of hundreds collected behind the lines on the Western front. For the greater part of his life, this youngster has been an innocent victim of war fleeing with his family up and down the peninsula with the tides of battle.

Pravda Agrees Give Morrison Prominent Play But 'Sacrifice Circulation'

MOSCOW, June 28. (AP)—Pravda said today it would give prominent and accurate play to any statement by Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison of Britain. It suggested, however, it probably would lose circulation in doing so. The Communist party newspaper said that any such agreement must be reciprocal, indicating that the British press should also give factual and prominent treatment to a Pravda statement. Earlier this month, Morrison had challenged Pravda to publish factually an interview with him or Prime Minister Attlee.

Reporting Morrison's challenge, the paper declared:

"Pravda is prepared to set aside space for any statement by Mr. Morrison and it will certainly be reproduced exactly and in full. But it should be on the basis of reciprocity."

Will Make Sacrifice
"Of course, Pravda's circulation is going to suffer from this, but Pravda is prepared to make the sacrifice. Pravda's editors want to be convinced its answer to Morrison will be reproduced likewise exactly and in a prominent place in the British press. So what is Mr. Morrison's opinion?"

The foreign office said in London that it would have to study Pravda's offer before making any comment.

Morrison had told a luncheon meeting of the Press Association international tension was increased by Russia's blocking of information channels.

Noting the wide publicity the western press gave Prime Minister Stalin's statements, Morrison said: "I should feel more hopeful of the future if our prime minister or I were asked for an exclusive interview with Pravda and if we could be sure then our words would be reproduced faithfully and as prominently throughout the press of the Soviet Union."

They gave up hope of having a new defence production act ready by midnight Saturday, when current controls on prices, wages, rents, and credit expire. The Senate must concur, however, in any stop-gap legislation.

The Senate dealt a body blow to President Truman's economic controls program by refusing to strike from its controls bill a provision forbidding any roll-backs on the price of live beef and other commodities which would send the prices lower than those prevailing in the period Jan. 25-Feb. 24.

Three Killed
In Road Crash
WINDSOR, June 28 (CP).—Two men and a woman were killed and a third man critically injured early today in a highway accident near here.

The dead: Everett H. Dubois, 22, of Dearborn, Mich.; Arthur Paul Pfaff, 25, of Trenton, Mich.; and Glenn Hewson, 19, of Windsor.

John Weldron, 22, of Detroit, was given little chance of surviving his injuries by Hotel Dieu Hospital authorities.

The victims all were in the same automobile, a 1951 model driven by Dubois. It crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Real Pilon, 48, of Windsor and the impact sent Pilon's vehicle into the rear of another truck, driven by John A. Houghton of River Canard, Ont.

The car bounced back, spun across the road and struck another truck driven by Henry Jenkins of Detroit. None of the other three persons involved was injured.

Letter To Truman Refreshes Charges Over Technicians

TEHRAN, Iran, June 28. (CP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadeq, in a personal letter today to President Truman, expressed confidence the United States would support Iran's nationalization program.

The letter contained no hint of a compromise, nor did it make any reference to rumors that Truman might be asked to assume the role of mediator.

Mossadeq blamed Britain for threatening to shut down the flow of Iranian oil to the west.

The letter was made public shortly after Iran sent a formal protest to neighboring Iraq for permitting the British cruiser Mauritius to enter Iraqi river waters near the Iranian oil centre of Abadan.

Iran said the presence of the cruiser and British troops in Iraq was a breach of the Iranian-Iraqi friendship pact. British troops are in Iraq under treaty arrangements.

Blames Company
The letter to Truman said the Anglo-Iranian Company must be responsible if the Abadan refinery closes down.

The premier charged that AIOC has resorted to "certain actions which will necessarily cause a stoppage in the exportation of oil."

They are encouraging the employees to leave their services and are threatening the government with their resignation en masse. They force oil tankers to refuse to deliver receipts to the present board of directors of the National Oil Company.

There had been hopes in western quarters that Mossadeq might have shown some willingness to negotiate the dispute.

But Mossadeq's letter seemed to make it clear that Iran will insist to the bitter end on carrying out her nationalization law to the letter.

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, June 28 (AP)—Eleven British soldiers will go on trial before a court martial Friday, charged with an "alleged refusal to obey an order related to a parade for training purposes."

The charge was not further detailed at the British Information Office, which today announced the court martial.

The soldiers are members of the 1st Battalion, Royal Northumberland Fusiliers.

(In London, the Daily Mail reported today 14 troops of the Royal Northumberland Fusiliers are "under arrest" in Korea "for allegedly disobeying an order.")

Hunt Cunning Thief

LONDON, June 28. (Reuters)—Police today hunted a cunning thief who stole a £2,000 gold brick and put an ordinary chimney brick in its place in a shipment of gold bound for South Africa. The "bullion shipment" left London by air May 20, consigned by a London firm to a firm in South Africa. The clay brick was found among the gold bricks on arrival in South Africa. Scotland Yard said they had no evidence that the swap was made before the plane left. Everyone who handled the consignment has been interrogated.

Court Sentences Archbishop To 15 Years

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 28 (AP)—Roman Catholic Archbishop Jozsef Groesz was convicted today of plotting to overthrow the Communist government of Hungary and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

One of the other eight defendants tried with the Archbishop was sentenced to death. He is Ferenc Vecer, a Paulician Monk, who confessed in court that he killed a Russian soldier.

Five others received jail sentences ranging from eight to 14 years.

The Archbishop, Hungary's highest ranking Catholic church dignitary since Cardinal Mindszenty was sent to prison for life in a similar trial in 1949, had confessed publicly in court to illegal activities.

Sentences Not Announced
No sentences were announced in the cases of two other defendants—Dr. Elajos Pongracz, a Hungarian national who had been employed by the United States legation, and Dr. Laszlo Hevey, Pongracz will be tried again by a military court, and the case of Hevey was "separated" from the others, the court announced.

The five others who received jail sentences ranging from eight to 14 years are:

Dr. Pal Bozsik, a Catholic priest who was a member of the pre-war parliament; 10 years.

Dr. Endre Farkas, a lawyer; eight years.

Vendel Endredy, Cistercian Abbot of Cirtz; 14 years.

Let Public Decide If Children To Swim

LONDON, June 28. (Reuters)—Russell Tongay, father of the Miami "water babies," said today he will let the British public decide whether the children should attempt to swim the 20-mile English Channel.

British people would watch Bubba, 5, and his sister Kathy, 4, swim the English Channel here and "if they feel it is wrong for the children to swim the channel we shall not do the swim," he told a press conference.

(As punishment, the Daily Mail continues, the commander said the patrol must do two hours' duty setting up barbed-wire defences around the company position.

(The newspaper says the 10 refused the punishment duty and an armed guard of four other Fusiliers was called and arrested them. But, when the guard heard the reason for the arrest, it refused to do so. More guards were called and all 14 men were marched off.)

Cease-Fire Proposal To Deal Solely With Military Details

WASHINGTON, June 28. (AP)—The State Department announced today that Russia has proposed the United Nations, North Korean and Red Chinese commanders negotiate a Korean armistice.

The Soviet Union suggested armistice terms limited "to strictly military questions."

The proposal was made Wednesday to Ambassador Alan G. Kirk by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko in Moscow.

Gromyko, the department said, "indicated that it would be for the military representatives of the unified command and of the Korean Republic command on the one hand and the military representatives of the North Korean command and of the Chinese volunteer units on the other to negotiate the armistice envisaged in Mr. Malik's statement."

Move Carefully
In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the Canadian Government is considering "very carefully" the implications of the Soviet proposal for a Korean armistice.

He told The Canadian Press the Russian suggestions were transmitted to the Canadian Government Wednesday night by Hume Wrong, Canadian Ambassador in Washington. They are now under study.

Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations, put forward the original cease-fire suggestion in a speech Saturday.

Kirk, on instructions from State Secretary Dean Acheson, called on Gromyko Wednesday to seek a clarification of Malik's speech.

The State Department announcement said:

"The armistice, Mr. Gromyko pointed out, would include a cease fire and would be limited to strictly military questions without involving any political or territorial matters; the military representatives would discuss questions of assurance against the resumption of hostilities."

No Other Ideas
"Beyond the conclusion of an armistice the Soviet government had no specific steps in mind looking toward the peaceful settlement to which Mr. Malik referred. Mr. Gromyko indicated, however, that it would be up to the parties in Korea to decide what subsequent special arrangements."

Murder Charge Now Reduced

NORTH BAY, June 28 (CP)—A charge of attempted murder against Paul Iati, 52-year-old CPR laborer, was reduced today to one of causing grievous harm.

In North Bay police court this morning, the charge was reduced from attempted murder to causing grievous harm.

ordered Iati remanded to July 11 for trial on the lesser charge. He was released on $5,000 property bail and two sureties.

Police arrested Iati Sunday night after his son Tony, 30, was shot near the heart at the elder Iati's residence.

Tony, former North Bay taxi driver who has recently been living in Toronto, is still in hospital. His condition, though still serious, is said to be showing slight improvement.

Pearson Pays Call On Princess Elizabeth

LONDON, June 28. (CP)—Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson today paid a courtesy call on Princess Elizabeth at Clarence House. They talked about such matters as tennis at Wimbledon, the visiting minister said.

He had a later appointment to see Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison at the House of Commons to discuss subjects related to North Atlantic treaty arrangements.

Pearson will fly to Holland next week, later visiting Norway and Sweden.

Discuss Ways To Settle Salary Disputes

BIGWIN INN, June 28.—(CP)—Executives of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association Wednesday started discussion of measures to deal with salary disputes with their teachers.

Acting on a resolution by the Welland Board of Education, calling for a five-man committee to negotiate with the Ontario Teachers' Federation to end mass resignations and black-listing of schools, the executive will report to late session of the convention.

In another resolution during Wednesday's sessions, the Dunnville District High School Board asked for the preparation of a brief on black-listing of schools by the teachers' federation.

The resolution suggested the association write letters to all secondary school boards in the province and to the provincial government to protest against such measures.

Delegates also approved a resolution asking for a new consolidated education act for Ontario incorporating "as much as possible of the Hope Commission's report."

ments would have to be made for a political and territorial settlement.

He said that the Soviet government was not aware of the views of the Chinese Communist regime in Mr. Malik's statement.

"The implications of Mr. Gromyko's observations are being studied. The Department of State is consulting with the representatives of other countries having armed forces in Korea under the unified command."

At the time of the department's announcement, the Assistant Secretary of State, John D. Hickerson, was engaged in a series of conferences with diplomats representing many of the countries fighting in Korea.

No Speculation

Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters the department could not speculate on what might be the result of consultations.

Officials indicated, however, that the department is reserving judgment on prospects for a cease-fire, and is steering clear of either elation or dejection as a result of the new development.

White was asked whether Gen. Matthew Ridgway, the US and UN Commander in Korea, has been ordered to do anything yet as a result of cease-fire preliminary talks.

Draw Own Conclusions

Asked whether the State Department was surprised by Gromyko's claim that Moscow did not know the views of the Communist China regime, White said, "You can draw your own conclusions."

Kirk's report of his meeting with Gromyko was passed on to the representatives of the UN Allies Wednesday night and today. They are due to have another of their semi-weekly reviews of Korean developments Friday.

Announced as scheduled to see Hickerson were representatives of Turkey, New Zealand, South Africa, Thailand, Colombia, the Philippines, Ethiopia, and Norway.

American officials were described as encouraged over Russia's response to their first request for classification of Jacob A. Malik's cease-fire suggestion.

The Pope presented Miss Truman with a miniature painting of the Madonna.

Claxton Confident Russia Can Be Defeated In War

OTTAWA, June 28. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton is confident Russia would be defeated if she attacked the West now or at any time. "I believe," he said Wednesday night in the Commons, "that the resources of the Western democracies, and of those that would be associated with them in an all-out war, would defeat the forces of the Soviet Union and those that they could muster."

But, he added, "I am only confident provided we all put out a tremendous effort, and keep it up."

He spoke after George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, asked if he shared the views of Postmaster General Rinfret who was quoted as saying recently that "we have so worked with other Atlantic Pact countries as to be sure Russia would be defeated if she attacked today."

Mr. Drew said statements made by senior staff officers in the United States indicated they did not share that opinion.

Hope To Prevent War

Mr. Claxton then said he was confident of the outcome of a war with Russia. But the object of the West was not to defeat Russia. "Our object is to prevent war by deterring aggression, by building up our forces to the point where an aggressor will hesitate to attack. That is why the other Western nations are devoting such huge proportions of their national effort and national income to the job we have set our hands to."

The discussion occurred while the House passed an estimated $1,500,000,000 in defence estimates for the 1951-52 fiscal year. The amount was believed a record for a one-day sitting of the Commons.

Members adopted a resolution to adjourn the current session—expected to complete its work Friday or Saturday—until Oct. 9, unless developments necessitate an earlier recall.

They completed study of the government's legislative program by adopting a bill providing for a 20-per-cent increase in the salaries of judges in courts other than the Supreme Court of Canada. Only departmental estimates of expenditure remain to be considered before adjournment.

43,120 In Army

In the defence debate, Mr. Claxton said the regular Canadian army has 43,120 men, about 28,000 or 30,000 of them operational. The operational troops were the equivalent to about two divisions of Second World War strength and included the 25th Brigade group in Korea along with enough reinforcements to keep it fighting five or six months. More reinforcements were being added daily.

The 27th Brigade group, earmarked for Europe, had 8,384 men. The 23rd Regular Force Airborne Brigade group which gave some

"There's not a thing new in it. There's not the slightest inclination to try and get a reachable settlement."

Iran also announced today that she will not send representatives to the International Court hearing at The Hague Friday on the oil dispute.

Closed In 48 Hours

A creeping paralysis of the oil company's vast operations in Southern Iran hit the refinery at Abadan.

An Anglo-Iranian official announced the Abadan refinery—world's largest—will be closed gradually over the next 48 hours. Anglo-Iranian also announced that all its tankers have been diverted from Abadan in one of the biggest shipping switches ever made in peacetime.

Other major oil companies who take oil from the Anglo-Iranian Company at Abadan were similarly diverting their tankers, the announcement said.

Government Worried

It was plain that government circles were concerned over the threat of mass resignations by the AIOC's 2,800 British employees. Should the British managers and technicians pull out, the billion-dollar oil industry here would, in all probability, have to close down.

The statement Wednesday by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States appealing for a stop-gap arrangement which would let the British employees stay in Iran to keep the oil moving was believed to have had some effect on Iranian officials.

The middle-of-the-road newspaper Ateesh said the message expressed Iran's desire to keep the oil flowing but blamed the British for mass resignations which might stop it.

India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru also urged moderation in the interests of world peace.

Wait Evacuation Signal

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company is reported expecting word from London, perhaps today, to send its remaining 2,800 British employees home and shut down. Women and children have gone and the British cruiser Mauritius was ordered to stand by off the oil port of Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, to cover evacuation of the men.

AIOC's tough young field boss, A. E. C. Drake, has spent the last two days in Basra, across the frontier in Iraq, on the advice of British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd. Shepherd said he was afraid Iran's proposed new law decreeing death for sabotage might strike at Drake. Iran accused Drake of sabotage for ordering captains of British tankers at Abadan not to sign receipts saying they owed the Iranian National Oil Company for oil taken aboard their ships.

By this morning there were 42 tankers tied up near Abadan because of the squabble. The British government has ordered them to discharge cargo and sail empty rather than sign the receipts. Without ships to carry it off, oil and gasoline will soon clog the limited storage facilities, necessitating a shutdown even if British personnel stay on.

The company hopes to hang on at least until Friday when the international court at The Hague, The Netherlands, is scheduled to take up a British request for an injunction against Iran. Iran has said it will not recognize the court's jurisdiction.

Had he known said Mr. Howe, what difficulties were to occur as a result of that decision, he never would have allowed the name to be retained and he was sure the new operator would have agreed.

Mr. Drew, he said, had referred specifically to government fees to the firm in excess of $500,000. That, said Mr. Howe, was about twice the amount the firm received.

He explained that part of the fee was for the construction of a dock at Seven Islands, Que. Mr. Howe had not known that the firm had the contract until he was told so by the deputy minister of public works.

When he asked why the firm received the contract, the reply was that the firm already was doing a private job in the area and was in a favorable position to take on the government project as well.

Others Available

Regarding a contract for a reactor at the Chalk River atomic plant, it was simply because there was no other firm available to do the job.

Mr. Drew had stated Wednesday that the firm — "a family company" — had been given the job of handling "the $3,000,000 contract on the Chalk River reactor."

Actually the amount of fees received by the firm was about $200,000, Mr. Howe stated.

Mr. Howe, explaining the deal, said Defence Industries Limited had been approached to handle the contract, but Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, National Research Council president, had found the firm unavailable and turned to the C. D. Howe Company.

This, said Mr. Howe, was the only other firm with the engineering experience to do the job. But before Dr. Mackenzie awarded the contract, he approached Mr. Howe because such a move might prove embarrassing to the production minister. Mr. Howe told him to go ahead and give the firm the contract, if he found no other suitable company available.

2 Draws Feature Roof Garden Tea Held By YW Gym

Roof Garden of the YWCA was the attractive setting for a tea held Wednesday afternoon by the Health Education department to raise a contribution toward the World Service Fund. Mrs. Stanley McBride and Mrs. Oswald Price were the general conveners of the affair.

Home-grown roses made up a most beautiful bouquet for the tea table and it was raffled in a unique way. Alleen Garlepy designed a large poster on which colored flower stickers were placed on numbers taken. Winner of the flowers was Miss Kitty Allen on a ticket drawn by Mrs. Charles V. Wood.

The door prize was a cup and saucer donated by Mrs. S. McBride and she drew the winning ticket which is number 92. Holder may claim the prize at the Y office.

Baskets of summer flowers set on the garden walls were very lovely and the members of the ballet classes who were in costume added color to the scene. Miss Yvette Simoneau was responsible for the decorating.

A program put on for visitors to the gym included the "can-can" dance by the senior ballet, and the teen-agers as lipstick and rouge from the pageant program, followed by the Bell Hops in their cadet routine.

Teen-agers who assisted at the tea as candy girls were Gladys Roberts, Carol Lambke and Barbara Succie. The home cooking table offered a fine variety of good things and was in charge of Mrs. Spiro Zakos and Mrs. R. Seymour.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. W. G. Owens, Mrs. Jack Lewis, Mrs. M. McBride and Mrs. L. Yeates. The servers were Mrs. Marlow Banks, Mrs. Charles V. Wood, Miss Edna Rule, Miss Yvette Simoneau, Mrs. Don McGillem, Mrs. B. Hooley, Mrs. H. Vinette and Miss Peggy Patterson.

Ticket takers were Miss Helen Zakos and Mrs. Margaret McIlmoyle.

pany," the C. D. Howe Company Limited.

Returning today from a brief holiday, Mr. Howe told the chamber that he did not like to discuss family matters in the House, but that he would do so because Mr. Drew had referred to a son and son-in-law of his as being connected with the firm.

It was true, said Mr. Howe, that he had a son-in-law, Bob Stedman, a war veteran, who had applied for a position with the firm in 1947 and was accepted as an engineer. A son John, had been employed there as an engineer since 1948.

But there were about 50 engineers altogether in the firm, many of them far more senior in rank than his son and son-in-law.

Mr. Howe, speaking on a question of privilege, said he had severed his connections with the firm in 1935, after the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King asked him to join the Liberal party and seek a seat in parliament.

At that time he owned all the shares in the firm, which had contracts to build grain elevators for the Board of Grain Commissioners. The reason Mr. Howe allowed his name to be used after he left the firm was because the man took over operations said he would find it difficult to operate otherwise.

Had he known said Mr. Howe, what difficulties were to occur as a result of that decision, he never would have allowed the name to be retained and he was sure the new operator would have agreed.

New Controversy For Ukrainians

TORONTO, June 28 (CP).—Controversy over a weekend celebration of the arrival of the first Ukrainian in Canada and the dedication of a statue broke out anew Wednesday with the announcement that the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, has withdrawn his patronage.

Stephen Pawluck, president of the Ukrainian branch of the Canadian Legion, said Viscount Alexander had originally agreed to attend a celebration at Palermo, just outside Toronto, where the Association of United Ukrainian Canadians is celebrating the 60th anniversary of the first immigrant this weekend.

He said the Governor-General, learning that the organization was pro-Communist, withdrew his patronage and will instead attend a celebration the anti-Communist Ukrainian Canadian committee is planning in September.

Westwood Kids Hold Picnic

WESTWOOD, June 28 (ENS).—The annual picnic for the Westwood school area was held on Tuesday afternoon at Bidsall Beach.

A large number of parents and friends turned out to enjoy the lake breezes and participate in the events of the afternoon.

Beginning with a picnic dinner at noon, the afternoon program consisted of games, races and swimming.

Prize winners of races were as follows:

Junior boys—Norman Hie. Senior boys, 100-yard dash — Paul Humphries. Juniors, rabbit hop—Billy Whitred. Ladies' shoe-kicking contest — Mrs. A. Wood. Senior boys, wheelbarrow race — Teddy Mortlock and Terry Rye. Junior boys, wheelbarrow race — Norman Hie and Terry Rye. Senior boys, potato race — Paul Humphries. Girls' 3-legged race—Barbara Whitred and Isabel Wilson. Boys' 3-legged race—Buddy Cardwell and Paul Humphries. Ladies' husband-calling contest — Mrs. W. Middlebrook. Threading a needle—Mrs. W. Breckenridge and Teddy Mortlock, tied with Humphries. Several group games were played, including an earring relay, centipede race, heel-and-toe race, and a peanut scramble.

Buy 102 New Blinds For Counties' Home

COBOURG, June 28 (ENS).—The report of the grand jury at the spring assizes criticized the counties' home for the aged as being dismal, poorly-ventilated, lacking recreational facilities and with uncomfortable beds. The Board of Management at the recent session of counties council tendered a report which indicated that the grand jury presentment was not taken seriously. A significant paragraph in the report read as follows:

"We recommend that the superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, be complimented on their work at the Home and the manner in which the Home and the residents are looked after."

However, some new mattresses have been purchased, 102 new window blinds were bought and some painting is going on.

Make Changes Town Hall Accommodation

COBOURG, June 28 (ENS).—Considerable improvements have been made in connection with offices in the town hall which are rented from the town by the counties of Northumberland and Durham. The dingy police court room, ill-ventilated, dirty and cramped, is no longer used as a court room. Police court is now being held in the town council flies in the town hall which are basis. The old court room is to revert to its former use, that of a grand jury room during Supreme Court sittings and also as a witness room during Supreme Court and County Court sessions. The property committee of the counties council is going to clean up and redecorate this room. A small room, has been fixed up on the ground floor as a robing room for the barristers. The room used by the provincial police, before moving to its new quarters, is now being used as an office by the Crown Attorney.

UNDAUNTED by the prospect of travelling thousands of miles from Barrhead, Scotland, to a country of which they only knew what they had read in magazines, and in which they had no friends or relatives, two lassies packed their few belongings and boarded a ship for Canada. Jean Kelly and Anna Lynch, who lives only a stone's throw from each other in Barrhead, are still wide-eyed with wonder in their new home, where they are employed as domestics, in Montreal. The two lassies landed in the Metropolis with $10 between them. "We were not worried" they defiantly proclaimed, "Barrhead girls can get along anywhere—they know how to work."

New Tourist Bureau Opened In Cobourg

COBOURG, June 28 (ENS).—Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, with an office on Division St., will have a downtown office for the summer months in front of the town hall, which is right on the highway and convenient for the travelling public. A small building, not unlike a summer cabin, covered with half-logs, is being located in front of the town hall and all the tourist booklets and maps will be available there.

Can't Supply Army

LONDON, June 28 (AP).—The Western big three have agreed that German suggestions for raising an Army, Navy and Air Force are unworkable because they call for more armor, aircraft and ships than the Atlantic Allies could supply under their present rearmament program, diplomats said Wednesday. West Germany suggested the Allies allow her an army of 150,000 to 200,000, a swift mobile defensive Navy and a hard-hitting tactical Air Force with about 2,000 light bombers.

Communists In Our Industry

E. D. Perkins, director of industrial security for the Defence Production Department of the Canadian Government has reported on the "screening" of employees in Canadian plants where works of a secret nature are being carried out. It is revealed that the Reds are trying to get into "every industry in Canada." The screening is by no means complete, since, according to Mr. Perkins' report, only about 25,000 workers have been sifted. The chaff turned up in this numbered 250. That does not seem many, but it is one per cent. One per cent is enough to sabotage a factory, and recent history of Communism in European countries shows that it is enough even to seize control of a country, using well-known Communist tactics of slander, lies, intimidation and violence. The 250 "undesirables" workers whom R.C.M.P. investigators have turned out are potentially dangerous. In the sifting process undoubtedly others have escaped detection. These might be the most dangerous, because the real agents of Communism in Canada are well under cover. They work through the more obvious Communists and fellow-travellers, like the 250 workers picked out as "undesirable."

This screening is not a witch-hunt for Reds. It is an attempt to take precautions. There is no public flogging, no Star Chamber. If an "undesirable" person is found to be working in a plant, the contract for secret equipment is withheld until the Communist is either fired or given work which isolates him from the part of the plant producing the classified equipment.

The screening process has already lightly touched Peterborough's chief industrial plant. How effective it is cannot be determined. One wonders how well the secrecy of a particular work can be guarded merely by screening the people who actually work on the job or by transferring an undesirable person to another bench. Hundreds of others in the plant daily pass through the department where the special job is being done; they are in daily contact with the men engaged on it; and, actually, in such a highly organized plant, many departments, from cost accounting to fire-fighting, are connected directly or indirectly with the defence production orders.

In expressing concern about this matter we do not suggest that Communists are skulking beside every bench and hiding under every bed in Peterborough. However, there are Communists about the city and there is Communist influence at work in our industrial plants. These facts should be recognized. The proportion of Communists is probably less than the one per cent. revealed by the Defence Production Department's screening throughout the country, but as we have already said, a very small infiltration of Communists is enough to overthrow a majority.

Big Talk From Syngman Rhee

Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of South Korea, has issued an announcement regarding the proposal for a cease-fire order in the Korean conflict. He will not accept any proposal which falls short of a complete unification of the Korean Peninsula—"this is our minimum requirement."

This is big talk indeed, and it seems to us that it is high time Syngman Rhee was told, and told very plainly, that what he considers a minimum requirement will not be the governing factor in reaching any settlement of the Korean conflict through negotiations. The United Nations will determine the minimum requirement, and Mr. Rhee will find himself constrained to accept it. And it is quite improbable that the United Nations will be impressed by his dictum that nothing less than complete unification will do.

The demand for South Korean representation at discussions seems justified, but if South Korean representatives were to insist on complete unification as a preliminary requirement, they would contribute little to the discussions. North Korean representatives could certainly be counted upon to reject this demand—and North Korea would perforce be represented.

Since war began in Korea, it has become necessary to re-examine and re-appraise Syngman Rhee and his Government. It is now generally conceded that both suffered in the process. For many years, Mr. Rhee fought most courageously for an independent Korea, but somewhere along the line he apparently acquired the nature and habits of a dictator. His Government is said to be one of dubious integrity, under which the old abuses of feudalism and reactionary capitalism persisted. Even the conduct of the election which placed it in power has now been questioned. It is this Government, and its leader, which is now attempting to dictate cease-fire terms.

The Western Powers have backed some strange starters in the Far East. Chiang Kai-shek was one, and there is still strong support for him and his corrupt followers in the United States, led by Alfred Kohlberg and the "China lobby." Another is the Emperor Bao Dai, who prefers to play around in France while his people are fighting in Indo-China. Syngman Rhee is still another, and although the United Nations may be committed to recognition of his South Korean regime for the present, it might not be too early to begin to weigh the desirability of a truly democratic election for South Korea, at least, if peace can be negotiated.

Pip-Squeaks From Montreal

The Ottawa Citizen does a useful service in Ontario by reporting periodically on the French-language press in Canada, sifting editorial opinion and reports in various Quebec papers. A week ago the Citizen's analyst gave this report on an article in Montreal's Le Devoir:

"French-Canadians give proof of pride in not enlisting" was the title of an article written by Pierre Vigeant, parliamentary reporter for Le Devoir. "There will not be many to serve in the 25th Brigade of an army in which they would be treated as mercenaries," the article commented.

"The minister of defence . . . expressed satisfaction that French-Canadians had responded with as much enthusiasm as others when the government recruited the 25th Brigade which is serving in Korea. He is probably disappointed," Vigeant continued, "to learn that the volunteers are three times less numerous this time. He should not be surprised."

"One should rejoice at the results of the recruiting campaign. The French-Canadians are giving proof, quite simply, of pride in not enrolling en masse in the 25th Brigade. If they refused to recruit, despite the minister of national defence could conclude that they were satisfied to be treated as mercenaries."

"Mr. Claxton won't have to seek the explanation of so little enthusiasm. It is involved in the organization and policy of the minister who inflicts an unjust treatment on French-Canadian officers and soldiers. It also is involved in the declarations, of slight encouragement, by the minister in the House of Commons recently."

The 25th Brigade was made up largely of veterans of World War II, Le Devoir commented, and of a group of adventurers. By the time the 27th was to be recruited, however, the words of Mr. Claxton regarding the future of French-Canadians in the army had been heard—and they discouraged the hesitant. Reforms are necessary, if French-speaking Canadians are to be attracted to the army, Vigeant maintained.

Le Devoir must not be taken as representative of French-Canadian opinion generally. The paper has a circulation of only 20,000; by contrast, Montreal's La Presse has a circulation of 224,000. La Presse, compared with Le Devoir, is moderate and liberal. Le Devoir is extreme, nationalist, isolationist, and has editorial principles which would not be creditable to President Peron of the Argentine. But Le Devoir is so loud that it makes itself heard, like a little tub-thumper on a soap-box, and it does voice a dissentient, Rightist section of opinion in Quebec.

General Quebec opinion gives the lie to Le Devoir's assertions that men who enlist in the Korean or the European brigades are mercenaries. Leaders of state and church in Quebec—for instance, Mr. St. Laurent and Archbishop Roy of Quebec—do not conceive that Canadian troops voluntarily enlisting for service at the call of U.N. are mercenaries, mere hirlings.

To serve Canada and the United Nations in their march to uphold political democracy, human rights and personal liberty such as French-Canadians and English-Canadians enjoy, is not to be found at home. It is to be found far more than at home; for the Russian peace policy is aimed. The strain on the Russian economy caused by the cold war is such that it is felt in every Russian home. Stalin has promised his people so much so often that they will no longer work, as he requires them to work, on the simple promise of better times to come. His greatest, perhaps his only asset, is his legendary position as protector of peace. The more actively he can play this role by manoeuvring the governments of the West into appearing to be in fact as belligerent as he paints them, the greater his hold on the Russian people as the man who is frustrating the war-mongers by sheer force of his own personality, based on the constructive efforts of the Russian people, and supported by the resistance to war of the dumb masses in the outer world.

Without ever going so far as to provoke us into preventive war, Stalin has set himself to manoeuvre us into a series of false positions, each suggesting to the uninitiated inside Russia that only he stands between the Russian people and the belligerent ambitions of the governments of the West. And every time we allow him to succeed in one of these manoeuvres, we strengthen the Soviet regime. This cannot be our aim.

(Special to The Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer.)

Stalin Seizes Initiative In War Of Words

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

MR. GROMYKO in Paris last week and now Mr. Malik in New York have told us a number of things about the present mood of the Soviet Government. Mr. Gromyko has made it quite clear that Stalin has no intention of relaxing his efforts to sow confusion and dissension in the West, even at the cost of a heavy strain on the Soviet economy, always provided that these efforts may be presented to the Russian people as part of the fight for peace. Mr. Malik with his sudden intervention in the Korean affair has told us that despite his actively hostile policy Stalin cannot afford to permit a final break-down of communications between Russia and the West and, at the same time, that he cannot rest for one moment in his spurious role of lord-protector of the peace.

In Paris during the past weeks the Western Powers have played into Stalin's hands with a consistent and inspired stupidity that takes one's breath away. At no time in the proceedings did Messrs. Davies, Jessup and Parodi individually or together, give the slightest hint that they knew how to practise diplomacy, or even that they knew what diplomacy was for. They allowed Mr. Gromyko to pursue them grimly from one false position to another until, clinging with stubborn rigidity to predetermined attitudes, they were pushed right off the board.

THIS spectacle of a single individual outmanoeuvring with almost contemptuous ease the chosen representatives of the greatest combination of power in the history of the world indicates if nothing else does, that there is something very wrong with Western policies. Whatever the Russians may have intended at the beginning of the Paris conference, it was clear towards the end that they were determined to place the onus of breaking it off firmly on the Western Powers, who could then be shown as enemies of the peace. Thus, when we finally did break off the conference, an action made inevitable by our unimaginative stone-walling in the earlier phases, but robbed of any semblance of moral authority by its very evident postponement until the French elections were out of the way, we conceded a diplomatic victory to the Kremlin.

EVERYBODY knows that the Soviet Government pursues its own interests with unwavering singleness of purpose and total lack of scruple. Only fools are deceived by its high moral pretensions. But what the people of the West seem unable to get into their heads is that half of the world thinks of the British, the Americans and the French as being tarred with the same brush. We are not loved for our nice natures; but we used to be respected for our ability and strength. The Russians may be even less loved; but there can be no doubt in anybody's mind as to who showed the greater ability and tenacity of purpose at the Palais Rose.

The original motive behind the Soviet initiative for a conference was almost certainly fear of a resurgent Germany. Events have since shown Stalin that the German menace is not so immediate as he believed, so that he can afford to take a little more time. There is every reason to suppose that he wants a high level conference, and that sooner or later he will find it convenient, if not imperative, to reduce the strain on Russia's economy by reducing the international tension. But he is determined first to extract every ounce of advantage from the present paralytic conduct of the West. Thus, no sooner has Mr. Gromyko achieved his immediate object, than Mr. Malik comes up blandly with an appeal for a Korean armistice, delivered before London, Washington and Paris have had a moment to think what to do next.

IT is possible that the Kremlin has finally decided that the time for a cease-fire has come. China may well be reluctant to go on fighting Russia's battles for her, and the last thing Stalin wants is to see the Americans established a stone's throw from Vladivostok. We do not know; it may be simply that Stalin is following up his advantage and seeking to embarrass the West still further: by putting the onus of a continuation of the Korean war on us.

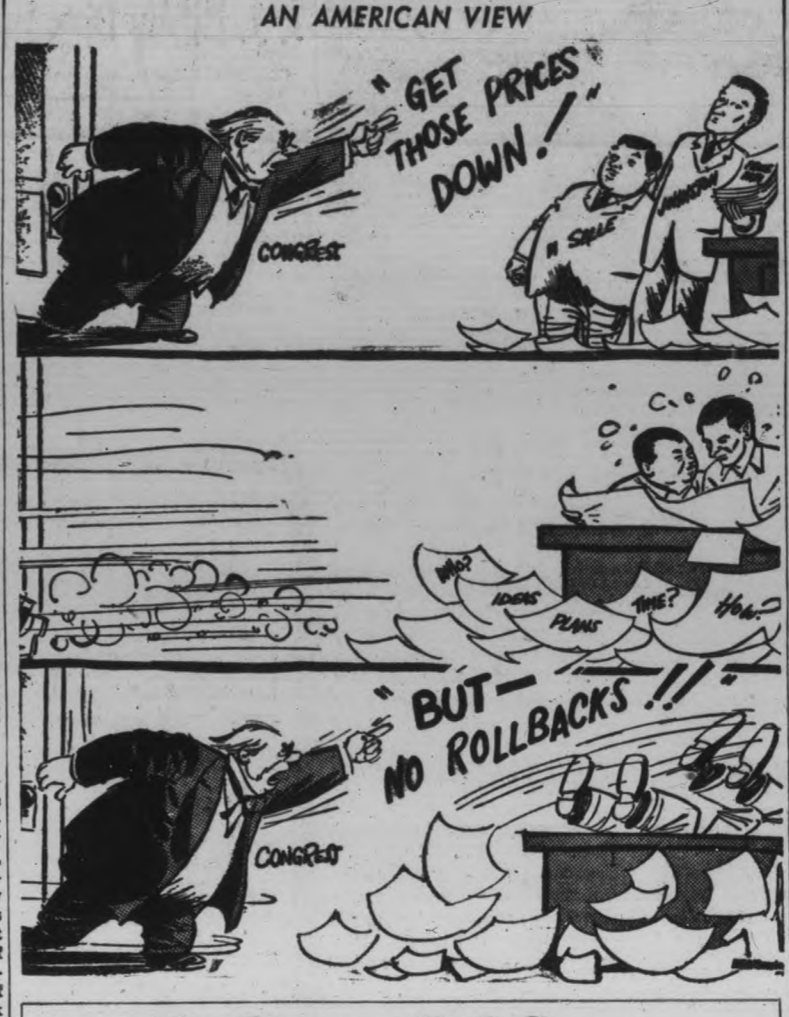

Certainly, without a greater display of diplomatic skill than the West has shown in Paris, he will succeed in this. Further, at any moment Stalin himself may weigh in with a direct appeal for a high-level conference, to make good the failure of the deputation. The West should not be able to refuse without looking foolish in the eyes of its friends and sinister elsewhere.

In a word, Stalin, after a spell of defensive tactics, has once again seized the initiative in the war of words. It will be easier to wrest it from him if we have a clear idea of his motives. Obviously, he is very much concerned with weakening the purpose and resolution of the Atlantic Powers, with exploiting the resistance to foreign imperialism of backward peoples, with exploiting the genuine desire for peace among all people everywhere.

Without ever going so far as to provoke us into preventive war, Stalin has set himself to manoeuvre us into a series of false positions, each suggesting to the uninitiated inside Russia that only he stands between the Russian people and the belligerent ambitions of the governments of the West. And every time we allow him to succeed in one of these manoeuvres, we strengthen the Soviet regime. This cannot be our aim.

(Special to The Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer.)

A young man was proudly showing an old countryman a typewriter. After a short silence the latter said: "Ah, these 'ere' high class things are all right, but for real good music you want to 'ear our Garge on the concertine.'"

Ice Cream - 5¢ A Cone

By BON VIVANT

IN the course of my travels around and about I stopped the other day at Joe's place in Manila. There was a chap named Dewey who also had something to do with a place called Manila, however, Joe's Manila is on No. 7 highway. It is a grey blue and white bistro, with the interior customer space kept at a minimum by the display of cushion tops, boxed chocolates, cigars and trick key-rings. The decor is highlighted by a spate of signs Joe bought from a travelling man.

These signs aren't original in sentiment. They recommend the coffee, suggest the pie a la mode, and advise the customers that "In God We Trust; All Others Pay Cash". The lettering is silver leaf on a dark blue ground. Joe feels they give the place an air of distinction.

I dropped into Joe's to restore my flagging spirits with an ice cream cone. When I was handed a whopper, which anywhere else would pass as a double dip, I was quite sure I was in the 10c class. However, upon inquiring the price, it turned out to be only a nickel. I chided Joe gently about the low price, suggesting, that with the new budget taxes and all, the price would be going up.

Joe, a smallish man, conveying the definite impression of having been larger, but not being sanforized, shrank to his present dimensions by careless laundry work, became quite wrathful at the very idea of raising the price of cones. Shooting his tongue in and out of the space, made available by a missing front tooth, exactly like an excitable garter snake, he propounded for me his philosophy of the ice cream cone.

Bolled down it was that a kid can't buy much for a nickel these days, and anyone who adds an extra cent or two above the nickel price is furthering communistic principles, besides doing a grave injustice to the kid. This is merely the 'res' of Joe's remarks. The explanation took some little time, with Joe imitating first the child coming in and asking what he could get for a nickel, to Joe himself giving out with the glad tidings that this lowly coin would buy a cone, and a big one at that.

Joe is a piffling man. His little shop is neat and tidy. He and his wife work seven days a week. Not that Joe is in favour of working Sunday, but, as he explained, people set out for a drive, and Sunday is a day for family driving. No sooner do they leave home than the kids begin asking: "When will we get to Joe's place?" Joe feels it is only fair he should give up his Sunday to look after his friends. After all they were the consumers of over 600 gallons of ice cream sold last year, and to Joe this is a matter for considerable satisfaction.

While I was there a traveller for a cigaret distributor dropped in. He looked over Joe's stock and suggested certain items to bring it up to par. With a lordly wave of his hand Joe told him to go right ahead. Maybe he should put in a few extra cartons. As Joe explained it to me, if Sunday was as nice as the day I was there, a lot of friends would be dropping around, and it would never do not to have a supply of their favourite weed.

A friendly little man Joe, with an outlook on life not too common today. He is perfectly happy running his tiny shop, and very proud of a pocket edition of himself who was greatly interested in the snap cover of a spectacle case he had found somewhere.

I suspect the pocket edition explains some of Joe's kindly feelings for the kids. If your travels should take you along No. 7 highway in the vicinity of Manila, look for a blue and white shop set a bit back from the road, on the westerly limits of the village. That is Joe's place. A visit to purchase one of the famous 5c cones is worth a stop, and a longer stop, which will permit a chat with Joe, is good pay for the time spent.

I left Joe with the feeling I had been added to his list of friends and would be expected, when in the vicinity, to wait until I arrived at Manila to purchase cones, and stock up on cigars, cushion tops, boxed candy, trick key rings, or any of the other miscellany with which the store is stocked. I'm quite sure I shall do just this, and perhaps enjoy another fifteen minute dose of Joe's homespun philosophy.

It seems too bad you don't come across more Joe's as you travel about. As an ambassador of goodwill to all visitors, whether they be tourists or no, he'll do a lot more for friendly relations than those who regard passers-by as part of a new mother lode.

Love Keeps No Books
(Elias Lieberman in the New York Times)
Love scorns the neat apothecary scales. That dole out grams of debt; she keeps no books. Recording balances; she tells no tales. Unerringly her compass shows, when looks are faded and the sky turns dark, from heart: To eager-heart a line as true as flight. Of homing pigeons; if she uses art. It is the better to outwit the night. When love is put to test of sacrifice. She burns the wick of life unsparringly. Rejecting each penurious device; Her quenchless flame is hallowed mystery. Reviving frozen spirit, prodigal. Of surging faith that moves and conquers all.

In spite of every provocation, the Albertan consistently refused to make any editorial comment on this week's weather. This is a family newspaper, and there is the matter of civic pride. Besides, it wouldn't have done any good.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)
The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid? . . . Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident. . . I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living. (Ps. 27:1,3,13.)

The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations. Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he hath chosen for his own inheritance. The Lord looketh from heaven; he beareth all the sons of men. (Ps. 138:1-3.)
For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the Lord, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you an expected end. . . And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart. (Jer. 29:11,13.)

Letter To The Editor

PACKERS' PRICES

*Sir: With the beef price 'headache' in the news again, and likely to be with us for long time, I would like to bring the following revealing figures to the spotlight—where the final consumer reads. They show what happened to every $100.00 of income to one of the country's major packing concerns, and are culled from the company's 1950-51 annual report:

To livestock producers	$82.01
To employees (wages, pensions, etc.)	10.05
Supplies (packaging final product)	2.49
General expenses (operating)	2.82
Taxes (federal, provincial, local)	0.74
Depreciation (buildings & equipment)	0.63
Interest (to banks and bondholders)	0.19
Reserve (inventory, contingencies)	0.25
Profit (from packinghouse operations)	0.82
Total	$100.00

To these rural eyes at any rate, the above table is worth pondering! On the other hand, it seems important to remind the average busy urban Canadian that the above crystal-clear picture of what I would term "The Packers' Dollar" is not to be confused with "The Urban Meat Dollar", at the retail level. Obviously, there is room for a second table, showing what happens to the aforesaid $100.00 worth of livestock products, as they move on to the ultimate consumers, at the retail level? So far as my experience goes, I confess that these latter details are unknown to me. I suggest (if there is nothing to hide, and adequate services are being rendered for widening the price range) that, at the above point, we are only at the half-way mark between the farm gate and the cityman's plate, and that all Canadians are entitled to the facts and figures which are missing, but which are needed to complete this rural-urban meat price story?

Wages In The Gold Camps

(Northern Miner)
"Starvation wages" is a battle cry frequently uttered by union agitators in Ontario gold camps.

Average wage incomes belie the slogan. At one of the Porcupine mines the average received by employees this year was as follows, per week: In January $58.44; February $60.66; March $58.20; April $61.02.

This takes in cost-of-living and incentive bonuses, does not embrace fringe benefits. It is the weekly pay, and it is representative of the camp.

The figures are well above Toronto average. Evidence presented at a Conciliation Board was that the average rent in Timmins was $31.29 a month. Big-city rent for no more comfortable or capacious quarters runs two and three times higher. Further evidence in company houses, and 750 own their own homes. The rent of 350 company houses is $15 to $20 a month.

Sexy Book Jackets

(Bennett Cerf in S.R.L.)
The book editor of the Oregon Journal received a review copy of Rosamond Marshall's "Laird's Choice" (Prentice-Hall), removed the jacket, and then sought to persuade somebody to review it. Several prospects flipped idly through the pages and murmured, "I don't think I'm right for this kind of book."

The editor then replaced the sexy jacket and went to lunch. When he got back five people were fighting for the privilege of reviewing "Laird's Choice".
All of which proves that those lads who order darling jackets for paper-backs know their onions—or casaba melons, as the case may be.

Alberta Nearly Debt Free

(Edmonton Journal)
The announcement that the provincial debt now stands at $98,356,132 is interesting, showing as it does that it has been reduced by $2,266,000 as a result of payments made at the first of this month.

Provincial reserves must be coming close to equalling the total debt!

At the end of 1950, they stood at $62,000,000. The provincial surplus for the year ending last March was more than $20,000,000, so it is reasonable to assume that the reserves are probably more than $80,000,000 today.

CP Reporter Boss Has Unique Camp In Korea

By FRANK KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, June 28 — (AP)— A unique press camp keeps Canadians in close touch with their brigade fighting in Korea. Unlike anything in the Far East, the camp is the one-man operation of Bill Boss, staff correspondent for The Canadian Press. He came out last December with the Princess Patricia's and his daily dispatches give Canada a continuing close-up picture of this tough war in the rugged hills and narrow valleys of Korea.

Boss' bristling red beard, black beret and cheery voice are trademarks along the Canadian front. He lives and works in a small tent and a jeep with a two-wheeled trailer. There is electric light, a small stove and a portable radio. The tent can be knocked down and packed, and CP can be on the move in 45 minutes if necessary when the battle-front shifts.

Boss lives on the gun line, with the artillery, and sends his news back to the nearest telephone. A lone-wolf reporter free to move anywhere in the battle area, he issues his own daily situation report for map purposes to Maj. Colin McDougall, the brigade's public information chief. This battle-line news coverage arrangement was set up by Boss because the official press set-up is at the rear, the orthodox position.

Hundreds of Stories
From this improvised press camp hundreds of news stories have been sent out in the last six months and distributed to CP's members. When the brigade goes into action, spot news coverage sometimes is almost on an hour-to-hour basis. Some days Boss' cabled dispatches have run to 1,000 words—at 11 cents a word. Each night the Boss notebook is filled with material. Incidents, impressions, drama, death, disaster, humor and names—always the names of men, and their deeds—go into the notebook to be woven into news stories for the people back home.

The biggest story Boss has covered in Korea was the late-

CP'S REPRESENTATIVE—One-man press establishment with Canada's troops in Korea is Bill Boss, (Top), red-bearded correspondent of The Canadian Press. His black beret and cheery voice are well known to all members of the 25th Brigade. He is shown in front of a map of Korea—his beat—during a recent leave in Tokyo. His boy Friday—Tent boy, jeep driver, cook and courier in Korea is Chong, (Lower), seen at work in front of Boss' tent. On duty from daybreak to midnight, Chong boils water for shaving or making tea not only for Boss but for any correspondents or visitors who happen by.

April night when the Princess Patricia's stopped the heavy Chinese assault that for a time threatened the entire sector. The enemy started over at 10 p.m. and the battalion still was fighting at 10 the next morning. After a night of slaughter Boss personally counted 17 Chinese bodies within inches of the Canadians' slit trenches. It was for their part in the action that the Princess were awarded an United States presidential citation.

Takes More Work
But it is the lesser news, of individual soldiers, incidents, minor events, the background against which the war is being fought, that often require most work and time. These are the stories, Boss says, that give the greatest satisfaction to the reporter who likes to write about life behind the lines, the moods and feelings, the adventures and experiences of the men in the brigade. Much of this copy is airmailed.

Usually Bill writes these stories at night in his tent while Chong, his tent-boy, cook and handy man, is fixing the evening chow. Chong, a Korean, is on duty from daybreak to midnight. He acts as majordomo, housekeeper, jeep driver, engineer, cook and courier. He brews the tea and provides hot water for shaving. Boss' cabled stories of action are taken to the nearest telephone line—which may be as far back as Seoul—by George Campbell, a former Ottawa taxi driver who enlisted as a private in the Princess last August and was transferred from a transport platoon to act as a press courier. Campbell has been under fire on these trips, but says mud is his worst enemy.

Before midnight the CP tent pitched on the slope of a Korean hill is dark and quiet, unless there is company. And frequently there is. Perhaps a visiting correspondent from another company. Less than an hour before they were killed by an anti-tank road mine, Lieut. Joe Levison, a Canadian information officer, and Derek Pearcey of Reuters had stopped at The Canadian Press tent for a cup of tea.

With all this reporting, Bill Boss worries over whether the people at home have full appreciation of how terrific the Canadian troops in Korea really are, or just what a great fighting outfit has developed. It is well respected and officered, and above

Different Kind of War

This is a different kind of war, not as tough in some respects as the Second World War, because the enemy hasn't used his air power and he has little artillery in use. It is an infantryman's war, with rifle, grenade and mortar. But the sheer dull labor of endless hill-climbing, often under fire, calls for stamina, discipline and good morale.

There's little glory and less satisfaction in a war of dull dreary movement, but it is necessary; and so the Canadians do their share of the United Nations job as cheerfully as any national contingent on the line across Korea.

If it is tough for the troops, it is also tough for the news man, who is quick however to minimize the hardships of war reporting in comparison with what the soldiers face. Boss—with Second World War service behind him, both as soldier and as correspondent—says he thinks he can take it as long as the war lasts. He wants to stay.

Petes Beat Croftons 10-3 On 4-Hit Fray By Plunkett

Viaduct League standing:

Team	W	L
Petes	11	0
Golden	7	0
Kingsway	6	0
Staffords	5	1
Croftons	3	1

The Petes lengthened their lead in the Viaduct League here last night with a 10-3 win against Toronto Croftons. It was a good ball game till the late innings, the Whitehill crew scoring five runs in their last two times in. The loss sank Croftons deeper in the league cellar.

Doug Plunkett came up with a fine four-hit hurling effort, as he fanned six and walked three. His only spot of trouble was in the fourth frame when a hit, a walk, a sacrifice, three stolen bases and two miscues combined to give Croftons their three runs. He had good support otherwise, with three double-plays helping a lot. Bill Leuty pitched neat ball also till he tired after the sixth stanza. On earned runs it should have been 4-0 for the Petes.

Led The Way

Plunkett and Andy Milne had two for three at bat for the Petes, one of Andy's being a triple. Bill Huntley smacked out three in five tries, while two for five each were conked by Joe Stewart, Dick Golden and Freddy Garvey, the latter including a double. Bob Anderson led the losers with two for three. Neat catches were pulled by Harvey Williams of Croftons, and Joe Lowrey and Al Menzies of the homesters. Golden and Garvey had a flock of neat chances without a miscue, Dick pulling off one twin killing unassisted. Croftons counted three in the fourth. Eastern was safe on an infield error, took second on Williams' bunt and, after Haddleton walked, scored on a bingle by Steven. Haddleton took third on the blow and scored when Fontana was safe on a dropped fly in the garden. The latter and Stephen pulled a double steal, after Stephen had pilfered third, for three markers. Only once after that did a man reach third.

The Petes' Runs

The Petes got one in the third when Milne tripled to left and scored on an error. They tied with two next heat on singles by Bill Huntley and Plunkett, a steal and two-base errors. Golden hit safely next time up, stole second and put the Petes in front when Bill Huntley singled. Milne hit in the sixth, moved up on Plunkett's infield hit, took third on an error and scored on an out. Two more counted in the seventh on hits by Stewart, Huntley and Menzies, plus an out. Three runs finished it up in the eighth on singles by Garvey, Golden and Stewart, with an error, a walk and a stolen base figuring in on the deal.

Ashby, Marines Get Wins In Lasses' Loop

Girls' standing:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Westclox	7	4	.637
Marines	6	4	.600
Ashby's	4	3	.571
Woolens	2	6	.250
Cobourg	0	5	.000

Marines beat Westclox 11-4 at the Bowl last night, the first setback for the Clockers this season, while Ashby's edged Cobourg 8-7 in the other part of the twin bill. Some fine ball was served up in both frays, and the second one was a keen tilt to view. Ashby's go to Cobourg tomorrow, the next Bowl action for the girls being Monday.

Marines deserved their win, all players being on their toes, and E. Whitaker pitching steady ball. The Westclox pitching wasn't up to par and their errors hurt more than Marine miscues in a tidy tilt. M. Behan, A. LaPointe, B. Morrow and M. Owens went best defensively. M. Hodson took over from M. Selkirk in the fifth for the losers. Two hits each were knocked by V. Page, M. Gillen, B. Behan and E. Mantle, with E. Whitaker and B. McMahon banging triples. M. Bailey and M. Hawthorne had two safeties each for Westclox. Teams:

A Keen Game

The nightcap was a keen one, with Ashby's coming from behind in the eighth to win out. Ashby's had a bit more pep and ran the bases better in a fairly even fray with both pitchers in good form. J. Dunk shone afield with P. Williams also going well for the victors, as D. Hebert and H. Cain stood out for Cobourg. M. Boyce led Ashby's at bat with a homer and double and two singles in five. J. Dunk also clouting a four-bagger, while H. Cain led the losers with a double and two singles in five. B. Fisher belting a homer. Teams:

Mount Pleasant defeated Raybestos 10-6 at Quaker Park in fastball last evening in a neat scrap. They scored a run in the second, two each in the fourth, fifth and sixth, and three in the eighth. The losers scored one each in the fifth and ninth, with four in the seventh. Fee hit a homer and Mitchell a triple for the winners, with Cray tripling for Rays. SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

West Yrks of Toronto visit the senior lacrosse Petes at Miller Bowl on the morrow at 8.45 for an OLA tilt. McNulty, Teatro, Chard, White, Thomas, Banks, Ashbee, Timpon, Kapasky, Facto, Harris and Webster will be seeking to climb into playoff contention against the strong local squad, and it might result in a tidy tussle ere the finish. Likely another hefty Friday night crowd, if the climate behaves. The Yorks will be minus Pat DePippo, scrappy little forward—who once played for Peterborough. Pat will be out of action a spell after getting a manhandling from husky Harry Kazarian of Fergus. Thistles recently.

Story out of Toronto is that Pat cut Kazarian over an eye in a rush, and that Harry tore right across the field and cross-checked DePippo hard in the face with his stick. A flock of stitches needed to close several gashes and some talk of the nose being broken. The OLA executive will likely take action after studying the refs' report on the matter. Scribe Browne of St. Kitts waxed indignant and says Kazarian is that type of player, his temper going haywire when he is checked, and he always tries to get even. Claims he is the kind who can hand it out plenty, but can't take it. He maintains that Harry has pulled this a lot around the gutted-stick circuit.

When Used As An Axe

"When wielded as an axe," Browne writes, "a lacrosse hickory cuts worse than a hockey stick, and you can readily get a dirty wound, if care is not taken and vengeful tempers unquashed. That could be the reason why the U.S. in their 10-man field game among colleges refuse to let a player go into play without a full face mask. Some senior men in the OLA have used jack waxes for years." He also recalls the long suspension handed Jack Westenfelt (who also played for Petes once) when with Orilla he took a swing at a ref with his stick. Yes, the game is rugged enough under ordinary circumstances without players deliberately trying to cut opponents over the head or face with sticks.

Our two OLA teams came through with victories last night, the seniors edging Mounties 8-7 in Mimico and the local juniors winning 14-7 in Toronto. Four straight for Lou Vitarelli's pack, who face a tough foe, Mimico, here Saturday eve. They drill tonight. Hefferman, Morrissey and the Robinson brothers shone in this junior fray. A tidy tilt at Mimico as Don Crowe's senior crew moved back into a top place tie with St. Kitts (provided the A's were idle last eve), but pent-up anger at Referee Piper Bain caused Don Ashbee to erupt late in the contest. He ripped Bain's shirt and got a match misconduct for it, after Don and Scoop Hayes had roughed 'it up. He, Whipper and O'Hearn led the lamp-lighters, with Dugan in on a few, too, and Wootton tops in goal.

Marines Upset Clockers

Girls' softball standing is in elsewhere tonight. Marines upset the dope bucket at the Bowl last p.m. in earning an 11-4 victory over the leading Westclox femmes. That tightens the race considerably. Ashby's finished strong to deserve their 8-7 verdict against the Cobourg Paves in the last half of the softball double-header. The pitching generally was pretty even in these two struggles, but the winners in each case came up with more timely hitting and their errors weren't costly. Some good play seen lately in the lasses' loop as they settle down for the July drive. Ashby's go to Cobourg Friday, the Monday meless being: Woolens vs. Westclox, and Marines vs. Ashby's.

Toronto Croftons kind of crowded the Petes for a space at Riverside last night, but the locals came on strong in the last half to win 10-3. It increased their lead in the Viaduct League, but they have a tough week-end coming up. Two games in Toronto on Sunday and a pair right back here on Monday, picking up some postponements. And they're off tonight to play Kingsways in Toronto, by golly! Doug Plunkett pitched nifty four-hit ball last e'en and he and Andy Milne led the hitters with two for three each. Some smart fielding served up by the Petes—especially by the winners, who had more power and better fielding. The winners got three in the first, four each next two heats and five in the fourth. The losers got three each in the

Ashbee Fights Referee As Petes Win

MIMICO, June 23.—The combined efforts of two of his teammates failed to stop Don Ashbee from getting at Referee Piper Bain and ripping the shirt from his back, as Peterborough handed Mimico their first home defeat of the season, 8-7, here last night.

The fracas started early in the fourth quarter, following a high-sticking duel between Ashbee and Scoop Hayes and, before Bain had a chance to call a penalty on the play, Ashbee seemed to go berserk and swung his stick at Bain. Both Mason and Fitzgerald threw their arms around him to prevent further trouble but their best grips weren't strong enough as he broke away to once again attack Bain.

The second referee, Joe Murphy, finally managed to get him off the field and he was awarded a match misconduct for his action as well as a two-minute penalty for high-sticking. Hayes received a minor also.

Close Affair

For the most part the game was played cozily, neither team taking too many chances, and when goals were scored, they were the result of cleverly executed passing plays. Both teams scored once in the first quarter and the Petes forged ahead 5-4 in the second and maintained that one goal margin for the balance of the game. It ended by two goal attacks by Don Ashbee, Harry Whipper and Nit O'Hearn.

Denny Peterson was by far Mimico's best player, scoring twice and being felled on at least two more by Moon Wootton. Velman Archie Dixon also tallied a pair.

Omeme Beaten

OMEMEE, June 23 (ENS).—Greenhurst remained undefeated as they trounced Omeme Combines 11-3 in the village last night. The Lindsay crew wrapped up the game in the first inning with a five-run scoring spree, and from then on it was a good close game. For the Combines, Johnson did the pitching for six innings, giving up 12 hits and allowing one base on balls. Parsons taking over in the seventh frame. He whiffed two and was nicked for four hits.

Catcher Art Plumpton was the Paves' heavy hitter with four safeties for five. Greenwood had three for five. Haddy Eakins banged out the only homer of the game. Tom Pogue was Omeme's best slugger, getting three in three. He also did a nice job in the field, being credited with five putouts. Roy Crawford notched two for three. Stephenson had two for four.

In Toronto last evening, the Young Petes (sponsored by Filter Queens) racked up a 14-7 OLA junior victory over Maitlands, their fourth win in as many starts. It was Toronto's fourth straight reverse. Peterborough plays the second-place Mimico team here at 8:45 Saturday night in their first clash of the season, the Vitarelli pack having a drill at seven tonight in preparation for this game.

It was a good scrap last evening, with the visitors taking an early lead and then having to fight off a later thrust by the hustling Toronto Maitlands. Play was speedy and fairly clean over the route, with Goalie Nicholls turning in a fine effort in every frame. His defence went 'fair and most of the forwards figured in the scoring. Hefferman led the attack with three goals, while Morrissey and the two Robinson brothers, Gary and Brian, were also potent on the offence. All the Maitlands tried hard but were a bit out-classed.

Yankees Whip Senators 2-0 As Dodgers Crush Giants

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The hottest hurler in the majors today is Allie Reynolds, the part-Indian right-hander who toils for New York Yankees.

The husky Cree Indian, Wednesday night racked up his third straight shutout as he whipped the Washington Senators 2-0 on five hits.

The victory plus Detroit's 3-2 win over Chicago enabled the Yankees to climb within one game of the American League-leading White Sox. The third place Boston Red Sox also closed with a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia's Athletics and now are three games off the pace.

Brooklyn's National League-leading Dodgers crushed New York Giants 10-4, to widen their margin to six games over their inter-borough rivals, St. Louis Cardinals who topped Chicago Cubs 14-2 and Cincinnati edged out Pittsburgh 2-1.

Cleveland shellacked St. Louis Browns 8-1. Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils were rained out.

The 32-year-old Reynolds was in trouble only in the fifth when Gene Verble slammed a three-bagger with one out. Allie preserved his shutout by getting Don Johnson to fly to short right and Gil Coan to ground out.

Reynolds in registering his eighth win against four defeats, hasn't allowed a run in his last 28 2-3 innings and hasn't issued a base on balls in 34 2-3 innings.

Good Relief Pitching
Some nifty relief pitching by Virgil Trucks paced the way for the Tigers' 3-2 win over White Sox. Trucks replaced Ted Gray in the seventh. Harry Dorish was the loser.

Triples by Dom DiMaggio and Billy Goodman and singles by Charlie Maxwell and Ted Williams combined for three Red Sox runs in the seventh enabling them to nip the A's 6-5. Willard Nixon won the game in relief.

Luke Easter banged in four runs with a homer and two singles to help the Indians hand the last-place Browns their eighth successive loss. Mike Garcia allowed only five hits to register his seventh win.

Coasts To Win
Don Newcombe coasted to his 10th victory as his Brooklyn mates used two innings — a four-run fourth and a six-run sixth — to down the Giants. Jim Hearn was the loser.

Enos Slaughter collected two singles, a double and triple and drove in five runs to lead the Cards to an easy triumph over the Cubs. Harry Brecheen was credited with his fifth straight win.

Willie Ramsdell of Cincinnati won a hurling duel from young Bob Friend of Pittsburgh. The Reds snapped a scoreless duel in the seventh. They tallied twice on a walk and singles by Grady Hatton, Ted Kluszewski and Red Stallcup. Ramsdell was one strike away from a shutout when Bill Howerton walloped a home run for the Buccaneers.

Phil Watson To Coach Citadelles Team

QUEBEC, June 28 (CP). — Phil Watson, former National Hockey League player, today became coach of Quebec Citadelles, bringing with him a farm-club arrangement between New York Rangers and the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association club.

The announcement came from Frank Byrne, owner of the Citadelles, who said Watson was recommended by Frank Boucher, general manager of Rangers in the National Hockey League.

Watson's two-year contract will give him a ruling hand in the development of playing material on five Quebec city hockey clubs, apart from his coaching duties with Citadelles. The clubs range from bantam to junior B categories in district leagues.

Change System

The farm-club arrangement between Rangers and Citadelles will automatically put every player on the Quebec club on the New York club's negotiation list. Citadelles previously operated independently.

In return, Byrne said, the Rangers organization will provide the Quebec club with players. Junior clubs at Guelph, and Lethbridge, Alta., have similar agreements with New York.

Watson, 36, played 12 years with New York before becoming coach of New York Rangers of the Eastern League, a Rangers farm team, three years ago. He also had one season with Montreal Canadiens in 1943-44.

Watson, a bilingual coach, will move to Quebec shortly to take over his year-round duties. The former right winger scored 144 goals and 265 assists in regular NHL play. In Stanley Cup play-offs he scored 10 goals and 25 assists.

Jersey Heifer's Milk Tests 8.7 Per Cent

ROSENEATH, June 28—(ENS)—A milk test, taken this week, showing 8.7 percent butter fat is believed to be a record for this community. The milk was produced by a pure-bred three-year-old Jersey heifer, owned by Thomas Carew, Roseneath. This heifer, Golden Beech Empress, No. 211215 has been milking for eight months, and her average pounds of milk per day, for this week, was 36 pounds.

Mr. Carew purchased the heifer early this year from Nick Chernick of Harwood. Her dam is CAC Holly Rose 2nd No. 180113

Her sire is Hollywood Utopia No. 104156.

Cut Tax Bill

OTTAWA, June 28—(CP)—The Income Tax Appeal Board, in judgments made public Wednesday, sliced more than $1,000,000 from the 1947 taxable income of nine Quebec power companies. The board ruled that Quebec education tax payments made by the companies were deductible from their taxable income for federal tax purposes, thereby overhauling the assessments made by the National Revenue Department.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Bill Metzger of the defunct Cornwall club of the Border Baseball League, has signed with Sherbrooke of the Class "C" Quebec Provincial League.

Border League president John Ward granted him an outright release, and said the former manager of Ottawa Nationals is "one of the finest ball players I have ever worked with."

Another Cornwall player Pete Karpuk, outfielder-infielder-pitcher, asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list.

Ed Flanagan, right-hander and left-hander Otto Kosuth have gone to Sherbrooke with Metzger. Catcher Carl Hodson and shortstop Mike Pontarelli were bought by Albany of the Class "A" Eastern League. Frank Schwartz, pitcher, goes to Ogdensburg of the Border League. Disposition of the rest of the team has not been decided yet.

Boyd Frank Teppler, a left-handed pitcher formerly in the Chicago Cub farm system, filed a suit for $450,000 against organized baseball in Federal Court on Wednesday.

Teppler suffered an arm injury while with Nashville in 1944 and his suit charges the injury was due to the negligence of various managers who failed to correct his pitching style. The suit also holds baseball's reserve clause made it impossible for Teppler to get proper advice which might have prevented permanent injury to his arm.

A brokerage company in St. Louis and one in New York are dealing in the Brown's baseball stock at prices which will make it tougher for Bill Veck to buy the American League club, the Post-Dispatch said Wednesday.

The paper said it learned the St. Louis firm has sold 200 shares to a New York concern for $8.25 and has bids for other blocks at the same price.

Veck and his associates are offering $7 a share in an attempt to buy the 75 per cent necessary for a reorganization program under Missouri laws.

The Berlin Bowling Association Wednesday night suspended referee Otto Nisipel for three months for the way he handled the Ray Robinson-Gerhard Hecht fight Sunday.

Robinson, world middleweight champion, fled the ring under a hail of bottles after being disqualified in the second round for an alleged kidney punch.

The referee's decision that Hecht had been fouled was later countermanded by the Berlin association, which amended the result to "no decision."

RHEUMATIC PAIN Can Be Costly!

"This winter I had to quit work because of rheumatic pain," writes Mr. T. Glocheville, Wilno, Ont. "I became fearful of being laid up as on a previous occasion with rheumatic pain. Toronto Maple Leafs Smash Syracuse Chiefs 10-1

By The Associated Press.

A couple of Toronto veterans—pitcher John Heiki and outfielder Lew Morton—are trying their utmost to quit their present International League surroundings for a pleasanter company in the majors.

Both distinguished themselves Wednesday night as Maple Leafs whacked Syracuse Chiefs 10-1 to move within one percentage point of the sixth-place Baltimore Orioles.

The 29-year-old Heiki, a veteran of five seasons with Cincinnati Reds, handcuffed the Chiefs with six hits as he registered his 10th victory. He has lost five.

Morton, 30-year-old Kansan who never rose higher than the Texas and Southern Leagues in five previous minor league campaigns, slugged two home runs and a double for five runs to pace the Toronto attack against two Syracuse hurlers. The homers were Morton's ninth and 10th.

Error Costly

An error by outfielder Marv Rickert resulted in Ottawa scoring two unearned runs in the 11th inning, enough to beat Baltimore 3-2. Rickert dropped a fly ball hit by Harvey Gentry. Piper

Davis and Stan Jok scored on the miff.

Danny Lynch's fumble of Fred Hancock's grounder in the ninth allowed Jim Edwards to score from second with the run that gave Buffalo a 2-1 victory over Rochester. Ernie Silverman hurled a three-hitter to register his seventh win against six losses. Johnny Yuhas was the loser.

Montreal and Springfield were not scheduled.

Studio Upsets Plans For Actress

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 28 (AP)—It's lucky Jean Simmons is the cool calm type. Otherwise she might blow her top because:

Her husband of a few months, Stewart Granger, has been sent to all parts of the United States and Europe for film locations;

Her place of employment switched continents without her consent to the change;

She has been waiting since last September to begin a picture.

Despite these occurrences, Miss Simmons remains as cool as a May afternoon in her native London. About her much-interrupted honeymoon, she shrugged: "Oh, Jimmy (Granger's real name is James Stewart) hasn't been gone as long as it seems. It's just the number of trips that makes it seem so long."

Actually, he has been sent to Sun Valley, Idaho, for a film location, then to Palermo, Rome and other Italian locales for another. Next week he leaves for Jackson Hole, Wyo., for more movie work. Also, he took a week of fishing in Mexican waters while he raised a beard for a role.

Switch a Surprise

The change of her film contract was a surprise to Miss Simmons. Unknown to her, Howard Hughes bought her contract from J. Arthur Rank, thus changing her place of work from London to Hollywood.

"It was a shock," she admitted. "And I have been terribly homesick. But now I can be with Jimmy."

That brings us to the actress' long-run picture, Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion." She was originally slated to make the picture in Rome last September.

LIKE FOOTPRINTS of some giant prehistoric monster, yawning bomb craters straddle a cross-road near Chorwon on Korea's western front. Refugees from battle areas, some from far away Wonsan, have gathered at the bomb-scarred intersection awaiting transportation to a collection station behind the front lines.

Candidates For White House Keeping Plans Very Quiet

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, June 28 (CP). — Look at the record and you'd think nobody—well, almost nobody—wants to be President for the four years beginning in January, 1953.

Although the Democratic and Republican nominating conventions are only a little more than a year away, coyness among prospective candidates has reached something of record-breaking proportions.

One man, President Truman, says he knows what he is going to do. But he has not said what that is. Outside of Mrs. Truman—and maybe Margaret—nobody seems to know whether the President is going to run again or not.

If you ask William M. Boyle, Jr., the Democratic national chairman, he puts on his most inscrutable smile. Boyle has been practicing it for years and it never worked better.

Boyle does not have to worry. His plan of campaign is the same whether Mr. Truman chooses or does not choose to run. He is simply going out to gather up for Mr. Truman all of the convention delegates he can corral.

If the President runs, fine and dandy. If he does not, Mr. Truman asks the delegates to support the man of his choice. Simple as that.

Doesn't Know

Even Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh, N.C., editor and Truman biographer, said after a White House visit he thinks—but does not know—that Mr. Truman is going to run again. He did not get that from the President, Daniels hastened to say, but he added:

"The more his foreign policy—which he considers vital to resist Russian aggression and preserve democracy—is attacked, the more he will fight back."

This kind of report makes it difficult for other Democrats to do much about running for President. They can't even run for Vice-President as long as Alben Barkley gives no indication of stepping out.

Coy Candidates

Small wonder, then that such Democrats as Senators Kefauver of Tennessee, Douglas of Illinois, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Justice William O. Douglas, Chief Justice Fred Vinson, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and others are as coy as school girls.

Look magazine says in its current issue it polled 41 Democratic Senators and found only five who named Mr. Truman as their first choice to make next year's race. It said 15 favored Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Republicans have no such barrier as the Democrats, but the nearest they have to an avowed candidate is Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft says he expects to decide some time before September 1 whether to run.

President Harold E. Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania, who has tried before, says he will wait until next January to decide what to do.

Dewey Out

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the two-time presidential nominee of the party, says she is out of it and is plugging Eisenhower. Gov. Earl Warren of California obviously is going to make an active bid for the nomination—but he isn't saying so publicly.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur says "emphatically no" he is not a candidate. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts is mighty busy lining things up to run again for the Senate. Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois might be enticed into the race, but not right now, thanks.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine probably could be convinced she ought to run for Vice-President, but is waiting events. Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) gives signs of national ambitions, but displays an unusual reticence about them.

The most talked about man in both parties is Eisenhower. But it is months since anybody got him mad enough even to deny he wants to be President.

Finds Wild Men In Borneo Not So Wild

REGINA, Sask. — (CP) — The wild men of Borneo aren't so wild. In fact, they're "great fellows," says Bert Blanche, recent visitor from Borneo.

A former newspaper-carrier boy in Regina, Blanche has done a lot of travelling since he started in the oil business.

He left Regina in 1936 for a job as oil driller in Texas. Then he went to England where he worked in the Nottinghamshire oil field.

Now he works in the unexplored interior of Borneo.

Engaged in drilling wildcat wells to extend the limits of known reserves, his fellow workers are a real "League of Nations." They include eight Canadians, five Americans, and English, Dutch, Australians and many others.

The oil field is located three degrees north of the equator where the average temperature is 85 degrees.

There are about 450 Europeans at the field and 10,000 native and Asiatic employees. These include 5,000 Dyaks, the "wild men" of Borneo who are "great fellows" according to Blanche.

They are short, built like pack-horses, and very picturesque with pierced ears and tattooing. They come out of the jungle and work long enough to earn money to buy what they want, and then disappear back into the jungle.

Mr. Blanche tells of a native chief who was ambitious. He wanted a bulldozer to help clear the trees around his village, so he sent most of the men of the tribe to work for the oil company to earn the price of the machine. But they got tired and went home before they earned enough.

Life was never such FUN before!

Now she's sought after, invited everywhere, crowded with the glow of health that excites admiration. What a difference from that pale, listless, anemic, lonely girl. You too can be happy, popular, if you always feel lively, run-down—do what happy thousands now do, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. See if within 30 days, a richer, redder blood doesn't make you a new person, with more bounding energy, better color, new radiance. Start today! Get back with the pink!

Ask US Government To Lend Mills Money

PITTSBURGH, June 28 (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild (CIO) Wednesday urged the United States government to lend money at low interest to manufacturers interested in setting up paper mills to provide domestic newsprint at reasonable prices.

Delegates to the Guild's annual convention passed a resolution accusing "the newsprint monopoly" with "driving American newspapers to the wall by its extortionate price policies."

The resolution contended American output of newsprint could be doubled or tripled by suitable manufacturing facilities.

Young Daughter Drowns In Lagoon

TORONTO, June 28 — (CP) — Linda Wilson, two-year-old daughter of a Canadian soldier now serving in Korea, was drowned in a lagoon at Hanlan's Point in Toronto harbor Wednesday.

The child was playing on a breakwater when she slipped into eight feet of water.

Her father is a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

The Red Cross said it had contacted army authorities and the girl's father will be flown home immediately from Korea.

AND SHE SAID—

"Tell me, dear, where did you get this delicious tea?"

"Well, one day George stopped in at his sister's—had a cup of tea there—turned up his nose at ours—till I had to phone Ethel for the name. Result—Mother Parker's from now on."

"Yes—and I know another person right now who will be serving Mother Parker's from now on."

"Good!—and you just try their Tea Bags. They're so convenient—and Orange Pekoe quality, too."

Congregation Says Good-bye To Rev. Linstead

SPRINGVILLE, June 28 (ENS).—The congregation of Springville United Church gathered at the church on Monday evening to say goodbye to their minister, Rev. E. S. Linstead, Mrs. Linstead and daughter Ida. They are leaving this week for Paisley, Ontario.

Mr. Linstead's ministry at the Springville charge has been brief—just a year and a half. He was especially interested in the young people's organization and the other organizations of the church. Besides this, he taught religious instruction in each of the nearby schools one hour a week.

Mrs. Linstead, too, has assisted in the Mission Band and in the Women's Missionary Society.

The congregation presented Mr. and Mrs. Linstead with a mirror and a small table. They were presented by Bruce Elliott and S. L. Connal, while Mrs. S. S. Staples made the presentation of a lamp to Mrs. Linstead.

Mr. Frank Stevens read and presented the address of appreciation and good wishes. Following this, Clifford Johnston, on behalf of the I Am Married Class, spoke of Mr. and Mrs. Linstead's leadership in their class, and Mrs. Percy Johnston presented them with gifts on behalf of that group.

Mr. and Mrs. Linstead spoke their thanks, and after the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and prayer offered by Mr. Linstead, a program was given, with M. H. Johnston as chairman. Lunch was served.

No Bail Granted In Drug Case

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 28 (AP)—Anthony L. Pasquarello, 36, accused by police as the "kingpin" of Buffalo's alleged narcotics ring Wednesday was ordered held without bail on three charges.

He pleaded innocent to charges of selling and conspiring to sell narcotics and possessing narcotics. Pasquarello was arrested Tuesday in a round-up that caught eight other men and a 16-year-old girl. Two of the men were released, however, and charges dropped.

Narcotics squad detective John E. Stanton said investigation failed to link the two, Angelo Caccia, 20, and Donald Saffire, 19, with the charges against the others.

Plant Maple Tree

BROADSTAIRS, Kent, England, June 28 (Reuters)—A Canadian maple tree, one of 125 given this southeast coastal town by Ontario as a reminder of Canadian forces stationed here in the Second World War, was planted Wednesday by J. S. P. Armstrong, Agent-General for Ontario. At the ceremony, part of the town's Festival of Britain celebrations, RCAF Vampire jets flew past and a school children's choir sang "O Canada."

LONDON, June 28 (Reuters)—Moscow radio said Wednesday that Dr. Hewlett Johnson, Britain's "Red" dean, was presented with the Stalin international peace prize at a ceremony in the Kremlin. Denies Charges Against Chief OAKVILLE, June 28—(CP)—Ellis Starr, counsel for the attorney-general's department, said Wednesday that Mayor James E. Black's charges against Chief John Derry of the Oakville police "had no meat in them."

He was addressing an inquiry requested by Chief Derry into the operation of the town's police department. The probe ended Wednesday.

Mr. Starr said the mayor "told only half the story". He told Judge Ian Macdonnell that all but one of the mayor's charges against Chief Derry had been broken down by evidence and cross-examination.

Judge Macdonnell ended the hearing after Mr. Starr's address. He will make a confidential report to Attorney-General Porter.

Office Union To Consider New Contract

Outboard Workers May Ratify Tentative Agreement

The membership of Local 231, Outboard Marine Workers' Union (office workers), will meet at 8 p.m. July 4 to ratify a tentative agreement reached between the negotiating committee of the local and the company.

Terms of the proposed agreement will not be disclosed until they are recommended by the committee at the membership meeting. The committee is composed of George Sedgwick, chairman, and Jack Weir, Clara McDougall, and Ernie Evans, CCL representative.

75 Workers
The local, consisting of 75 office workers, was certified earlier this year and the members are negotiating their first contract with the company.

Talks began on Monday and what looks like a settlement was reached Wednesday afternoon.

Local 230, the plant production workers, signed a contract in April that gave them a 16-18 cents an hour package increase, including a reduction in the work week from 45 to 43 hours without loss of take-home pay.

Both locals are chartered directly to the Canadian Congress of Labor.

Farmer Run Over By Own Tractor Running Away

ROSENEATH, June 28. (ENS)—Harold George was run over by the rear wheel of his own tractor and a wagon loaded with stove wood Wednesday at his farm home one and a half miles west of here.

Mr. George was hauling stove wood to the house with a wagon hitched behind the tractor. He had dismounted from the tractor and had just started throwing off the blocks of wood. Suddenly the tractor started off. He ran to catch up with it. As it turned into a field of hay, Mr. George caught his foot in the hay and fell. A rear wheel of the tractor and two wagon wheels passed over his face and chest.

Dr. George H. Field of Roseneath was called. Mr. George was later taken to Cobourg General Hospital for X-rays.

Mr. George was 54 years old.

340 Students Choose PCVS Courses

New Plan Tried For First Time, Get Jump On Fall

A total of 340 students who will be entering PCVS for the first time this fall have already chosen the courses they will take and have been assigned to their home classrooms.

This information was released today by Howard Moebus, director of career planning at the college.

Graduates of public schools in the Peterborough high school and city areas visited the college Monday morning. They were introduced to the five general courses on the school curriculum and also the college's extra-curricular program. The morning's activities were carried out by 21 members of the college teaching staff.

The suburban students were also given forms to fill out which designated which course they wished to take. City students received these forms a month ago.

Parents Sign

Tuesday, the students returned to the college with forms filled out and signed by their parents. Tabulations made by the college staff show the following results: 131 students signed for the general course (French option); 79 for the general course (typewriting option); 61 for the industrial arts course; 15 for the home economics course; 54 for the two year general course.

The students were also taken to their home classrooms on Tuesday and given their book lists.

Discover Wants

"This is the first year that this program of bringing the students to the school has been carried out," Mr. Moebus said. "Other years I visited the schools to outline the courses to the students. To date this plan seems to be very satisfactory as it is helping the school staff's organization by revealing what the incoming students want."

Mr. Moebus also explained that there are still approximately 100 students who will not be classified until the fall. That the fall, the students will be taken to the school outside the suburban area, separate schools and repeaters.

Orange Walk

July 12 In Peterborough

Plans have been released for the annual July 12 Orange celebration to be held in Peterborough this year, with lodges from seven counties expected to be the largest ever held in the district.

Speakers for the day include Major J. W. Foote, VC, Minister of Defence Institutions for Ontario; the Hon. H. R. Scott, MPP; Gordon K. Fraser, MP; His Worship Mayor M. J. Swanston, Major C. G. Everitt and the Rev. F. C. Beager, grand chaplain.

Orange lodges from Haliburton, Victoria, South Ontario, East and West Durham, Northumberland, Hastings and Peterborough counties will attend.

The parade ground in front of the armories and college will be used to form the parade which will start at 1:30 p.m. led by the Peterborough Citizens' Band.

The parade will follow the following route: down McDonnell to Aymer, up Aymer to London, across London to George, down George to Hunter, across Hunter to Aymer, down Aymer to Charlotte, across Charlotte to George, up George to Hunter, across Hunter to Burnham and by way of Dale Ave. into Riverside Park where addresses will be given.

Booths will be set up in the park in the evening and a street dance will be held on Aymer St. between King and Charlotte Sts.

Morgan Brown is general chairman for the day, Sidney Brown, secretary; Ed Payne, chairman of entertainment; Frank Ross, chairman of the speakers' committee; J. A. Holden, chairman of the parade committee; John Masters, chairman of the decorations committee; Jonathan Brown, chairman of the parade committee.

Scope of the committee includes all matters relating to municipal finance, the responsibility of municipalities, possible additional tax sources and a division of responsibilities.

Mr. Outram said today that such costs as fire, police and local roads were a direct benefit to municipalities, and should be maintained out of the city taxes.

On the other hand health, welfare, hospitalization, administration of justice, were the concern both to the province and the local councils.

Expenditure and joint benefit should come from sources at large, especially the province. "The provincial authorities recognize that most of these community enterprises can be better managed by the municipalities," Mr. Outram said, "because local people, and require smaller staffs. At least the work can be done by fewer employees."

Payment For Land Still Not Settled

Arbitration of the payment to the Brown estate for land obtained by the Utilities Commission for their filtration plant involves interpretation of a family will, A. L. Elliott, KC, reported to the board of works this week.

Mr. K. G. Brown is a life tenant, having obtained title through the will of his mother, Mr. Elliott wrote to the council.

"Upon his death the property is to be divided equally to such of his children as may survive him."

Doubt has arisen as to the interpretation to be placed on this clause of the will in order to ascertain those who will be entitled to share in the estate.

Arbitration

Mr. Elliott informed the council that Judge Smoke has intimated that he has no power to decide, as arbitrator, a question of law, "and it would appear that the will would have to be interpreted before the arbitration can proceed."

Mr. T. J. Carley, KC, representing the tenant, and Mr. W. B. Gordon, acting for the grandchildren, have suggested that the city should pay the cost of construing the will on the ground that the city has to make title, and that the will must be interpreted as a preliminary to arbitration.

Expropriation was begun by the city in behalf of the Utilities Commission.

Neighbors Raise New Barn On Emily Township Farm

While people melted away in Peterborough's factories Wednesday afternoon, 14 men worked in stiff cool breezes to raise a barn on the farm of Stanley McCall, two miles east of Omeme, on RR 2, Omeme. The city's high temperatures were nearly a direct opposite to the mercury readings on the barn's rafters where the workmen, mostly all neighbors, were beginning to sheet the roof.

The westerly gusts were continually catching the farmers so that they had to hold tightly to the wooden strips.

Actually the barn-raising, an occasion in farmers' district away from the city, began last week when the concrete foundations were poured. The rafters were prepared for the raising on Tuesday.

25 Help
Tuesday, neighbors from around the countryside rallied to the McCall call. Twenty-five men began the work early in the morning and after a stomach-filling dinner the 28 pairs of rafters were erected.

The raising of the rafters meant that nearly half of the work was completed, but that didn't mean that it was nearly finished. On Wednesday the neighbor volunteers, numbering 14, again turned out to begin sheeting the rafters and walls.

Andy Millar, of Lakefield, an old hand at barn raisings, is superintending the operations on the McCall farm with the assistance of Hilliard (Rusty) Crowe, also of Lakefield.

When asked how many barn raisings he has attended, Mr. Millar answered, "Couldn't tell off hand, but quite a few."

Prepare Meals
But all the work of a barn raising is not at the barn, at least according to Mrs. Stanley McCall who has been working the kitchen. Her meals on Tuesday and Wednesday for the men will verify that.

For an hour on Tuesday the 25 men sat at two tables in the McCall home, busily satisfying a large appetite built up while working in the warm sun and cool breezes. They ate 10 worth of pork, three cans of pork and beans, four cans of peas, four six-quart baskets of potatoes and no less than eight juicy pies.

At Wednesday noon the dinner load for the women rallied to help. Neighbor women rallied to help with Mrs. Arthur Jackson, Mrs. Albert McCall and Mrs. Neils McCall working industriously.

While all the commotion was at the barn and the kitchen, activity in the barnyard continued as usual except for one hen: she had adopted six fluffy goslings who waddled after her wherever she went.

Mr. Huysack said Monday night that costs might amount to $600, and members of the board of works questioned the liability of the council in obtaining an interpretation of the will of the late Mrs. Brown.

A motion by Mayor Swanston and Ald. N. Graham proposed that this question be referred to the legal committee, and that it should ask the Utilities Commission to be represented, and Mr. Elliott, probably also with Mr. Carley and Mr. Gordon.

B.C. Has Only Scratched Surface of Great Wealth

By DAVE McINTOSH

VANCOUVER, June 28 (CP)—British Columbia, it has been said, skipped adolescence.

Men first eyed British Columbia for her gold and silver. From all over the world miners came a century ago to seek gold in the Similkameen, in the Kootenays, along the shores of Horseshy Lake and Lightning Creek, in the Fraser and Quenel and Cottonwood Canyon. Men, indeed, still seek the fabled "Mother Lode."

Other men saw far ahead of their time. Sir James Douglas, the first governor, envisioned roads into the unknown interior. Other men came and built railways across the northern badlands to the ocean, south through the steep-walled Fraser Canyon where Simon Fraser had made his way on vine and rope ladders, east through the Coquihalla Pass to the Okanagan and Kootenays.

At the same time, others saw her wealth in forests, rivers, base metals and farmland.

They set up companies which cut down the timberlands, burrowed into the bowels of her mountains for lead, zinc, copper and nickel, built ships to harvest the fish, set out apple and cherry and peach trees and herded cattle through Lac la Hache and Soda Creek to the Chilcotin and Cariboo plateaus. And at the same time they built the city of Vancouver to funnel all these things to markets around the world.

But it was only the beginning for B.C.

Making Road

Today, men are hacking a road through the wilderness on the northern coast where a $550,000,000 aluminum industry will rise.

Recently brought into production are a $35,000,000 cellulose plant near Prince Rupert, a $19,000,000 sulphate mill and a $1,000,000 pulp mill on Vancouver Island and a $1,300,000 plywood plant at Quenel in the northern interior.

Another $11,000,000 is being spent for newsprint plant expansion at Powell River on the coast, another $40,000,000 for a newsprint mill at Duncan Bay on Vancouver Island.

Within the last 11 years, capital invested in the pulp and paper industry in B.C. has risen from $58,000,000 to $225,000,000. Barely Scratched

But the surface has barely been scratched. B.C. has 27 per cent of Canada's softwood suitable for pulp, Quebec, which produces more than half Canada's total output of 3,000,000 tons annually, has 35 per cent.

At the same time, far in the southern interior, Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, biggest lead-zinc-chemicals producer in the world, is planning a $65,000,000 expansion. Abandoned mines are being brought back into production and new power projects are going ahead.

A steel industry appears not far off for B.C. Demand for steel is growing and the navy is spending millions for new warships being built at Victoria and North Vancouver. The hunt for iron ore, oil and gas is being expanded and quickened.

Construction crews are laying steel for the northward extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Prince George, where it will connect with the Canadian National Railway's transcontinental line. It will also be extended south to Vancouver at a cost of $12,000,000.

To Be Finished in Fall

The John Hart highway through the northern muskeg to the Alaska Highway is scheduled for completion this fall. It will cut 950 miles from the present road-rail route from Seattle to Alaska through Edmonton.

It will also open up British Columbia's block of the Peace River country. The land there is not only rich. Under it is an estimated 2,000,000,000 tons of coal. Twelve new base metals mills are being built. A shortage of labor has developed in some sections of the mining industry. Development of the province is "just starting," says Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald.

BIG SMELTER—Key factor in British Columbia industrial development is this smelter at Trail of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company Ltd. Largest non-ferrous metals smelter in the Commonwealth, it gives employment to thousands of workers.

New Telephone Now Produced

TORONTO, June 28 (CP)—A new telephone with an adjustable bell, and easy-to-see dial and better equipment for transmitting a voice has been produced by the Bell Telephone Company.

A. H. Inglis and W. T. Tuffnell, Bell scientists, told the summer meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers Wednesday that the new phone was designed to answer the complaints of thousands of phone users.

However, they said it probably won't be produced in Canada for some time.

Rubber Plant Workers Vote On Wage Offer

TORONTO, June 28 (CP)—Production workers at the suburban New Toronto plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company will vote today on whether to accept a company offer of an 11-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The workers, who sought an increase of 25 cents an hour, were out for 18 days. Negotiations between their union, United Rubber Workers (CIO), and the company resumed Monday after the employees voted to return to work.

At the firm's Bowmanville plant also, production workers will vote today on the company offer.

SLIGHT DELAY

While the armistice of Nov. 11 ended the First World War, German troops in North Rhodesia surrendered to the British at Abercorn Nov. 14.

Draft Problems Hit Canadians Studying In U.S.

SASKATOON — (CP)—Some Canadian students at United States universities are having a hard time keeping out of Uncle Sam's army.

The physics department at the University of Saskatchewan has received letters from a number of its graduates now in the United States.

One of them, Al McNamara, wrote that he abandoned his scholarship and went to Ontario to get out of the draft board's clutches.

Information received by the physics department here indicates that Canadian students who are not married face the possibility of induction into the armed forces only if they are in the United States under certain conditions.

Married students are safe, because only single men are being taken at present.

A Canadian on a student visa—which does not allow him to earn money in the United States—is also safe from the draft.

However, most students have to earn some money to help pay their way while on a scholarship and that apparently is where the difficulty starts for Canadians.

In order that a student may work part time to support himself, American consulates will issue a permanent residence visa. And a man permanently residing in the country (according to visa) becomes the target of the draft boards.

Some draft boards will accept the fact that the student is a Canadian and make it possible for him to carry on his studies. Others are tough and do not hesitate to send Canadians up for induction.

Suspend Union Group For Breaking Contract

FORT WILLIAM, June 28 (CP)—Suspension of the Canada Steamships Line Lodge 408 of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AF of L) for refusal to work after 6 p.m., was announced Wednesday by Frank Hall, national vice-president of the union.

Mr. Hall said the lodge, with a membership of some 240 freight handlers, violated an agreement with CSL and failed to follow a conciliation board recommendation which the union had previously accepted.

Trans-Canada Road Proceeding Slowly

OTTAWA, June 28 (CP)—Work on a proposed 5,000-mile, $300,000,000 hard-surfaced Trans-Canada highway is proceeding gradually in eight provinces which have concluded agreements with the federal government, the Commons was informed Wednesday.

A report tabled by Resources Minister Winters showed that from Dec. 10, 1949, to March 31, 1951, contracts were awarded for 572 miles of grading and for 190 miles of paving.

Wins Acquittal

BRAMPTON, June 28 (CP)—Wreford Hewson, of Malton, president of the Canadian Clydesdale Association, Wednesday was acquitted on a charge of cruelty and causing unnecessary suffering to animals. The case was adjourned June 30 for judgment after Toronto Humane Society officials testified that inspection of the Hewson barn, May 9, disclosed several horses in poorly kept condition. Mr. Hewson said that seedling interrupted the usual care given the horses.

Condition Critical

WINDSOR, June 28 (CP)—Hospital officials report Walter Byrne, 21, Belle River, still is in critical condition with a skull fracture received in an automobile accident early Wednesday near Kingsville. A companion, Charles Matindale, 20, also of Belle River, died in the accident when their light truck left the road and crashed into the west bank of a ditch off Highway No. 3.

Social Security Program Highlight of 21st Session

OTTAWA, June 28 — (CP) — The fourth session of Canada's 21st Parliament was highlighted by passage of major improvements to the country's social-security program.

While authorizing the fulfillment of military and other commitments abroad, members passed legislation covering part of a $400,000,000 program of pensions for Canada's aged and blind persons. They are to return in October to complete the program.

A bill was passed authorizing the federal government to share on a 50-50 basis with the provinces the cost of $40-a-month pensions to the needy between 65 and 69. About 145,000 Canadians are expected to qualify.

Also approved was a bill authorizing the federal government to enter into agreements with the provinces for payment of $40-a-month pensions to needy blind persons 21 and over. Eligibility provisions were eased in the new legislation.

Still to be considered is a bill authorizing the federal government to pay $40-a-month pensions to persons 70 and over regardless of means.

Pensions of $40 a month—some provinces pay a bit more—now are paid to needy persons 70 and over. The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost and the provinces the remainder.

Exhibit Of Razors Covers 3,000 Years

LONDON — (CP) — Millionaire James Rand can take you back 3,000 years—in razors.

In a London strongroom, Rand has a collection of razors dating way back and remarks that you'd be surprised at the number of different ways in which men have tried to shave themselves.

Methods range from broken glass, shark's teeth and singeing with red-hot plates to the practice of plucking followed by early Chinese. Even Rand's collection, however, does not go back to the earliest times. It's recorded that ancient Egyptians used razors in 3400 BC and the Bible says: "Take thee a barber's razor."

Early Egyptians favored bronze knives and some of the earliest shaving implements recorded in this country belong to the bronze age.

During the five-month session, members approved a budget providing for increased personal and corporation income taxes and for higher sales and excise taxes. Restrictions on consumer credit

Beautiful Spot To Rest But Canadians Off To War

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 28 — (CP) — The impassive leafy knolls, newly emptied of their latest transients, glowed golden in the sunset.

A tourist-finder picture-piece, turned briefly into rest camp, was once again Korea's. The Canadians were off again to war.

It was still and calm. Only the cricket's two-toned cree-craw and the taunting cuckoo's call were in the air. War and the Canadians both were far away.

Not to the night before. Spread around among the knolls, each to its own, were the companies of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. They had reached that point of active inactivity in absence from the line that makes men restive.

Last night there'd been an outdoor movie, a dozen campfires, several score clusters of soldiers swapping chatter, their cigarettes flashing, and pedestrian traffic up or down the road to sister units.

Last night this was a patch of Canada, transplanted from the Alberta foothills. . . Ready for Action

Almost the same in the morning, too, except that daybreak brought back the washboard expanse of pounded, baked-hard earth that once were fertile, furrowed paddies.

The tempo changed at breakfast from the leisurely route-march pace or rest to the brisk market of impending action. Word spread around that the battalion was on three hours' notice to move "to new location."

At 11:30 the orders came. The break-up began after lunch. Move-off time was 2:30.

Great squad tents that had bulked large on the knoll-tops, fluttered gracelessly to earth, revealing company vehicles parked under the trees behind.

The swarms of soldiers' pup tents, disappeared in the apparent chaos of the moment as Patricia's packed their gear.

Little Korean children befriended by the men gathered round to say good-bye.

Here in the foreground, on the hillside before which the scene unfolded, one of those little parties took place.

A 13-year-old Korean boy called "Bluey" because of his well-washed light blue clothes, adopted as house-boy by a quartette during the rest, asked in pointed newly-acquired English where his friends were going.

Afraid of Chinese

"To fight the Chungooks," replied Pte. Don Larocque of Trail, B.C., using the Korean word for "Chinese."

"Want to come along?" Bluey didn't. Six Chinese entered his home and molested his family the last time they passed this way. He was afraid of them. His Canadian pals liked him for his friendly honesty and the devotion with which he polished their boots, washed their clothes, during their stay.

Explained Pte. Carl Court of Belleville, joining the others in showering the youngsters with chocolates, gum, cigarettes ("for Poppa-San"), socks, a pocket comb and canned fruit from their rations:

"If Canadian kids were half as intelligent and worked half as hard we would be a really terrific people."

To which Pte. Trevor Dufos of Vernon, B.C., added a healthy "amen"—coupled with a cake from a parcel from home and a mouth organ.

Confusion Diminishes

Meanwhile the confusion ahead adjusted itself into obvious order. The riflemen, soon to be deployed in battle, each with his allotted role, were drawn up in the anonymous threes of platoons and companies.

At 1:45 they moved off to the trucks, the young Koreans running alongside to prolong the moment of parting.

At two o'clock the column was marshalled.

For 30 minutes they sat and smoked and joked, tied up their orders to the trucks until, at 2:30 to the dot, the column moved.

Power Demand High

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Hydro power consumption here is not taking its usual summer drop. So far the decrease in this city is only about five per cent, compared with a normal summer reduction of 10 per cent.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police constables here are instructing 30 pretty girls in the art of judo. The girls are being taught the self-defence technique preparatory to summer jobs as playground supervisors.

ANNIVERSARY SCENE — The first anniversary of the Korean War finds UN and Communist soldiers battling savagely across Korea. Mute testimony to the fierce fighting is this dead GI, his hand still clutching his loaded and cocked .45 and his bullet-pierced helmet lying by his side.

Persia's New Young Empress Lives Life Of Seclusion

(Ed. Note: The Shah's young wife gives exclusive interview, the first made since her wedding, to Flora Lewis, correspondent in Teheran for the London Observer and the Peterborough Examiner.)

By FLORA LEWIS

TEHERAN, Persia, June 25 (by cable).—Since the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Persia was married four months ago, there has been considerable speculation as to the role his new Empress would play in Persian public life.

Receiving me in the white summer palace in the hills above Teheran in her first interview since the wedding, she made it clear that she will be a shy, retiring consort, holding herself remote from political affairs and concentrating on family rather than official royal life.

The Empress Soraya is not yet nineteen. She has a clear, dark beauty and great though unassuming poise. She did not express any particular interest in the nascent movement for women's rights in Persia, although, having been educated almost entirely in Switzerland and England, she is herself a thoroughly westernized young woman. Her mother is German and her father Persian.

Shah "Very Busy"

"I do not care for politics," she said, "and I do not follow the political situation at all. But I know the Shah is very busy."

The Shah is indeed very busy and active behind the scenes trying to counsel moderation to the government, but so far without notable success. It is known that the British government has in mind the possibility of a direct appeal to the Shah should law and order break down in Abadan and should it become necessary to evacuate British personnel.

Meeting the Empress in a large but simply furnished room in her summer home, opening on to an immense tiled swimming pool, I found it hard to realize that this slender, quiet-mannered girl is one of the central figures in the stormy controversy that could change the history of many nations beside her own. She takes no part in the events surrounding her.

I asked the Empress whether she intended taking any active role in social work and in the plans for helping the poverty-stricken areas so frequently mentioned in the speeches of the Persian premier, Dr. Mossadegh.

Open A Hospital

"I am only starting. And I have no plans and I have not done anything yet," she said. Her lady-in-waiting interrupted, "But Your Majesty did open a hospital."

"I just visited it," said the Empress. Her days are now spent riding and swimming, having dresses fitted (she was wearing a smart green, sleeveless summer outfit) studying furniture catalogues with the Shah to redecorate the town palace and "walking in our gardens with His Majesty." She gives very few parties and hardly ever meets a politician.

Father In Fierce Tribe

As her father is a member of the fiercely independent Bakhtiari tribe which has long been at odds with the monarchy, it was hoped the marriage would help to unify the nation. But judging from reports from southern Iran of Bakhtiari activities, there seems to have been little change in the relationship.

The Shah and the Queen are heavily guarded. Soldiers with fixed bayonets patrol inside their extensive walled gardens and all round the villa where they live. Visitors are not allowed to drive beyond the outer gates and have to walk the quarter of a mile along the gravel drive to the palace entrance. A large motor-cycle escort accompanies them through police-lined streets when it is announced that they are coming into town.

The Empress Soraya's favorite pastime is playing with a three-month-old pony named "Persia," which a German circus in Teheran gave to the Shah's twin sister, the Princess Ashraf. "Ashraf did not need it, so she gave it to me," she said.

Pony And Alsatian

Sepaking of the pony was the only time when she seemed at ease during the interview, except perhaps when her Alsatian dog dragged a gnawed turkey bone and deposited it at her feet. He had to be hauled away by the servants three times. Then she relaxed from the stiffness which was obviously mostly timidity and discussed her new short bob, her clothes and her photographs.

She had lost weight since the attack of typhoid she suffered just before her wedding and is slim, tall and graceful. But, she complained, "for some reason the newspaper pictures always make me too fat." She has now completely recovered from her illness but still tires fairly easily.

The only view the Empress would express on any public matters was regret that the current crisis made it hard for her to travel. She said she would very much like to visit Europe and Britain this year and go about her own country of which she has seen very little, but owing to the situation it did not seem possible. (OFNS Copyright)

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Planning Barbecue Supper To Be Served Out In Garden

Far from being like Mrs. Toploft I was only trying to get the most and best for my shekels when I asked for thick chops. The trays in the glass case in the butcher shop were covered with pork chops cut not one fraction thicker than a quarter of an inch.

Now how can you expect a man to satisfy his hunger on one of those? By the time they have had the fast hot cooking they require to make the fat brown, the lean part is dry and nearly hard.

Besides, we were having guests to a barbecue party and these were to be a treat. Since the six one-inch chops cost over two dollars, needless to say by Tuesday, after a spurge like that last Saturday, we were limping along on hard-cooked egg salads.

Thick Pork Chops
Barbecue Sauce
Chef's Salad
Homemade Rolls
Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream
Cocoanut-Apricot Squares
Coffee

Since the guests were Marianne's friends she made the rolls and presided over the fire. She loves assuming this role of domesticity especially when one of her favorite boy friends is present. Her cheeks glow with the heat from the fire, her hair curls around her forehead and she is adored by everyone watching—and knows it. She never shows any signs of spoiling though.

Barbecue Sauce

Normally a barbecue sauce is used to baste the meat while it is being barbecued, but I wanted the fat in the pan to be clear for frying the potatoes so mixed this indoors: ½ cup melted butter, 1 tablespoon each chopped chives, parsley, Worcestershire sauce, catsup, lemon juice. I just melted the butter over hot water and added the other ingredients and let it stand for 15 minutes. It was very popular.

Fried Raw Potatoes

The potatoes I peeled and cut into strips in the morning and soaked all day and to heck with the vitamins for once. These I dried and when Marianne was finished with the chops and they were served she started the potatoes in the chop fat and sat with the turner in one hand and a chop in the other and turned and munched in turns!

We ate our chop with our salad and hot rolls, and because the chops were so thick the potatoes were done before the chops were gone, and because we had watched the whole process and because they were so piping hot they were ever so delicious.

Fresh Strawberry Ice Cream

Wash, hull, mash and sweeten 1 to 1½ cups strawberries with ¼ to ½ cup sugar, let these stand while you make the cooked ice cream base: Scald 1 cup milk in top of double boiler and add ¼ cup sugar mixed with 1 tablespoon flour and pinch of salt, and stir until thick. Cook for 15 minutes, stirring once or twice. Beat 1 egg well and beat into it ¼ cup sugar, and when cooked mixture is ready stir it into the egg mixture slowly, then return all to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Have ready 1 teaspoon gelatine which has soaked in 2 tablespoons cold water. Stir this into the hot custard until dissolved. Chill thoroughly. When this is very cold whip 1½ cups heavy cream until stiff and fold into the chilled cooked mixture. Now add your mashed and sweetened berries. Pour into tray of electric refrigerator, turn cold control to lowest setting and freeze, stirring every 30 minutes, until the mixture is firm. This amount serves 8, but it is so good you would be smart to double it. (Recipe for Cocoanut-Apricot Squares was in Tuesday's column.)

Students Do Work For Queen

BOOKHAM, Surrey, England—(CP)—The Queen and Queen Mother Mary are valued patrons at the local school of stitchery and lace. Both have commissioned the school to do work for them.

Recently pupils were proud to embroider handkerchiefs with the marking of the queen.

The school teaches fine needlework to disabled women and praise from Queen Mother Mary—herself a highly-skilled needlewoman with a preference for gross point embroidery—is highly valued.

After a three-year course the pupils become accomplished needlewomen capable of earning their own living in many spheres of needlework.

Women Form New Council To Improve Child Health

TORONTO, June 28.—Attempts to form maternal and child health councils across Canada as a community effort with the various women's organizations cooperating, is part of a 10-point program adopted Wednesday by the child and maternal health division of the Health League of Canada.

The occasion was a one-day conference of the 2-year-old division, called to organize a women's advisory council, and was attended by about 75 representatives of local and national organizations. Dr. H. B. Van Wyck, president of the division and emeritus professor of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Toronto, chaired the meeting. Dr. Nicholas Silverthorne, division co-chairman, was one of the speakers.

Vital part of the new program will be efforts to establish prenatal classes across Canada, such as already exist in Toronto, and to arouse interest in providing in hospital elsewhere breast-milk banks, such as are already being done in a limited way in Toronto Hospital for Sick Children.

The Health League will assist in providing authoritative discussion and lecture materials and films, and giving general publicity to the maternal welfare work. The League will also make a study of literature on maternal and child health coming from various sources with a view to standardizing this, and eliminating duplication. The present wealth of material is confusing to young parents, it was pointed out.

Efforts will be directed not only to arousing public interest, but to stirring up interest on the part of medical, dental and nursing organizations, it was stressed.

OES Gets Breezy Sunny Day For Tea At Mrs. W. Dyer's

A warm, sunny, though breezy day was happily accepted Wednesday by the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star who were holding the annual garden party at the home of Mrs. Walter Dyer, 608 Homewood Ave. The crowd which enjoyed this event was large, though somewhat smaller than a year ago officials said. Mrs. A. J. Newton and Mrs. A. Knott were co-conveners.

The Worthy Matron Mrs. P. D. Windrim and Association Matron Mrs. S. M. Ward were extending a welcome at the entrance gate and Mrs. J. W. Miles and Mrs. D. Davis were taking the tickets. Miss Cora Bailey was in charge of the pre-sale of tickets.

Bright banners and large sun umbrellas made the garden a gay place and a thoughtful hostess had even provided a little red car for the children to play with. There were two draw prizes offered, a child's quilt and a hooked rug.

Mrs. M. Jones was selling tickets. Winner of the quilt was Mrs. W. Frankish of Lakefield and of the rug, convener Mrs. Knott.

The bazaar table was like a children's wear store of cotton print dresses, sun suits, etc., made by the members, and also included kitchen aprons for the mothers. Mrs. O. R. Kidd was in charge, assisted by Mrs. A. Munro, Mrs. T. Rose and Mrs. S. Richardson.

Home baking was sold by Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, Mrs. B. McLean, Mrs. J. Baird and Mrs. P. Merrett.

THANK YOU

We wish to sincerely thank the Merchants and Manufacturers of Peterborough and Environs for their generosity by advertising in our Souvenir Book, also to our Patrons who attended "Melody Lane."

Your kind response to our appeal made our campaign a huge success and will enable the Registry to carry on its Community Service in a bigger and better way.

To any one who has in any way participated, we thank you.

Wife Requires Patience When Husband Is Ailing

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you help me with a problem that has been bothering me for over a year? I have been married five years and have two children. We were very happy until a year ago, when my husband developed stomach trouble. Now he never comes into the house without finding fault with things. He doesn't like to be around people, and is positively rude to the neighbors when they drop in for a visit. His own mother has told him he should try to be a little more agreeable. My friends wonder how I put up with him. My husband doesn't like me to go out, and my friends think I should get out at least once a week. I love my husband very much and would like to have the warmth and understanding in our home that used to be there.

ANSWER: To begin with, Ethel, for heaven's sake stop taking advice from your "friends." In a case like yours, neighborly advice, however well meant, can wreck a home like a bulldozer. If you want to take someone's advice, talk to your husband's doctor, and if he hasn't had medical treatment for his stomach condition, make every effort to see that he does get it, pronto. Illness of any kind tends to make a patient irritable, but nothing works such havoc as a digestive disorder. The inability to enjoy food, constant nagging pain that makes rest impossible, would ruin the disposition of a saint.

HILDA AND SUE

ANSWER: You're very wise youngsters! Set your standards high and you'll command respect from all about you. This habit established in your neighborhood is most pernicious and it's about time someone stopped it. Let it be known that you two will not go out with boys unless you are properly called for, and you'll be much more highly esteemed. As for the boys you'd like to meet, how about asking them to the house for an evening of dancing, games or some other fun? It will help them over their bashfulness.

Rented Clothes Given Boost By UK Festival

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON — (CP) — Overseas visitors to the Festival of Britain have brought a boom to firms which specialize in renting clothes for special occasions.

So says Cedric Lane, representative of a well-known company which has been in business more than 50 years.

Lane said more men's and women's wear is being rented than at any time since 1939.

The hire system makes it possible for men to pay one to six guineas for outfits that would normally cost 50 times as much. This has a particular appeal for persons who come from North America by air and like to travel "light" because of restrictions on the amount of air-baggage.

Renting clothes is so widespread a practice that one of the best-known firms, Moss Brothers, has become practically a household word. Newspaper columnists make annual guesses on the number of persons at the Royal Ascot meeting whose grey toppers, tails and striped pants are strictly hired for the occasion.

At the last Ascot meeting, a popular hunch was Lord Derby's Mossborough, whose name had a special significance for those in rented clothes. The horse won by four lengths.

In ladies' wear, the latest fashions can be rented including furs, jewelry, shoes and handbags. The jewelry is well-styled paste or French pearls with a hiring charge of 10s. 6d. A complete outfit can be hired for £3. Cost of best outfit procurable is £10.

More women are hiring evening outfits in recent times. During the state visit of the King and Queen of Denmark in May,

FUNNY BUSINESS By Hershberger

"It gives the place a more homey atmosphere!"

one firm booked 30 gowns for the Buckingham Palace reception.

Gowns can be sent to any part of the British Isles, at 14 days' notice.

Bridal wear is in keen demand. From the groom to the smallest page in white satin suit every member of a bridal group can be outfitted completely in rented togs.

ily emergency it is up to the wife, to recognize your husband's difficulties and to do everything in your power to make life comfortable and bearable for him. This will be no easy task, I know, but pain is not easy for the sufferer, either. Your husband is depending upon you more than you realize. He probably isn't willing for you to go out because he finds comfort in your presence and doesn't want to be deprived of it. He may want a little spoiling—most sick people do—but that, again, is part of your job.

There is no doubt, of course, that many invalids overdo this demand for attention, but as you indicate your husband was a considerate and affectionate man before his illness, I doubt that he makes unreasonable demands now for the fun of it.

Send the neighbors home to their own households; consult a doctor for complete understanding of your husband's case, and for exactly what treatment—medical and humane—he needs.

DEAR MISS DIX: Don't you think a girl should get a chance to meet and talk with boy friend's parents before they think of getting married? I have been going with David for two years and he met my folks when we began going together. He always visits with my family, and talks with them when he comes to call for me. Why doesn't he think of inviting me to meet his folks? Could it be that they don't like the idea of his going with me? PEARL.

ANSWER: Most certainly a girl should have an opportunity to meet her boy friend's people before she is married. The best way to avoid in-law friction after marriage is for the young couple to meet and become as well acquainted as possible with each other's families. Perhaps David's folks don't approve of his going with you; in that case I think he should tell you so frankly. I can't understand why they aren't anxious to meet you as you are to meet them. Most mothers are very much interested in the girls their sons know, and are happy to welcome and entertain the girls.

Awkward situations are naturally bound to arise if you reach the point of marriage without knowing your fiancée's family, and you'd better point this out to him. If hinting doesn't work, ask him point blank why he doesn't want you and his family to meet. He should be proud of you both, and happy to see you together.

DEAR MISS DIX: We would like your advice on this problem. We like two boys and we think they like us. But they seem very bashful about coming to our houses or asking us to go out. Most of the girls here meet the boys on the street after a show or a ball game. We don't think that's very nice, but since some girls do it, the boys expect it of

Herbert J. Geale Dies At Home In Ashburnham

Adamson property, Lansdowne St. west, which the city bought for industrial purposes. Company wished to set up a third there.

The only poster recommended by the board was on Water St. south of Langton St.

In the discussion, Ald. T. D. Miller said Peterborough Lumber Co. was charged $35 a year space rental for their advertising board, Water St. north.

"It doesn't seem fair to charge our own people $35, and Ruddy Company $15 a board," Ald. Miller said.

Ald. E. C. Braund and Ald. Herbert Young suggested "that we tell Ruddy Company we're not interested in any of the proposed nine panels."

As a sequence to the reference to rental charges, the recommendation of the board was that the company be charged $25 a year for all their poster panels, on city property.

Poster Panels Will Cost More

E. L. Ruddy Company had to remove nine of their panel advertising boards at the new outdoor market on George St. and in the clearing of the government property at Charlotte and Louis streets.

They proposed substitute locations for some of them to the board of works. Four at Hawley St. and Monaghan Rd. were turned down by the board, "as not desirable" on that location.

Ruddy Company has three boards on the west side of Water St., south of Langton St., and they asked permission to erect a fourth. Three at Water and Mill streets were not approved. There are two panels on the ENVOY TO ERIN AND SUCCESSOR—Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews, of Omaha, Neb., right, will resign his post to become U.S. Ambassador to Ireland. A prominent Catholic layman, Matthews is well-known to and popular with Irish officials. He will be succeeded as head of the Navy Department by Dan A. Kimball, left, 55-year-old California businessman, who has been undersecretary of the department since 1949.

Tree-Top Rigger Spry At 64 Recalls Old Days In West

VANCOUVER, (CP)—Archie Linton, with an Irish twinkle in his eye is a spry 64 years old. He's had to be spry to claim the title of the oldest rigger on the continent.

A rigger is the logging term for the man who trims the tops of trees.

Linton works in famed Stanley Park, a region full of tall trees. All the giants in the park with neatly-trimmed tops are samples of Archie's work.

With a back as straight as the trees he climbs and a pair of legs that have spurred up cedars and firs with the best of them, Archie is a young in ability and outlook as a 16-year-old.

"Started tree work in Oregon in 1915," he said. "Came to B.C. in 1917. Then days you could count the high-riggers on the tips of your fingers. Nobody knew any more than anybody else, but I liked climbing and that's the job I got."

He snorted at the way loggers are "mollycoddled" nowadays. "Why I remember when we packed our own blankets and mattress. If there wasn't any straw we went out and cut some cedar boughs. Spent 10 hours a day in the woods, too."

In his close-to-40 years topping trees, Archie has, fallen twice, broken a leg twice, an arm twice, an ankle once. One fall was 90 feet and he was laid up eight months.

"Doc said I had a permanent injury," recalls Archie. "So the compensation board gave me a life pension and I went firing a donkey engine."

"That was back in '28. Never thought about putting the spurs on again, but one day a set of spar blocks needed changing. There was no one else to go up. The higher I climbed the better that right ankle felt."

"Lost my pension but I've been climbing ever since. Figure I'll quit this fall, though. Take a little holiday."

Archie knows where he's going right now. He picked the spot back in 1921.

"Bought a gallon tomato can full of Elk's teeth from an old Indian at Alert Bay for $310 in silver," chuckled Archie. "Took a little trip for nine months down to New York, Florida and New Orleans selling Elk's teeth to Elk lodges."

"Wound up $50 in my pockets, too, and I sure did some spending."

"But that New Orleans—sure would be a nice place to spend next winter."

James J. MacPherson, Contractor, Buried

The funeral of James J. MacPherson, 77, who died in a Toronto hospital June 21st, was held from St. Peter's Cathedral Monday at 9 a.m.

The funeral mass was sung by a first cousin of the deceased, the Rev. C. J. Carroll, PP, of Norwood.

Present in the sanctuary were Right Reverend Monsignor McAuley, Lindsay; Right Reverend Monsignor P. P. Butler, and the Rev. K. A. Malane of the Cathedral.

Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, Young's Point, where prayers at the grave were said by the Rev. Dr. J. V. Masterson, PP, of Lakefield, assisted by the Rt. Rev. J. V. McAuley and the Rev. C. J. Carroll.

Funeral bearers were Messrs. Frank DeForge, Thomas Turcotte, J. J. Hickey, John J. McCabe, Dr. Richard Sheehy, and Frank Scollard.

Mr. MacPherson was a builder and contractor and a skilled brick layer and carpenter. With the exception of several years spent in Western Canada, most of his life was lived in Peterborough. Much of his work and building ability was spent in the erection and remodelling of Catholic churches in this district. In the early thirties, he was responsible for the removal of the flat beamed ceiling of St. Peter's Cathedral and the enlargement of its sanctuary space with the erection of the new stone wall at the north end of the building.

Got Prompt Relief From Gas, Stomach Disorders

Also Suffered Two Years Backache and Rheumatic Pains. Nerves On Edge, Couldn't Sleep, Tells How Syntona Helped Her.

How often have you heard a friend or neighbor tell of the good results they got by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound? Time and again you read or hear of people who obtained gratifying relief from common disorders of the stomach, kidney, liver or bowels, and how it helped to rid them of gas, bloating and heartburn, lame, aching back, dizzy spells, or nervous rundown condition.

Here is what Mrs. Edith Gunby, Caledonia, Ontario, has to say of her experience with Syntona: "My digestion was so bad that even the lightest foods gave me gas, cramps, and sour acid risings. I would get attacks of heartburn often followed by a nauseated, dizzy feeling and sick headache. Many days I didn't care whether I ate or not. My entire system became rundown, nerves were so on edge, I couldn't sleep well, and rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. My back was lame and sore and I often felt completely tired out."

"So many people were recommending Syntona that I decided to see what it would do for me, and now I cannot praise it too highly. It is all due to this medicine that I can now enjoy my meals again and have no trouble with gas, sourness or heartburn. I am free of headaches and dizzy spells, my nerves are better, and I am able to sleep more soundly at night. Also, the rheumatic pains and backache have gone away and I now have more strength to do my work."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too. (Advt.)

Cruiser Guarding British Evacuation From Oil Refinery

ABADAN, Iran, June 29. (AP)—The 8,000-ton British cruiser Mauritius dropped anchor in this river port Thursday to guard the British evacuation of the Khuzistan oil fields and the great Abadan refinery. Backed by this show of force, the entire British executive staff of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company informed the Little Fighting Reported Along Front

TOKYO, June 29 (AP)—The fighting war virtually disappeared from the Korean front today under a mounting wave of cease-fire talk.

A small, fierce fight raged throughout the afternoon for a single hill northwest of Yonchon on the western front. The ridge changed hands six times before allied forces withdrew, leaving Communists still holding the hill. Chinese Reds threw some small probing attacks at the centre of the line.

Elsewhere, ground action was confined to patrol activity.

United Nations patrols screening the lower half of the "iron triangle" were turned back by heavy, though inaccurate fire.

"The Chinese don't shoot unless we provoke them," one officer commented. "They sit tight until we come in gun range, then they let loose."

Whole Front Same

The whole battlefield was like that. The US Eighth Army took only 108 words Friday night to cover the entire ground action in the briefest communique it has issued this year.

There was more activity in the air. Propeller-driven UN Mustangs tangled Thursday with Red jets. One Russian-made jet was damaged, the Mustangs unhurt. Far East air forces said. Two American jets were shot down by ground fire.

On the ground, a few hundred Reds stuck in the early morning darkness Friday in the Kumhwa area. A series of earlier Chinese attacks in this same corner of the old "iron triangle" were beaten back during the night and daylight hours Thursday.

Communist radios at Pyongyang in Korea and Peking in China ignored cease-fire talk, and United Nations sources in Japan and Korea would not comment.

But a spirit of optimism was apparent in US Eighth Army headquarters.

See War Ending
A high South Korean government source predicted the shooting war would stop within "the next few days."

Couple Beaten By Detectives

TORONTO, June 29 (CP)—William Tait, 60, and Roger McEuley, 54, house detectives at downtown hotel, today were released on $100 bail on charges of assault occasioning bodily harm to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morgan of Toronto.

The couple said they were asleep in their room early Thursday when the officers burst in and began to pummel Morgan. Mrs. Morgan said she was called "filthy names" and thrown into the hall. Her arm was broken in two places, police said.

Lakes ship, was in Toronto for a few days "so we stayed together" in a downtown hotel, his wife said. Mr. Morgan said he was awakened by his wife.

Two men were standing over the bed, he continued, and they demanded to know "Where did you pick up..."

One grabbed him while the other seized his wife and pulled her into the hall, he said.

He protested to the two men that the woman was his wife, but they wouldn't believe him. Mr. Morgan told police.

Rain Weakens Track Train Drops 30 Feet

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., June 29 (AP)—A rain-weakened section of track collapsed and sent the Chicago and Eastern Illinois train Meadowlark hurtling down a 30-foot embankment Thursday night.

The fireman and mail clerk of the train was killed.

The passenger cars carrying about 75 persons overturned down the embankment. A number of the passengers were trapped inside the cars for a time.

The accident occurred about 15 miles south of this south central Illinois town.

Man Fishing Falls Off Dam, Drowns

Peter Petrakos, 63, Casting Off Pier; Police Find Body

Peter Petrakos, 63, of Union St., drowned at 12:45 a.m. today when he fell off the dam at Lock 22, four miles north of the city. He was fishing at the time and he is believed to have either lost his balance while casting or to have taken one of his frequent dizzy spells. It is the seventh death due to drowning in the immediate vicinity of Peterborough this year.

Petrakos at one time was known as the "mushroom king of Peterborough." For a number of years he grew and sold mushrooms to local retail stores.

His body was recovered at 7:45 a.m. today by OPP Constable Roy Feeley. It was found some 150 feet from the pier where it had been carried downstream by the main eddy.

Petrakos had been on a midnight fishing expedition with Morris Duke, Park Hill Rd. Duke was fishing from the north side of the dam and Petrakos from the steps of a pier, sloping down into the whirlpool on the south side.

Suddenly Gone
Duke told police that he turned to talk to Petrakos and found him gone. He looked around for a couple of minutes with a flashlight and called out. When he was still unable to find his fishing companion he crossed the canal and woke up Ed Parberry, 35, lockmaster at Lock 22.

"I was talking to him only three or four minutes before," Duke told the Examiner. "He was fishing from the steps of one of the piers on the south side and I was sitting on a wooden beam, fishing from the north side."

At Bait Box
"The last I saw of him he was at the bait box. I said 'what's up Pete, you got a strike?'"

2 Island Fires Said Serious

VANCOUVER, June 29 (CP)—Two serious forest fires today lunged through the Campbell river area of Vancouver Island.

A new fire mushroomed late Thursday only three miles from the Elk river blaze, which was being fought along a nine-mile front.

The new fire struck at logging property near the east-central coast of the island. It was being fought by 50 men.

More than 500 men were fighting the other fire, where a forestry department spokesman described the blaze as "very, very critical indeed."

An estimated 5,000,000 board feet of timber has been destroyed, with an additional 20,000,000 board feet of felled and bucked logs endangered.

Forestry officials said there is no hope the fire could be put out. "The only thing we try to do is steer the fire," they said.

Ask Apartment Applicants If Plan To Have Children

OTTAWA, June 29. (CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) said Thursday tenants seeking to rent apartments in a new block in Winnipeg are being asked whether they plan for the next three years include having children.

Mr. Knowles told the Commons he realized that the housing situation was serious and the seriousness of it was stressed by a circular which he received from a resident of Winnipeg.

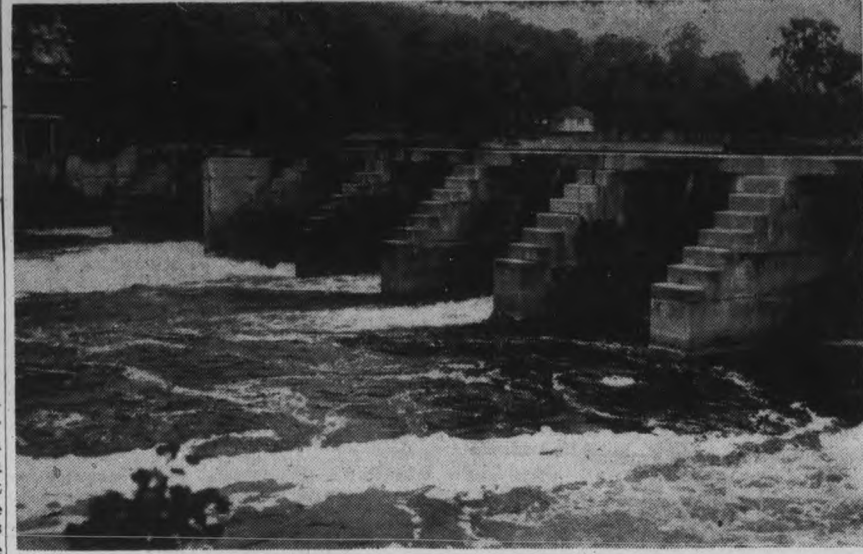

The man had tried to rent an apartment in a new block. The owner asked him to fill out a questionnaire. The man was asked to list his nationality and to state whether his plans included having children in the next three years. He was asked to undertake to vacate immediately in the event children were born.

The landlord asked for a three-year lease, with three months rent in advance, with two months of that to apply to the last two months of tenancy. The rent was $80 a month for a three-room apartment.

Among final questions was one asking if the tenant was prepared to live and entertain in moderation.

Mr. Knowles said such questionnaires should be discouraged. He brought up the matter to stress the need for more government action in the housing field.

SCENE OF TODAY'S DROWNING was Lock 22, four miles north of the city. Peter Petrakos, 63, one-time "mushroom king of Peterborough," was the victim. Mr. Petrakos either slipped in the darkness while fishing from the steps of the second pier (from the right), or he had a dizzy spell that caused him to fall in. Morris Duke, Park Hill Rd., was fishing from the wooden beam at the north and had been talking to Mr. Petrakos a few minutes before he disappeared. The body was found today 150 feet downstream.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

No Let-Up In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said today the United States must expect to maintain for "at least" three more years a multi-billion dollar level of spending for foreign military aid. Continued American assistance in organizing the defences of the free world "is a project of self-interest for this country of the highest and most pressing urgency," Marshall said. He testified before the House or Represent-

House In Uproar 3rd Day In St. Laurent-Drew Feud

OTTAWA, June 29. (CP)—The Commons was thrown into an uproar today for the third straight day as Prime Minister St. Laurent, George Drew and Production Minister Howe resumed feuding over Mr. Drew's charges of ministerial impropriety. With the House in a bedlam at the opening, the Progressive Conservative leader and his Liberal opponents engaged in a new and hot exchange arising from Mr. Drew's claim that Mr. Howe had handed out contracts beneficial to members of his family. Mr. Howe denied the charge Thursday.

Today's eruption came over the question of whether some language used Thursday by the Prime Minister and Mr. Drew should be withdrawn. By the time it was over, there had been further unparliamentary language and further withdrawals.

The Prime Minister accused Mr. Drew of using "epithets" and "villification" against him. Mr. Drew accused the Prime Minister of "slandering" and called statements by Mr. Howe "absolutely false" and "despicable."

Mr. Howe said Mr. Drew was applying to him the same tactics he had used against former Liberal opponents and Sir Lyman Duff, former Supreme Court Chief Justice who headed the wartime royal commission into the Hong Kong expedition.

The scrap developed into a confused tangle of interpretations of language used previously by the opponents, interspersed with new and sometimes rougher expressions.

While the three headliners battled it out, supporters kept up a running fire of "epithets" and "villification" at one or another.

Started Peaceably
It started peaceably enough when Speaker Ross Macdonald read a statement concerning some words supposed to have been used Thursday by Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew, the use of which had been in doubt until the official house record could be checked overnight.

Order Striking Pilots To Return To Work

NEW YORK, June 29. (AP)—United Airlines pilots, on strike since June 19, were ordered back to work today by their union.

The airline's service in the United States and to Hawaii had been crippled by the walkout.

About 900 pilots and co-pilots struck after failure to reach a wage agreement after two years of negotiation.

In Chicago, the union ordered the pilots to return to their posts at 4:45 p.m. EDT today. The UAL network had halted operations for 10 days because of the strike.

8 Airmen Killed

KEY WEST, Fla., June 29. (AP)—Eight Navy men were killed and one escaped with a broken leg today in the crash of a patrol bomber on its take-off.

The plane, a twin-engine PBM, fell in the Florida Straits off a nearby island.

16 Nations With Troops In Korean War Approve Truman Order

South Korean Officials Not Very Happy Stopping At Old Border; Expect Early Action Learn If Truce Possible

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—The government today sent Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway general instructions on negotiation of a cease-fire in Korea. Just what they are was not disclosed in the official word given out here. But informed sources in London said they had the support of all the 16 United Nations with fighting forces in Korea. The move pointed to some early action—perhaps within hours—to determine whether a truce can in fact be arranged.

In Korea itself, fighting had largely died down under a wave of cease-fire talk. There was some patrol and air activity but the front on the whole was quiet.

Ridgway was at his Tokyo headquarters but there were rumors he might leave for Korea at any time.

William J. Sebald, United States diplomatic chief in Japan, flew to Pusan, Korea, and conferred for more than an hour with John J. Muccio, the U.S. Ambassador to Korea. No official announcement was made as to their discussions.

Will Stop Soon
A spokesman for the South Korean government, Clarence Rye, said he felt the shooting war would stop within "the next few days."

The South Koreans were unhappy, however, over the prospect of a cease-fire along the 38th Parallel—the old border between North and South Korea. Their legislature adopted unanimously a resolution opposing it.

In Congress here, there was also some opposition expressed to a cease-fire on the old border.

The official announcement that instructions had been sent to Ridgway, United Nations Commander in Korea, was made by Robert A. Lovett, Deputy Defence Secretary.

Lovett gave no information about those instructions but did say Ridgway would have to report back to Washington on any proposed terms for ending the fighting.

No Announcement
President Truman held a meeting with his cabinet—a usual thing on Friday. Presumably, the Korean situation had a high place in their discussions but the White House declined to discuss the peace outlook in any way.

Despite the general hope, some American officials were still taking a fingers-crossed attitude. Some State Department officials have been sceptical of the cease-fire suggestions from the moment it was advanced last weekend.

Lovett, in telling a press conference instructions had been sent to Ridgway, took occasion to say 16 NATIONS

Canada Wants It Known Getting No Aid From US

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—Canada wants it known that she gets no financial or economic help from the United States.

For that reason, Canada has asked that her name be stricken from a list of foreign countries which, under a new United States law, would be cut off from financial help if they ship strategic materials to Communist countries.

Not that Canada is planning to make any such shipments, Canadian officials emphasized, but, as one put it:

"It's a matter of pride with us that we stand on our own financial feet, and we want to set the record straight."

American officials said there is a good chance that Canada will be dropped from the list, issued earlier this month. But they said an attorney-general's ruling on what constitutes "financial and economic aid" to a country may first be necessary.

The Canadian embassy transmitted a formal request, saying the country is automatically exempt from the aid ban since Canada gets no aid.

Embarrassed American officials explained that "in the usual sense Canada certainly receives no aid from the United States."

Canada got on the list because a private Canadian company was granted a $5,000,000 loan from the American government's export-import bank in 1948.

Canadian officials are insisting, however, that was not aid to a private Canadian company in which American stockholders had a big interest. Further, they pointed out, 90 per cent of the output from the company, the Steep Rock Iron Mine Limited, of Ontario, is going to the United States.

Fire Destroys New Home In Smith Twp.

A $4,000 fire razed a nearly-completed frame house, owned by Clare Bell, on the fourth line of Smith township, 200 yards from Highway 28, at 5:30 Thursday night. Bell lives at 138 Perry St.

Clouds of grey smoke began to pour from the building about 5:30 and within a half hour, in spite of the efforts of the Smith township firemen, the small home was gutted.

Mrs. Charles Lee, whose farm is 250 yards north on Highway 28, noticed the smoke first and phoned in the alarm.

"It was all smoke. We couldn't see any flames," she said. "We were concerned because the hot cinders were blown over our barn."

The alarm was recorded at the fire department at 5:35 p.m. and by 5:55 the department was fighting the blaze four miles away.

Ready To Fall
"When we got there the structure was ready to fall," said Lockie Longhurst, assistant fire chief.

During the next two hours the firemen kept the fire confined to a small area but the house was burned, leaving only the cement chimney standing.

Mr. Longhurst said that they emptied the 500-gallon water tank then turned to the well close by, draining it of 1,000 gallons. During that interval the truck's tank was filled three times.

Both the firemen and the owner had no idea how the outbreak started. At 5 p.m. when Mr. Bell left the house, where he had been working during the day, there was no sign of smoke. He began the building last fall.

Has Good Party But Malik Silent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 29. (AP)—Delegates to the United Nations Security Council drank champagne and ate caviar as the guests of Jakob A. Malik Thursday night but got no chance to question the enigmatic Russian on his Korean cease-fire proposals.

Malik had been in retirement since he made the suggestions in a radio broadcast last Saturday. He emerged to entertain his fellow members at a dinner marking the council.

He looked pallid and peaked, but persons attending the dinner said he was a jovial and affable host. The dinner at the swank Waldorf-Astoria Hotel was strictly a social occasion, guests said, with no discussion of Korean peace moves.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb attended, but as far as could be learned, did not have a chance to follow his government's instructions to ask Malik to clarify truce suggestions.

Pearson, Morrison Holding Conference

LONDON, June 29 (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, went to the House of Commons Thursday for an interview with his British opposite number, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison.

As one of the original members of the three-man United Nations Korean cease-fire committee, Pearson was expected to be given latest news on diplomatic efforts to follow Russian suggestions of a peace move in Korea. The two ministers had previously met Tuesday.

Senators Clash On Bill To Block Margarine Trade

OTTAWA, June 29 (CP).—Government legislation to prohibit interprovincial trade in dairy product substitutes developed three hours of debate in the Senate Thursday and brought a move to use the Senate's power to block the measure.

Charges that it was outside the jurisdiction of parliament, that it would "Balkanize" Canada and that it was "vicious and unwarranted" were hurled by critics of the bill, mostly Liberal Senators. Senator W. D. Euler (L. Ontario), a leader in the fight to legalize margarine in Canada, charged that it was aimed directly against the butter substitute. He moved that it be given a six months' hold—a parliamentary device to kill the measure.

The debate was highlighted by an angry exchange between Senator Arthur Roebuck (L. Ontario) and Senator Paul Bouffard (L. Quebec). Senator Roebuck, opposing the bill, asked Senator Bouffard if Quebec wanted to separate from Canada or remain as a province subject to the laws of Canada.

"I don't like the remark of my honorable friend," replied Senator Bouffard. "Quebec has been as cooperative as any province. We don't want separation, but if we don't want margarine in our province that is our right."

"The rest of Canada would suffer if we separated," he added.

Debate Adjourned
The Senate never reached a vote on Senator Euler's motion. Senator Thomas Reid (L. British Columbia) adjourned the debate until today.

The legislation results from the recent decision of the Privy Council that the federal government had no power to regulate the manufacture and sale of margarine within a province. As a result regulations of the Dairy Act were rewritten with a new section which would prohibit interprovincial movement of substitutes for dairy products.

Sensor Euler said he was amazed that the House of Commons had passed the bill almost without comment. It illustrated the vicious principle of prohibiting interprovincial trade by Order-in-Council. It would not be long before the government would be seeking power to prohibit trade in other products.

Sensor Roebuck said the bill could be termed one to facilitate the minister of agriculture (Mr. Gardiner) in his political maneuverings. "He was not concerned so much about margarine as about the principle of restricting interprovincial trade which was against the Constitution and the act would 'Balkanize the Dominion of Canada'."

Sensor Thomas Vlen (L. Quebec) said the bill was clearly unconstitutional. The BNA Act specifically said natural products should move freely among provinces.

UAW Union Hits At John Lewis

DETROIT, June 29 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) struck back at John L. Lewis Thursday night, calling him "an embittered, petulant and argumentative minor public figure" who had tried and failed to raid the UAW membership. The counter-blast broke an official five-day silence in the wake of Lewis' widely-ballyhooed appearance here last Saturday.

A statement issued by the Auto Workers' executive board made these accusations against the president of the independent United Mine Workers.

1. He has "joined hands with the National Association of Manufacturers in that organization's fight to destroy price control so that profiteers can pick the pockets of American consumers."

2. While Communists are barred from his own union, he "regularly and consistently makes alliances with Communists in other unions whose internal affairs he happens to be interfering in at any given time."

Another Complaint
Mr. Drew immediately leaped to his feet and said he, too, had checked the record and found there had been an unparliamentary interference against him.

The Prime Minister immediately jumped in. Declaring that "objective" newspapermen had heard Thursday's debate, he read this excerpt from The Canadian Press report of the questioned exchange:

"Mr. St. Laurent jumped to his feet."

"Mr. Speaker, may I through you ask the leader of the opposition if we are to take this merely more or less as a successful attempt to retire behind a smoke screen, or if he does in a mainly way take the responsibility of asserting any charge whatsoever on the floor of this House."

"Mr. Drew snapped."

"Mr. Speaker, I do not take very kindly to the inference by the Prime Minister that I am not acting with proper courage, but I do not think that my remarks indicate that I am as cowardly as the Prime Minister acting in the way he has in regard to a minister."

"At that point, Mr. St. Laurent demanded the immediate withdrawal of the word 'cowardly'."

"Speaker Ross MacDonald agreed the word was unparliamentary."

dispute would be settled by negotiation.)
Grady and Mossadegh were closeted for 1½ hours. Grady told reporters the Nationalist Premier promised to suspend Iran's disputed anti-sabotage bill Sunday, but would not make any concessions in the dispute with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company over oil tanker receipts.

Ready To Junk Bill
Mossadegh, sparking of the campaign which brought nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company holdings, apparently told Grady that Iran would junk the anti-sabotage bill of British technicians would stay on the job working for the Iranian National Oil Company.

(In London, Morrison counseled the British employees of the AIOC to stick together until able to resume normal operations at the huge Abadan refinery. He said Britain would take "all practicable measures necessary" to protect her citizens working at Abadan.)

AIOC employees had refused to work for the new Iranian National Oil Company, largely because of Iran's proposed anti-sabotage bill, which would provide penalties up to death for stopping the flow of oil.

The Iranians began making concessions shortly after the 8-ton Royal Navy cruiser Mauritius steamed up the Shatt El Arab river and cast anchor within a mile of the great Abadan refineries. Her eight-inch guns could be seen from jetties where tankers now have started pumping oil back into the refinery storage tanks and are preparing to leave.

Denies Statement
Eric Drake, AIOC manager now in Basra, Iraq, Thursday night denied a statement attributed to a company spokesman in Abadan that the huge refinery would gradually close down in the next two days.

President Truman told reporters in Washington that the United States is making every effort to bring about a settlement of the crucial dispute. He described the situation as serious.

The United States government last night approved a voluntary agreement among 18 American oil companies to pool their resources in supplying fuel to "friendly foreign nations" who may be cut off from Iranian oil.

Demands Withdrawal
"The Progressive Conservative leader, amid a swelling hub-bub, refused to relent unless Mr. St. Laurent withdrew what he understood to be the words 'lack of courage.'"

"Mr. St. Laurent said he had not used that phrase; he thought he had."

"If the official record proved him wrong, he would withdraw."

"Mr. Drew said he, too, would let the record speak for itself, and the matter rested there."

Having read that quotation, Mr. St. Laurent said he does not mind "epithets" being used against him, but when unparliamentary language is used in the House, it must be withdrawn when the Speaker orders. The matter could not rest, he said, until Mr. Drew had withdrawn or "suffered the consequences" of defying the Speaker.

Mr. Drew came back angrily by saying that the Speaker already had accepted his withdrawal. But if Mr. St. Laurent wanted to make something of it, he said, he should be forced to withdraw the word "sneer" used in earlier debate against Mr. Drew.

"But," the Progressive Conservative leader said, "this is just a blind by which the prime minister seeks to evade his responsibility to clean up the situation."

His bait box and minnows were on top of the dam, Parberry related, "but there was no sign of him or his fishing rod. I flashed my light around a bit and then I spotted a fishing line floating between the second and third piers. I recovered the casting rod."

Provincial police were called and dragging commenced about 1:30 a.m., 45 minutes after Petrakos was missing.

Parberry assisted OPP Constable Feeley in the dragging but work had to be discontinued for the night when a "ball gaff" drag became snagged on the bottom.

Arbitration Ends Teachers' Row

BRANTFORD, June 29.—For the first time in Ontario a salary dispute between school teachers and a board of education has been settled by an arbitration board. Teachers at Brantford Collegiate Institute and Vocational Schools have been awarded a $600 salary increase for 1951 by an arbitration board. Both parties agreed to abide by the ruling.

Salaries now range from $2,500 to $4,000 a year. The board does not include the $200 annual salary increase.

The arbitration board said that average salaries paid to Brantford secondary school teachers have been below the average of 21 comparable municipalities since 1939. The board said it recognized the importance of not only engaging personnel of the highest calibre to instruct and educate the young people of our land, "but to encourage, by attractive remuneration, those who are fitted to perform teaching duties to maintain a position in the community commensurate with their responsibilities."

NEW BOOKLET
You'll find more information on these and many other interesting ideas in the booklet "Around the Home Again", just published. Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S (ONTARIO) LIMITED, P.O. Box 490, Adelaide St. Station, Toronto.

Tom Gard's Note Book
Bits of driftwood picked up along the shores of northern lakes make excellent decorative pieces, and can often be formed into useful items. One very good friend worked several specimens into various interesting Christmas decorations that were both attractive and original. One hollow "log" held small table candles; odd shapes painted white spelled out the family initials on the door against a background of green; several pieces had been fashioned to hold small floral arrangements. Be on the alert for useful and ornamental pieces of driftwood during your holidays this summer.

What a happy association — holders made with your own hands for flowers from your own garden. Follow the instructions given for a simple flower holder and suggestions for floral arrangement.

Cornered
The Gards have become accustomed to holidaying during the first two weeks in July. Each year at this time I usually tackle some small improvement in the cottage to take my mind off fishing and this season will be no exception. There is one corner that is waste space at the present time and I have agreed to install a general utility cupboard. Plans are well in hand now but there will likely be a few wrinkles to iron out once the job is started. I'm using plywood for it could be made equally well from cheaper material.

My son has just brought his yearly contribution for the cottage home from school — a triple decker hanger made out of coat hangers. He evidently dreamed up the idea and made it "on the fly" during short-work periods. Looks sturdy and serviceable, too.

Can't Deport Fred Rose Commons Told

OTTAWA, June 29 (CP)—Fred Rose, Polish-born kingpin of a Russian-directed espionage ring in Canada during the Second World War, cannot be deported.

He was convicted on espionage charges in 1946 and was sentenced to six years. He is getting time off for good behavior.

Without Fresh Bread

HAVANA, June 29.—(AP)—Havana will go without fresh bread today. The 1,800 bakers of the city's 400 bakeries went on strike Thursday night to enforce a demand for a 40-per-cent increase in wages. The bakers say their present salaries have in effect been reduced through steadily rising living costs.

High Death Toll

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—The National Safety Council today said this year's American traffic fatality rate threatens to produce the highest death toll in 10 years. If the pace continues, said council, 37,000 persons will lose their lives in 1951 traffic crashes. Traffic deaths totalled 2,780 in May, the council said, an increase of three per cent. over May, 1950.

Heavy Travel Predicted Over Holiday

By The Canadian Press.

More Canadians will be on the move this Dominion Day weekend than during any other July 1 celebration in recent years.

Travel agents, thumbing through piles of ticket receipts said today that having the holiday on a Monday is the main cause of the travel boom.

They said at least 25 per cent more Canadians will travel this holiday weekend than on the same holiday last year, when July 1 fell on Friday.

A Canadian Press survey showed railways, airlines, bus and steamship services ready to help in the celebration of Canada's 84th birthday. Railways are adding extra sections to accommodate the holidaymakers. Steamship firms scheduled extra cruises.

More than 25 trains were expected to carry Winnipeg area residents to resorts on Lake Winnipeg and to the Lake of the Woods area around Kenora, Ont.

Troop Movements

At Edmonton the CNR said its holiday plans for the prairies were complicated by armed forces movements. More than 100 army officers and men were on their way to Valcartier, with air force reserves scheduled to start moving to various destinations Saturday. Across the land, Canadians prepared to celebrate the early summer holiday with sports events and outings.

Highland games were scheduled for a number of communities, including Edmonton, Hamilton and Embro. Hamilton prepared for the biggest selling regatta in its history. Orangeville, 50 miles northwest of Toronto, put finishing touches on plans for a harness-racing meet Monday.

The 50th annual Dominion Day regatta will be one of the top holiday attractions in Toronto.

Why Did U.E. Win?

The voting among Canadian General Electric Company production workers has determined that the U.E. shall continue to be the bargaining agent. Though polling a large vote (actually their 1,582 votes were only 327 fewer than the U.E. votes) the rival I.U.E. has lost its bid for power. That does not mean that I.U.E. in Peterborough will disintegrate, or that the struggle between the two unions is at an end. It may again challenge U.E. at the end of December.

What is the difference between the two unions? We have heard it flatly said that U.E. is Red, I.U.E. is White. That is a gross simplification. U.E. leadership is extreme Left wing; some of its men have been accused of being Communist. But certainly few of the 1909 persons who voted for it are either Communist or Communist-sympathizers. They may be, unwittingly, Communist supporters. Nor is I.U.E. White. That term implies bloodlessness. I.U.E. is Left wing, but not as far Left as U.E. It has, directly, a record of toughness (how otherwise could it have been carved out of U.E.); indirectly through its affiliation with C.I.O. and C.C.L., the I.U.E. has a long record of hard bargaining and battles with management. It was not so many years ago that Provincial Police were mobilized against the C.I.O. in Ontario.

There are these differences between the two unions: U.E. has been ostracized from the main stream of labour unions because the chief Canadian union leaders believe that U.E. leaders are Communist in sympathies if not, in fact, and that the political direction they gave U.E. was disruptive of Canadian labour and subversive of Canadian well-being. Canadian U.E. leaders have been denied admission to the United States, on the grounds of their political convictions. I.U.E. was formed after U.E. was thrown out of national and international labour organizations. I.U.E. is affiliated with both C.C.L. and C.I.O. It has their support. I.U.E. members believe that, backed by these big organizations and with their own active local leaders, they have a better chance of winning whatever demands they might make of management.

Another significant difference between U.E. and I.U.E. is this: The U.E. has nominally no connection with any political party. The I.U.E., through the C.C.L., is a professed supporter of the C.C.F. Thus when a worker casts his vote for I.U.E. he is automatically giving support to the C.C.F. U.E. has won the disapproval of certain religious bodies; thus, by implication, I.U.E. has some religious sanction. Canadian labour has shown a preference for keeping religion and politics out of unions.

Why did U.E. win? It was the union in power, and people in these parts are slow to change horses. It has a record of successful bargaining with the company in the last five years. The workers have attributed many of their pay increases to the U.E., and U.E. has not been slow to take all the credit. There is a sense of obligation and loyalty to Mr. Jackson, Canadian President of U.E. (bourgeois virtues of which Mr. Jackson and his lieutenants might, in themselves, be scornful while using them in fly-by-night. They are, on the whole, conventional and it takes much to destroy their loyalty. Mr. Jackson is very aggressive, skilful and informed leader. He is also a man of conviction. His organizers are astute. His tactics are bold. Standing high on his local record he is on imposing leader. The I.U.E. has no leader of his stature locally as well-known.

Basically, most workers are primarily interested in the size of their pay, not in something seemingly remote and intangible like the threat of communism. The vote showed that a majority of the workers believe that Mr. Jackson and his U.E. can make better deals for them than I.U.E. can.

Why did I.U.E. lose? It is a comparatively new union. It has no local record of bargaining with management to point to, other than some ineffective brief walk-outs among office workers recently. The workers were contract-conscious more than Communist-conscious. Prior to the voting, U.E. had secured from the company a new and favourable contract. If I.U.E. had been voted bargaining agent, a new contract would have had to be negotiated. There was fear of uncertainty and of loss of gains. . . . I.U.E. has a political affiliation inimical to many voters. It is not as arrogant as U.E.

In our view the most regrettable aspect of the campaign was the bitter appeals to brute passion which were made—and U.E. was not alone in these tactics. To campaign on terms like vampire, traitor, thief, liar, cannibal—paraphrase some slogans—is rough stuff. Unfortunately, as the pre-war history of Italy, Germany and Russia have shown, and as recent methods in countries east of the Iron Curtain and in Latin America indicate, violence in action or words or both, where there is more concern for loudness than regard for truth, does influence people. Many persons in Canada as elsewhere are like sheep in want of a shepherd; others are weak-minded, weak-willed, spiritually inert or just lazy, and want strong men to lead them. A man who shouts violence loud and long impresses some people as a very strong man. "We'll get on his side," they dumbly think. "He can intimidate others and will not himself be intimidated." Thus dictatorships grow and democracy crumbles. The campaign slogans last week were unpleasant echoes of noises which should be foreign to Peterborough.

Perhaps now that U.E. is back in undisputed power, Peterborough will not be assaulted by any more terms of violent abuse. Perhaps.

Iran and Mexico

A week ago we drew attention to the parallels between the oil nationalization in Persia and the oil expropriations in Mexico. We remarked, as an indication of what might happen to the Iranian industry and Government, how production fell to a quarter in Mexico after the nationalistic expropriations and how the Mexican Government was plunged into a financial turmoil. The New York Times has now analysed the parallel further. It says:

"Early in the proceedings the Iranian finance minister made an analogy with the Mexican oil expropriations of 1938, but one wonders if the Iranians took the trouble to study what oil nationalization has meant to Mexico. Potentially one of the largest oil producers in the world, she has not turned up a single new rich field in 13 years. Her record production in 1950 was 72,000,000 barrels, compared to the 1921 peak of 193,000,000, which at least showed what Mexico was capable of producing under competitive conditions. After 1938 her normal markets were temporarily cut off, and President Cardenas, the leftist, sold his oil to Hitler, as Premier Mossadegh, the conservative, may now sell his to Stalin.

Iran, like Mexico in 1938, could seize the physical property of the oil companies, but oil does not produce itself. The technicians, experts, managers, administrators are not automata and not slave labour; they are free human beings who cannot be forced to stay and make things work. To keep oil flowing, new wells must constantly be drilled and new machinery and capital must keep pouring in. A great and costly fleet of tankers is needed to take Iranian oil to its markets. A petroleum industry is far and away the most expensive and complicated of all commercial undertakings today."

Mexico had a financial crisis over the loss of her oil revenues. But, as the New York Times points out, Mexico had great mineral riches to draw upon and a peaceful friendly neighbour to the north. Iran's northern neighbour is Russia, and she has no riches other than oil, a multi-billion dollar industry developed and financed by Britain, and managed by the British.

The Anglo-Iranian Oil Industry has been the chief source of revenue for the Iranian State. Its Government is now casting feebly around for other, stop-gap revenue. Before the Parliament rose for the three-day Shia Moslem holiday at the beginning of the week, it considered a proposal that every Persian earning more than $45 a week should temporarily contribute to the country everything above that sum. Those earning less would be at liberty to contribute voluntarily.

The same session of the Parliament listened without great enthusiasm to a proposal for total prohibition. If this became law it would deprive the Government of revenue. Unless compromise is reached over the oil, the Iranian Government and people are headed for some deep financial and economic pits.

NOTE AND COMMENT

People who fear the worst are always wrong. Automatic lighters came, but the match factories still seem to be making an honest dollar.

Upon deep consideration, we have decided that it is probably better to be your own worst enemy than your own best friend.

There's always a fly in the ointment. In 1933, when the dollar was worth $1.09, lots of people didn't have a dollar. Today, when the dollar is worth fifty-seven cents, nearly everybody has two dollars.

The Brandon Sun remarks that an equivalent of two divisions of men are holding army armchair jobs at Ottawa, and comments that "At least they have arms." This sounds like a call to arms, two arms.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA
Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: I hear a rumour that the first mayor of Peterborough came to a sticky end. Is that so?

ANSWER: Our first mayor was an Ulster Irishman, Thomas Benson, son of James and Anne (Robinson) Benson of Fintona, County Tyrone, where he was born January 11, 1804. The family came to America in 1816, settling first at Landingburgh, N.Y. and then at Kingston. Among Thomas Benson's brothers and sisters were the Hon. James Rea Benson, a senator who lived in St. Catharines; William Benson, collector of customs at Windsor; Ann, wife of John R. Dickson, M.D., superintendent of the Lunatic Asylum at Rockwood, Kingston; and Joseph Benson, M.D., a professor in a medical college in Chicago.

Thomas Benson was educated at Kingston and inclined to the legal profession but was prevented from adopting it because of the prejudice of his parents. He went into merchandizing in Kingston, staying there until 1832 when he moved to Port Hope. There he traded until 1837 and the outbreak of the rebellion. He went into service as a captain of a company of volunteers and was on duty at Chippewa and Navy Island.

From 1839 to 1845 he was a regular Paymaster with a battalion at Niagara. When this was disbanded, Captain Benson moved to Peterborough (1845) where he was engaged in the milling business until 1853. When Peterborough was incorporated in 1850, he was elected its first Mayor. From all accounts, he took a lively interest in advancing education in the district, through his pen and as Superintendent of Public Instruction for the counties of Peterborough and Victoria.

In 1853, he settled in Port Hope and became secretary and treasurer of the Peterborough and Port Hope Railway Company. He was travelling on the business of this company when he met with his untimely end. He was killed on the 12th of March, 1857 with 57 other passengers by the breaking of the bridge over the Desjardins Canal, on the line of the Great Western Railway near the city of Hamilton. The Canadian Biographical Dictionary and Portrait Gallery of Eminent and Self-Made Men, 1880 edition, gives this note: "So awful was the calamity, so painful to contemplate was his death, and so exalted to the esteem in which he was held in Port Hope, that few persons that were ever buried there had a greater number of sincere and profoundly-smitten mourners."

SIR: How many full moons are there in a year?

ANSWER: Usually twelve. There are twelve this year. There were thirteen last year. This year there are to be thirteen new moons. The reason for this lightness is that the moon makes a complete circuit around the earth in an average of 27 days, 7 hours and 43 minutes. Multiply that by 12 and you'll find it comes to less than 365 days, or a year. It happens that the moon travels around the earth in the same direction that the earth travels around the sun, and as a consequence, the mean duration of the lunar month—that is, the time from new moon to new moon—is 29 days, 12 hours, 44.05 minutes. That does not multiply out to a full year in twelve trips. Hence there is a hang-over.

The moon revolves on an axis and the time of rotation is exactly equal to the time of revolution around the earth—27.321666 days.

ALPHA: What has happened to the numbering of houses in Peterborough? Several years ago, for instance, on Monaghan Road, the officials began to make the numbering uniform—from south to north. Wasn't there supposed to be an evolution of a pattern of numbers, so that every house in the city on a north-south street numbered in the 800's would lie two blocks north of Charlotte? (This is only an example.) Now we have the ridiculous situation of houses modestly numbered 302 lying almost beside houses hugely numbered 1434.

ANSWER: Perhaps they ran out of metal for the numbers. Or perhaps they ran into opposition from residents who have lived all their lives at, say, 215 Park Street, and do not want to change their address.

You are rather out in your denominations. Monaghan Road numbers run in placid series from 510 at the River end of the city limits, to 1370, at Homewood. The next number after 1370 is 400. This little series runs then to number 518, between Walnut and McDonnell, and the very next house to 518 is numbered 1588. That is the east side of the road. The west side numbering is similarly vagrant.

The only uniformity in numbering that the city has is this: all even numbers (ending in 2, 4, 6, etc.) are on the east side of north-south streets and the north side of east-west streets, and all odd numbers (ending in 1, 3, 5, etc.) are on either the west or south sides.

ALPHA: I see that the Marquess of Blandford is engaged to marry Miss Susan he is heir to the Duke of Marlborough. I know that Mr. Winston Churchill is also of the Marlborough family, or the Marlboroughs of the Churchill family. Does that byphen in the last name, making it Spencer-Churchill and not simply Churchill, mean that the Marlboroughs are inferior branches of the Churchill family?

ANSWER: No. The war-time Prime Minister's full last name is also Spencer-Churchill, not just Churchill. In Court circles, Mr. Churchill is called Mr. Spencer-Churchill.

Mr. Churchill is eldest son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill, third son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. The Marquess of Blandford is son and heir of the tenth Duke. His grandmother, the wife of the ninth Duke, was Consuelo, daughter of W. K. Vanderbilt of New York (hence the "Vanderbilt" in the Marquess's Christian names). Mr. Churchill's mother was also an American, Jennie Jerome of New York.

The Spencer, in the family name "Spencer-Churchill", is the original surname of the family, which got a barony in 1693. The first Duke of Marlborough—the title dates from 1702—was the son of Winston Churchill of Dorset. The title Marquess of Blandford, was given the first Duke in the same year he received a dukedom. It is the courtesy title borne by the eldest son of the Duke during the Duke's lifetime.

BUSY DAY AT THE BANK

"We Are A Bunch of Screwballs"

(FROM THE HOUSE OF COMMONS HANSARD)

REV. E. G. HANSELL (Social Credit—Macleod, Alta.): . . . If our entire economy with respect to social security were based on thrift and saving of course there would be many places where we could save. We could do without a lot of things which we do not need. I am not advocating that we should. As an example, I do not know that we need to spend money on shaving soap and shaving cream. We could all grow beards if we wanted to.

MR. KNOWLES: Use electric razors.
MR. HANSELL: —and save money. My hon. friend has said that we could use electric razors. Why not save on electric razors and simply grow beards? We do not have to wear ties. We could go around without ties.

AN HON. MEMBER: How far would you carry that?

MR. HANSELL: We do not have to smoke. It is a nice, enjoyable thing for some people, but in this corner of the house somebody smokes a stinking old cornucopia. To my mind I am sure we could do without that.

MR. LAING: Not far from you.

MR. SINNOTT: Just behind you.
MR. HANSELL: We could do without jewellery if we wanted to. We could do without a lot of things. We could do without cosmetics. Of course I know it would be terrible to look at our women without any lipstick, rouge and eyebrow pencilling. I know it would be a terrible thing if our women could not improve on what the good Lord has given them.

Anyway my point is with respect to the question of thrift that after all the man who spends is a much more valuable citizen than the one who saves because it is only through the process of spending that the wheels of industry turn.

at the Library. The nonagenarian artist was born and bred in Peterborough at 'Merino', west of Jackson Park, the property which Mr. G. H. Roper acquired a few years ago for development. I had a vivid curiosity to see this work from the hand of the only local sculptress to have gained some note outside the country. The residual collection is surprisingly small, as are the pieces in it. It is fine work, but nothing, I think, to set Miss Wallis among even Canadian immortals. . . . Peterborough is now benefiting because one young lady veered from the usual genteel Victorian accomplishments expected of her circle sixty years ago, and made her special accomplishment sculpture. We can be grateful for the fine gift.

The attitude among some is: You will not have anything if you do not save. That is wrong. The true fact of the matter is that you only have when you spend because the only way you can get anything is to spend.

Of course once again it comes down to a matter of financial policy. We have a false sense of real values. I think we are a bunch of screwballs.

AN HON. MEMBER: Hear, hear.

MR. HANSELL: That is the way it appears to me. We do so many crazy things. I say once again that the financial policy of the government will have to change in some way or other because the amounts that are going to be decided upon in this legislation may not be adequate in the years ahead.

Wives Expensive

(Commercial and Financial Chronicle)
The British Colonial Office reported gloomily that Western-style inflation has boosted the price of brides in East Africa among the Gusi tribe until they have become a luxury item, according to an Associated Press report from London. Up until 1942, a man could get a Grade A bride for six cows, one bull and ten goats. But then the war and the effects of civilization began to penetrate into the British Crown Colony of Kenya. In 1947, there were complaints among the young tribesmen that they were being asked to deliver 16 cows, one bull and as many as 20 goats for the same quality wife they could have picked up at half the price a few years ago. Price controls were established by the tribal councils in order to meet the emergency. In 1948 the grand tribal council pegged the price of a reliable brand Gusi wife at the pre-inflation or "rollback" rate of six cows, one bull and ten goats. Now, however, the Gusi economy is suffering from "hidden" inflation. Fathers with especially desirable daughters are demanding "under-the-counter" payments in addition to the fixed price of six cows, etc. So, the price spiral has started all over again. The moral? Wives are expensive all over the world.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see; and they glorified the God of Israel. (Matt. 15: 30, 31.)

A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another. (John 13: 34, 35.)

Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and he saitheth us. Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father, and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father? Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the works that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. . . . Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. (John 14: 8-10, 12.)

Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom. (Luke 12: 32.)

Letters To The Editor

YOUNG DRIVERS IN ACCIDENTS

SIR: Official statistics for 1950 show that drivers under 25 had 100 per cent. more accidents than the average for all drivers over 25. In fatal accidents the same rate holds true. This is quoted on page 22 of the Globe and Mail for Saturday, June 23, the same date as your editorial comments about a very elderly driver. There are careful young drivers but these are too few.

As for tests of fitness to be in charge of a car, many persons who can pass tests, go out to speed far over the legal limit and so fail to make curves, run into parked cars or trains, cut city corners on left turns, and come so fast from far away that there is great danger for any one venturing out from a side street or road after stopping. Gay parties chatter and take the driver's attention off his duty. The record of very serious trouble attributable to drunks is lower than is generally believed. Yours truly,

"CAUTION".

PICNIC WITH PAY

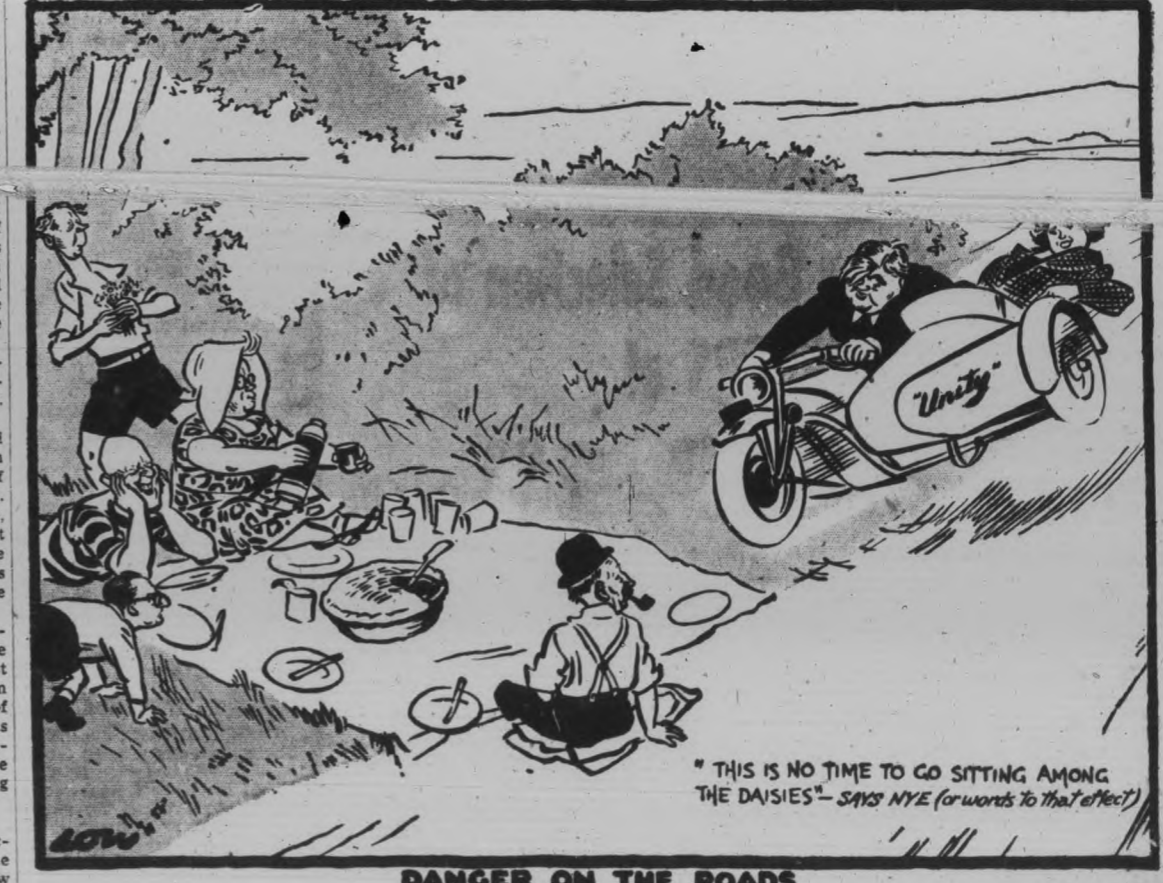

SIR: The bakers, the grocers, and candlestick makers are going to have a picnic some Saturday (not Wednesday—that is their holiday), to h— with the public.

The Examiner are having their picnic a week come Tuesday. There will be no issue of the paper that day. (The management will be fired the next day) but never mind, to h— with the public.

There will be no church services a week come Sunday, the clergy are having a picnic.

I would like to know if the taxpayers paid any part of the expense of the city employees' picnic, outside of wages. Yours,

B.C.'s Greatest Strength Lies In Its Water Power

By DAVE MCINTOSH

VANCOUVER, June 29 (CP)—British Columbia's greatest source of future strength lies in its water power.

There is a potential of 10,998,000 horsepower in British Columbia's rivers, enough to drive nearly all industry in Canada today. Only 1,284,000 horsepower so far has been harnessed but in the next few years B.C. will triple her hydro-electric output. Some projects are under way; blueprints have been drawn for others.

The grand-daddy of all such is Aluminum Company of Canada's plan to develop 1,500,000 horsepower by diverting the flow of rivers in the northern Tweedsmuir Park watershed from east to west by driving a tunnel through the coast range.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting is about to start on a $30,000,000 power project near Trail, to be completed in three years. The first units will develop 205,000 horsepower with capacity to be doubled later.

The B.C. Power Commission's development on Vancouver Island is being increased from 112,000 to 160,000 horsepower.

The B.C. Electric Company spent $12,000,000 last year on new hydro projects and brought the capacity of its Ruskin development in the Fraser Valley up to 141,000 horsepower.

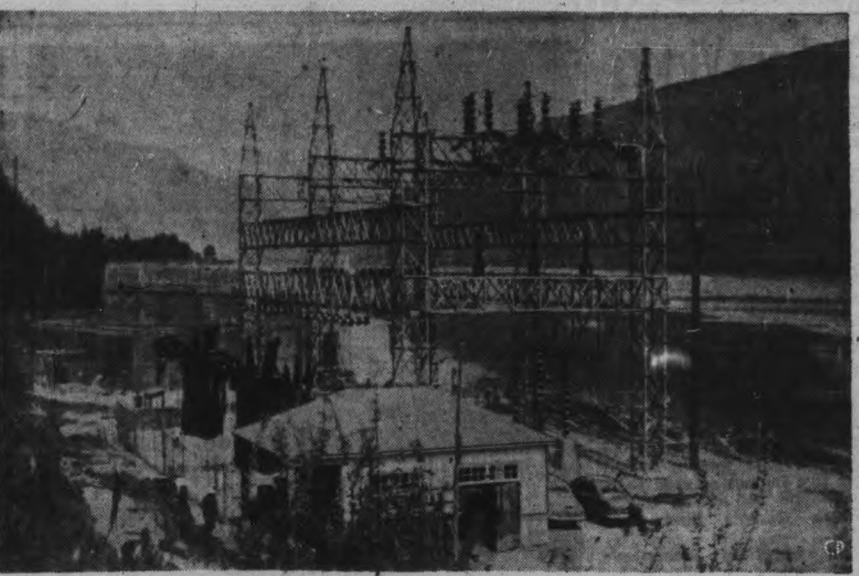

The Power Commission's new Whatshan Lake project—33,000 horsepower for the Okanagan—opened Wednesday.

And beyond these lies dreams of a dam on the Kootenay River far bigger than any of the five already there. It would be at Libby, Mont., and B.C. plans to claim one-third of its estimated 271,000 h.p. output because the province would supply the storage shed for the backed-up waters.

Revelstoke Plan

Engineers have surveyed the possibilities of erecting another giant dam on the mighty Columbia near Revelstoke, high in the Rockies.

Engineers are studying the possibility of a power dam on the Fraser River capable of developing 1,500,000 horsepower. If undertaken, the project would be the biggest single power unit in the world. The site being studied

KEY TO DEVELOPMENT—British Columbia this week opened the new Whatshan Lake power project which will supply 33,000 horsepower to the agricultural rich is at Moran, about 150 air miles northeast of Vancouver.

Okanagan Valley, diverting water through the heart of a mountain. Hydro-electric power is the key to the province's industrial development.

But, the silent forest, so vulnerable as man to death, holds the key to present prosperity. Without it, 40 per cent of the province's income would vanish.

Last year, 4,600,000,000 board feet of lumber were cut in B.C., an increase of 15 per cent over 1950.

Lands Minister E. T. Kenney has warned repeatedly that such cutting cannot last forever unless the forests are replaced.

The government therefore has made laws to protect the woodlands. To get a licence to log vast tracts of crown-owned lands, big operators have to agree to cut only to the amount grown. Only seven or eight such licences have so far been issued.

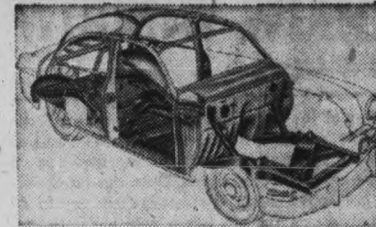

"Sustained yield" is the byword today.

Salvage Materials

Mills are cutting wastage by salvaging materials formerly tossed on the scrap heap. Patch logging, started two decades ago, now is the accepted method. Trees are cut to a checkerboard pattern, leaving the mature trees as seed sources. And there is, of course, reforestation.

Says Mr. Kenney: "In the future I see an ever-increasing degree of integration between the forest property and the manufacturing plant that will seek to take all the wood from the forest and turn it into salable products."

These are some of the major undertakings in B.C. today. Many more lie ahead.

Revoys' Defeat UEW Boys For First Place

Revoys took over undisputed possession of first place in the men's softball league last night at the Bowl, as they bested UEW, 9-4, in the opener of the twin set. It was the eighth win of the season for Ken Guilfoyle's scrappy gang of hustlers against two losses, earlier in the season to the Dalton-coached shop crew.

Lefty Doris lotted the route for the winners, opposing skipper Howie and slow-balled the boys in grey in good style to limit them to eight singles. His support afield was perfect. Dalton likewise allowed eight safeties but his mates faltered badly early in the game to spoil their usual defensive strength, with costly results. Bobby Crowe and Legrow hit safely twice, the former smacking home a brace of tallies while Wyatt drove in a pair and played his usual reliable game at the hot-corner. Crowe's catch off Walton in the eighth, featured with Mackness, Grafstein and Spencer pulling in some dandies in the outer-garden. Third baseman Casey hit four for five for the losers while Grafstein had a pair of safe singles.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

If we have fine weather on the holiday the success of the Oval-tine mixed doubles tournament is certain. The response from the bowlers has been greater than the committee expected. Up until late last evening we had 28 entries and by starting time on Monday (1:30 p.m.) we will have well over 32. It was a popular move in staging this kind of tournament on the holiday. Just as a little information, the committee intends to give real good prizes.

Tonight, men's rinks. Draw from the board at 7:30 p.m.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 29 (AP).—Seven of the 10 seeded players, 10 nations and five continents were represented in the Wimbledon tennis championship as the tournament entered the round of 16 today.

After three rounds of play, the United States heads the list with four survivors from the starting field of 128 players. The remainder includes two Australians, two Frenchmen, two Swedes, one Italian, one Dutchman, one South African, one Brazilian, one Englishman and one Hungarian—the only contender from an iron curtain country.

American champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., his runner-up Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., Dick Savitt of Orange, N.J., and 17-year-old Hamilton Richardson, of Baton Rouge, La., are the remaining Americans.

Larsen was the only one slated to see action today. He goes up against Torsten Johansson of Sweden.

Two seeded players—Jaroslav Drobný and Gardner Mulloy—were upset Thursday.

Orphans Victors By 12 to 8 Over Lakefield

Lakefield dropped the night-cap of last night's men's softball double-bill at the Bowl to Orphans, 12-8, after a tough struggle. Merchants making their best showing of the season. It was a fairly even game most of the way but the Dormer lads had an edge, to earn their fifth win before a good crowd.

Woods opposed Dick McCracken and went the distance but the latter gave way to Garbutt after five innings of good twirling despite two costly outfield bobbles. Garbutt finished up well.

The Maritime string-bean, Woods, fanned six men, walked four and was nicked for nine hits, including a hard double by Cam Wasson and a triple by Chittick in the ninth to score Stewart. He kept the bingles scattered and was steady in the pinches.

Orphans clipped McCracken and Garbutt for 11 safeties, including a hard homer by Trasser Wade to left in the third, a two-run triple by Woods, one by O'Donoghue and a pair of doubles by Wade, besides his homer. He and Woods accounted for seven runs in all, between them. Floyd Curry fielded well for Orphans with Scrivner a standout in the mid-pasture. Gord Henry was the best infielder on the field this game with four sparkling put-outs and a pair of assists with Twist a star in centre for Merchants.

A. V. Pope Chosen On Ontario Team

By C. H. IRESON.

A. V. Pope of the Peterborough-Whitaker Cricket Club has been selected as a member of the Ontario cricket team to play Quebec for possession of the Lord Atholston Trophy. This is open for competition between the two provinces, and was won last year by Quebec. The match will be played at Armour Heights, Toronto, on July 14-15.

Mr. Pope has been an all-round player for the local team the past two seasons. In England, he played for Derbyshire in the late 30s until the outbreak of war.

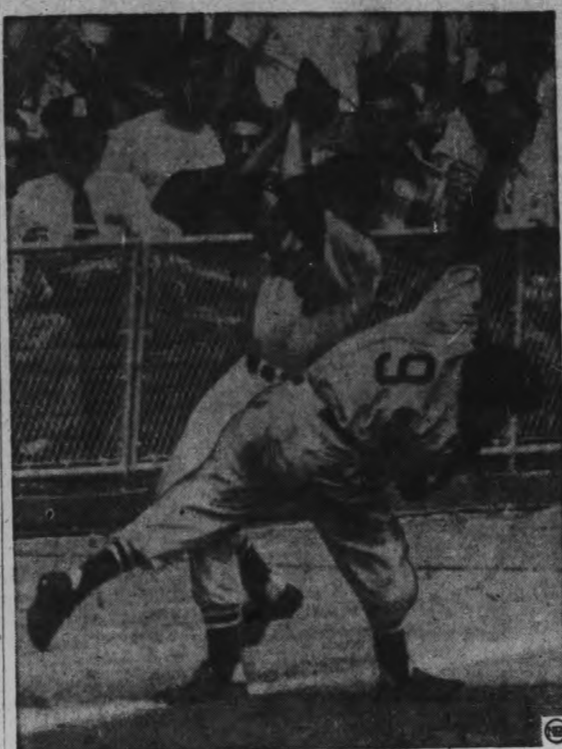

Last season, he played for Ontario in the inter-provincial championships and in the final between Ontario and British Columbia, where he put up a great show. Ontario won by 121 to 94, and his share in the victory was an innings of 30 runs (not out), following this up by taking four BC wickets for 20 runs. He was awarded a bat for good play and a silver cup for his fine bowling throughout the series.

Lowly CGE's Upset Baltimore Millers

COBOURG, June 29.—Baltimore Millers ran into an unexpected setback here Wednesday night when the lowly CGE team upset the village squad 13-7. The tilt was a Cobourg and District League intermediate fixture and halted the villagers' rush to the top rung.

Don Platt, veteran fast ball heaver, on the mound for the electric work's club, held the usually hard hitting Baltimore crew to just seven hits and fanned five.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Toronto West Yorks and the Petes have an OLA senior fixture here tonight, if the weather's okay. At the moment, the Petes and St. Catharines Athletics are see-sawing it out for top spot in the standing, first one taking over sole possession, then the other— or else both being tied on the upper rung. It changes from day to day. West Yorks aren't so high up on the old totem pole and, in fact, they're fighting fiercely to keep within shooting distance of the first three places. It should be a rousing struggle when they clash on the local pitch, and probably a big Friday eve crowd will view it. Tourists like their lacrosse, too.

Temper gets short in a heated game like lacrosse at this time of year, especially when the checking is close. Don Ashbee is a clean and classy player, but a scrappy one. Always full of hustle. He drew a match misconduct penalty late in the game at Mimico the other night for allegedly attacking Referee Piper Bain and ripping the latter's shirt. But it happened when Bain tried to break up a bit of roughing between Ashbee and Scoop Hayes. A ref should never step in and try to hold one fighter unless the other is being held by the second referee or some players. Else it leaves one guy defenceless and encourages his opponent to tee off on him for an extra punch or two. Also refs sometimes think they're being attacked when the player is just shoving them aside to defend himself or to take a poke at an opposing player. Exactly what caused the Ashbee-Bain mixup we don't know for sure, but it was a bit of several things. And fans here feel that big Piper—as obstinate a man as they come—hasn't giving the Petes a bit the better of it this season.

Junior Boys A-Rollin'

Another promising OLA joust is on tap here on the morrow, the junior Petes tackling Mimico with top place in their close group at stake. Mimico has lost but one scrap to date while the local lads are undefeated in four trysts. Lou Vitarelli has a right promising pack of husky youngsters—the team beating the strong Falls' crew twice so far—and it could be that the Petes' juniors will go through and take it all this semester. Though it's a little early to make any predictions. Still, they play sound, hustling lacrosse and will be hard to beat. If they get by Mimico (their first meeting) in the Saturday night struggle, watch 'em roll.

As busy as a lunge or bass opening day July 1—that's how the Petes' senior ball club will be this week-end. After a game in Toronto last p.m. (the night after they best Croftons here) they're off to Toronto once more Sunday for two games, 'gainst Croftons and Staffs. The very next day, the Monday holiday, they take on Kingsways here in afternoon and evening games. All Viaduct League tilts, you know, including picking up a few postponements. Six games in six days, eh? Feeling they must keep in trim, they've also lined up an exhibition tussle with Pat Wilson's team in Belleville July 4, same squads having a return go in Riverside July 9. Wurra, wurra!

Those Binging Petes

Proving they aren't atop the heap by accident—but by virtue of good pitching and field, plus potent bats—the Petes last eve in Toronto slugged out a 23-9 win in six heats o'er Kingsways. Bunny Maeson pitched a neat game while the losers used three twirlers in a vain effort to subdue the Whitehill sluggers. Freddy Garvey had five hits in five times to bat, Bill Huntley had three for three (one a long homer), George Brabin four in five tries, and Joe Lowrey two in four, besides pilfering four sacks. He has stolen 20 to date. That is win No. 12 for the hard-hitting local ballsters, increasing their lead nicely in the Viaduct Loop.

Revoys' took over top place in the City Softball League last p.m. with a 9-6 win against UEW. A snappy contest going a bit more than an hour. Lefty Doris went the route for Ken Guilfoyle's gang while Howie Dalton labored on the UEW mound, but errors hurt his cause. Crowe and Legrow were main sticklers for the victors and Casey had a hefty night at the platter for the other side. Orphans downed Lakefield 12-8 in another interesting duel. Terry Woods pitched the victory. Garbutt replaced McCracken on the other slab after five frames. The losers turned in their best showing to date. Wade powdered the pill in lusty fashion for Orphans. Lakefield hitting being spread around.

Petes Hammer Kingsway For Easy Win

TORONTO, June 29.—The Petes came up with their 12th victory in the Viaduct Major Baseball League here at Millen Stadium last night in easy fashion, lacing Kingsway Lumber 23-9 before the rain came and halted the contest at the end of the sixth frame.

The reason for the Petes leading the loop by such a margin was shown right in the first inning as the visitors pounded out four hits for five runs. Bill Huntley's homer to the left field fence around 425 feet topped off the rally. A 10-run outburst in the sixth left little doubt as to the final outcome and it looked like it would only be a matter of how many they would score before the game ended.

Fred Garvey paced the Petes with a perfect night at bat with five bingles. George Brabin had four, Bill Huntley three and Joe Lowrey two. Lowrey also pilfered four bases to take a commanding lead in this department with 20. Brabin in his assortment chased five mates across the plate. Bill Huntley included four RBI's in his night's work.

Bunny Maeson hurled well and only had trouble with one Kingsway batter, Rus Wallace, who came from his recent week's slump, latching on to three safeties including a round-tripper in the final frame with one aboard.

OLA Suspends Don Ashbee

TORONTO, June 29.—The Ontario Lacrosse Association Thursday announced the suspension of Don Ashbee of Peterborough for his part in a fracas Wednesday night during a senior lacrosse game with Mimico Mountaineers.

Ashbee now must appear before the OLA July 10 for a hearing. He will miss at least five games during the interval.

The suspension resulted when Ashbee objected to strenuously to a two-minute penalty for high-sticking. Referee Piper Bain increased the penalty to a match misconduct and Ashbee attacked him.

Before teammates could restrain him, Ashbee tore the shirt from Referee Bain's back. Ashbee was escorted from the field.

Hiller Sparks Chicago Cubs To 8-0 Win Over Cards

By JACK HAND,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Frank Hiller, a Yankee who got away, is the new glamor boy pitcher of the majors after his brilliant one-hitter for the Chicago Cubs.

Hiller faced only 27 St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night, walking leadoff man Tommy Glaviano in the first and allowing a single to Enos Slaughter in the fifth. Both were erased on double plays.

The Cubs backed him up with a generous 12 hit attack on Gerry Staley and Al Brazle for an 8-0 win. Ransom Jackson led them with a homer and two singles. Hiller's sparkler didn't have as much effect on the National League race as Monte Irvin's two home runs gave New York a 5-4 edge over the leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

Irvin hit his 11th and 12th of the year—both off Ralph Branca—to clip the Dodgers' lead to five games.

The National League staged another of its "dawn" games, due to rain interruptions at Cincinnati where the Pittsburgh Pirates finally edged the Reds 7-5, in a game ending at 12:39 a.m. (EST).

Lose Early Lead

The Pirates got away on top and had a 7-1 lead after six innings. It barely lasted. Rain held up the game three times—for 44 minutes in the first inning, 52 minutes in the third and 25 minutes in the ninth. Bill Werle was the winner, Ken Raffensberger the loser.

Eddie Sawyer's efforts to shake the Phillies out of their daydreams by banishing Mike Goltz to Baltimore apparently worked in a 3-2 win over Boston in 10 innings. Tommy Brown, Goltz's replacement, scored from second on a force out when Roy Harrisfield threw wild to the plate in the 10th.

Jim Konstanty, who received his 1950 most valuable player trophy Tuesday night, picked up his third win with two shutout innings in relief of Russ Mayer.

Casey Stengel needed two pitchers—Tom Morgan and Joe Ostrowski—to shut out Washington 3-0, as the Yankees reduced idle Chicago's American League lead to one-half game. The White Sox' scheduled day game with Detroit was washed out after half an inning.

Pinch-hitter Cliff Mape came through with a three-run double off Sid Hudson in a typical Yankee explosion in the eighth inning.

Bet $2,213,000

TORONTO, June 29 (CP).—Ontario bettors wagered $2,213,000 more during the 42-day spring racing season here this year than they did in 40 days a year ago. The increase was 22 1/2 per cent on last year's $9,873,869 for a total of $12,088,871. In 1949, $11,008,198 was bet in 38 days.

Blewett Horse Victory Hi Main Winner

Victory Hi opened the season's night harness racing, sponsored by the Optimist Club, Thursday night in his usual style. The blind horse, world champion heat winner, owned by Stan Blewett of Peterborough, won both heats of the free-for-all here.

Besides taking top money in that $250 event, Victory Hi won a special prize of $10, donated by the King George Hotel, for the fastest heat. The horse rounded the track twice in two minutes, 12 seconds in the second heat. His first heat was only two seconds slower.

To driver James McIntyre, also of Peterborough, went a second special prize of $20, donated by the McGillis Hotel, for winning the last heat of the free-for-all.

Duke McKinney with times of 2:17 and 2:15 won top money in the 2:20 class, the purse being $200, for owner Inglis. In both heats the horse edged out Jim Brewer, owned by F. Canlon. The second heat was probably the most spectacular as five horses were bunched together at the finish line.

Turnabout, Jim McIntyre's Stables, swept first place money in the 2:24 class with a purse of $200. In the first heat with a time of 2:19 the horse placed ahead of Darkey Mercury, and in the second edged out Bun Graton, owned by Arthur Dawson, in 2:23.

In the first race, the 2:30 class, for a purse of $200, Elgin Silk with a third and a first took top money. Owned by Charles Fife, Silk won the second heat in 2:22 but was third in the first. That heat was won by Country Lass, J. Kirkpatrick Stables, in 2:20 but placed fourth in the second heat.

Here And There In Sports . . .

Cancellation of the 18-hole qualifying round for the Canadian Open Golf Championship was announced Thursday by tournament chairman Charles S. Watson of the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

Instead, he said, the field, numbering some 165 entries, will start on the 72-hole championship hunt July 4. Officials decided to eliminate the qualifying round after entries closed Thursday.

They said about 65 of the 90 or more listed as automatic qualifiers have entered, leaving extra places in the running for other contestants. Originally a limit of 150 was set for last year's record field of 204 proved too unwieldy.

So many horses are entered in the 2:27 pace in a harness race meet to be held at Orangeville Monday that the committee in charge has had to schedule two divisions. All races had been filled by the time entries closed on Thursday.

There were nine entries each for the 2:15 and 2:24 and eight for the 2:20 in addition to 13 for the 2:27. There will be $400 purses for the 2:20 and 2:24 and $500 for each of the other three.

Attorneys for the major leagues will meet with Rep. Emmanuel Celler (Dem.-N.Y.) today to discuss details of a hearing on whether baseball violates anti-trust laws.

Celler heads a Congressional judiciary sub-committee which will conduct the hearing.

Major league players will support club owners to keep the reserve clause in baseball, Fred Hutchinson, Detroit Tiger pitcher and American League representative on baseball's executive council, predicted Thursday.

He said the controversial clause which vests in a club exclusive rights to a player's services, will be a major subject at the executive council's meeting in Detroit July 9.

The clause has been under continuous attack for the last few years, but most of the criticism has come from disgruntled players who did not have the stuff to make the big time or stick once they got there.

The Argonauts, Canada's football champions, will play their exhibition games in August to limber up for their fall title defence, it was announced Thursday.

Club president Bill Moran said the double Blues will play Hamilton Tigers in Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 12 and then fly west to play Calgary Stampede Aug. 18 and Winnipeg Blue Bombers the following Monday.

Winston Churchill "talked" his own horse out of winning the prized Ascot Gold Cup on June 14, a friend declared Thursday.

The horse, Colonel II, finished second in the big race, behind a French colt, Pan II. It will be retired to the stud.

Lord Ismay, chairman of the council of the Festival of Britain, explained at a luncheon Thursday:

"Mr. Churchill told me the reason it was because he had had a very serious talk to the horse before the race.

"I told him," said Mr. Churchill, "This is a very big race and if you win it, you will never have to run again. You will spend the rest of your life in agreeable female company.

"Colonel II did not keep his mind on the race," said Mr. Churchill.

Leafs Leading Chiefs 8-7, Rain Halts Game

By The Associated Press

For complicated situations, the International League is the undisputed champion. They wound up with two "suspended" games on Thursday night in order to let clubs make train connections.

One of the "suspended" games is also under protest from the team that was ahead at the time. Maybe you'd better start at the beginning and proceed slowly.

Toronto led Syracuse 8-7 when rain swept both teams off the field in the top of the eighth. Before the game they agreed to start no inning after 11:15 p.m. EDT to enable Syracuse to catch its train out of town.

It was still raining when 11:15 rolled around so chief umpire Bob Austin called the game a "suspended" game on account of the train curfew. It must be completed later.

Protest Decision:

Toronto general manager Joe Ziegler promptly protested Austin's decision, claiming the game should have been ruled complete because of the downpour. In other words, he said, the rain and not the curfew stopped it. League president Frank Shaughnessy will have to decide.

Lew Morton's 12th homer, a triple by Vince Plumbo and a double by Johnny Sullivan helped Toronto to its one-run edge.

The other "suspended" contest was at Ottawa where a 0-0 game with Baltimore was called after 10 innings to let the Baltimore team catch a train for Rochester. According to word from Ottawa the duel between Whitey Konikowski and Baltimore's Jack Britton will be resumed in August.

Montreal widened its lead on Syracuse to six games by whipping Springfield again 9-1 with Mal Mallette throwing a six-hitter for his fifth win. Springfield has yet to beat Montreal this season.

Rochester hopped on Clem Hausmann for five runs in the first inning to whip Buffalo 6-3 behind Bud Tienauer's steady pitching. Don Richmond led the attack with two doubles and a single.

County Cricket Play For Oval Saturday

A last-minute change has been made in the cricket setup for here Saturday, an important county championship match now being listed for the Oval, Carleton vs. Peterborough. The combined local teams will be playing the combined Ottawa Valley teams in this match. They are old opponents.

In 1948, the locals defeated Ottawa in the first round and went on to win the counties championship. Next year, Ottawa beat the locals and later took the championship. And last year, Peterborough defeated the holders here in the first round but later lost in semi-finals to Halton.

The eventual winner was Lincoln County. The match here Saturday will start at the Oval at 11:30 a.m. to get in a full day of cricket. Many followers of this sport are expected to take in this important match.

Three-Way Tie For PGA Medal

OAKMONT, Pa., June 29 (AP)

It was man against man, instead of man against Oakmont, as match play started today in the 33rd PGA championship.

Sixty-four of the nation's sharpest shotmakers survived Thursday's drama-draped qualifier—shooting 154 or better—to get into the 11's bracket, and they'll be whittled down to 16 in today's double round of 18-holes.

Practically all the predicted qualifiers made the grade, the major casualties being long-hitting Jimmy Thomson of Chicopee, Mass., Roberto Devicenzo, the Argentine champ, and Paul (Little Poison) Runyan, the two-time winner from Pasadena, Calif.

The first three-way tie for the medal in the classic's history popped up Thursday with Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y.; Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N.Y., and Palm Beach Fla.; and Dapper Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., deadlocking at 142, two under par.

The Census Bureau announced today that the total population of the United States, including troops abroad, passed 154,000,000 this month and may reach 155,000,000 by the year's end. During the last year, the population has increased an average of about 200,000 a month, the Bureau said.

Veteran Jockey F. A. Smith Dies After Spill

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 29 (AP).—Veteran jockey F. A. (Freddie) Smith, one of the nation's foremost lightweight riders died in hospital Thursday night.

It was California's third race track fatality in five years. Smith, a 38-year-old native of Camaguey, Cuba, was thrown to the track when his mount, Folletto, broke a leg during the running of Thursday's eighth race at Hollywood Park.

He was rushed unconscious to the hospital, awoke briefly two hours later, then died of head and neck injuries. An autopsy is pending.

It was the second accident at Hollywood Park in two days. On Wednesday, Willie Shoemaker was shaken up when his mount, Dutch Wife, fell and broke a leg. Like Folletto Thursday, Dutch Wife had to be destroyed.

Second To Die

Smith, who rode Bimelech to victory in the 1940 Preakness, was ranked fifth in the Hollywood Park jockey standings with 18 winners, three seconds and 10 third. He weighed only 100 pounds.

He was the second jockey to die this week. Harry Harris, a steeplechase rider, was killed at Aqueduct Monday while schooling a horse over the jumps between races.

Folletto, owned by the La Jolla Stable, broke slowly out of the gate at the start of the eighth and final race, a mile and a quarter event. When Smith went to the whip to bring him up, the horse collapsed and tossed his rider high into the air.

Smith landed face down on the turf. He raised his head once, then lapsed into unconsciousness. It happened about 100 yards from the starting gate, near the top of the stretch.

Steak, Roast and Stew Cost BC Woman $3.20

VANCOUVER, June 29.—(CP)—A woman bought a five-pound sirloin roast, filet mignon and stewing meat at a butcher shop here Thursday and paid only $3.20. The woman, Mrs. G. Wheeler, couldn't believe her ears.

When the butcher repeated the price, she went out of the shop saying: "Horsemeat is here to stay!"

Mrs. Wheeler was in the first wave of customers through the door Thursday when John Jensen opened the first horsemeat shop in Vancouver. Six butchers were rushed off their feet and roast and hamburger were the most popular items.

Using Acetylene Torch Before Hospice Fire

MONTREAL, June 29.—(CP)—A Fire Commission inquiry into the St. Cunegonde Hospice fire which took 35 lives June 15, heard evidence Thursday that a workman on the top floor was cutting steel rivets with an acetylene torch just before the fire broke out.

The testimony was given by J. B. Hamelin, foreman of the men who were installing an elevator. He said Joseph Bordeleau was the man who had the torch.

Unofficial reports following the fire said the blaze started near the elevator shaft. The flames whipping up the shaft of the five-storey building.

The code would provide for establishment of a three-man board which would hear appeals from cities troubled by smoke from passing boats. One member of the board would represent Canada, one the United States and one the lake carriers.

OTTAWA, June 29.—(CP)—Wages paid to farm help were higher at mid-May this year over the corresponding period of 1950, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday. Daily rates with board rose from $3.84 to $4.42, and without board from $4.80 to $5.44. Monthly rates with board increased from $84.64 to $94.88, and without board from $113.76 to $127.

Depends On US

OTTAWA, June 29.—(CP)—A defence production official said Thursday that commercial manufacture of Canada's first jetliner will depend on orders from the United States. He said Canada has offered the jet, produced by the A. V. Roe Company of Toronto, to the US as a military aircraft. The US has made no final decision whether to accept.

Worse Than Cancer

TORONTO, June 29.—(CP)—Heart diseases took twice as many lives in Ontario last month as cancer, the next major cause of death, the Ontario Bureau of Statistics said Thursday. The four main causes of death and the number of deaths recorded were: heart disease 1,284; cancer, 321; vascular lesions, 473; and accidents 298.

Refuse To Cut Newsprint Price

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—Price stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle said Canadian government authorities refused again late Thursday to withhold a $10-a-ton increase in newsprint prices due to take effect July 1.

DiSalle quoted F. M. Fowler of Montreal, head of the paper and pulp division of the Canadian Defence Production Board as declining a request by American officials to hold up the scheduled increase, announced by Canadian newsprint mills, pending further talks.

The increase would bring the price of Canadian newsprint in New York to $116 a ton.

The Canadian price is $112 a ton plus sales tax.

In Montreal, Mr. Fowler said he had nothing to add to his telephone conversation with Mr. DiSalle.

Mr. Fowler, read the Washington story by telephone, said it sounded like "an accurate statement of our conversation."

Mayor Changes Stand On Housing Project

OWEN SOUND, June 29.—(CP)—Mayor E. C. Sargent, who led a group of mayors in opposing the new federal-provincial-municipal housing scheme, said Thursday he had reversed his position and now favors the project.

"I was wrong about the plan," said Mayor Sargent, who is president of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves.

"I was under the impression the 7½ per cent which municipalities must contribute would be an expenditure without payment. We will get our initial outlay back in rent for the houses."

Recover 2 Bodies

FORT FRANCES, June 29.—(CP)—Bodies of two men drowned earlier this month in Northwestern Ontario waters have been recovered.

John Lloyd Walker, 42, of Jacksonville, Ill., who drowned in Lake Saginaw in Quebec Provincial Park June 18, and an unidentified body believed to be that of a man who jumped from a railway bridge June 18 over Rainy River, were recovered.

Accidental Shooting

SIMCOE, June 29.—(CP)—A child was accidentally killed Thursday by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of a 16-year-old boy, police said.

Bill Jumenik, of Waterford, Ont., told police the weapon discharged while he was taking it outdoors to shoot birds that were raiding his father's cherry trees. The bullet hit Roland Wasenda, 3, of Toronto, in the left hand and then struck Victor Moczerski, 6, also of Toronto, in the stomach. The Moczerski boy died 10 minutes after admission to hospital.

Papers To Get News In French

MONTREAL, June 29.—(CP)—French-language member newspapers of The Canadian Press agreed Thursday to have their news delivered by wire in French. Representatives of 10 dailies in Quebec, Three Rivers, Sherbrooke, Granby, Montreal and Ottawa were unanimous in what is regarded as an historic decision. Start of the CP service in French is planned for Oct. 1.

Herve Major of Montreal La Presse, president of The Canadian Press, said: "This is a great occasion — it means that CP's French-language newspapers will receive their Canadian and world news in French and will no longer have to translate this news individually."

The principle of providing CP news in French was approved by the general membership of the Canadian Press at their annual meeting in April. CP's subsidiary, Press News, which serves 87 private radio stations with news, inaugurated service in French in 1945. This was the first bilingual news service in Canada.

Defence Orders Give Business First Big Jolt

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Business, changing into defence overalls at mid-year, got a stitch in the side, and let out a lusty yelp.

The stitch didn't seem to indicate anything of long-term seriousness but it pained where it hit—which was in the spot occupied by heavy consumer goods, such as automobiles, stoves, refrigerators, radios, and so on. These items were affected because they are in large degree, bought on the instalment plan; and the government, in an effort to cool off spending, has raised the amount of the instalments and influenced a tightening of banks' loans.

The whole thing was part of the process of changing from a peacetime economy to one which is part-war; and it is complex because it is not clear-cut either way.

However, almost as surely as if there were all-out war, every bit of Canada's productive capacity is going to be needed, if a way can be found to use it.

For It In Fall
Commentators seem agreed that the real impact of defence spending on business (and perhaps on prices) will only start to make itself felt next fall.

The Canadian economy is a picture of one thing piled upon another. There have been virtual boom conditions since the end of the Second World War. The Korean fighting and its resulting demands were piled on top of that. Then came the added rearmament programs resulting from both Korea and the dangerous international situation in general. On top of them all are unprecedented plans for opening up and developing Canada's natural resources.

Along with all these, there is the very real revolution going on among hitherto-backward peoples of the world, which will continue to create greater and greater demands for the world's resources.

Watch Implications
This revolution is the most basic fact in the world today. It is impossible to make any long-term forecast without assessing its implications.

Business, through the half-year, operated at a fast pace, except for the heavy consumer items in the last months. In fact, it operated at too fast a pace. There is excess buying in anticipation of restrictions and scarcities, scarcities which, so far as consumer goods are concerned, didn't develop. The public, to an extent, was over-sold, and this contributes to some of the current distresses. Goods still are plentiful, store counters and shelves are laden with attractive wares, and every effort is being made to coax out the customer's dollar. And, in general, the dollar is coming out.

Even in heavier goods, buying power is likely to come back as people get recent purchases paid for, and as loans are paid back and become available for fresh lending. Payrolls continue at peaks. Despite discouragements to unnecessary spending, estimates

Will Extend Ashburnham Water Mains

Utilities Estimates Cost At $42,000 For Two Extensions

Extension of the water service to Ashburnham at an approximate cost of $42,000 was approved by the Utilities Commission Thursday. Work will not be begun probably until late in the year.

R. L. Dobbin reported that when steel pipe was laid across the river at McDonald's Point in 1949 "we connected the 12-inch pipe to the existing 6-in. main on Bruce St."

"It was our intention to extend this 12-inch main in two sections; the first from the end of the present 12-inch pipe to the corner of Burnham and Sophia Streets; the second section from this point to Armour Road."

"The estimated cost of the first section (2100 feet of 12-in. cast iron main) is $20,000; and for the second section $22,000."

"The extension of this main would greatly increase the water pressures in Ashburnham at the time of lawn watering and excessive draw-off."

"We would point out that if this work is authorized, we shall require to issue additional debentures which will cost about $3,500 a year to carry."

"We have been busy engaged in laying water mains and services to supply new housing, and have not been able to undertake any other work, but later in this season we may have time."

"Of its own initiative and without prompting by the report of Mayor Swanston's remarks on proposed housing direction to the east, the Commission briefly discussed that same subject. G. S. Matthews, chairman, said that in the fall of the year the water is drained out of the canal, removing that difficulty for any extension of water mains beyond that channel."

"From that expression of sentiment, in which George A. MacDonald and Fred Hills joined, it may be that the Commission and the council are converging their interests to the Armour Road south section of the city."

Find Rest Rooms Temporarily For New Market

Temporary toilet facilities of Miller Bowl will be provided for the public at the new market on George St.

That was a quick decision at the meeting of the council's property committee today.

"The Lacrosse Club will have no objection, if there is someone there to take care of the premises," said Ald. T. D. Miller.

"Could we have it for Saturday?" Ald. E. C. Braund suggested.

"We'll clear that in a minute," Ald. Miller replied, and immediately telephoned to arrange for the accommodation.

This action proceeded from a county council letter proposing continued use of the old market site through the metering period until satisfactory facilities could be provided.

A letter from H. W. Moore of Hagersville requesting permission to sell garden products on the local market was referred to the legal committee. In the meantime, Mr. Moore will be rented market space.

There was some question of restricting the market to produce of what was generally considered the Peterborough production and marketing area.

The Moore letter said local markets were made available to producers generally. City Clerk Outram said he understood that Hamilton market, in the Hagersville area, applied limits of territory from which producers were admitted.

Cash Register Found In Field

The slightly damaged cash register of Earl Hamblin, Peterborough St., Norwood, was found Thursday tossed in a fence corner on the property of Horace Brown, Asphodel township.

Theft of the cash register, containing $15 in cash, occurred shortly after midnight Saturday. When found the machine was open and the money gone.

It had been tossed in a fence row at the edge of a swamp on Mr. Brown's farm, three miles south of Highway 7 on the base line of Asphodel.

Mr. Brown was going to round up his cattle when he noticed the abandoned cash register.

Thieves gained entry to Hamblin's store by smashing a side window. Nothing else was damaged. Provincial police from Peterborough headquarters are assisting Constable William B. Parsons of Norwood in the investigation.

Seek To Purchase Old Town Hall In Ashburnham

With an enquiry on file from the Independent Order of Odd Fellows for the purchase of Ashburnham town hall, the property committee of the council recommended this morning that valuation of the land and building be obtained.

This property came into the city's possession at the time of union of the two municipalities. It is situated at the southeast corner of Hunter St. and Mark St.

Information to the council is that IOOF is considering vacation of the third floor premises at the southwest corner of George and Hunter Streets, which they have occupied for many years.

In a reference to the age of the building, it was suggested in a general way that perhaps it should be demolished, and the site used for a new structure.

The committee recommended acceptance of the tender of McCarthy and Johnston for the supply of No. 2 domestic fuel oil for the new city hall. At 15¢ a gallon their bid was the lowest.

Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman, presided, with Aldermen Miller, Anglesey, Braund and Mayor Swanston present.

Aldermen See New City Hall

City councillors, city officials, and members of both the Board of Education and the Separate School Board Thursday afternoon made a detailed inspection of the new city hall.

The general contract was given to the Eastwood Construction Co. for more than $643,000. Cost of land and other contract items are extra.

No date has been set for completion of the building but city officials hope to move in some time in the fall.

Accommodation was considered quite satisfactory by most of the officials, but the Board of Education are not sure that the board room allotted to them is large enough. The present room is only 70 per cent as big as that now in use at South Central school.

An adjustment will likely be made in the Board's administration office. At present the vault is not large enough though the

At present the building is in the plastering stage and the electrical wiring has not been concealed in most places.

Turtle Hunters Trap 50 In Marshes Of Rice Lake

For the past four years two Ohio brothers, Wilber and Floyd Maybough, and their wives have come to Rice Lake during the last week of June to get in some snapping turtle trapping. Their luck this year has been exceptional and to date they have trapped over 50 of these nasty reptiles on the marshes at the mouth of the Otonabee river.

Since many of the specimens weigh 40 pounds, the trapping develops into heavy and somewhat dangerous sport. The Maybough brothers use circular wire funnel traps which are baited inside with fish offal. As many as seven or eight snappers make an average trap haul.

The turtles are brought home, the heads cut off with a few good whacks of a cleaver and the ladies dress the meat.

To date they have put about 100 pounds of turtle meat in a freezer locker at Keene and have had several good meals of soup and stew. The meat does not taste fishy as might be supposed but very much like beef, though on the tough side. It is a great delicacy with their friends back home and the Mayboughs have already sent a substantial shipment of meat down home to southern Ohio to a recent Masonic dinner.

The trappers reported that all specimens which they have dressed invariably contained small fry game fish in their stomachs and they pride themselves that they are doing a good thing for fish conservation on Rice Lake.

Turtles also live on quantities of large bull frogs—that produce the finest frogs' legs—and muskrats and innumerable small wild ducklings.

"Turtles are as great a menace as carp," they said. "Why don't you fellows up here do something about both of them before it is too late?"

44 Pupils Register In Kindergarten Class

BANCROFT, June 29 (ENS).—The 1951-52 school year will be a banner one for the kindergarten at Bancroft Public School as 44 children registered for the fall classes at the annual at home sponsored by Bancroft Public School Home and School Association in the school on Wednesday afternoon. This advance registration will necessitate the splitting of the group into morning and afternoon classes.

Under the supervision of Miss Virginia Davidson, directress, a committee of mothers convened by Mrs. W. L. Martin the preschool children and their parents were introduced to the building and its surroundings, with the class of 1930-51 acting as hosts.

At the same time the graduating class of the school were being entertained on the upper floor. On behalf of the Home and School Association, Mrs. J. N. Brown, president for the coming year, presented the individual pupils class. Thirty-six children are leaving the school for North Hastings High School and other secondary schools.

CAUSING $4,000 DAMAGE, fire razed Thursday night a small frame house owned by Clare Bell, on the 4th line of Smith township. Origin of the fire is unknown. Since last fall Mr. Bell, who lives at 138 Perry St., has been working on the house and had it nearly completed.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Grier Studio Library Exhibit

Stella Grier, ARCA and Christopher Adeney, CPE, have combined to put on a selected exhibition of their work at the Public Library gallery. It is a pleasant show, and of special local interest because Miss Grier has an island summer studio on Stony Lake (Kawartha Park PO) where she and Mr. Adeney are taking students. The place was the summer home of Sir Wyllie Grier, RCA, Stella Grier's father.

The exhibition includes some 20 portraits by Miss Grier, most of them pastels. They are charming heads, the painter excelling in delicate likenesses of the young. The head of "Judy", for instance, is both cute and lively. In nearly all the portraits there is a noticeable similarity in the eyes. The large oil study of Sir Wyllie Grier testifies her skill and ability to evoke character.

Christopher Adeney is showing some ten pieces, chiefly landscapes. He has varied techniques, well illustrated by a pastel called "Winter Twilight" and an oil beside it, "Autumn". The grey-toned pastel, a group of houses and roofs, has an interesting quality. There is a curious distortion of perspective, which accentuates the pagoda-like pattern. By contrast the autumn landscape is bright and vivid with a suggestion of Emily Carr woodland light in it. I liked this landscape very much.

Both painters are obviously competent practitioners. T.J.A.

Rev. McCormack Inducted At St. James'

"Finally, my brethren be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might."

These words from the Apostle Paul's letter to the Ephesians were the text and challenge given by the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon in his address at the induction service of the Rev. H. D. McCormack as minister of St. James' United Church.

"The Christian Church has a message of tremendous significance for our daily lives with which we can combat the power of regimentation and science that has gripped the world today," Dr. Gordon said.

"The church tells man what he is—a creature essentially spiritual. It tells him why he is here—for a spiritual oneness with God, who made him. It tells him where he is going—the promise of eternal life."

Dr. Gordon stated that the time had come when man has to admit he must harness himself. It was a task which was difficult, but for which man could use God's power which was offered.

"Man needs a fresh vision of God and His power. A vision that comes from the indwelling of man with God instills a new power of might. The expression of this power is love as exemplified in Jesus Christ. This is the Christian ideal and obligation and only through which world-wide relationships will be cemented together in a common fellowship," he concluded.

The Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church and chairman of the Presbytery was in charge of the induction service. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church gave the induction words of advice to both the new minister and the congregation.

Mr. McCormack was presented to the congregation and the presbytery by the Rev. H. B. Herrington of Keene United Church and secretary of the presbytery.

Following the service a social period was held in Wesley Hall for members of the congregation to meet Mr. and Mrs. McCormack.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Victoria County Accredited Until 1953 — Alberta Farm Sales for $83,840 — Local Calf Clubs to Ottawa July 5 — Women's Institute, Westwood, Meeting, July 10 — Some Farmers Plowing in Green Crops.

The retesting of cattle for tuberculosis in Victoria county has been completed, and the area has been classified as accredited until June 1, 1953, as reported by Dr. G. R. Penhall, V.S., of the local health of animals branch of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

The results of the work of testing which has been carried on for some months, and comparison with corresponding figures in 1949, are as follows:

The final totals were:

Herds 2,188
Cattle 54,963
Reactors 274

The initial testing of this county was completed in 1939 and at that time the totals read:

Herds 3,318
Cattle 55,613
Reactors 1,559.

As a detail of arithmetic, Dr. Penhall's summary discloses a decrease of 1,130 in the number of Victoria's herds of cattle, but on the other hand the decline in the number of head is only 650.

Cattle listed as reactors were down from 1,559 in 1939 to 274 this year. To Victoria farmers the gratifying accomplishment is that their area is now accredited as free of T. B.

USING "GREEN" MANURE

The soil bank was getting deposits of hay and rye on some of the farms Frank Paterson passed Tuesday on a trip across the county from Robert Armstrong's place in Cavan to Carl Purdy's in Belmont.

"I noticed quite a number of men plowing in green crops for manure," Mr. Paterson said with emphasis of approval. "With all the hay in sight, they can afford that treatment this season. I noticed some rye being turned in, too. The dividends in improved fertility will come later. Most of those farms were in Dummer, Otonabee and Cavan."

This practice in a year of abundant hay fits into the Paterson gospel of humus.

William Rennie, farm superintendent at OAC half a century ago used to tell students: "Humus is ver-r-y impor-r-tant." That was before Mr. Paterson's college days. And, somewhere in recent reading there was reference to evidence in praise of green manures and crop residues in the works of Greek and Roman writers, back to the time of Xenophon, who is mentioned as advising the turning under of such material something like 2,250 years ago. It is not such a new idea at that rate.

RHIZOMA ALFALFA

Mr. Paterson mentioned a fine field of Cornell wheat on the Armstrong farm and three acres of the rhizoma alfalfa which is being grown for seed.

So far, he says, hay damage has been only slight, as a result of more rain than is needed at this stage of the forage harvest.

As for that Kent county field of six-foot wheat, Robert Bell brought home Wednesday an average stalk from a field on Ivan Begg's farm near Norwood. It measured five feet seven inches.

PAMPHLETS ON GRASS

Mr. Paterson has received copies of two new pamphlets on grass silage and trench silos issued by the OAC silage research committee. He would like to see them distributed right away because they are intended for use and not for filing in the office library.

Just one quotation from the trench silo pamphlet. For 20 cows or two-year-old steers 63 tons of silage are needed. Dimensions of silo: 12 feet wide at the bottom, eight feet at the top, eight feet deep and 45 feet long.

ONTARIO GLIMPSES

In the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Carleton says: "More grass and clover is going into silos and more farmers are becoming grass silage minded." Lambton: "A fair number of farmers are experimenting with grass silage." Essex: "There appears to be increasing interest in grass silage." Perth county: "With a heavy crop of hay more farmers are ensiling grass."

Rain last weekend halted haying operations in nearly all parts of the southern section of the province.

Halton comment: "Coupled with the 'drippy' weather, the crop is very sappy and hay making is slow." Middlesex reports strong demand for good weaning pigs at $15 to $17.

AT WESTWOOD JULY 10

Two film strips showing the preparation of food for freezing will be featured at a community meeting sponsored by the Westwood Women's Institute to be held in the Community Centre Hall, Westwood, on July 10 at 8 p.m. A cordial invitation is extended to all men and women of the community.

Freezing is the simplest and fastest method of preserving many foods. Only a few simple requirements must be met to insure the homemaker high quality frozen products. And when reliable directions are followed, frozen foods will closely resemble fresh food in appearance, flavor, texture and food value. Frozen strawberries served in January can rival the delicious berries of June. June asparagus and July raspberries with garden-like freshness, add zest to winter meals.

Film strips showing the simple methods of freezing fruits, vegetables, meat, fish and poultry will be explained by Miss Marion Wight of the Women's Institute Branch and Home Economics Service, Ontario Department of Agriculture. Bulletins for home use will be distributed. Come and bring your friends.

OTTAWA TRIP JULY 5

The boys and girls of the three calf clubs are taking off at 7 a.m. Thursday, July 5, for Ottawa from the King St. bus terminal. They are going to the Central Experimental Farm and several other places of interest in the capital.

This trip has been arranged by the Kiwanis Club and Federation of Agriculture. Some of their members and their wives are going along with F. C. Paterson and R. E. Bell to look after the youngsters. The young folk are asked to bring box lunches, tea and soft drinks will be served at the farm. Supper will be at Perth on the way home. Cost to each member is $1.50, mainly for the evening meal.

Club leaders of the two dairy and one beef calf clubs are expected to accompany their wards. Any of the children who cannot go are asked to notify Mr. Paterson.

The 72 Ayrshires sold by Col. W. E. Phillips of Orillia grossed $3,015 for the highest average of this breed in Canadian sales. Top price was $900. Twenty-three head will be exported to the West Indies.

PICNIC NOVELTIES

Northumberland Holstein breeders stirred some humor into their picnic program last Saturday at the farm home of president Gordon MacKinnon. Hilton Engle-son took a win from Tom Sirett for the best bald head, and was presented with a bottle of shampoo. The woman with the smallest feet was Mrs. Earl Drope who won a can opener. Hayden Butters drew the award for the largest feet, and Pauline Drope for the longest braids.

There was a tie for the largest family, Arthur Ward and Charles Honey having five each. Youngest child at the picnic was Gerrard Convey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Convey. The baby's prize was a rattle. Oldest breeder was "Grandpa" Bertram Hoskin who was presented with a pencil with which to write his memoirs.

Guests from the Holstein organization were conveyed by directors James T. Brown of Newcastle and Norman McConkey of Peterborough. First three in the cattle judging contests were: Juniors—Donald Honey, Norma McConkey, Joan DeJong. Men's class—J. M. Goodfellow and Howard Evans, tied for first and Charles Honey. Women's class—Mrs. D. C. Hoskin, Mrs. E. L. Anderson and Mrs. J. Goodfellow. Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, was chairman of the afternoon program.

SWINE PRICES

Prices at the annual show and sale of Simcoe county Yorkshire Breeders' Club were: bred sows $216 average, and $240 top. Open sows: $117 average and $152.50 top. Boars: $108 average and $145 top. "High price of beef is causing Simcoe dairy farmers to weed out-cows at the slightest provocation."

SELLS FARM FOR $83,840

An Alberta stock farm of 640 acres changed hands recently for $83,840. George F. Beatty sold his full section in the ranch country nine miles southwest of Calgary at $230 an acre to S. D. E. Henker of Claresholm. That is believed to be a record price for land in the district.

Having farmed and ranched the place since 1918, Mr. Beatty plans to take a long motor trip before

TO LANCASTER COUNTY

Thirty-one farmers of the Eastern Ontario Crop Improvement Association toured New York and Pennsylvania from June 17 to 20, leaving Ivy Lea Bridge Sunday morning and returning Wednesday night.

A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative at Stirling, said the party was impressed by the well kept farm buildings in Lancaster county, Pa. Many Holstein cattle from this part of Ontario have been sold in that area.

"The barns were all painted white or cream with an occasional one red," Mr. Dalrymple reports. "We were informed the average farm is 60 acres, and Lancaster has the largest return per farm of all the counties in the U. S."

Tobacco, peas, tomatoes, garden crops, as well as all types of livestock and farming were in evidence. One farm had more than 70,000 broilers.

The Lancaster market sold all kinds of homemade meats, with pork, beef and poultry which were kept under refrigerated glass counters. The housewife could buy all her groceries at this market. Packaging of cheese was highly specialized.

"Tuesday we went to State College and saw its agricultural school. College enrolment is 12,000 students. There we saw a number of Swiss cattle. Final visit was to Cornell University at Ithaca, N. Y. where we heard a great deal about irrigation of pastures, hay drying and making of grass silage."

GRASS MAKES BEEF

Beef production on the Iowa farm has increased 10 per cent in the last two years, said Prof. Rex Beresford, of Iowa State College, at the closing day of the poultry and livestock conference last week at OAC.

Labor problems and prices of beef make production attractive in the Middle West.

Some of Prof. Beresford's figures were: Seventy per cent of the weight of the average steer comes from grass and the rest from roughage. Beef makes up about 43 per cent of the meat supply. We need only 10 to 12 per cent feed grains for beef cattle. Dairy men depend on grass for 75 to 80 per cent of their feed supply. Iowa produces about 1,500,000 steers annually.

Dr. Beresford said the job of conservation made it imperative that attention be given to growing sufficient grass and legumes in the Iowa rotation to insure upkeep of good physical condition of the soil.

"The new concept of grass growing is that we can't afford grain corn and grass even if we have little immediate use for the grass."

Care Of The Dairy Cow

Dr. Paul E. Newman, director of Dairy Research, Cayuga, N.Y., recommended the following objectives in proper handling of the dry cow.

To build up flesh while she is not producing milk. Store minerals such as calcium and phosphorus to meet her needs. Supply carotene or vitamin A of which their is great need to nourish the unborn calf. Control udder congestion.

For those objectives he emphasized observing a definite dry period for the cow. Who Said Holiday?

July 1 is the 84th anniversary of Confederation. Most farmers will celebrate its holiday of observance Monday, making hay, if the sun shines, and the weekend does not turn damp again. Some of them will probably have visitors from the city, including relatives and friends to whom it is a day off with pay. As a national holiday it will be celebrated by rural Ontario, generally struggling to get a big crop of grass tucked away into mows, generally performing a national job that comes first in importance if the rest of the community is to be provided in months ahead with such dietary essentials as milk, butter, cheese, eggs, poultry and so on down the line.

Movie Column

Fonda Intends To Stay On Broadway

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 28 (AP)—Henry Fonda and "Mister Roberts" will soon end their long and successful cruise together. But Fonda's shipping back to Broadway rather than stay in Hollywood for movies.

For three years and eight months, the actor and the naval officer have been playing between Tedium and Apathy in the famed play about a supply ship in the backwash of war. When the Los Angeles run ends in a few weeks, Fonda will leave the show. But movie producers who have been waiting for this event can put away their offers.

"I'm going to take a little vacation by the ocean," Fonda told me backstage. "Then in October I'm going to start a new play. It's 'Point of No Return,' which Paul Osborne has dramatized from the John Marquand book. Leland Hayward is producing and he expects to have the biggest advance sale of any play—$300,000.

"If the play clicks, that means I'll be tied up for another two or three years. And I don't mind a bit."

Likes Long Runs

Unlike some film players who seek early escapes from theatrical adventures, Fonda has no fear of long runs.

"I'm often asked how I can keep fresh while playing Roberts for so long," he said. "I have two explanations: I always got mad when I went to see a hit play that had been running for six months or so; the actors would let down, and you'd wonder why the play had been a hit. I always swore I would never let down, no matter how long I played a part.

"There's something about Roberts that won't allow you to let down. It's such an exciting show that you have to give it all you've got every night."

Hollywood Good Home

Inquired about his attitude toward Hollywood.

"I realized when I was back just a couple of days that this is a great place to live," he said. "If I ever retire, this is the place I'd be. But as an actor, I think New York is a much more exciting place to live. There is a great deal more satisfaction in the stage than in the movies.

"I have had offers to do pictures, but they either have been something that didn't interest me or the dates conflicted with 'Roberts.' I'm not saying that I'll never do pictures again. But right now I'm much more interested in the stage."

NEW RICHES FOR ALBERTA — The largest earth-fill dam in Canada stretches across the St. Mary River, southwest of Lethbridge. The $6,500,000 clay-and-gravel structure stores water of the St. Mary-Milk River Irrigation Project. When the project is completed 10 years hence, on estimated $40,000,000 worth of productive wealth will flow, like the water, across southern Alberta. More than 3,000 dust-bowl farmers will have new homes on irrigated land where crop failure is unknown. In the far distance can be seen the Rocky Mountains.

Water Scheme Brings Alberta Wealth

By JOHN DAPHINEE

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., June 28 (CP)—St. Mary River water is building up behind Canada's largest earth-fill dam to bring added prosperity to Southern Alberta.

July 16 Agriculture Minister Gardiner will officially open valves at the northern end of a man-made lake 18 miles long and six miles wide. But even before that ceremony the lake water is flowing through a maze of canals and ditches across the sprawling St. Mary-Milk River irrigation project.

When finished, the $30,000,000 scheme will turn 400,000 acres of dry range land into one of Canada's richest farming areas.

Farm homes will be provided for more than 3,000 families — many from crop-failure areas in Eastern Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Business men here say at least as many families will be supported indirectly in nearby towns and villages.

Farm experts calculate production averages $100 an acre or more in some 120,000 acres already under irrigation in the St. Mary-Milk River area. Some 21,000 acres is watered around Taber, 76,000 in the Lethbridge-Calgary area, 15,000 at Raymond and 7,000 at Magrath.

If the estimate is right, the 400,000 extra acres will bring at least $40,000,000 worth of extra production wealth each year to southern Alberta.

But it will be 10 or 15 years before the whole project is finished.

Tremendous Output — Federal and provincial government planners say potential output from the project is so great that immediate irrigation of the whole 400,000 acres would disrupt the west's economy.

Not more than 40,000 acres a year will be given crop-nourishing water.

St. Mary dam—main water source for the entire irrigation area—has cost $6,500,000. It was started in 1946 after many years of planning. Now it is finished except for a huge concrete spillway to carry off the excess water at flood season.

Up to 250 men, using huge dirt-moving machinery, have poured 4,000,000 cubic yards of clay and gravel across the meandering St. Mary river which flows northward into Canada from the United States.

Buried Buildings — The lake formed by the dam buried a few shacks and other buildings, but mostly it has inundated poor range country. It stretches 18 miles from a point northwest of Cardston to the dam, between high river banks 24 miles southeast of Lethbridge.

W. L. (Wally) Foss, supervising engineer for the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration, said water storage totals 294,600 acre-feet—enough to cover 460 square miles of land to a depth of one foot.

The $6,500,000 dam is one-half mile long; 202½ feet deep from top to foundations; and 191 feet above the normal river level. At the bottom, the clay-and-gravel structure is 1,450 feet wide. At the top it narrows to about 30 feet—the width of a modern highway.

Earth-fill Necessary

Why was earth-fill used instead of concrete?

"For one thing, it's considerably cheaper," said engineer Foss.

And, geologically speaking, said consulting geologist J. A. Allan of Edmonton, the rock beneath is "too young"—a mere 100,000,000 or 200,000,000 years old. The clay and gravel dam will change shape slightly as the foundation settles. Concrete probably would crack.

As long ago as 1911 the St. Mary Milk River project was visualized. There were detailed plans by 1919. When the go-ahead was given in 1945, the 120,000 acres of privately-developed irrigation in the area was absorbed into the joint federal-provincial scheme.

The total of 400,000 acres is in two segments. One is a crescent-shaped area stretching roughly east and west from near Magrath through Raymond, New Dayton and Milk River—a distance of some 60 miles. The other is a more rectangular area from just east of Lethbridge through Taber, Purple Springs, Grassy Lake, Bow Island and Seven Persons to the southern outskirts of Medicine Hat. That zone is about 100 miles long and 35 miles wide at one spot.

New Water Source — St. Mary reservoir, behind the new dam, is the main water source. The Milk river, another United States stream which enters Canada south of Lethbridge and runs almost due east, provides more water. Plans call for diversion canals to feed St. Mary reservoir from the Waterton and Belly rivers farther west.

Engineer Foss said land included in the scheme is perfect for irrigation; almost flat, dropping 10 to 30 feet a mile. That lets water run downhill from Farmers' v-shaped irrigation ditches across the fields. But it will run so slowly and in such a thin sheet that no light topsoil will be carried away.

COPPER SOURCE

Vast copper deposits in Northern Rhodesia have an annual output of about 260,000 tons.

INFORMATION CHIEF — A. (Archie) Day of Toronto, 44-year-old secretary of the Massey Commission on Arts, has been appointed head of the Information Division of the Department of External Affairs. Growing Hope For Cease-Fire

OTTAWA, June 28 — (CP) — There is growing optimism in some high quarters here that the days of fighting in Korea are numbered.

Some people close to developments arising from Russia's bid for a cease-fire conference are predicting now that the shooting is going to stop.

This view is based on interpretation of a variety of evidence and reflects a movement in official thinking beyond the natural initial scepticism over Russian Jakob Malik's call last Saturday for such a conference.

Outwardly, the official stand is one of reserve and caution. This was keynoted by Prime Minister St. Laurent Thursday when he confirmed that the government has received from Washington a copy of Russia's proposals for a Korean armistice but would only say they are being considered "very carefully."

The proposals are those given US Ambassador Alan Kirk in Moscow Wednesday suggesting armistice terms limited to "strictly military questions" and negotiated by UN, North Korean and Red Chinese commanders in the field.

Suspended Union Charges Lockout

FORT WILLIAM, June 28 (CP) — Officers of Lodge 408 of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks (AFL), suspended by its parent body Wednesday for violation of its working contract with the Canada Steamship Lines, Thursday charged that the switching of unloading operations to Port Arthur constituted a "lock-out" by the company.

Suspension of the lodge was announced Wednesday by the national union vice-president. He said 240 freight handlers refused to work after 6 p.m. in violation of an agreement with the CSL. He also said they had failed to abide by a conciliation board report which had been accepted earlier.

LONELINESS didn't ride the ocean waves with brothers David and Michael Foster who landed in Montreal recently aboard the Empress of Canada to join their parents in Toronto. Their Birmingham parents flew across the ocean recently to settle in Toronto and then sent word back that all was ready for the "second half" of the family to come to Canada. In the boys' words, "the trip was great."

Poor Facilities In Tokyo For Canadians On Leave

By BILL BOSS

TOKYO, June 29—(CP)—It's called "R-and-R" here—Rest and Relaxation. Five clear days in Tokyo for the fighting men from Korea.

And two days plane and train travel each way and they are able to get away from it all for about nine days.

Nine days, including five in Tokyo. Nothing wrong with that for time.

But for the battle-weary, army-fitted soldier you can't just string along with the civilian's holiday prescription that "a change is as good as a rest."

It's more than the body that's involved here. It's the mind, the soul, the whole mysterious complex called the personality—dulled, numbed, thwarted and sometimes embittered by the unusual kind of army life campaigning in Korea.

Korea—months of confinement to unit lines, under the same orders, seeing the same faces, and hearing the same chatter. None of the short breaks the world war soldier had in deservedly-luxurious rest camps, in private homes where brief returns to civilian ways reminded him that he was still a man. Not even Italy or Holland raised the formidable barriers of Korea, where both language and culture are impossible of grasp by the ordinary soldier.

Korea—daylight hours from dawn to dusk spent slogging, if you're lucky, up one mountain to be confronted by the next. Or dredging, ferreting, spiking out the Chinese from their always well-fortified positions. Every hill an assault. Screwing up the same course, maintaining the same unbroken spread-out line, nerves taut for quick reaction to the first indication that "he's up there."

Every moment of such a climb carries its peril of shrapnel, blast, bullet and mine. Day in, day out, spaced only by nights of watchfulness lest the enemy counter-attack.

Who can say what goes on in the soldier's mind? What influences unleashed upon the battlefield may shape his make-up in the years to come?

The war correspondent, the reporter along for the ride, gets only a glimmer. And he can get off when the rot and the numbness set in.

Not so the soldier. He goes on and on... until killed, or wounded, or someone draws his number from a hat and off he goes to Tokyo, tragically overdue for the best the army can give him.

Doesn't Help Much

The tragedy is that it doesn't.

Officers get it, and hitch-hikers like war correspondents get it, because they have the means, the social contacts.

But not Joe. He is put up at a Commonwealth-operated leave centre, four miles from the middle of town (which can be reached by infrequent buses or $3 taxi trips). He sleeps in dormitories in a former Japanese naval barracks, with few organized facilities.

Miss Rachael Young Tells Kiwanis of Children's Aid

The Children's Aid Society history and operation were outlined by Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Thursday.

The speaker explained that even now social workers are only on the fringe of understanding human behavior. But through experience, Children's Aid staff workers have reached a new era by realizing that in former years feelings of children has not entered sufficiently into case studies and decisions.

"When a case is brought to us where it may be necessary to remove a child from his home there is now prime consideration before action is taken," Miss Young said. "That is: How much does it mean to this child to live in his own home? How does the child feel and how do the parents feel? If this home is not right how can it be built up to make it right?"

The social worker, when considering the removal of a child from his home must always find out if there is something in that home that could never be given some place else.

Some Not Wanted

"Hard as it may be to believe," Miss Young continued, "there are some homes where children are not wanted. It may be that children were born when some difficulties financial or marital arose and all the resentment arising from these difficulties is projected on the child. Many delinquents come from this situation."

The Peterborough Children's

Aid spends 40 per cent of their time working with families to make them a proper place for children. A total of 800 families were supervised by the society during the past year. And in only 20 of the total number of families was it found necessary to remove children from the homes.

Two Services

The speaker stated that there are two types of service given to families. One where the society is forced to investigate and take measures as in cases of physical cruelty and inadequate care. The other, where people seek help in marital or other family problems.

In the latter case the society only gives help when they are approached by the family in difficulty and only so long as the family wish it.

Work with unmarried parents, the speaker named as another important part of the society's work. This situation often arises as a result of an inadequacy of the parents of the people involved.

Careful Study

The procedure followed when a child is placed in a foster home was then explained. Not only the prospective foster parents are interviewed, but the feelings of the child involved are also carefully studied.

Miss Young concluded by stating it has been the support of the community which has given the Children's Aid Society whatever success it has had.

The speaker was introduced by W. M. Gemmell.

Gananoque Plans Big Celebration

GANANOQUE, June 29—(CP)—This St. Lawrence River town, "the gateway to the 1,000 Islands," Thursday started a five-day celebration to call attention to the scenic beauties and holiday pleasures it has to offer a visitor.

Festivities in the first "Thousand Island International Festival" began with a full-fledged carnival. Today the first of the contestants are expected to arrive to warm up for the $1,000 International Nickel Cup powerboat race to be run off on Monday.

Saturday night there'll be a street dance followed by a water carnival and the crowning of the "Queen of the Thousand Islands" on Sunday. Sunday night the queen will lead a parade of beauties, boats and drivers through

The festival will reach its climax Monday with the dedication of a new war memorial by Labor Minister Milton Gregg. Afterwards, the minister will officially open Gananoque's fourth annual international powerboat regatta.

The Patriotas arrived last December, but about three months ago when they were serving with the British 27th Brigade, it was decided to include them in leaves granted the brigade. It is a change, and it is appreciated, but it is not what he deserves.

Something Wrong

Something is wrong, when old hands at soldiering return to their units after a five-day Tokyo leave knowing only the shopping area. Go back after seeing only the sights of the city, making a single Japanese friend, let alone sampling the variety of Japanese cultural and entertainment life.

They're bunked, sure. They eat in a be-limed it stuffy mess. But they are left to their own resources, the only standing facility a camp bar that closes at 10 p.m.

During the Second World War and after, the Canadian Army showed the world how to operate leave centres that filled the bill. The knack must be there somewhere, still; and the will to do it again.

Rubber Workers Reject Wage Offer

TORONTO, June 29—(CP)—A company offer of an 11-cent-an-hour wage increase was rejected Thursday by some 1,500 employees of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company plant in suburban New Toronto.

The men, members of Local 323 United Rubber Workers of America (CIO), voted down the company offer and reaffirmed their intention of standing by a demand for a 25-cent hourly increase. They returned to work Monday to negotiate with the company after going on strike June 6.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Fish Good, Inexpensive Dish Serve Families These Days

By KAY REX

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fish-eaters are happier than most others these days. Their favorite food often is as much as 25 cents a pound cheaper than beef, and there's also plenty of it.

The fisheries department reports good catches of most kinds of fish so far this year. The lobster catch and cod fisheries both were heavier. Haddock and sardines also were caught in large quantities.

And it's easier for Canadians now to buy good fish no matter in what area they live. Fisheries Minister Mayhew recently told

LARGE NATURAL LEGHORN SAILOR with grey grosgrain on the brim is trimmed with flowers and red and grey velvet. The other creation by the same designer is of orange lace shaped like a plate and adorned with field flowers.

McCormick's BISCUITS

The Master touch means so much!

the House of Commons that more fish stores are opening across Canada. There was no reason why Canadians everywhere could not buy fish of good quality.

Of course wherever a housewife goes shopping these days it hurts the pocketbook. Sirloin steak costs around 98 cents a pound in Toronto, but she finds fresh salmon selling between 69 and 75 cents a pound.

Steamed Salmon

Boiled or steamed salmon makes an excellent main course. To boil, tie the salmon piece in parchment paper or cheese-cloth and boil until the meat falls away from the bone.

Steam by placing fish in kettle over boiling water and leave there until done. Allow one-third to one-half pound of salmon for each person.

French dressing is just the thing to serve with the salmon which by now has been chilled, placed on individual plates and surrounded by lettuce-leaves.

For the dressing: place one egg yolk (very dry) in bowl and add dash of salt and pepper; whip with egg-beater while continuing to add salad oil and small amount of vinegar. Watch that vinegar!

Too much of it will prevent mixture from whipping into the required fluffy dressing.

Scalloped potatoes and tomatoes go well with salmon.

And for dessert strawberries and ice cream are just the thing at this time of the year.

To Cut Costs

Powdered skim milk for cooking will help cut down on the food budget. Home economists claim there is a saving of about 50 per cent when it is taken into account that a one-pound can of powdered milk makes the equivalent of four quarters of fresh liquid skim milk.

To mix: put required amount of lukewarm water into a deep vessel; sprinkle milk powder on top and then stir briskly with spoon, fork or egg-beater until thoroughly blended.

HEDY STUFF—Auctioneer Anthony Goode exhibits some of the more personal belongings of film actress Hedy Lamarr slated to go on the block at public auction in Hollywood. The movie queen, now honeymooning with her fourth husband, night club operator Ernest Stauffer, offered for sale an estimated $1,000,000 worth of her personal effects—including wedding rings from three previous marriages and wardrobe of expensive gowns and lingerie.

Percy Pupils Honor Teacher

ROSENEATH, June 29 (ENS)—The pupils of SS No. 10 Percy, five miles east of Roseneath, presented their teacher, Mrs. Raymond Richardson, with a large flower container, with matching goldfish bowl, on Wednesday afternoon, when the annual school picnic was held. Mrs. Richardson has resigned as teacher after completing three years.

Ted Ward, a senior pupil, read an address, voicing his appreciation of the pupils and parents for the personal interest shown in every pupil and spoke of the prizes won at the county music festival, the township and county field days, and also the progress made in school work by the pupils. The presentation was made by Rosella Campbell. Mrs. Richardson replied briefly.

The picnic was held on the shores of Dartford Pond and was attended by the pupils, their parents and ratepayers.

In the forenoon, all enjoyed the swimming sports. Following the dinner on the shore, everyone went to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Hardy, where a program of sports was run off, followed by an interesting ball game, when the former pupils defeated the school team in a game of softball.

Following are the prize winners in the sports:

Guessing contest: 1. Lorne Ball throwing: Girls, Rita Yule; boys, Ted Ward; junior boys, Gordon Atkinson; pre-school children, Neil Campbell; junior girls, Rosella Campbell; ladies, Mrs.

DELICIOUS STRAWBERRY JAM IN 15 MINUTES from the time your fruit is prepared

Compare These Two Methods —

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.

2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.

3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old, long-boil way.

4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds 1/2 bottle (4 ozs.) CERTO. CERTO is the natural jelling substance in fruit in concentrated form.

5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.

6. Mrs. A's 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.

2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.

3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.

4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about 1/2 the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.

5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.

6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.

Free Recipe Book

Under the label of every bottle of CERTO is a book of 78 tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits need different handling, so CERTO gives you a separate recipe for each fruit. Be sure to follow the simple directions EXACTLY.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

If Bacon Becomes Too Hard Grind It Before Frying

QUESTION: I read your column with interest and now I was wondering if you could help me out. Since food is so expensive I hate to see anything going to waste, yet I have a slab of bacon that I don't know what to do with. We butchered a pig and had some bacon cured, but the trouble with it is the lean part of it is so hard when it is fried or broiled that we can't eat it. Would you have some recipes for bacon that would overcome this hardness, and make it usable? Mrs. N. M.

ANSWER: I have dozens of ideas — indeed so many you will be sorry you haven't more hard bacon to use up.

Potato-Bacon Pancakes

Cut 4 slices (about 1/4 lb.) bacon into very small pieces. Fry these until they are just beginning to get crisp, and skim the bacon out of the fat. Wash and peel enough potatoes to make one pound — this is 2 very large potatoes — grate them on a fine grater into a bowl containing 1 tablespoon grated onion, 2 unbeaten eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and shake of pepper. As the grated potatoes fall, stir them into the contents of bowl to prevent them darkening. Add the fried bacon. Heat bacon fat in pan. Stir the mixture well, then drop by tablespoonfuls into hot fat spreading each cake with back of spoon to make it thin. Turn over when side is golden. Be sure potatoes have no raw taste before taking them from pan. Drain on paper towelling.

NOTE: If lean part of bacon is so hard this type of treatment does not moisten it enough grind the bacon before frying it.

Green Beans with Bacon

One quart green beans, 4 slices bacon, rind on, 1 teaspoon salt, about 1 1/2 cups boiling water. Wash beans, string them and cut into 1-inch lengths. Dice bacon and fry in the bottom of the saucepan until golden, add the beans, water and cover and cook gently until tender, adding salt about 2 minutes before serving time. If you can judge the amount of water it is desirable to have it all cook away before beans are served. If it does not, thicken it with a little flour-and-water paste.

Spinach with Wilted Lettuce and Bacon

Grind enough bacon to make 1 cup. Sauté this in frying pan until crispy and golden. Lift out the bacon. Have ready one small head lettuce shredded in bowl. To this add 1 lb. chopped bright-green, quick-cooked, drained spinach, hot. Sprinkle the hot bacon over top. Just before carrying to table to the bacon fat in pan add 1/4 cup vinegar, bring to boiling point and add 1/2 teaspoon salt and, if desired, 1 tablespoon grated onion. Pour this over the vegetables and bacon, lift with 2 forks to stir and to wilt the lettuce and serve at once. If desired the Boston Baked Beans were just the thing to use up some of your hard bacon. They get anywhere from 6 to 8 hours baking, covered, and that is enough to soften any meat. If you would like me to print a recipe for them please write again.

DOROTHY DIX

Generosity Said Wonderful But It Can Be Overdone

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like your opinion in this matter. I have a friend, Sally, whose husband, Gerald, is one of the most generous people I ever knew. When he makes friends, he makes brothers and sisters, moms and dads of them. If he hears of someone in financial difficulties he is ready with a helping hand and puts more food in their homes than they ever had before. He brings gifts to everyone he visits. When he and his wife go out, they take with them people who otherwise would never get out of the house. Everyone's problems are his.

Dorothy Dix

He does this to the point of depriving his family of clothes and luxuries. His wife goes along with his plans as long as that is what makes him happy. Regardless of the faith or nationality of people in trouble, he is there to help.

I have told him they are just making easy marks of themselves. There is such a thing as carrying this too far. Don't you think his first duty is to see that his family is the best dressed and has the best home in town? Their home is a friendly and loving one, his wife and children are adored by him. He has a good job, makes a good salary but doesn't have a cent in the bank. His wife says they have their health and get pleasure in doing what they can for others.

I think if they keep up at the rate they're doing, people won't appreciate their kindness and will soon take them for granted.

ANSWER: You are very lucky to have such people for friends. Perfect charity is one of the rarest virtues in the world, and judging from your description these folks have it.

True Selflessness

Many people will be generous with money, but those who will give of their time and attention are few indeed. The family of your friends may not be the best dressed in town, nor their home the finest, but they are clothed with the glow of true love — love of one's fellowmen — and housed in a mansion of selflessness that millions of dollars alone couldn't buy.

It is possible that people will take such generosity for granted, and eventually take advantage of it. In fact, it is impossible to assume that everyone is grateful for a helping hand; the truth is that many are not, but we can't generalize those who are truly needy and sincerely grateful for the few ingrates.

I do agree with you that your friends should make some provision for their own future. As with all things, a happy medium between liberality and penury would here be the ideal state of life. However, if I had to make a sharp choice between a miser who hoarded his money and love, ignoring the woes of his fellowman, and a Gerald who took the whole world to his heart, my decision would take but an instant. The Lord loveth a cheerful giver — and so do I!

DEAR MISS DIX: I have two grown sons with families and good positions. I am a widow and I live by myself. My sons have each been sending me $15 every other month. With this help I can get along very nicely as I have several part-time jobs.

Recently, however, one of my sons, written saying that rather than send the money he would prefer that I go to live with him, his wife, and three children. He believes that the older generation must fit itself to the convenience of the younger. I, however, wish to retain my independence and do not feel that I could be useful or happy in my daughter-in-law's home, even though I like and respect her. What should I do? P. G.

ANSWER: I can't for the life of me see why your son should want to upset the ideal arrangement you have worked out for yourself, to save a mere $7.50 a month — and it would cost him that to keep you in his own home anyway. His wife, too, must be pretty short-sighted to let him consider altering your way of life.

A man's wife and mother are always better kept apart. No matter how much they like and respect each other, friction will occur. A. your situation is now, everyone is peaceful, happy and content. Your son will be foolish indeed to upset it and you should certainly make every endeavor to maintain the independence you cherish.

DEAR MISS DIX: There are two boys that tell me they love me and want to marry me. I'm not sure which one I want. One of them wants to finish college before he marries. He is always over at my house. The other one only comes about once a month. How can I be sure which one loves me and which one I love? HONEY

ANSWER: You make love and marriage sound like a game of penny-meeny-miny-mo. If you're so uncertain about your two swains, neither is the man for you. When true love comes along, you'll know it!

On Toronto ExchangeTORONTO, June 29 (CP).—
Prices slipped a little lower in extremely quiet trading as the session progressed on the stock market today.Because of the extremely slow pace of the market it was hard to determine a definite trend. Volume for the first three hours of 403,000 shares was about 73,000 fewer than the same period yesterday, the smallest amount it has been this year.A handful of industrials dipped fractions in dull trading. Papers, steels, utilities, foods, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed a majority of losses in the groupings. Construction, textiles, banks, refining oils and liquors were fairly mixed. No issue showed much feature.Western oils eased with losses ranging from pennies to the ½ decline of Royalite and base metals also eased.Golds had little change. A few senior producers and a handful of secondary golds posted small declines.

Communists Silent On Invitation To Truce Parley

TOKYO, July 1 (Sunday)—(AP)—The United Nations invited the Communists to talk about a Korean armistice Saturday but Communist reactions were not encouraging. There was no word of a reply from the Communist military commander early Sunday, more than 16 hours after Gen. Matthew Ridgway suggested peace talks. Official Chinese and Korean Red radios in Peking and Pyongyang made their final broadcasts Saturday night without even mentioning Ridgway's proposal.

75 Firefighters Cut Off By Forest Fire

VANCOUVER, June 30 (CP)—A barrier of flames formed by Vancouver Island's biggest forest fire in a decade marooned 75 firefighters Friday night in the smoke-cloaked Campbell River region.

They were being supplied by air, and a Forestry Department spokesman said they were not considered in great danger. Hopes that the Campbell River would halt the onrushing flames died Friday when the fire jumped the river and burned its way up a mountainside.

Already the fire has destroyed 5,000,000 board feet of timber in burning out an area 10 miles square. Nearly 1,000 men were battling to stem the outburst but rain—and lots of it—was seen as the only sure cure. The weather forecast was for more sunshine.

Stranded at Lake

Cut off by the flames were Pete Haranborne, General Manager of the Elk River Timber Co., and a band of 75 firefighters. They were stranded at the foot of Upper Campbell Lake, about 20 miles northwest of Campbell River. "They're all right," said D. B. Taylor, assistant district forester. "They should be able to walk out after everything cools off."

The fire area is about 150 miles north of Victoria.

While the battle went on, Provincial government forestry officials at Victoria considered a complete closure of woods operations in the coastal district, without rain for 17 days.

Canada, India Finish Talks

OTTAWA, June 30 (CP)—Canada and India have completed new talks to tap Canada's $25,000,000 contribution to the Colombo plan for south and southeast Asia.

The external affairs department said Friday night week-long talks were held between Canadian officials and those representing the Indian government, including N. Saradana, deputy governor of India's reserve bank.

Discussions, said the department, were exploratory, but they dealt with possible ways in which the $25,000,000 may be put to work.

Similar talks will be held soon with an official from Pakistan, the other nation which will benefit from Canada's first-year contribution.

The six-year, $5,200,000,000 Commonwealth program becomes effective July 1.

The department gave no details of what the new talks were about.

UK Factory Building Wrecked By Blast

BRIDGWATER, Somerset, England, June 30 (AP)—An explosion in an isolated building of the big Royal Ordnance factory at Puriton Friday night killed six men, all workers in the plant.

The plant employs about 1,500 workers. Its chief activity is filling shells with explosives.

The blast, which rattled windows five miles away, wrecked the building in which gelignite is handled.

Other buildings, scattered over a four-mile square area, were undamaged and the plant was being operated normally this morning.

Security officers isolated the wrecked building and technicians and chemists, were making a painstaking examination of the debris.

Music Festivals Gain Popularity

SAINT JOHN, N. B., June 30 (CP)—Reports that the music festival movement is continuing to grow and develop throughout Canada were presented at Friday's session of the annual convention of the Federation of Canadian Music Festivals. Final sessions of the convention will be held Saturday.

Mr. Cooke also read reports of festivals held in Stratford, Sudbury, Chatham, Niagara Falls and Kingston.

Father and Four Children Die Trapped in Beds by Fire

Will Continue Investigate Seven Ships

Ottawa Not Prepared To Withdraw
Canadian Flag Yet

OTTAWA, June 30. (CP)—The Government is going to pursue investigation of the controversial Ming Sung ships, though it is not yet prepared to strip them of their questioned right to fly the Canadian flag.

That was the word given the Commons Friday by Prime Minister St. Laurent as Progressive Conservatives urged again that the seven Chinese-manned ships be seized.

He said the government still does not feel that this action should be taken, though investigation still is going on and the matter is "by no means a closed book."

He disclosed that the vessels, built in Canada for a Chinese trading firm and now flying the Canadian flag, have been carrying to Red China "many materials which Canada herself does not allow to be exported to Communist countries."

Not Unreasonable
But the government did not consider that this trade out of Hong Kong, now halted by the British authorities there, has been "unreasonable." The material carried included used trucks, rubber tires, scrap metal and iron rods.

At the same time, he reported that the government had been worried—even before the Progressive Conservatives broached it—about the possibility of "very embarrassing complications" if the Chinese Reds fired on the vessels or took other action against them.

The ships were built in Canada after the war for the Ming Sung Industrial Corporation and given Canadian registry last year to prevent their falling into Communist hands. The owners still owe Canadian banks about $12,000,000.

Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) suggested the amount of money involved—the Canadian government is backing the $12,000,000 bank loan—is "not worth the risk this government is taking of running into trouble in the Far East."

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Nanaimo) said his information was that the ships have transported steel plate, railway materials, ships repairs and lumber to Red China.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) urged that use of the ships to take Chinese repatriates from Malaya to Red-held Canton be stopped.

The discussion arose as the Chamber plodded through the last of department estimates before adjournment for the summer recess. It meets again Oct. 9.

Another debate developed on CBC estimates, with Progressive WILL CONTINUE

Drastic Press Control Started In Hong Kong

HONG KONG, June 30 (AP)—Hong Kong's drastic press control law goes into effect Sunday.

It authorizes the government to shut down newspapers and news agencies and confiscate printing shops.

The law makes it an offence to "maliciously publish in any local newspaper false news which is likely to alarm public opinion or disturb public order."

The government has never said why it adopted such a drastic measure. Hong Kong newspaper circles think it is the first step in a move to control and curb Communist propaganda activities here.

Try Set Up Rebel Gov't

BANGKOK, Thailand, June 30 (AP)—Thai navy and marine forces fought what appeared to be a losing battle today to set up a rebel government replacing the kidnapped Premier Pibulsonggram.

Army and navy forces fought an artillery duel in the streets of Bangkok.

Some shells ripped through the American Embassy, situated between opposing forces.

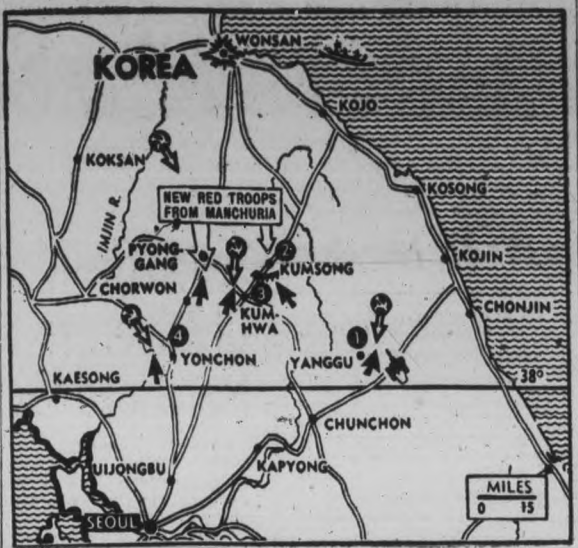

Apparently no foreigners were hurt in a night of heavy fighting, said William T. Turner, American Charge d'Affaires.

As he made this report over the telephone to the Associated Press, a bullet ricocheted into his living room. It lodged in the wall over his head.

The army, air force and police joined in a fight against the rebellious navy.

Royal air force planes bombed navy headquarters, across the Chao Phya River from Bangkok at 8 a.m. One bomb fell between the French Embassy and the Oriental Hotel. Three persons were injured.

No attempt was made to bomb the warship on which Pibulsonggram was reported held prisoner.

WHILE UN FORCES prepare way for truce talks at Wonsan on the east coast of Korea, officials report a new Red build-up. Communists (white arrows) were bringing in fresh troops from Manchuria in an attempt to build up their outposts at Pyongyang and Kumsong. Northeast of Yanggu (1) UN artillery stopped enemy harassing attacks, and Allied units moved closer to Kumsong (2). Red troops were pushed back east of Kumsong (3) and south of Pyongyang. But UN infantry met stiffened resistance above Yonchon (4).

Farmer Reports Crash 49 People Aboard Plane

DENVER, Colo., June 30. (AP)—A farmer reported to the State Highway Patrol that a United Airlines plane with 49 persons aboard crashed five miles east of Loveland, Colo.

The report was relayed to United Airlines here. It sent planes and a ground party to investigate. The airlines emphasized the report had not been confirmed.

Don Uhrich, a farmer living seven miles east of Loveland, said that about 2 a.m. he heard a noise "like a big thump."

The big liner, carrying 44 passengers and a crew of five, was flying from San Francisco to Chicago by way of South Lake, Denver and Omaha.

It was one of United's first flights after a 10-day strike ended Friday.

Planes Searching
United, Air Force and Civil air patrol planes fanned out over the area about 50 miles north of Denver—halfway between Cheyenne and Denver, where the plane was due at 2:10 a.m.

The Weather Bureau reported slightly overcast skies but no severe weather in the area when the plane last radioed its position at 1:56 a.m.

The plane was eastbound from San Francisco to Chicago with 44 passengers and a crew of five. The airline said the DC-6 reported it was over Cheyenne at 1:46 a.m. MST. Ten minutes later, it said, the plane radioed it was east of Cheyenne at 8500 feet and expected to land in Denver at 2:10 a.m.

Nothing was heard from the plane after that.

May Be Radio
"It could be radio trouble," said Ray Dunlap, vice-president. "We don't know what happened."

The plane was past the Rocky Mountains on its eastbound flight when it radioed over Cheyenne. Its route from there to Denver was over the high plains which stretch out from the base of the Rockies.

$100,000 Blaze Levels Hotel

WAHNAPIATAE, Ont., June 30 (CP)—Fire completely levelled the three-story Grand Union Hotel here Friday night. Loss is estimated by the owner at about $100,000.

No one was injured in the spectacular six-hour blaze which razed the 24-room structure. Cause of the fire was not immediately known.

Eye witnesses said the whole building and all its furnishings were a total loss. Flames were still spurting in the smouldering embers after dawn today.

For hotel owner Fred Marotta, of Sudbury, it was the second time in the past few weeks that bad luck has plagued his Wahnapitae enterprise. In May thieves entered the hotel office and escaped with a safe containing $15,000 in cash. Other articles taken in the break-in brought the total loss to close to $40,000.

Wahnapitae is 11 miles east of Sudbury.

Iran Warned Refinery Closing Soon

Britain Says Policy Forcing Shutdown,
Storage Limited

TEHRAN, Iran, June 30 (CP)—Britain today warned Iran that her policy on oil nationalization would soon lead to the closing down of the Abadan refinery.

Since tankers had been ordered from Abadan "the refinery will have to close down as soon as the existing storage capacity for refined products is full," said a note the ambassador delivered today.

"The flow of crude oil from the oilfields will soon have to cease," The note told Iran that Britain held the government of that country responsible for the protection of all British subjects in Iran.

Should Iran fail in this respect that government "alone will be responsible for the consequences."

Lay Complaints
The note complained of "incitements" to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's staff to transfer their allegiance to the national Iranian company and of "inflammatory and provocative speeches" by members of the Iranian government delegation on the oil areas.

Meanwhile, as the flow of oil slowed to a trickle, the United Nations International Court started a hearing today over the oil dispute.

Tehran was quiet after a noisy Communist-led demonstration Friday denouncing American efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement of the future of the billion-dollar corporation.

About 1,000 persons had gathered in Parliament Square shouting "Death to Truman" and "Death to Grady." Henry F. Grady is American ambassador to Iran.

Asks For Injunction
Britain has asked the court, which meets in the Hague, the Netherlands, to issue an injunction forbidding Iran to do anything to deepen the dispute. The Iranian government wired the court Friday asking it to throw out the British petition on the grounds of "abuse of process."

Canada To Continue Building Air Screen

MONTREAL, June 30 (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal Charles Dunlop, who heads Canada's air defence, said today that true or no true in Korea, Canada will continue to weave a protective air screen around its key industrial regions.

He made his statement on his return from Washington, where he held parleys with United States armed services chiefs.

He refused to discuss the subject of the officials involved in the security of the United States.

Under the present deduction system, the employer deducts 95 per cent of the tax payable from the pay cheque and passes it along to the revenue department. His employee pays the five per cent remaining when he files his tax return.

Beginning July 1, the deductions will run around 99 per cent of tax liability, leaving the taxpayer little or nothing to make up at the end of the tax year. He will be found the features and comics which are scheduled for Monday.

Income Tax Deductions Increased After July 1

OTTAWA, June 30 (CP)—Personal income tax deductions go up July 1 as the new 20-per-cent defence surcharge goes into effect. It will begin to show on pay cheques starting July 1.

Along with the tax increase, the revenue department also will begin increasing the amount taken from cheques under the pay-as-you-go plan of tax deductions.

Any excess will go back to the taxpayer at the end of the tax year.

Montreal Fire Report Given Next Week

MONTREAL, June 30 (CP)—Judgment will be given next week in the June 15 St. Cuneoged Hospice fire that took 35 lives.

Fire Commissioner Jean St. Germain, K.C., said Friday he would study the controversial evidence heard at a two-day inquiry before announcing his findings.

The blaze, in the brick and wood five-story home for the aged and orphans, was one of the city's worst in 50 years.

Witnesses heard gave controversial evidence as to where the fire broke out, since none of them actually saw the flames at the outbreak.

Family Fast Asleep As Sylvan House Levelled By Flames

PARKHILL, Ont., June 30. (CP)—Four children and their father died early today when flames ripped through their two-story frame house six miles west of here. Dead are Frederick White, 28, the father; three sons, Shannon 6, Michael 4, and Fred Jr., five months; and his two-year-old daughter Beverly. All were trapped in their beds as the flames licked quickly through the old home and sent it crashing to the ground before firemen from Parkhill arrived on the scene.

The White home is located at Sylvan, a small community located a few miles inland from Lake Huron and about 28 miles northwest of London.

Police at Parkhill said today they have recovered four bodies from the ruins of the home. They have not been identified.

Not At Home
Mrs. White was not at home at the time. Police said she was at a presentation ceremony at a school several miles away.

They said White had just returned home from the weekend from his job with Lawson and Jones Ltd., lithographers in London. He lived in London during the week and commuted on the weekends.

Mrs. White told police she put the children to bed early in the evening, and that when she left the house her husband had also gone to bed.

The fire was discovered by Austin O'Neil and Bruce McLeod as they were driving on a nearby highway. They put in an immediate alarm, and firemen from Parkhill raced to the scene.

But the flames had already taken their toll. The fire had progressed too far for them to save the occupants.

Police said the Whites had moved to Sylvan from London about a year ago.

Coroner Dr. Fred Boyes of Parkhill, said an inquest will be held.

Hospital Ship Conference Site

By The Associated Press
The Danish hospital ship proposed by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as the site of a Korean cease-fire conference, is the 8,457-ton Jutulandia, on Korean war duty since last March.

The Jutulandia, a rebuilt former Copenhagen-New York passenger liner, is one of the best-equipped hospital ships in the world. The staff of volunteers includes some of Denmark's best-known doctors.

The vessel flies the flags of Denmark, the United Nations and the International Red Cross.

Wonsan, the suggested site of the meeting, is a northeast Korean port which Friday endured its 18th consecutive day of Allied bombardment.

The ship is anchored in Pusan harbor inside the breakwater.

With Monday being observed as Dominion Day in Canada there will be found the features and comics which are scheduled for Monday.

Chinese Drive Canadians Back

By BILL BOSS.
WEST SECTOR, Korea, June 30 (CP)—A Chinese outpost Friday stoutly contested possession of a crest north of Chonwon in North Korea, forcing withdrawal of a United Nations patrol.

(Censorship precludes mention in this dispatch of the nationality of the United Nations troops involved. Boss is in Korea to report the activities of the Canadian 25th Brigade.)

The afternoon battle was consistent with the picture of stiffening enemy resistance to patrolling activity of United Nations forces across the entire front.

Friday's probe by a strong infantry detachment, supported by tanks, actually reached the summit after two air strikes, and artillery fire had been concentrated on it.

There, after a brisk battle between battle-tested United Nations troops and well dug-in Chinese troops, the probing force withdrew.

Seven Chinese were "known to have been killed in the encounter."

Apartment Buildings Go Up In Parkdale Subdivision

Constructed on the stout and fire proof lines of a modern hotel, the Trent Apartments receive their first tenant Tuesday. This building and its twin Otonabee Apartments are the latest fealty development by Sands and Bateman on their Parkdale subdivision east of Nicholls Park.

Each comprises fifteen apartments distributed through three floors and basement. There are four units on each of three floors, and three in the basement.

It is a mere recital of structural detail to say that the Trent, for instance, is built of brick, cement blocks, steel and reinforced concrete. The only wood is used for necessary strapping within the walls, narrow strips for Gyproc background.

Concrete Floors

Floors are of concrete on steel beams and joists, finished with the surfacing. Even the stairways are of reinforced concrete, with tile covering. Walls dividing the apartments are of concrete blocks carried upward from the basement. Window frames and sash are of aluminum.

Apartments are of uniform design, living room with dining extension, two bedrooms, bathroom and kitchen.

Kitchen equipment includes heavy duty electric stove, refrigerator, sink, cupboard panels. The floor of the dining and living room is covered with oak squares, and the other floors in each apartment are of marbleized tile laid on the concrete. Interior decoration is completed before any dwelling unit is ready for occupation.

Oil Furnaces

Both buildings are heated by hot water systems connected to oil furnaces, with thermostat control from the roof, thereby regulating temperature to the weather outdoors. Oil tanks are sunk outside. Stairwells are flooded with light through their own windows which reach to the top of each building.

Obvious features are lighting of the rooms, sound-proofing convenience of apartment layout, and a solidity of all the walls and floor construction.

Basements include laundry room with automatic washers drying and locker rooms, with provision as far as possible for separate accommodation.

These apartments have been designed for facility of comfortable and secure living. Closets and linen rooms are of adequate space. Stairs lead to the front and rear entrances.

Terracing

Terracing of the front slope is already well advanced, and the rear area has been levelled for parking. Garages will be built as desired. When grass is established on the terraced lawn, the name of each apartment will be shown in floral lettering.

One of the intangibles of the Trent, and likewise the Otonabee is the sweeping view of that eastern frontier of the city, hard by the canal. These buildings have been erected on the knoll along the eastern side of the old Curtis field, that is now fully developed as a residential section.

Prospective tenants desiring attractive vistas of scene from their living and bed rooms should be happy when they get settled down in their furnishings. Windows of southeast apartments look across the Parkdale subdivision to Nicholls Oval and the Auburn country to the north; there is a long corridor extending south of the Oval and across the city, and to the east is expanse of rural fields. (Sunlight, breezes and the long view.)

Little Work

True, there are two stairs to that floor, but the skyline pays off with its breadth, long prospect and sense of freedom. From all appearances, work has been reduced to a minimum and option, at least for the men of the households. No firing, ashes, gardening, lawn mowing, although there may be some tinkering now and then.

about the car. There may be conscript laundry help, if the wash is done in the basement and not sent out.

Controlled rents are set by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. Fourteen of the apartments are $88.75 a month, and one of the three in each basement is $78.

Some of the apartments have been taken already. Leases are for three years. Applications are dependent on the progress of building. Investment in these two apartment buildings is around $150,000.

At present, outdoor work on the property is taking shape, and grading is expected to be completed before long. The contractor is Walter Mortlock.

68 Houses

Sands and Bateman have built and sold 68 houses in their Parkdale subdivision. All are occupied but one, and it should be in use any day.

Other privately built houses are included in that section comprising three new streets, Swanston Ave., Snelgrove Road and Juliet Road.

The enterprise of Sands and Bateman is represented there by 98 living units, the 68 houses of their building, plus the 30 apartments. When the streets are finished by the establishment of lawns and trees, and the terracing of the apartment buildings is green, Parkdale will be one of the most attractive residential areas of Peterborough.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Miss Ingram, Mrs. Edgar Brown gave some notes on garden and insects.

MORE ABOUT—Iran Warned that the dispute is between Iran and a private company—the AIOC—not Iran and Britain. The British government claims the right to intervene because it owns 53 per cent of the company's stock. The slowdown at the oil fields and at the world's largest refinery in Abadan will prevent storage facilities from reaching the saturation point for about a month.

A British Embassy spokesman in Tehran said that as long as production continues, even at a rate much less than the average 450,000 barrels a day, British technicians and managers will not be withdrawn. Their departure, it is generally supposed, would mean the end of all compromise efforts.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, June 30 (CP).—Most grain prices rallied in late trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday as early heavy offerings dried up. Fair buying, representing pre-holiday covering, came into all grains during the active last half-hour of trading. In some cases early losses were reduced or gains substituted. July rice, however, closed the maximum 10 cents lower.

Export loadings of wheat included 480,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 370,000 to Switzerland, 300,000 to Japan, and 250,000 to Belgium. IWA and Class 2 wheat prices were unchanged.

MORE ABOUT—Communists

Favorite target has been Wonsan, suggested source said.

In its first broadcast after Ridgway's offer to talk about a ceasefire, the Communist Pyongyang radio made no mention of it. Instead, the radio broadcast the usual war communique.

That was at 8 p.m. just 12 hours after the allied supreme commander extended his invitation on instructions from Washington.

Minimum Requirements

Meanwhile the South Korean cabinet met and laid down "five minimum requirements" under which it would accept a ceasefire. They included withdrawal of Chinese troops, disarming of Chinese troops, and no outside aid of any kind to North Korea.

Ridgway's message laid down no conditions of any kind. Nor did it mention by name either the Chinese field commander, Gen. Peng Teh-huai, or the North Korean commander, Premier Kim Il Sung.

Communists for a showdown on peace. His message stated:

"As commander-in-chief of the United Nations Command, I have been instructed to communicate to you the following:

"I am informed that you may wish a meeting to discuss an armistice providing for the cessation of hostilities and all acts of armed force in Korea, with adequate guarantees for the maintenance of such armistice.

"Upon receipt of word from you that such a meeting is designed, I shall be prepared to name my representative.

"I would also at that time suggest a date at which he could meet with your representative. I propose that such a meeting could take place aboard a Danish hospital ship in Wonsan harbor."

Wonsan is in Red-held territory on the northeast coast, about 80 miles north of parallel 38.

Seek To Trace Cable Theft Through Pliers

COBourg, June 30 (ENS).—Preliminary trial of Orville Hannon of Cobourg and Edward Burtenshaw of Toronto, charged with theft of a large quantity of aluminum cable from the rural HEPC here on May 5, started Friday, taking up most of the day and adjourning for one week.

Main feature of the Crown's case was technical evidence in connection with the tool marks left by a pair of pliers, said to have been found with the arrest of the pair, in cutting off cable from the spindle ends of the reels.

Ralph Fisher, local HEPC rural manager, testified that it was learned on May 6 that the cable had been stolen from the pole yards. Received back was 1,687 pounds. Cable averaged 27 cents a pound. Dan Dudley, stockkeeper at the hydro yards, said that a check of the inventory revealed that 2,698 pounds of the cable had been stolen and they were still short some pounds.

Rented Truck

W. Frappier, clerk in a truck lease company of Toronto, testified that a man who had rented a light truck checked in at 8:19 a.m. on May 5, with a mileage of 170. He signed the rental card as Edward Burtenshaw. Witness identified Hannon, not Burtenshaw, in court as the man who had rented the truck. Walter Mahner, who rented the truck to the man, said that a license had been produced with the name of Edward Burtenshaw. He could not identify either of the men in court as the one with whom he had done business.

Sam Climans, Toronto salvage yard operator, said that two men in a green truck had brought the aluminum cable to his yard, but as his partner was not there, they left it and said they would be back. Later Detective Morgan brought two men to the yard and asked him if he could identify them.

Provincial Constable Bernie Welde, testified in court that on his investigation of the accident, he found a 1936 model car on the side of the road at the intersection of the road. He said that he found a skid mark 42 feet long south of the car on the travelled portion of the road. The car had also left a space of 66 feet with no marks on the road at all.

The accused had suffered a slight concussion and injuries to his elbows and had been taken to hospital in an ambulance, following treatment on the scene by Dr. Wm. N. Earle, Omeenee. The constable estimated damage to the car at $600.

He was fined $25 on the driving while his licence was suspended charge; $20 on the careless driving charge and costs of $7.50.

The accused did not take the witness stand, but said that loose gravel on the road caused him to lose control of the car.

Crack Marksmen Compete In Big Bisley Meeting

BISLEY CAMP, England (CP).—Despite the development of automatic weapons, the expert rifle shot still has an important place in modern warfare. That's why picked marksmen of armed forces from all over the Commonwealth and Empire are here for the big Bisley Camp meeting in July.

The 82nd annual meeting of the National Rifle Association runs from July 9 to July 21. Historic individual and team competitions keep the wide-spread ranges of Bisley, echoing until the climax of the meeting, the final stage of the King's Prize competition.

Canada's team of 18 expert shots includes a woman member for the first time. She is Miss Mary MacLennan, a bright-eyed school-teacher from Charlottetown who has been shooting since 1935. Her brother, Sgt. George MacLennan, was on the 1928 Bisley team.

Miss MacLennan qualified by placing 10th in the Bisley aggregate at the Dominion Rifle Meet at Connaught Ranges, near South March, Ont., last autumn. She is eligible for the military matches here by reason of her rank as lieutenant in the supplementary reserve of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

The Canadian team has been practising on the ranges since June 25 in all sorts of weather. Shooting goes on in Bisley's big matches no matter how high the wind or how heavy the rain.

Biggest Test

The King's Prize itself is the most exacting test of marksmanship of all the varied competitions. Canadians have captured it six times, the last in 1929 when Lt.-Col. R. M. Blair of the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver, won with an aggregate of 283 points out of a possible 300.

Shot in three stages to reduce the entry to manageable proportions, the King's Prize calls for the best marksmanship at all distances. The first stage demands 10 shots at each of the 200, 500, and 600 yard ranges. From this the 300 best scores go into the second stage, calling for 10 shots at each of the 300, 500 and 600 yard distances.

Only the top 100 marksmen qualify for the final stage, firing 15 shots at each of the 900 and 1,000 yard ranges. For final placing the aggregate scores of the second and third stages are compiled.

At the longest ranges the marksmen are firing at a target that is 10 feet by six. But the bull's eye itself, counting five points for a perfect shot, is only 30 inches in diameter.

To the winner goes the King's Prize of £250 and the NRA's gold medal and gold badge. Top scorers in the second stage receive the silver badge; in the first stage, a bronze badge. Merely to qualify for the "King's Hundred" in the final stage is an Empire-wide badge of distinction.

Much of the same shooting distances obtain for the great team shoots, the Kolapore Cup and the MacKinnon Cup. In the Kolapore teams of eight fire 10 shots per man at each of the 300, 500 and 600 yard ranges. The MacKinnon is for teams of 12 at the long ranges, 900 and 1,000 yards.

Maritime Craft Ply Busy Trade During Summer

By IRVING WHYNOT

HALIFAX — (CP) — There's no gold braid and little shiny brass aboard, but the 50 or so small freighters plying the Atlantic seaboard are an important factor in Maritime trade.

Rail and truck competition has cut the number of ships involved in the trade but the remaining vessels still do a brisk business with isolated outposts and Newfoundland.

Only two such craft ply along the Nova Scotia coast but at least 40 are engaged in the Newfoundland trade.

Others make voyages to the French islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon, off Newfoundland's south coast, and to Grindstone in the Magdalen Islands.

The Josephine K. and the C. and E. Burke are the only two in the Nova Scotia trade. They are subsidized by the Canadian Maritime Commission.

Unlike their big brothers—the deep-sea tramp steamers—the little vessels with a payload of 400 tons or so are not affected by the summer opening of the St. Lawrence.

Link With Outposts

In fact, their best business is during the summer months. In winter they provide a transportation link to outposts almost isolated by bad roads and lack of rail connections.

Of the 40 vessels on the Newfoundland routes, about 15 sail on regular schedules and the others call as cargo warrants.

All are steam or diesel powered but old veterans still sailing re-

Think Soviet Peace Offer Move Means Shift To Germany, Japan

(Editor's note: Late in May, William L. Ryan found the Russian press pointing to a spectacular move "in an attempt to force the Communist brand of peace." He noted "the pattern of Soviet strategic retreats in the past is being followed again." Last Saturday Russia's Jakob Malik came out for cease-fire talks. In the accompanying article Ryan analyzes the new prospects.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

If the Soviet Union permits peace to come to Korea—even at the expense of Communist China—it will mean principally that the unending war of ideas has entered a new phase. The West will keep its guard up.

There is a strong conviction among observers of Soviet policies today that the Soviet Union is about to make its strategic retreat from Korea for reasons of its own. To do this, the USSR will have to back down from its previous stand.

The new front may open up shortly thereafter. The way apparently now is being paved.

The West should keep in mind the dictum of Prime Minister Stalin: That tactics must always be subordinate to strategy. It should also keep in mind that the USSR is a prisoner of its own rigid pattern of behavior, and thus its moves in the future can almost be charted.

The USSR telegraphed its new Korea move as long as a month ago. It became fairly obvious then that the Kremlin was getting ready for a grandstand play much in the manner of the previous retreat which called off the Berlin blockade when all-out war threatened.

Korea has dragged on too long for Soviet purposes. The USSR can ill afford to strain its own economy any more by contributing to a small war which threatens to blow up into a big one. Thus the tactical retreat today for the strategic advantage of tomorrow.

What is the advantage the Soviet Union seeks? The rigidly controlled official Russian press gives it away in spite of itself.

With Korea out of the way, the USSR apparently plans to turn its biggest guns on Germany and Japan. It may be expected that the campaign will be: A peace treaty with a unified Germany; a peace treaty with Japan in which the USSR could participate. The Kremlin now also may be expected to demand a treaty with Austria in which the West would be pressed to make concessions.

New Offensive

Insuch a move the USSR would be on the offensive again. The Germans want a peace treaty. So do most Japanese and Austrians. But this does not mean that the USSR has a tender regard for the wishes of these people. It has other aims in mind.

The Soviet Union wants desperately to break up the Western unity exemplified by the North Atlantic Treaty. The Kremlin wants to create domestic pressures in the countries of the West to ease off armament expenditures. The Kremlin also wants the Americans out of Europe and out of Japan. It may have concluded that dumping the Chinese in Korea where a gamble for a quick victory of a Communist expansion failed to pay off, is not a large a price to pay for the chance of achieving the longer aims.

Treaties with Germany, Japan and Austria would call for removal of occupation troops from those countries—removal of American troops from the flank of Asia and the heart of Europe, where they have been a constant challenge to Communist expansion.

Therefore, it is to be expected that the full force of the Soviet propaganda machine now will be directed on Germany and Japan, tied in with the Berlin Peace Petition in which the Communists call for a peace pact of the US, Britain, France, Russia and Red China. Look for that campaign to warm up considerably, without delay.

The Soviet Union, picturing itself as the champion of world peace, from now on will do its utmost to split the Western front and clear the way for the absorption of Europe and Asia, country by country, by the remote control methods which now have become familiar to the world. In the eagerness of war-weary people to have an end to tension, the Soviet Union knows it has a potent weapon.

He's All Ready For Television Out-On Prairie

By The Canadian Press

You have to hand it to Milton Buhr of Saskatoon as a television enthusiast. The fact that no Canadian television stations are yet in operation, and that he's 1,500 miles from Minneapolis and St. Paul, doesn't discourage Mr. Buhr in the least.

His back yard boasts the only TV antenna in Saskatoon, and while his 10-inch screen has not presented any actual pictures yet, the blurs are so close you can almost visualize them.

But it took perseverance. Manager of a radio supply store, Buhr ordered his TV set last fall and it finally arrived in February after he had promised not to return it if he got no reception. The 100-foot antenna was raised in May, and since then Buhr and his electrically-minded friends have been experimenting.

Sound reception is excellent but the screen doesn't show much except blurs, though further experimenting and the right atmospheric conditions may eventually obtain actual pictures. Under freak conditions television has been screened 1,000 miles away.

Anyway, when television comes to western Canada, Milton Buhr will be ready.

Swedish Success

One of the world's most popular television programs must be the "Merry-Go-Round" Saturday afternoon entertainment program of the Swedish National Broadcasting Service. Recently closed for the season after a 17-week run, it is estimated to have had an average audience of 3,000,000 or nearly half of Sweden's population.

In the hours this program was on the air Swedish movie houses were half empty. The entertainment of the family type with audience participation, has been studied by broadcasting experts from Britain and other countries.

Bargain prices

New York television dealers have been worried about recent auctions held by individual firms selling surplus TV sets. Average price at such auctions has been $170, compared with the manufacturer's price of $218 to the dealer and $279 to the customer.

These auctions had some fantastic results according to the firm that started the idea. On many occasions the bidding had to be cut off because it was "getting too high."

The Metropolitan Association of Radio, Television and Appliance Dealers asked Licence Commissioner Edward McCaffrey to investigate the legality of such auctions and of the advertisements concerning them.

The First And The Fourth

A nation is an association of reasonable beings united in a peaceful sharing of the things they cherish; therefore, to determine the quality of a nation, you must consider what those things are.

—St. Augustine: De Civitate Dei, XIX.

This week-end we are observing the birthday of our nation. It is an occasion when Canadians might give some thought, between holiday pleasures, to their heritage, their present and their future as "an association of reasonable beings united in a peaceful sharing of the things they cherish." The most cogent direction they can give their thought is by dipping into the Royal Commission Report on Arts, Letters and Science, published last month by the King's Printer. The volume is certainly the most important Canadian book published in this generation. It will become a landmark in Canadian nationhood. It is both an assessment and a charter "to determine the quality" of this people.

The sentence from St. Augustine's City of God which heads this article prefaces the Massey Report. It accents the fact that men's minds and hearts, and not primarily the works of their hands, give a nation its entity. Canada is not a nation because it produces billions of tons of minerals and food-stuffs, has three and three quarter million square miles of territory inhabited by fourteen million people and traversed by forty-two thousand miles of railway tracks. "It is the intangibles which give a nation not only its essential character but its vitality as well. What may seem unimportant, or even irrelevant under the pressure of daily life may well be the thing which endures, which may give a community its power to survive."

The fate of Canadian civilization is in the hands of Canadians themselves. It is not a thing which grows uncultivated. Seeds must be planted, the soil nurtured, the buds nursed and the flowers cherished. It behooves us as Canadians to try to know what we are and what we are becoming; it is necessary to shape our destiny, not merely to accept it as an imposition of fate, however gracious that fate might be.

There are three conditions, apart from the duality of its racial origins, which affect "Canadianism." The population is small and scattered over an immense area; it is clustered along the rim of another country many times more populous and of far greater economic strength; a majority of this population share the mother tongue of that great neighbour. These three influences pose special problems of development. If Canadians living in northern isolation are not to be absorbed by the United States, we must assess the impressive American influences on our economic, social and cultural life and try to compensate for them. Is it significant that the Fourth of July seems to many Canadians as important a holiday as July the First; and, so little concerned are Canadians about their own birthright, that our Dominion Day assumes the character only of a summer-outing day?

The Massey Commission has reported that Canada has paid a heavy price for its easy dependence on charity and especially American charity. "Culturally we have feasted on the bounty of our neighbours, and then we ask plaintively what is wrong with us." The National Conference of Canadian Universities told the Commissioners. The Commissioners close their discussion of American influences on Canadian life with this statement: "We are now spending millions to maintain a national independence which would be nothing but an empty shell without a vigorous and distinctive cultural life. We have seen that we have its elements in our traditions and in our history; we have made important progress, often aided by American generosity. We must not be blind, however, to the very present danger of permanent dependence."

Let us Canadians make our First of July a recognition of our status and civilization as a nation, and leave the skyrockets of the Fourth to the Americans.

"Canada Sabotaging Korea"

That great democrat, noble patriot, white hope of his country and unsullied Knight of the United Nations, President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said some things in public recently which might make Canadian soldiers wish he were on the receiving end of their bayonets. He gave the interview in the first week of May. British papers published his statements, but Canadian papers got only oblique references, since most of our news from Tokyo comes through American sources. The Americans either censored or obscured President Rhee's remarks. We have only now come upon a verbal report in the Scottish Sunday Mail, the issue of May 6th.

This man whose regime Canadian soldiers are fighting to sustain said, as reported by Richard Hughes: "The British troops have outlived their welcome in my country," he said bitterly to a high Australian official at one interview. "They are not wanted here any longer. Tell that to your Government. The Australians, Canadian, New Zealand and British troops all represent a government which is now sabotaging my unhappy land."

The reporter said in his account that Mr. Syngman Rhee made similar abusive anti-British remarks on two other occasions when he also condemned the policy of halting the fighting below the Yalu River.

So Canadian troops represent a government which is sabotaging Korea? Well, then, why wait for an invitation from Mr. Syngman Rhee to send them home? For that matter why wait for President Syngman Rhee at all? Why not fire him, literally or figuratively, at once?

"And What Is So Rare . . ."

As a school-boy we never liked June. June meant examinations. And in our day we did have final examinations in June, all the way from Junior First to Senior Fourth, and then on into the Collegiate. None of the easy business of "passing on rec." One's recommendation into the next grade was the mark one made in the final examinations. We sat at our desk right up to the sticky end, June 29th. Surpassing all other recollections of disagreeable June was an infamously long poem which we had to con by heart—for the Entrance examinations:

What is so rare as a day in June
Then if ever come perfect days . . .

Etc., etc., right down to the bottom of the second page of the Fourth Reader.

The irony of it—the rare perfect June day which we repetitiously hammered out of our agonized memory, parroting it daily in the classroom—the irony of it never occurred to us. That poem could have been a diatribe on wild-January weather, as far as our getting any meaning, much less any appreciation from it was concerned. "What is so rare as a day in June" was not a question we ever thought of answering. Not at all. The thing was fifty dreadful lines to be got word-perfect. It was not poetry in our ears: it was not a paean for June. It was a long hard task—so long and hard that the teachers set us to learning it a year before we "tried the Entrance." We started to bumble it in Junior Fourth, and it dogged us all the way through Senior Fourth.

We suppose that Mr. James Russell Lowell's lines are really fine poetry and an exquisite tribute to lovely June. (The passages which all school pupils had to learn are really part of a long poetic sequence: The Vision of Sir Launfal, and the initial line of the section begins with "and," we discovered long after our school days.)

Then Heaven tries Earth if it be in tune
And over it softly her warm ear lays . . .

Our appreciation of June has been mounted as "What is so rare" has been pushed by time into the recesses of memory. Nevertheless, even this beautiful, lush and full-flowered June—has the foliage ever been richer, the lawns greener?—has been scarred by those lines so hardly etched into our memory. Not even age and the rarest June of a decade—drat it, that word again—can exorcize the Lowell lines and the malaise of the long school days in midsummer, when we wrestled to become word-perfect in the sing-song

Whether we look or whether we listen
We hear life murmur and see it glisten.

And now, of course, the mild palliative parody of

We sit in the shade and feel right well
How the sap creeps up and the blossoms swell no longer gives us a relieving snicker. Mr. Lowell's lines are with us until death parts us from them. We hope that there is nothing in Heaven as rare as a day in June.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The cross-bred yak, we learn, is called a dzo. This should revive the wilting cross-word puzzle industry.

A new leg make-up is said to give a grained-effect. Just right for some of the piano legs we see about the streets.

American Government agents have raided a nudist camp. And one of them, we understand, was severely reprimanded when he absent-mindedly began to "risk" the prisoners.

A fashion expert says that American women copy French dress, but cannot copy the Frenchwoman's figure. Is this bold fellow suggesting that American figures don't add up to much?

Diary Of A Moving Experience

by SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: These many days I have been observing a woodpecker which lives in a post, well within my range of vision when I am taking my infrequent and troubled rest. It goes in and out of its hole, but as I am an ornithologist I cannot say what is does when it is inside nor do I know what it is up to when it is away from home. I once looked into the hole, but there was nothing inside but darkness and an unpleasant smell. I suppose that if I were a nice man, and loved the birdies, I would be excited about this, but all I feel is a sense of injury that this creature should make free with a part of my dwelling, paying no rent and engaging in some dishevelled and inefficient housekeeping. I would like the woodpecker better if it were red all over, instead of in one small area; the birds I like best are parrots, canaries and orioles; they are the gaudiest.

MONDAY: For several years I have enjoyed what the lawyers call "undisturbed occupancy" of Marchbanks Towers; by this they mean that nothing has disturbed me there except storms which normally cluster about my defenceless head, and the malignity of inanimate objects, from which I am a life-long sufferer. But at last I am going to leave the Towers, and today I spent much time and energy in transferring my books to the new abode. I am not sentimental about my books: I do not call them "silent friends", or anything of that sort—they are an accretion of my personality, like barnacles on a ship or moss on an old stump. But today I cursed them heartily as I struggled to and fro in a frenzy of anti-like industry, stirring up dust, straining my back, dropping armfuls of books on my feet, and frequently wishing that I were a Mexican peasant, and wholly illiterate, instead of a product of the Ontario school system, and consequently half-literate. After a few hours of work my arms had stretched nine inches in length, and my gall bladder was the size of a football, and red-hot; but I had not made much of a dent in the book-moving job, and I went to bed wondering if I should not stay where I am, after all.

TUESDAY: Sometimes I have the sensation of one who has survived from an earlier age, with a strange and uncanny era. Rode about town today with a lady whose small child was in the back seat. Suddenly the moped set up a great hullabaloo and cried "Look! Look!" (In cold fact "Yook! Yook!" but I have no intention of falling into baby talk.) What had excited it so much was the appearance of a horse—an ordinary draught-horse on the street. Horses were as strange to that child as elephants. Its mother told me that the child was being taken to see—a camelopard? a unicorn? a hippogriff?—no, none of these things, but a Jersey cow which has become a celebrity, and travels around to collect money for service clubs. What kind of world do I inhabit, in which horses and cows are exotic rarities, and the combustion engine, that uncanny and devilish device, is taken for granted by the smallest child? I do not greatly like animals, but I like to see them about, for I am an animal myself; the horse is my brother and the cow my sister. But by the Beard of the Prophet, the combustion engine is no relative of mine, and a world where it is supreme will not tolerate me for long.

WEDNESDAY: O misery of moving! Today I am summoned to a great council to make some decisions about new wallpaper, but such is my painful lack of concentration that when I have seen ten patterns of wallpaper I cannot remember any of them or choose among them—though I retain a powerful aversion from all papers which depict little women in crinolines in the company of men in top hats. But as the debate went on it struck me that all my anguish about moving my books could be settled if books were simply printed on wallpaper, in very small type, so that one's library could be pasted all over the house, and when one wanted to read it would only be necessary to get a magnifying glass and go to work, crouched on the floor, or on a ladder near the ceiling, as the case might be. Wallpaper settled, it is necessary to make some decisions about curtains. I like drapery for its smell rather than its pattern, but, alas, the smell wears off and the pattern remains. Being colour-blind most of the time, and somewhat indifferent to my surroundings, I am a poor hand at interior decoration. Give me plenty of cushions and freedom from draughts, and I am happy anywhere.

THURSDAY: I am not as shocked as most people by the news that a lot of New York schoolchildren take drugs; every thinking person knows that children could not emerge from school knowing as little as they do if they were not heavily narcotized during most of their school life. But I am fascinated by the names they give to drugs. Cocaine is "snow", and heroin, it appears, is "horse". How sinister these words are in such a connotation! For years, upon retiring, I have smeared my nostrils with a simple and harmless preparation of vaseline and menthol; in and enjoy a delicious sense of weakness. What's in a name? Whoose! Honey have a whiff on me! Horse, for preference.

FRIDAY: As the preparation of my new abode goes forward, I observe the workmen there with interest. The plumbers—silent, philosophical men—toll at unseen jobs; the decorators, voluble in conversation, leap about the ceilings like squirrels, making rapid and dazzling transformations; the carpenters are forever measuring. And as I watch them, and realize that I am to live in the dwelling which they are preparing, I ask myself if it will be fitting to call it Marchbanks Towers? Should I not find a new name, suitable to the new house? Mortgage Manor suggests itself at once, but I reject it as it might make guests feel uneasy. A friend, knowing my admiration for the novels of Peacock, suggests that Crochet Castle would be a suitable name, and I am inclined to agree with him—but how many people read Peacock? And with the decayed present state of spelling in Canada, too many people might think that the house was so named because its inhabitants were engaged in that dreary sort of "fancy work" in which one snarls up bits of string with a button-hook. No, I must ponder this matter further. The perfect name will only come after much prayer and mortification.

SATURDAY: Now that the time draws near for me to leave it, Marchbanks Towers takes on a somewhat melancholy aspect; nothing is in its usual place, and faults in the

Out Of Cape Breton

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THIS is an anniversary year receiving some attention from descendants of the Scottish pioneers in the Maritimes, a stalwart race whose influence has been important in the growth of Canada. But this occasion recalls not the coming of new settlers to Canada but the departure of a strong contingent for the Antipodes.

The story of 1851, it can be said, reflects the stubborn, adventurous spirit of the people who cut their homes from the forest and even at this late date we can spare a moment of regret that they would not remain in this country.

Norman McLeod, a Presbyterian minister who had broken away from the Church of Scotland, came to Cape Breton in 1817 and found a ready reception for the hard doctrine he preached. He was outspoken, dogmatic and his flock was well pleased.

From a son of Mr. McLeod heard of the potentialities of Australia and persuaded his supporters they should go there. With single-hearted zeal they built five ships and reconditioned a sixth. The five ships were their own work, from the selection of the trees in the forest to masts and sails. They provided their own captains and crews—and schoolmasters who conducted classes during the voyage.

The minister made a trip into the gold-rush settlement of Melbourne when they arrived in fabric, hardly noticed these many years, are nakedly displayed. This evening I crept down into the cellar and took a long look at the Furnace, my old enemy, my crafty opponent in many a bitter campaign. It was deep in its summer sleep, but upon its face I thought I saw a look of discouragement. Like me, it is older than when we first met, and like me, time has not used it kindly. As it slept, some water trickled slowly from its pan, like an old man who drools in slumber. I almost pitied it. But then I recalled the mean tricks it has played me in the past: going black out in the middle of the night; blowing ash in my face as I relieved it of its waste; trying me on fine spring days; pretending to be dead when it was secretly collecting gas in order to strangle me. — Thinking of these things I gave it one final, valedictory kick in the lower draught, and pranced upstairs. The last word, I felt, was with me.

Australia and promptly decided this was no place for God-fearing people. On they sailed to New Zealand, where their descendants remain to this day.

The whole affair rates no more than a line or two in the history of Canada and yet it is a fine symbol of the spirit of the old century. Co-operation with each other, a disregard of inconvenience or danger, a willingness to work hard and put ingenuity to use made the pioneers formidable indeed. We might well ponder what Canada would be like today if many others had felt they should seek greener pastures; we must recognize that if they had decided to move one, nothing, not even age or poverty or distance, would have stopped them being on their way.

Channel Swimming

(New York Herald Tribune)

As a challenge to human courage and fortitude, the English Channel seems to be approaching the same class as Hollywood swimming pools. The old days when people just went over to France and swam to England, followed by a little band of shivering reporters in an open boat, seem just about over. Nowadays men and women announce their intentions months in advance, practice up by swimming in the Mississippi or the Hudson or the Bering Sea, and then head on over backed by the full force of press, radio, television and the movies.

These somewhat peevish reflections are provoked by the news that the latest candidates scheduled to immerse their toros in the Channel are a five-year-old boy and his four-year-old sister. Next August is the time set for this exciting event; it will be necessary to hold our breaths until then. The fact that the kids could probably ride for half-fare on one of the Channel steamers and thus arrive at their destination quickly and drolly has, of course, no bearing on the affair. But it commands itself to our minds as an interesting thought just the same. The main trouble with swimming the Channel at this late date, aside from the work it involves, is that practically everybody has already done it. But we hope the kids make it just the same. If a four-year-old child accomplishes the feat, it may have the wholesome effect of convincing the world at large that there really is no trick to it at all. Somebody may even remember that fish have been doing it for centuries.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatic, and sore vexed; for oftentimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him. And the child was cured from that very hour. Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say faith unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you. Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting. (Matt. 17: 14-21.)

Pray without ceasing. . . . Quench not the Spirit. . . . Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. . . . Abstain from all appearance of evil. And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly. (1 Thess. 5: 17, 19, 21-23.)

Five Added Words

(Baltimore Sun)

"Unavoidably delayed. Arriving 10:18 tomorrow morning. Meet me. Love John."

Thus the traditional 10-word telegram, explanatory, informative, imperative, affectionate. For 100 years within the restricted limits of 10 words, millions upon millions have set down their message, happily padding out an eight word communication to the full 10, or thrifflily compressing extra verbiage.

Now we are told Western Union wishes to change the word limit to 14 words.

It is almost as if we had been told that henceforth sonneteers would be permitted 21 rather than the traditional 14 lines.

Under the circumstances, there seems no remedy better suited than the traditional protesting telegram.

"Oppose 15 minimum. Incumbent all us combat inflation. Suggest reconsider."

Watch-Hands Export

In the Middlesex village of Ashford, 17 miles from London, there is a firm manufacturing something like 100 million watch hands a year, 37 per cent. of which are exported to countries all over the world.

HOLIDAY POSTCARD FROM LON

Ask any male between the ages of seven and seventy—or any number of females—what all the flags are displayed for on July 1st. Or what the various celebrations are all about. They will fix you with a fishy eye. A lunatic is loose in our midst, surely.

"It's the opening of summer fishing season, Buster."

There was a day long past when July 1st was known as Confederation Day—Canada's birthday. Not any longer by the majority, I fear.

Does your heart miss a few beats when the flag goes by? Do you shed a tear? Or does it take an enraged 30-pound muskie spitting out the trolling hooks in your face to cause such emotions. The answer is obvious.

When we talk about fishing in the Kawarthas, of course we mean "lunge" fishing. Ours is the headquarter for Southern Ontario. In Peterborough the building of boats, motors and fishing tackle is big business the year 'round. A great many of our lakes are filled with muskies. Indeed, we manufacture the fish, too. Give Mother Nature a good assist, at least.

It is the Kawarthas that supply parent fish each spring for the stripping of eggs. And down at Deer Lake hatchery—the only one in Canada—the eggs are hatched in laboratory jars, placed in rearing ponds and fed. For the first ten days the young cannibal fish lie dormant in the ponds and feed on plankton. Then, sucker fry—eggs come to Deer Lake from the Muskoka and Port Arthur—and are fed to the fry.

Their favourite food, shiners, are the next on their menu and these are trapped by the millions, again in the Kawarthas. In a few weeks time they are placed back in their natural habitat to fend for themselves. All they have to do now is to grow, and man, oh man, how they grow up this-a-way.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to his pal hath said, "Gad, sir, you should have seen the one that got away..."

We've got them here in all sizes. Now, if it hadn't been for artificial propagation, battled by long-sighted lands and forests men ten years ago, the great barrier would by now have become a museum piece.

Go where you will. Rice Lake, Stony, Burleigh, Buckhorn, Lovelsick, Katchewanooka, the Otonabee River, the Indian River, Pigeon, Chemong, Balsam, Cameron, Kosh, Round, Belmont, Crowe and Stoco, down the Trent. Muskies are waiting, tomorrow, to try your tempers. And try them they will.

Early morning and evening feeders, these barred cannibal fish may or may not have anything to do with your lure, even though you throw the book at them. It's like roping time on the range when you connect with one of them on a hand troll and twice the sport on a light rod. And never count your muskie caught until you straddle him in the bottom of the boat while you whale him with a club.

We are sure of good "lunge" fishing in the Kawarthas this season. Last year there were so many six inches short of the required thirty, that these fellows will be legal like now! Two fish per day is the limit. So much for our tourist-dollar type.

If you are a bass fisherman you have your choice of the blacks in the rockier and cleaner-bottom lakes, or, the greens where water is warmer, weedy shores. The county also has a limited number of silver bass, two experts told me, down Deer River way.

Though muskies are the mantel-trophy fish, all fishermen agree without question that the tail-walking, rocket-propelled bass, mainly the blacks, will give the angler more thrill than any other type of fresh water game fish. Dealers are stocked with lures to suit the taste of every angler—and I mean the angler—and whether you can find out just the thing to attract old bronze-back, is up to you.

Wonderful eating, bass. Take your fillet of six fish—if you can—and pop them into a hot frying pan over a driftwood fire. There is a meal you will talk about to your dying days that will top the finest food that a white-clad chef can concoct at the Ritz. And don't forget to wipe your greasy hands on your pants and use the lake before you for a finger bowl.

Bass are the very reason that the general fishing season is not being advanced this year, even by one day. In many areas where they are still on their spawning beds, particularly in waters of low temperatures. An advancement of one day, officials feel, would result in serious destruction of young fish through the removal of parent bass which are protecting them from predators.

You can easily find bass nests in shallow water where the bottom is covered with coarse gravel beside a protective rock, log or bank.

Pickering fishing since May 15th in the Kawarthas has been too good to be true and every fisherman who knows where to go and what bait to use has been gaining his limit. To give a recent example, a party from Oshawa, numbering 27, took 33 pickering from Paudash Lake last week-end; they were staying at Art Tompsett's White Pine Lodge.

Pickering have become so prolific that they are propagating themselves. Some say their numbers are killing the rest of the fishing but this is all rot. Fact is, more and more fish eaters prefer the flesh of fresh-caught pickering for flavour, next to brook trout.

All our fishing here is worth while. There are two lively contests offering handsome prizes for those who can boat the largest in all classes. And of course they must prove it. The first, of course, is the Lucky Strike-Examiner contest. To make it easier for fishermen to record their prizes this season, all lodges and fishermen-shopping centres have been distributed with placards stating the simple rules. Entry slips may be secured wherever these cards are displayed. It is an easy matter to mail them into this newspaper, care of Yours Truly. I am looking forward to a thick batch of them sometime about the beginning of next week and ask for your continued support.

Another contest open to fishermen, other than county people, is the Order of the Kawartha Muskies. Visitors get a scroll and patch badge, these from the Chamber of Commerce. Lunge is the target and fish of 15 pounds or over makes them eligible. This is a nice gesture to our visitors and is so talked about that other chambers of commerce throughout Canada have already copied the idea.

The Maybaugh family of southern Ohio while waiting for the total fishing season to open on Sunday have whittled away a week at George Robertson's Elm Grove camp on Rice Lake. They trapped a total of 50 snapping turtles in the marsh at the mouth of the Otonabee River. Several of these monsters went 45-40 pounds. I saw a dozen of the nasty reptiles on Thursday. One lady offered me a piece of cold, cooked turtle meat; it was like boiled beef, a bit on the tough side, but delicious. Upon cleaning all of these turtles the Maybaughs found their stomachs filled with small game fry fish. These people have done our Rice Lake waters a wonderful service. Why can't we do ourselves some service of this nature? Some day we will wish we had.

IT'S THE LIMIT:

- Bass—6 per day, minimum length 10 inches.
- "Lunge"—2 per day, 14 per season, minimum length 30 inches.
- Pickering—6 per day, minimum length 13 inches.
- Lake Trout—5 per day, regardless of size.
- Perch—25 per day.
- Crappies—20 per day.

Red, White and Blues: Made in The City

Dominion Day, July 1, is Sunday. A visitor from another planet, say Mars, would have no trouble recognizing that there was something unusual going on on two of Canada's eight statutory holidays—Christmas Day and May 24.

For as each of these days rolls around on the calendar year Santa Claus appears in store windows, parades and street corners to usher in the Yuletide. And Queen Victoria's birthday is greeted with the roar and popping of firecrackers from coast to coast.

But what about Dominion Day? Would the alien visitor be given any visual means of realizing that this was a special day—a commemoration of Canada's birth as a nation?

Some communities, Peterborough included, celebrate Dominion Day with fireworks displays. But there is another and more traditional manner of honoring the nation's birthday. This is the flying of the flags, both the Union Jack and the Canadian ensign.

Two Flag Factories

Peterborough is unique in having two establishments within the city which manufacture flags. These are the J. J. Turner Co. Ltd., on the corner of George and King Sts. and the Canadian Flag Manufacturing Co., on the corner of Brock and Chambers Sts.

What might be termed latent patriotism in 354 days of the year was roused into curiosity and interest as Dominion Day approached, with the result that your reporter paid a visit to the flag department of the J. J. Turner Co. to find out the hows, whys and wheres of flag manufacture.

The third floor, accessible both by stairs and elevators, houses the mysteries of this industry. Surrounded by bales of bunting, silk and rope, three women are busy measuring, cutting and sewing flags.

If you have ever attempted to draw and paint a Union Jack, you will realize that making flags is more than an industry. It is a craft. As a result an expert is needed to direct operations to insure that the finished product has the proper number of stripes and that their color and measurements fit specifications.

At the plant Miss Helen Pringle, floor lady, does just that. And it was from her that your reporter learned how it was done. Most flags are made from wool bunting, which is imported from England. Patterns of the "same material are used. Each stripe is cut out separately from these patterns.

The pieces are then assembled and sewn together in four equal sections, a process not unlike the fitting together of a crossword puzzle. The four sections are then sewn together and the flag is completed with a canvas heading for the pole or rope.

Miss Pringle explained that the most popular sizes are 18 inches by 9 inches, and six feet by three feet. (The width of this flag is always one half the length.)

Additional methods are needed for the manufacture of the Canadian Ensign. The Union Jack is assembled in the top left-hand corner of the red bunting. Then the painted cross, which are shipped in from Montreal or England, are sewn in the proper place.

The imminence of Dominion Day motivated the greatest interest in our empire and national flag, but the manufacturing scope of this company goes far beyond two flags.

150 Kinds of Flags

Mrs. Pringle named 150 as an approximate number of different types of flags made during her 12 years at the firm. Flags of all nations of the world have been made and shipped out of Peterborough with their variety of colors and designs. In addition about 100 different navy signaling flags have been manufactured here.

Another interesting part of this industry is the buyers. Who orders and purchases these flags? "We fill commercial orders for buyers throughout Canada," Miss Pringle said. She also explained that the procedure followed in getting larger orders is the same as is carried on in building construction. Tenders are submitted of prices to the buyer and one firm is given the order.

The Canadian Navy is also a big buyer with orders for signal flags. "We fill commercial orders for buyers throughout Canada," Miss Pringle said.

She also explained that the procedure followed in getting larger orders is the same as is carried on in building construction. Tenders are submitted of prices to the buyer and one firm is given the order.

US Flags Obtainable

Although big orders are the backbone of this industry, the buyer who wants one flag to hang in his yard or on the verandah is not disregarded. American tourists who want a United States flag to take to their cottage can obtain made-in-Peterborough ones. Special flags or pennants for yachts are also made.

And so with two flag manufacturing companies in the city, Peterborough should have no trouble bursting forth in patriotic bloom this weekend.—C. F.

Progress of Peterborough: LXXVII

Bands, Banquets Greet 1st Ottawa Train

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

In May 1884 the first train arrived from Ottawa on the O & Q (or CPR) line, and was given a royal welcome with bands, decorations, and banquets of local and national dignitaries. The line was opened for passenger service from Toronto to Ottawa on June 28 of that year with daily trips both ways, the trip either way taking about twelve hours. S. E. Dawson's book "Handbook for the Dominion of Canada, prepared for the Meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, Montreal, 1884" describes a trip along this route to Toronto in July 1884.

Peterborough Town Council in 1888 gave the CPR permission to build a siding from the main O & Q line up the west Otonabee bank to Hunter St., by a trestle across the bay (which stretched from Sherbrooke to Simcoe St. and west almost to Water St.), and on up to the mills between Dickson railway and the river. Because of this trestle and the stationary CPR bridge, steamers could no longer ascend the river to the old wharf, and a new one was constructed at the foot of Wolfe St., just below the west end of the CPR bridge. Later the bay west of the CPR trestle was filled in completely, and other railway sidings combined to spoil one of Peterborough's loveliest waterfronts. The CPR station agent was J. E. Ellis until 1889 when he went to the western United States; by 1897 there was also a CPR ticket, express and telegraph office at 322 George St., opposite the Times Newspaper building, managed by T. E. Boddy.

"Swarms of Tramps"

The through line brought many visitors to town, some of them unwelcome; the papers of the time frequently mention the "swarms of tramps" nesting in the CPR cut at the east end of the bridge. On June 1, 1889, the "Examiner" noted: "George Scully, milk vendor, lost all his milk today; horse frightened by CPR engine on George Street and upset wagon", and on July 23, 1889, "CPR made fast run to Montreal in 14 hours with shipment of cheese for Wm. Cluxton".

On March 5, 1880, the province incorporated the Victoria Extension Railway, to build from the Victoria Railway to Minden village and north to Trading Lake, to navigate boats on waters adjacent to the line, and to construct a telegraph line along the track; a bylaw of Haliburton County to give $20,000 to the V.E.R. was also declared valid, but the line was not started. On the same date, the Toronto & Nipissing Eastern Extension Railway was incorporated by a Toronto group, who owned the Snowdon Iron Mine, with $100,000 capital, to build from a point on the T & N through northern Victoria, Peterborough and Hastings Counties easterly to the Ottawa River.

A Peterborough County Council bylaw offered $150,000 bonus if the line passed through the county, but in 1884 the name was changed to the Ironville, Bancroft & Ottawa Railway, and it was surveyed to pass through southern Haliburton County. In 1886 the province gave the I.B. & O until 1891 to complete its line, authorizing it also to build north-west toward Orillia; in 1888 it was permitted to build to Sault Ste. Marie, and in 1890 another amendment extended its time to 1896. Construction began in 1886 from Howland on the T & N line, reaching Ironville in 1888 and Gooderham in 1890; the I.B. & O was nicknamed the "IOU" because of its chronic financial troubles, and was not finished even to Bancroft until the CNR took it over in 1909. The line has never been profitable, because of the collapse of the lumbering industry and the failure of the iron mines to develop.

End of Old Cobourg Line

Farther east, the Trent Valley Railway, renamed the Central Ontario Railway in 1880 with a five-year extension, built a line from Trenton north through Marmora township, then east to Eldorado and north to Coe Hill. The Belleville & Lake Nipissing Ry. chartered in 1868, built north from Belleville up the Maitland River to join the COR at Eldorado, and in 1890 received a five-year extension. In 1886 the remains of the old Cobourg, Peterborough & Marmora Railway & Mining Company were sold for $30,200; an "Examiner" item of Oct. 17, 1889, marked the swan-song of this one-ambitious project. "Steamer Beaver came to town today with a scowload of iron, remnants of old Cobourg railway, consigned to Toronto dealers." That same year an Ontario Act gave Cobourg permission to invest $75,000 in the stock of the Cobourg, Blairton & Marmora Railway, or the Cobourg, Northumberland & Pacific Railway, or any other railway being planned from Cobourg to the Trent River and north to Marmora or Madoc; it was possibly fortunate for Cobourg, already shackled by railway debt, that none of these schemes hatched.

By an Ontario Statute of March 23, 1888, the Peterborough & Chemong Lake Railway was incorporated, based on the old CPMRM line from Peterborough to Chemong which had been acquired by Jos. Hickson, Robt. Wright, Edmond Wragge, J. G. Macklin, A. White, Chas. Percival and Hugh Paton of Peterborough (with some GTR backing). The capital stock was $150,000 in 1500 shares of $100 each, and upon the subscription of $30,000 the company was to start operations; it was empowered to build branch lines up to six miles long to any mill, mine or elevator, to build docks and elevators and collect wharfage and storage charges, to build and operate vessels to ply on connecting lakes and rivers, and to build and operate telegraph and telephone lines "along the railway. The old line was re-graded, a station built on the "Railroad Farm" at Chemong (now Poplar Point summer resort), and an engine and a few cars leased from the GTR, whose Peterborough station was the local terminus for the P & CLR. In anticipation of increased business, W. B. Kelly built a wharf extending 100 feet into the lake at Chemong.

An "Examiner" item of June 15, 1889, noted: "Chemong Lake Ry. opened today—first trip in 30 minutes." The first excursion over the line was a Masonic excursion on June 18 which entertained to Chemong, then boarded the "Beaubien" and scow "Paloma" for Bobcaygeon, on the return trip in the evening the train reached Peterborough in ten minutes! The ambitious company soon lapsed into bankruptcy, however, as there was almost no business except summer excursionists. According to J. W. Stuart of Peterborough, who lived on the Railroad Farm at Chemong at the time, the GTR took over the line about 1892 and moved the station to the lakeshore near the Bridgenorth wharf. It was used for two summers, GTR excursion trains meeting the steamers going and coming from Bridgenorth, single fare from Peterborough to Chemong 35c, return fare 50c. Then the rails rusted again until they were torn up and sold for scrap iron during the War of 1914-18.

One last project might be mentioned. Bobcaygeon was still expecting very effort to get a railway connection with the outside world, as the following items from the Boyd Company Journals indicate: Dec. 7, 1880: "Deputation held meeting today in town hall in favour of the Grand Junction Railway"; March 10, 1890: "Capt. Bottom, J. E. Read and C. Fairbairn left for Ottawa today as part of delegation to wait on government re P. L. & B. RR"; April 17, 1890: "Macklin, GTR engineer, and party from Peterborough here today looking over grounds for GTR proposed line from Peterboro. Roads very bad." Sept. 26, 1896: "CPR engineer today looking over railway route." On March 26, 1890, a Federal charter was issued for the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Port Huron Railway organized by M. M. Boyd, John Petrie, John Read, George Bick and Wm. Needer of (Continued On Page 21)

Buffalo Bisons Edge Giants In 4-1 Triumph

By The Associated Press

Good pitch, no hit—that's the Ottawa Giants in a nutshell. The Giants, buried in seventh place in the International League, have some of the best pitchers in the business but their attack is about the weakest in the league. During the current month the Giants have averaged 1.81 runs in 33 games. The Giants as a unit have hit 14 home runs this season, one less than Archie Wilson of Buffalo has hit. They have been shut out 15 times.

The Giants failed to hit Friday night and dropped a 4-1, 10-inning decision to Buffalo Bisons. Roger Bowman had a 1-0 shutout until the eighth when the Bisons tied the score. They won out in the 10th on two walks, two singles, a fielder's choice and fly ball. Bounce Orioles game. The last three runs scored when outfielder Marv Rickett dropped a two-out bases-loaded fly ball. Larry Claiborne led the Rochester drive, batting in four runs on a triple, double and two singles.

Rochester pounded out 17 hits to defeat Baltimore Orioles 11-8. The Wings trailed 7-6 going into the eighth inning when they erupted for five runs to win the 12th victory.

Toronto Maple Leafs crushed Springfield Cubs 7-2, with Frank Colman and Max Peterson sharing the limelight. Colman drove in two runs on a homer, two doubles and a single. Peterson limited the Cubs to six hits.

Who stole the music to the Dodgers' pennant wait? The Ebbets Field organ has been hitting clinkers lately.

A week ago the Brooks breezed along with a 6½ game lead. The world was their oyster. They could do no wrong. Then came Pittsburgh.

Even a double loss Sunday to the Pirates was charged off as one of those things. But you couldn't laugh off two of three to the New York Giants. Friday night's 3-2 defeat by the Phillies sounded the alarm bell.

Panic is not the word for a club with a 4½ game lead. But it's melting fast.

The runnerup Giants, rained out of a night game at Boston, picked up a half game when the Phils knocked off the Brooks behind Robin Roberts' five-hit pitching.

Ralph Caballero, a utility infielder, usually used as a pinch runner, came through with a triple—his first extra-base hit of the year—to win the game in the ninth. It was the Phils' fourth straight win and 10th in their last 16.

St. Louis and Chicago struggled through nine innings for a 6-6 tie in a game called to let the Cubs catch a train for Cincinnati. Because they played the full nine innings, this is not a "suspended game" but will be completely replayed at a later date. Individual performances go into the official records.

Errors Aid Cards

Errors by Dee Fondy and Jack Cusick helped the Cards tie the score in the eighth. They left 12 on base to two by the Cubs. Gene Hermanski's first homer with the Cubs had given Chicago a temporary lead in the eighth. Each team used three pitchers.

A Pittsburgh-Cincinnati game was postponed on account of wet grounds.

They all played in the American, with Chicago White Sox protecting their precious half-game lead by bumping St. Louis 10-3, for the Browns' ninth straight win and a seven-hitter.

Vic Raschi kept New York right on Chicago's neck by disposing of Boston with three hits, 2-1, in a night game won by Joe DiMaggio's eighth-inning double. It was Raschi's 12th win, high in the American League.

Philadelphia, just escaped from the cellar two weeks ago, moved within a half-game of sixth-place Washington by dumping the Senators in both ends of a two-night doubleheader, 3-2 and 11-5. Homers by Gus Zernial and Eddie Joost eased Sam Zoladak's job in the opener.

Joost added his 12th homer in the second game and Lou Klein also homered in the 12-hit blasting of Fred Sanford, Mickey Harris and Tom Perlick.

Bob Lemon, a sick man with a toothache, pitched Cleveland to a 4-1 edge over Detroit with a six-hitter. Lemon's abscessed tooth was lanced and packed earlier in the day but he became sick to his stomach and had to call time in the sixth with the bases loaded.

He walked Charlie Keller to force in the only Tiger run when he returned. That was his only rough spot.

Emms Can't Decide If To Stay In Hockey

STROUD, Ont., June 30 (CP)—Coach Hap Emms of the 1951 Memorial Cup champion Barrie Flyers can't make up his mind about staying in hockey.
Interviewed Friday, Emms said the idea of the "big move" from Barrie made him hesitate to take a coaching job offered by Quebec Citadelles. This week Phil Watson of the New York Rangers organization in the National Hockey League was given the job after Emms hesitated for several weeks.
Emms said he intended to retire from coaching but added he might "get itchy" when the season starts in the fall.
"I think I'd be more contented out of hockey," he said.

Referee Otto Nispe, who officiated at the Ray Robinson-Gerhardt Hecht bout in Berlin last Sunday, has been suspended for three months by the Western Berlin Boxing Union.
The Union said Nispe gave notice Friday he would protest the action but meantime he has been replaced as referee for a bout at Dortmund Sunday.
Nispe disqualified Robinson for alleged kidney punching in his bout with Hecht Sunday night. The verdict was later changed to "no decision" by the West Berlin Boxing Commission.

Versatile Word For Nurse Near Arctic

REGINA (CP)—Pulling teeth and delivering babies are all in a day's work for nurse Gleena Beckham. She lives just 150 miles from the Arctic circle at the nursing station in Fort Norman, in the Northwest Territories, and since the nearest doctor is 300 miles away, she has to handle all phases of medical work except serious emergencies. A native of Brantford, and a graduate of the Brantford General Hospital, Miss Beckham is one of 25 white people in Fort Norman. The rest are mainly Indians (Eskimos rarely migrate inland from the Arctic coast). "Tuberculosis is perhaps the greatest problem among the Indians," she says, "because they seem to be particularly susceptible to it."

The X-ray, says Miss Beckham, has not been very successful because the Indians have the idea it is the X-ray machine that causes TB.

"According to their line of reasoning, they didn't have it before they were X-rayed," she says.

Schooling Indians youngsters is a problem, too, because most of the Indians earn their living by trapping and usually take their wives and children with them on hunting expeditions.

Northland summers aren't much different from summers in the rest of Canada—average temperature is 80 to 85 degrees—except there is almost 24 hours of daylight from May until the end of July.

Wildman-Weaver

The wedding of Miss June Nora Weaver and Mr. Leland Albert Wildman was solemnized Friday evening in Mark St. United Church by the Rev. B. S. Morwood. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Weaver, 136 Park St. N., and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wildman.

The bride was lovely in an ankle-length dress of white nylon marquisette and headpiece of white nylon. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. Miss May Weaver as bridesmaid for her sister was similarly frocked in powder blue nylon marquisette with headpiece of blue nylon and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's attendant was his brother Eldon Wildman. At the reception afterward at the Club Aragon the bride's mother received in a dress of navy sheer and wore a navy straw hat and corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, also receiving, wore mauve georgette with a black straw hat and her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The bridal couple are taking a wedding trip through Northern Ontario, the bride travelling in a mauve suit and white accessories. On return they will live on Armour Rd.

Howson-Squire

The marriage took place today, June 30th, in Avenue Road United Church, Toronto, of Vera Marie Isabell Squire, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herbert Squire of Peterborough, to Mr. Reginald William Howson, New Toronto, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Howson, Norwood. The Rev. Gordon Porter, minister of the church, performed the ceremony.

EVEN IN SUMMER when the living is easy, this young woman avoids declaring an off-season on beauty. Elaborate make-up and hair-care routines are shelved until fall, but quick and easy essentials are retained. Casual, outdoor girl gives her lashes a last-minute up-sweep before joining her date for tennis (left). Good-looks aids are her colorful sunback dress and her carefree but attractive hair-do, which requires only a quick whisk with a brush to arrange (right). Although terrace suppers replace indoor dinners, she is careful to look her best despite informality of occasion (center).

Be Carefree, Not Careless Of Hair

Carefree is the word for summer. Clothes are casual, make-up minimal, entertaining easier—all in all, a fine time for enjoying yourself.

In this quest for lazy living, however, it's easy to slip from the carefree into the careless, to tuck your grooming routines away until the more formal routines of fall re-awaken your beauty consciousness.

Elaborate coiffures may be eliminated until autumn festivities revive their suitability. But it's not a good idea to forget hair care altogether.

Your best bet is a casual arrangement that requires little more care than brushing it into place with a brush. Not only will you save time by stepping out from under your old pin-curl, wave-set routine, but you'll also improve the gloss of your hair with the resulting brushing. This is important during the season when sunning and swimming rob your hair of much natural oil.

Heavy applications of cosmetics are inappropriate for summer not only because of problems of perspiration and increased skin oiliness, but also because a heavily-lipsticked and eye-shadowed face just doesn't fit the light and airy feeling of hot-weather clothes.

Eye grooming should also be continued. During the sweltering days you'll find tweezers, a colorless lash pomade and an eyelash curler all good allies in your battle to remain beautiful.

Since scraggly eyebrows show up under the brilliant under the merciless brilliance of the summer sun it's a good idea to have

THE COOL, slick fabric called bemberg rayon is particularly adaptable to the summertime needs of the mature woman. Lately, designers have been working youthful lines into clothes for the older woman for the fashion world has come to understand that the mature woman can wear a sheath if it's done especially for her and that she can wear straight, slim lines in some style other than the classic shirtwaist dress. A sheath dress in navy blue line (left) has wide shoulder straps in place of the spaghetti straps used for the younger age groups. There's a cuffed bodice that provides the right cover-up and there is, in addition, a long coat in bemberg navy sheer petal-printed in white. A tailored pair (right) in black-and-white bemberg sheer has collar and pockets lined in black taffeta. The bodice buttons asymmetrically; lines of the skirt are slim.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Asks Wife to Work Would Avoid Responsibility

DEAR MISS DIX: Our ten years of married life have been a series of ups and downs, but through it all we have achieved a love that few marriages come to know. Our only real bone of contention has been my reluctance to work outside the home. I consider that any financial gain realized from such an arrangement would not compensate for the consequent neglect of my home. My husband usually brings the financial troubles on himself, then sulks and stays away from home until I get a job to tide us over. I have two children and feel that they need me at home more than I need a job. My husband loves the children as much as I do, but puts his needs before theirs.

Because I wouldn't go to work and help him out of his latest financial tangle, he began going out with a girl who worked with him. The affair didn't last long; my husband is very contrite about it and we are once more in complete union. I could never go through such an episode again, though, and in deference to the whole household, wonder if I should sacrifice their welfare and take a job or remain firm hoping that responsibility will eventually make my husband a man of whom I can be completely proud.

ANSWER: You deserve a good deal of credit for handling your tangled affairs so competently, and for so clearly facing the issues that have confronted you. There is no question but that you are the font of wisdom and the guiding hand of your household, the one upon whose authority the children—and this includes your husband—depend.

He's Immature
Your husband is a creature of immaturity, seeking to duck every vestige of parental responsibility and taking recourse in the most childish attitudes of sulking and petty revenge when he doesn't get what he wants. The only obligation he retains is the financial one of supporting his family and he is certainly overanxious to shift that to your shoulders. Once you evince your willingness to get a job and work steadily, he'll drop every pretense of being the wage-earner, and you'll supply the family pay check for the rest of your days. Don't do it! No matter how much he sulks, make him keep some vestige of manhood and fatherhood, even against his will.

The place for a mother of small children is at home, unless circumstances force her to work outside, and only illness or an incapacitating nature—physical or mental—justifies a man being supported by his wife. Since his financial entanglements are of his own weaving, make your husband get out of them himself. The trick of turning to flirtation as revenge for your not acceding to his every whim is nothing short of contemptible.

Stick to your guns, M. R. E. Your children need you home, and believe me, without you around to bolster his morale, hubby would soon fall flat on his face.

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend and I have been going steady for the past three years and had planned an October wedding. Now he has been called into service and we are undecided whether we should be married before he leaves, or wait until he returns—and no one knows when that will be. He is 28 and I am 27. Will you please give us the advantages and disadvantages of getting married when the man has been called back into service.

ANSWER: While I am usually very wary about advising marriage before a man goes into service, in your case you are both certainly old enough to know your own minds and I see no reason for advising against it. To give all the advantages and disadvantages of marrying servicemen before they embark on their jobs would take more space than I have at my command.

The chief disadvantage, in the average romance, is for teenagers to marry under these conditions when they really don't know their own minds. With the boy away, the girl gets lonesome, seeks other male companionship and the trouble begins. Or it could be the other way round: the husband in a strange state, or even country, gets homesick and dates the first girl he meets.

When the engaged pair has reached the age of discretion (wherever that is), and are sure of their love for each other, marriage before the man leaves for service has a stabilizing effect on both of them. He knows he has a devoted wife waiting home for him, and she passes her time preparing for the home they will have upon his return. You must, of course, be prepared to face the eventualities that may ensue. If you have a baby, are you in a position to care for it until your husband's return? If your husband stays in this country, have you the money to visit him at camp at least occasionally? Consider these points well before you make your decision.

Summer Care Of The Family Is Harder

By NANCY CLEAVER

"I don't know whether the summer care of a baby or a small child is harder," a young mother exclaimed, "it seems to take an awful lot of work to keep my baby and small Jim safe and well."

In the heat of the summer, mothers often forget the threat of colds and all the struggle with snow suits and goloshes which accompanies winter. Each season brings its own special job. A mother can just do her best. Call for outside aid if it is needed, and try not to worry. A happy, serene atmosphere in the home helps to build emotional health. Accidents are less likely to happen in a peaceful household.

Baby needs special summer care. Screens or cheesecloth must protect him from mosquito or fly bites. Although a gradual tan has a beneficial effect, on hot days his exposure to the direct rays of the sun should be before ten in the morning, or in the late afternoon. A diaper is enough clothing for a baby over a month old on a very hot day. Sponge him often to keep him cool and he will likely escape prickly heat. If this threatens his skin, a teaspoon of baking soda is advised by some doctors.

Babies, just like adults, may lose their appetites during the "dog days". It has been proved beyond a doubt that a breast fed baby of a mother who is healthy and rested, is less subject to digestive upsets than one on artificial feeding.

However, if mother is anxious about a bottle-fed infant's lack of interest in his meals, she should check the formula with her doctor. Baby may benefit from an increase in the boiled water he drinks between feedings. The child should not be forced to take nourishment, but will demand what he requires. Because he loses more water from his body in perspiration on humid days than on ordinary ones, a normal place will crave more fluid to replace this loss of moisture from the body.

The medical authorities and the press are doing a good job in reminding parents of the danger of polio infection at this time. Chilling of the body and too great fatigue pull down the resistance of the body. If there is an epidemic, children should be kept away from crowds. If polio is suspected, this should be reported immediately to the doctor. He is the one to judge whether it is this dread infection, or just another "scare".

Because there are so many holiday folk motoring in the summer, mothers of small children do have to be eternally vigilant about the threat of passing cars knocking a child down on the street. After play-pen age, an enclosed yard is ideal for a baby to "graduate" into for his waking hours. The runabout child, and even the small child who is of school age, must be constantly warned of traffic dangers. The older youngsters riding a bicycle must also be reminded of the hazards of the highway.

In one province where 68 children of school age were killed in a recent year, their activities which proved fatal, were noted. The following is a tragic record, but one which might well impress on a parent or a child the importance of being alert. Here are the facts on how the children were killed:

Forty-two were killed when walking; 13 killed while crossing highway; 11 killed coming from behind parked cars; eight killed while playing in the street; three killed while crossing between intersections; two killed while crossing where there is no signal; two killed while walking on the highway; two killed on sidewalk; one killed while getting on or off a vehicle.

Thirteen were killed when riding bicycles; three killed while riding on one bicycle; two killed while riding on wrong side of road; two killed while riding in centre of road; two killed by failure to stop at through street; two killed by swerving off to left without warning signal; two killed while passing a vehicle.

It is a good "plan to have a child copy this warning in big print on a card and color the letters, then post it just inside the screen door:

Mushroom Catsup
There are two kinds of mushroom catsup: one is thick like tomato catsup, the other is thin like Worcestershire sauce. I will give you the recipe for the thin variety because it is commonest. If you want thick catsup follow all of the instructions but grind the mushrooms as finely as possible, two or three times through the grinder and use this pulp along with the juice.

To six pounds of mushrooms which have been washed and chopped add one pound of salt, sprinkling it evenly between the layers and let stand in stone crock 3 days. Strain off the juice, squeezing the pulp well. (Or leave the pulp in if you want to and if it is fine enough—as I said above.) Add to every quart of squeezed juice or pulp ½ ounce each ground black pepper, ground ginger and ground cloves. ½ ounce paprika and whole mustard seeds. Salt must be added too but this must be added to taste. Boil for 5 minutes and then set aside to settle for 7 days. Strain and bottle in sterile bottles and seal after corking.

Write whenever you feel like I would love another letter from you.

Plan Rededication Service In White Church, Belmont

HAVERLOCK, June 30—(ENS)—A rededication service will be held in the White Church, Rush Point on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, with J. W. Davies, student minister of the Belmont area Mission in charge. The senior choir of Haverlock United Church will lead the service of song.

About the year 1890 the White Church was moved from Norwood to Rush Point. The first church in the district, through the years it has been a symbol of a virtually undenominational church governed by the spirit of unity so needed in the world today. The whole interior of the church has just been completely decorated with modern bright colors. Last year a new aluminum roof was put on at a cost of $400.

Greater Food Production Badly Needed In Australia

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia.—(CP)—Butter production in Australia has declined so much that shopkeepers now are rationing customers to about a half-pound per person per week, or about the same as at the height of rationing in the Second World War.

The development has focused attention on a steady decline in food production generally in Australia. Alan Reid, political writer of The Sydney Sunday Sun, says the decline has shocked the National Resources Board which has been studying what proportion of Australia's limited manpower and resources could be put to defence preparations.

Reid said it would be difficult, without imports, to feed the population at the estimated rate of increase. Australia expects to have a population of about 9,500,000 five years hence, and practically 11,000,000 by 1960.

Big Problem

The magnitude of the problem is shown in tables prepared by the Agricultural Economics Bureau, established by the government to give guidance on development plans.

It is estimated that to provide a reasonable standard of living for the increased population, while maintaining Australia's exports at present volume, vast increases are needed in primary production in the next 10 years.

The Line-up

The board placed such increased requirements at 40 per cent for beef, 23 per cent for lamb, 58 per cent for mutton and 78 per cent for pig meats. Milk production should be increased by 37 per cent, sugar by 28 per cent and wheat by seven per cent. In the over-all picture of requirements there is also an 11 per cent increase in wool production.

Reid says that after the Resources Board discussions Prime Minister Menzies became most perturbed about the food problem. Defence experts who had calmly discussed the size of future land and sea forces suddenly came face to face with reality. Australia's enlarged forces would not be the only ones needing additional supplies.

Australia's food industries themselves need more materials. They are short of fencing, galvanizing, iron, steel, fence posts, fertilizer, superphosphates and a wide range of farm needs.

In future planning the navy, army and air force may not be ranked entirely at the top of priorities. Defence needs have brought the problem of primary production right up to the forefront of the Australian picture.

Mexican Border Jumpers Hot Issue In California

By RALPH DIGHTON

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP)—They're harvesting a new crop in the Imperial Valley this year—"hot potatoes."

California has no monopoly on the crop. California farmers want to see some Texans get their fingers burned, too.

The "hot potatoes" are Mexican border jumpers. Their presence on this side of the line has become a national political issue, almost too hot to handle.

Hungry and jobless in Mexico, they swim across canals and streams at unguarded border points. They arrive here with nothing but the wet clothes on their backs. Union leaders say some work for $3 a week and frijoles (beans).

The native worker, organized by the AFL National Farm Labor Union, wants that much per hour. Two weeks ago the union called a strike. Its members began arresting wetbacks and turning them over to immigration authorities.

The carload shipments of vegetables from the valley this season are only about a third of what they were last year.

"Why pick on us?" the growers cried. "Texas has about 150,000 wetbacks and nobody does anything about it. We have 4,000 or 5,000 wetbacks—just peanuts. The Texas politicians are trying to make California the scapegoat."

House Considers Bill

Now pending in Congress is a bill to make it a felony to employ illegal aliens such as wetbacks. It was introduced in the Senate by Allen J. Ellender, R., of Louisiana. It now is under consideration in the House.

The border patrol has been busy. H. R. Landon, regional immigration director in Los Angeles, says the service has been sending 1,000 wetbacks back to Mexico every day. Of this number, about 300 are turned over to the patrol by union members.

More than 450,000 wetbacks were captured on the four-state border (California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas) last year and sent back to Mexico. More than 235,000 were captured in California. Landon estimates that the four-state total this year may reach 800,000.

Hank Hasiwar, western director of the farm union, also is campaigning for removal of Mexican contract workers from the strike area. By agreement between Mexico and the United States, they must be paid the current wage and can't be used to break a strike.

Must Be Taken Out

Hasiwar says the contract workers, who don't belong to his union, are strikebreakers, and must be taken out of the area. The US labor department so far has not taken any action to send them away.

There are about 5,000 contract workers, Hasiwar says, plus 4,000 or more wetbacks. The regular year-around workers total another 5,000, of which Hasiwar claims 2,000 as members.

Hasiwar wants recognition of his union as bargaining agent for all the workers in the valley. Most workers now get 60 cents an hour plus an incentive premium of 20 in 21 cents for each crate they fill. He is striking for $1 an hour and 25 cents a crate. The farmers say, however, that current rates enable the farm workers to earn $2 to $2.50 an hour. The increase would make the pay run as high as $3 an hour during the peak of the season.

Christianity In Daily Life Your Best Contribution

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

As never before in modern times we—that is all of us—are thinking of Christianity in terms of world-wide ministry and need. Some, of course, have always so thought of Christianity, and have emulated the example of the early Christian Church, and have sought to take literally the commission of Jesus to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.

Some have fulfilled that commission as missionaries; others have fulfilled it in ministering to their support. But these on the whole have been a minority of professing Christians. The great majority have had little world-wide missionary vision, or have responded rather feebly and casually to the appeals of their various missionary boards. They have been concerned chiefly about their own doorsteps.

Now, however, Protestants have awakened to a consciousness of world-wide fellowship, mission, and purpose, such as the Roman Catholic Church has long manifested. This is emphasized in the World Council of Churches, and in the World Communion which is celebrated on a Sunday in October.

It is worth-while to point out that this newly found ecumenicity—a big word meaning broadly "all inclusive"—is as yet largely outward and organizational, though motivated by an earnest spirit. It is based on limitations and compromise, which in their very nature are un-ecumenical, and which some sincere Christians have been unable to accept.

But great progress has been made since the days of the early conferences, only a few years ago, looking toward a world faith and order, when the delegates were unwilling, or unable, to share in a common communion service.

To me that has always seemed a triumph of churchianity—ever Christianity, for if these delegates had been Christians first, and churchmen secondly, the most normal, natural, and Christian thing in the world would have been to begin with communion in the name and spirit of Christ.

It is in individual Christian lives, deeply devoted to the Master, seeking His presence and guidance in manifesting His spirit in daily living, and in all life's relationships, that the quality and power of the churches and their world-wide movement ultimately depend.

This world-wide organization, consciousness, and purpose has come at a crucial time when Christianity in many parts of the world is confronted with powers of destruction and persecution, such as one would never have thought possible in the world of today. Conditions such as early Christians had to meet in the catacombs of Rome are not unknown in many parts where the outward worship and organization of the church has been suppressed.

Survival depends upon the quality of the faith and life of individual Christians, perhaps as never before in our time. But this is true not only of those in such dire situations. The strength, power, and survival of Christianity depends upon the Christian faith and living of every professed follower of Jesus.

A Christian life, lived faithfully from day to day, is the best contribution that you and I can make to the world's organization and the world's needs.

Holiday Rush Fails To Appear

Slight Increase In Rail, Bus Routes Peak Due Tonight

Holiday traffic Friday night and early today was reported only a little heavier than usual by the railways and bus lines in Peterborough. The rush to return home for the long weekend or north to the lakes area for holidays is expected to reach its peak tonight.

Both railways reported a slight increase in the number of passengers Friday night. Extra coaches were used on all trains. Probably the heaviest load was on the local train from Toronto via CPR on Friday night. The earlier train to Toronto from Montreal was 25 minutes late.

The expected rush on the bus lines did not materialize. Extra coaches were added on most routes beginning late Friday afternoon, especially those running north to Bancroft, and Bobay-geon and those to Toronto. On the new run from Pembroke to Toronto two buses were required to carry the extra load.

The Colonial Coach lines dispatcher said that the rush is not as big as it used to be. He explained that people now are waiting for trips which they think won't be too crowded; thus the rush is spread over a larger period of time.

All transportation centres mentioned today's rainy weather as a hamper on an early rush. Restaurants had an early morning rush as holidaymakers mostly from the U.S. arrived around 6 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. for breakfast. The Churchill restaurant was filled to capacity and people had to be turned away. After 7 a.m., five restaurants were open and the slight rush was absorbed easily.

Absent from the main street was the usual large number of American cars for Dominion holiday weekend. A few cars were parked along George St. with boats and other camping equipment loaded on.

The American rush into the Kawartha lake district is expected about Tuesday or Wednesday next week when the United States will observe the July 4th holiday, Independence Day.

A stream of Peterborough and out-of-town cars began to flow north on Water St. into the lakes region today at 6:30 a.m.

Teachers Attend Trial School At Lakefield

Lakefield is being chosen this summer for an experiment in education that is being sponsored by the Department of Education. Teachers, not pupils will be the guinea pigs.

At least 25 teachers from public schools, separate schools and high schools from all over the province will take a one-week course at Lakefield Preparatory School, August 22-29.

The teachers will bone up on the history, background, economic basis, and social life of the village, its supporting industries, the occupations of the residents, natural resources and general physical environment, and the social life.

What has this to do with general education?

Well, it is seen as a new way of teaching pupils those subjects now covered in social studies.

Own Research
Let the pupils dig into the history, background, economic basis, and social life of the community and they will learn more than they would by turning over the pages in a text book. That's the theory behind it.

The approach is frankly pragmatic. Pupils see community problems at first hand, not as blueprints in a civics reader. And because it is their own community they take a greater interest in the studies.

"This way they'll learn how to get along with one another," says Melville M. Boyd, Ottawa, who will be co-director of the Lakefield course. "A study along these lines is more effective than talk about democracy in classrooms."

Intermediate School
At present the department is experimenting in the intermediate schools (Grades 7-10), and new educational ideas are being given close attention.

But before pupils are taught this new approach to social studies the teachers must know how to conduct the intensive community survey that is required. That's the reason for the teacher-school in Lakefield this summer and another one in Orillia.

For example they are not expected to find the history and background of a community by hit and miss means. They must know exactly what sources of information are available.

The morning sessions will consist mainly of discussions but in the afternoon teachers will do their field work. They will be divided into four groups to examine different aspects of community life.

Michael McHugh, teacher at Glebe collegiate in Ottawa, will be the director. Lakefield was chosen because of its historical background. Other conditions for an experimental survey also seem ideal.

Playground Supervisors Take Training Course

Supervisors of city playgrounds, YMCA and YWCA day camp staff members have been attending school this week. The school was a playground supervisors' course sponsored by the Recreation Commission and was held at Riverside Park and Ashburnham Hall for three days—Wednesday to Friday.

Friday afternoon at Riverside Park, Librarian William Graff, Miss Lillian Wesley, boys' and girls' department librarian and Mrs. Jean Henderson, branch librarian, were instructing the 24 playground supervisors in story telling and library periods.

This was followed by instruction in physical activities under Blair Thomson.

These two classes were a sample of what has been carried on in this course during the week. It has included instruction in playground dramatics, fundamentals of leadership, first aid and organization of playgrounds, coaching methods for team and group games, physical activities, story telling and library periods and all types of craft work.

Miss Irene Gettas, community programs branch, provincial Department of Education, Toronto, attended the course to give instruction in craft work.

Safety
An additional feature of the course has been training the supervisors in how to inspect playground equipment as a safety measure.

Other course instructors were: Alex Sinclair, recreational director; Charles Forsyth, general secretary of YMCA; Fraser Wade, physical director YMCA; Marilyn Hollingsworth and Blair Thomson of the playgrounds staff.

Churches Plan Union Services

Several of the city's churches commence on Sunday union services for the summer months. The congregations of St. Paul's Presbyterian, Murray Street Baptist and George Street United will for the next three Sundays be worshipping in the George Street church with the Rev. Ivan Morgan conducting the services both morning and evening.

The Rev. H. D. McCormack the new minister of St. James United will on Sunday commence his ministry in Peterborough by conducting the south end summer services of St. James, Knox United and Park Street Baptist. The service in the morning will be in St. James and in the evening Knox.

St. Andrew's and Trinity United Churches are also uniting for the summer with the services (only at 11 a.m.) in the St. Andrew's Church with the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon preaching.

City Playgrounds Open Tuesday

City playgrounds open July 3. The eight playgrounds will be staffed with a total of 19 supervisors, beach supervisors, and swimming instructors.

A diversified program has been planned for the nine week period which comes to an end August 31. Included in the playground activities will be crafts, playground dramatics, sports, swimming, and story telling.

Inverlea Park playground will be staffed with two supervisors, Beverley Pidgeon and Ted Cranfield; two swimming instructors, Lorraine Derry and Mary Rutherford and three beach supervisors, Barry Hollingsworth, Don Wood and Gerrard Armstrong.

The remaining playgrounds will be staffed with the following supervisors: Riverside Park—Joan Seymour, Marilyn Hamilton; Hamilton Park—Jeanne Stewart, Betty Thomson; Fleming Place—Mary Crow; King Edward Park—Joan Krogh; Bryan Young; Confederation School—Margaret Rogers, John Cupoli; Turner Park—Verna Rose, Don Barrick; McKellar tot—Ethel Fine.

Giant Egg

When John Breckenridge, RR 1 Balleboro, went out to gather the eggs one morning this week, he got a surprise package. An oversize egg, seven and one half inches in circumference and four and three quarters inches long was sitting in one of the nests.

Mrs. Breckenridge brought the egg into the Examiner office Friday afternoon and when it was broken an ordinary sized egg was discovered inside.

The Breckenridges have a flock of hybrid hens (crosses between Plymouth Rocks and New Hampshire Reds). Mrs. Breckenridge said that they did not know which hen had laid the oversize egg.

Teen-Age Youths Riot In Bewdley

BEWDLEY, Ont., June 30 — (CP)—A free-for-all, involving teen-age youths from Cobourg, Oshawa and Peterborough broke out in front of a dance pavilion here Thursday night and left a wake of bloody noses and torn shirts.

One resident of this community 15 miles south of Peterborough, said scores of boys were "punching, talking, yelling and hooting."

When police arrived, an hour after the fight started, the rioters had fled.

FAST WORK

Harry Kinsella and Gus Torpey, the demolition team working at Louis and Charlotte Streets, have been getting applause for the despatch with which they cleared off the site of the customs-postal building. They have had fourteen men with them, and they keep things tumbling and rolling off the lot. Even the cellars have been levelled, and the property appears to be almost ready for the parking service the city sought from the Federal Government. Some material is piled on Brown St.

CCL Union Reorganize Leather Men

Union Dissolves, Two Plants Affected In City

The United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL) will likely soon start a campaign to organize leather workers plants in the Peterborough district.

These would include the Western Saddlery Co., J. J. Turner Co. in Peterborough and the Beathaupt Leather Co. plants in Campbellford and Hastings.

This move was caused by the recent decision of the National Union of Shoe and Leather Workers (CCL) to dissolve and join the UPWA. At present the Leather Workers represent more than 2,000 workers in the shoe, tanning and leather luggage industries—most of them in Ontario.

The UPWA will take over membership and contracts of the old union on August 1. Chris Kaehler, national president of the National Union announced Friday.

"The UPWA is now free to plan an organization campaign that will bring the benefits of a strong union to the 25,000 workers in the leather industry," said Mr. Kaehler.

Alfred Barber, president of Local 210, UPWA, said that locally this would probably involve the Western Saddlery and the Turner plants. No specific plan of campaign has yet been drawn up.

In Peterborough there are now three UPWA locals: Local 210 (Canada Packers), Local 293 (Quaker Oats), and Local 434 (A. Wander Co.).

Freedom of the Press

What precisely is meant by that familiar phrase, 'freedom of the press'?

Fundamentally it is not a special privilege reserved for newspaper publishers. It is rather a phase of a much larger freedom—the freedom of all men to speak their minds openly and without fear. The press claims no right which should not belong to every citizen in a democracy. But freedom of the press is an all-important part of this larger freedom because, under modern conditions, the press is the principal agency by which the ordinary man receives the information he needs to judge the actions of his rulers and make up his mind on public affairs. Without newspapers, or with only gagged and blindfolded ones, he is in the dark, and helpless. An unfettered press is therefore one of the essential bulwarks of a democratic nation.

If any proof be needed, it is supplied by the record of the totalitarian dictatorships which have darkened the twentieth century. Rigid control of all sources of public information, and especially of newspapers, was the cornerstone on which all these regimes—Nazi, Fascist and Communist alike—were founded. Without it, they could hardly have lasted for more than a few months. With it, they could keep their peoples in blinkers and drive them on any course they chose. The calamities of our age, its fear and insecurity, stem in no small measure from the simple fact that, at critical periods, great sections of the earth's population have been prevented by their rulers from learning the real news of the world.

These examples should provide a warning against any attempt, by governments or by private interests, to restrict the essential freedom of the press. A free people must stand on guard not only against direct censorship, but also against more insidious encroachments. Nominal freedom is not enough. The only truly free press is one which can record the news faithfully and comment on it frankly, without fear of direct or indirect punishment. Neither the press nor the public is safe with anything less than this.

Liberty, of course, involves obligations. That of a free newspaper is to be truly free. It must strive to be thorough, accurate and unbiased in its reporting, sincere and thoughtful in its editorials, and resistant to all outside pressure. It must be both cautious and bold—cautious until it knows all the facts, bold when it is sure of its ground. It must, above all, be inspired by devotion to the public welfare as its staff understand it.

Such a newspaper is worthy of the privileges which the free peoples of the world have traditionally granted to their press. Such a newspaper is also the best guardian of the liberties of the people.

Natural Hazards On Course For COGC Tilt

TORONTO, June 30—(CP)—The wandering Credit River and its deep valley add natural hazards to man-made obstacles over the Mississauga course at nearby Port Credit, scene of the 1951 Canadian Open Golf Championship, July 4-7.

Top professional and amateur shotsmiths from the United States and Canada have to contend with the river on several holes of the par-72 course. On four they have to drive across it. On some others it forms one boundary of narrow fairways, putting a premium on long and accurate shots from the tee.

This is the fourth time in 20 years that the Open has gone to the 50-year-old layout, one of Canada's most interesting and scenic courses. In the days of the fur trade, the river was a main waterway to York—Toronto. The clubhouse stands on the site of an Indian mission and trading post. No Special Toughening

Royal Canadian Golf Association officials say they do not plan any special toughening of the course for the 72-hole four-day test nor for the preliminary qualifying round July 3. Many golf followers expect a score of 272 will take the title 16 strokes off par. Craig Wood's winning 275 in 1942 was the best previous open score at Mississauga. Sam Snead won in 1938 in a playoff with Harry Cooper after each had scored 277. Walter Hagen likewise won in a playoff in 1931—he and Percy Allis from Germany each scored 292 in the 72-hole tour.

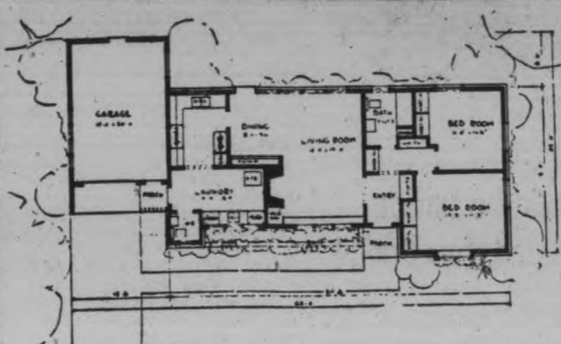

Although the river valley forms a hazard for players, it's a convenience for spectators. It forms a natural amphitheatre where they can watch play on some holes.

Rush Bill Through

WASHINGTON, June 30 (CP)—Congress Friday rushed through a bill extending the United States' economic controls for 31 days, but slapped an absolute ban on price rollbacks and most new price ceilings. Final passage came less than 36 hours before all controls were due to expire at midnight Saturday.

CHANGING TRAFFIC

There now are more than 733 motorbuses regularly running in London, England, compared to five in 1899.

HOUSE No. 59-47 — This one-storey home, nestled on its attractive site would appeal to any passer-by. It looks big because it spreads out wide — long horizontal roof lines complement the wide feeling. The entire exterior design is quite simple. The open planning of the living and dining rooms creates the spaciousness on the inside. See how these rooms command a view both front and rear. There is no skimping of windows here, especially facing the rear, these are just made for a lovely vista. For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay Street, Toronto.

Family Of Seven Evicted From House

ERINDALE, June 30—(CP)—A family of seven, including a sick 11-month-old baby, was evicted Friday from their three-room home in this Toronto suburb to make room for the widening of No. 5 Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill said they expected to stay outside with three of their children to guard their furniture. Eleven-month-old Edward was taken Friday to Toronto Hospital for Sick Children for treatment of a cold, and 22-month-old Eleanor was quartered with friends.

Would-be Suicide Rescued From Bridge

DETROIT, June 30—(AP)—A man, drinking from a bottle of whisky and threatening to jump, was rescued from atop a 386-foot tower of the Ambassador Bridge Friday.

For 30 minutes Harry Sandlin, 24, a factory worker, teetered on the top side of the "O" of the sign over the International Bridge linking Detroit with Canada.

Hundreds of spectators along the Detroit River front glued their eyes on the tiny figure before eight bridge painters inched their way up to rescue him.

"I did it because of my mother," Sandlin said. "She was no good to me."

Cleaning Inside Walls Requires Right Materials

Different types of wall surfaces present totally different cleaning problems. Here are a few simple suggestions that will help you to clean your walls and ceilings with maximum efficiency.

To Clean Dull-Painted Walls

(a) Dust with a wall brush or broom covered with a soft cloth. Use light, overlapping strokes—heavy ones will rub the dirt "in" rather than "out". Change the cloth frequently.

(b) Painted walls may be washed with a cloth wrung out of light suds. Rinse with a cloth wrung out of clear water and wipe with a dry cloth.

(c) Special precautions:

1. Clean only a small space at a time.

2. Use an up and down motion and be sure that each stroke overlaps the last and leaves no streaks.

3. Use very little water. Any good soap or cleanser may be used. Yellow soap, soda or washing powders may change the colour of paint.

4. To clean walls that are finished with enameled paints:

(a) Enameled paints are dulled by soap. Walls that are finished with enamel should be cleaned with a cloth wrung out of hot water.

(b) Remove spots with a fine scourer such as whiting lightly applied.

5. To clean calcimined walls: (a) Calcimined walls are very difficult to clean because the calcimine comes off easily. Refinishing is usually necessary.

(b) Some spots may be removed by rubbing with art gum or putty erasers, but unless very carefully done, it is apt to leave spot or rings.

6. To clean papered walls:

(a) Papered walls are somewhat difficult to clean since hard rubbing blurs the pattern. Use a soft, clean cloth or soft brush, and rub with an even stroke and very little pressure.

(b) Most commercial cleaners and powders streak the paper unless very carefully used. Putty erasers or cleaners and prepared starch or dough cleaners may be used, but require much time and energy and results are not always satisfactory.

(c) Spotted or sooty paper may be cleaned by using soft stale bread.

(d) Grease spots are difficult to remove, but may sometimes be removed by coating them with a thick layer of fuller's earth, magnesium, or even talcum. Let the coating remain for 24 hours and lightly brush it off. Repeat application if necessary.

10 Rules for Better Closets

Whether you're building a new home or remodeling an old one, an adequate supply of efficient storage cupboards and closets is a must! Here are 10 important points you'll want to consider carefully!

(1) Wide shallow closets are generally better than deep narrow ones. Twenty-four inches for width will just take care of a rod for coat hangers—30 inches is better.

(2) Cracks in walls and floors should be filled so that dust and insects are kept out.

(3) Interior walls and ceiling should be finished in a light colour to make the cupboard as bright as possible.

(4) Shelves should be part of the equipment of all closets. Plan them to fit the articles that will be stored there. Deep shelves, unless intended for storage of boxes and luggage, waste space, and piling articles on top of each other is an inconvenience. Vertical shelves or partitions are convenient for storing some articles like trays, etc. Do not place a lower shelf so near the floor that cleaning is difficult.

(5) Doors should fit tight enough to keep out dust and insects.

(6) Good lighting is important. If possible to arrange, a small screened window is an advantage, giving both light and ventilation. An automatic switch operating an electric fixture with the opening and closing of the door is excellent.

(7) Some form of ventilation should be arranged for clothing airing closets.

(8) Floors of closets are best raised above the level of the room floor to make cleaning easier.

(9) Drawers are convenient for some types of storage. They can be used in closets, below cupboards, or as a part of a built-in storage space. The size depends upon the type of articles to be stored in them.

(10) Cupboards should always be built to the ceiling to save being "dust catchers". Upper spaces may be used for seldom-used articles. Doors for the upper space should be separated from the lower part.

Two Children Drown Playing Near River

PEMBROKE, June 30—(CP)—Two children were drowned in the Indian River Friday night.

Wayne Prescott, 11, jumped into the river to try to rescue his cousin, Betty Prescott, 11, a non-swimmer who fell in while playing along the river bank.

While a dozen playmates looked on in horror, the two children disappeared from sight, apparently caught in the river's current.

The bodies were recovered later.

Many Dutchmen Pulling Out Of Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia, June 30 (AP)—Many Dutchmen who came to this former island colony to make their fortunes are clearing out now that Indonesia is independent. They find the road to wealth difficult, if not impossible.

Some of the thousands, aware that jobs, careers and homes in crowded Holland would be hard to find, are going to Australia and New Zealand to work as laborers. About one-third of the 350,000 Dutch civilians who lived in these islands have left. All troops have gone except an advisory mission. Officials have voiced concern at the hurried exodus of thousands of skilled Dutch workers and experts whose places are extremely hard to fill.

Hate Dutch

But large sections of the population want to be rid of the Dutch influence completely. Fanatical Indonesian Nationalists have killed more than 70 foreign planters in the last 18 months in raids through the countryside. Foreigners living in comparative safety in the big cities face a desperate housing shortage, a soaring cost of living and a 300-per-cent devaluation of Indonesian currency, making foreign savings accounts almost valueless.

Despite the exodus, a small minority of Dutch are convinced that Indonesia will overcome her present period of chaotic readjustment. Many Dutchmen have great investments in the republic's scattered islands and some are making profits even now.

But many who want to leave have heeded the call of Australia and New Zealand for skilled manual labor. Those two countries have laws forbidding Asiatic Nationals from coming in, so only those of white parentage can settle there.

To Stand Trial

WINDSOR, June 30 (CP)—Seventeen-year-old William Medley of Grosse Point, Mich., Friday was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death last Saturday of Mrs. Leo Beaudoin of Amherstburg. Mrs. Beaudoin died in hospital a week after an accident on Windsor's outskirts. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband when it was in a collision with a car driven by Medley.

Farm Workers On Move

WINNIPEG, June 30 (CP)—An official of the National Employment Service said Friday the movement of farm workers from the prairies to Eastern Canada is under way. About 500 farmers are expected to arrive in Ontario to assist with haying and early harvest. The movement usually gains momentum after July 1.

ROOSTER GOES FOR A DUCK—It certainly must have been hot in Allentown, Pa., if it forced this rooster into the swimming pool of the Max Hess home to cool off. Playing with the duck-minded rooster is little Jean Hess, 7, who got him as an Easter present three months ago.

Building Codes Maintain Standards of Construction.

Building codes are essentially local ordinances designed to maintain standards of construction approved by the municipality and the province. They are intended to protect the public in regard to safety in building with special reference to health, structural soundness and fire hazards.

Some municipalities have adopted the National Building Code as a basis for their local codes. A responsibility of the National Research Council, the code is intended to assist municipal and provincial authorities and is a result of years of study and constant review. The National Building Code specifies minimum room sizes and window areas, besides laying down rules of construction for foundation walls, basement floors, exterior walls and roofs, fire protection, and all other phases of building.

Minimum requirements for planning, construction, and materials for buildings upon which loans are made under the National Housing Act have been published by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in a booklet entitled "Building Standards." These standards are intended to apply in all cases except where provincial or municipal codes are more exacting. In such cases the provincial or municipal codes apply.

Drought In Norway
OSLO (CP)—Severe drought is threatening farming in the western and central districts of Norway. In other districts farm work was retarded two weeks because of lingering snow.

Rugged Old-Timer
CORNERBROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Mrs. Jonas Shears says "It's no good living in this world unless you've got a lot of nerve." One of the oldest residents in Newfoundland, she celebrated her 101st birthday on June 26.

Oldest Driver?
MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Corey MacKinnon, retiring at 68 after 45 years of service with the Moncton fire department, believes he is the oldest fire department driver in Canada in length of service. His father retired in 1929 after 58 years' service.

and Housing Corporation in a booklet entitled "Building Standards." These standards are intended to apply in all cases except where provincial or municipal codes are more exacting. In such cases the provincial or municipal codes apply.

2-Day Celebration

CHEPSTOWE, Ont., June 30 (CP)—A two-day celebration of Grenock township's centennial began Friday in this Bruce County town with a banquet for former civic officials and a sports day. Today's program will include a parade followed by an address by Robert McCubbin, Liberal member of parliament for Middlesex West and assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Favor Strike Action

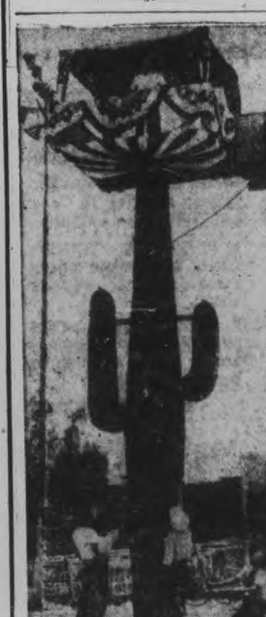

WOODSTOCK, June 30 (CP)—In a secret ballot 97 per cent of the employees of the Standard Tube Co., Ltd., Friday night voted in favor of strike action at a meeting unless the company meets their demand before 10 o'clock next Thursday morning, union spokesman Richard Loft said. The meeting was held following day long negotiations between the company and the union.

SUBPOENAED—In an unprecedented move, the Senate crime investigation committee had a subpoena issued for Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida to compel him to testify. Warren was the first official actually ordered by law to appear before the committee. They declared that "he has the sort of information this committee is interested in."

BUDDING GIANT—You might know he's from Texas. Folk down in Houston offer Wayne Addison as their candidate for the biggest six-year-old in the U.S. Doctors say the 145-pound youngster, who doesn't eat more than the average boy, is perfectly normal except for being "a little big for his age."

SILLY SEASON—Ray "Old Iron Pants" Vetter, of Phoenix, Ariz., who claims to be the world's first "cactus sitter," begins a six-week stay atop a "cactus" perch in an attempt to win $100. Vetter bet a fellow radio announcer that he can lure more fans into the Phoenix soft-ball park. He'll have to draw a total of 105,442 fans to win.

Jailed 17 Years

NELSON, BC, June 30 (CP)—Leo Meiorin was sentenced Friday to 17 years for the slaying of his 15-year-old sweetheart. The 18-year-old youth, originally charged with murder, was convicted of manslaughter Thursday night in the Nov. 29 axe-slaying of June Bradshaw in her Trail, BC, home.

Killed By Slide

GUELPH, June 30 (CP)—Five-year-old Albert Cardow, injured Thursday when a 400-pound playground slide toppled on him, died Friday on the way to a Toronto hospital. Albert Cardow, his father, said he intends to take action against "those responsible" for the accident.

A similar presentation had been made to James A. Powell, B.A., teacher of French and Latin, before he left Millbrook. Mr. Powell also resigned.

He is retiring from the teaching profession and plans to make his home in London, Ont. Mr. Powell is also a graduate of Queen's University, and he has had a long career as a teacher. MASTER SUMP PUMP

CELLAR DRAINER

THE PUMP WITH THE

"MAGIC SWITCH"

No it is not just another sump pump. It is the best in sump pump design with features not found in other makes.

The primary use of any pump is to raise water—the most important factor after that is to be sure that pumps will function whenever called on, and the weak point has been the switch.

The double contact used on most of them is vulnerable to rust. Being set in damp places the contact surfaces are almost bound to develop rust. This prevents them working properly if at all and flooded cellars are the result before it is possible to fix.

The Otaco Master is equipped with a Mercury Switch—no contacts to get corroded. It is positive—reliable, and is ready to start whenever called on.

Points Of Superiority In The Master

1. The wonderful MERCURY SWITCH... unfailing service in any temperature or condition.
2. FLEXIBLE COUPLING for perfect alignment reduces starting shock.
3. Solid Round PUSH ROD... strong positive action... nothing to bend or break.
4. Guide has round opening—no sticking.
5. PLASTIC FLOAT—no corrosion—leak proof—always reliable— inexpensive in replacement.
6. IMPELLER SHAFT is not pressed into impeller, cannot come loose under any circumstance.
7. THRUST COLLAR carries weight of impeller relieving motor bearings.
8. LEDALOYL BUSHING... (Bronze impregnated with lubricant) never needs lubricant—no sticking.
9. OPEN TYPE IMPELLER... not easily clogged by silt or other foreign matters.
10. BRASS SCREEN... prevents vegetation or other matter liable to clog up the impeller.

Houses Designed With Care Blend With Surroundings

No house should be a copy of west but in the colder climates an old one, even though it may be reminiscent in style, because the utilization of new developments makes it imperative that the principles of construction be altered. Some styles can be very pleasantly adapted to a mechanically efficient home, with the stress on honesty of form and function, but to place in an old style exterior all the fine developments of engineering, architecture and design is like installing a new engine in a 1900 chassis and expecting peak efficiency from the unit.

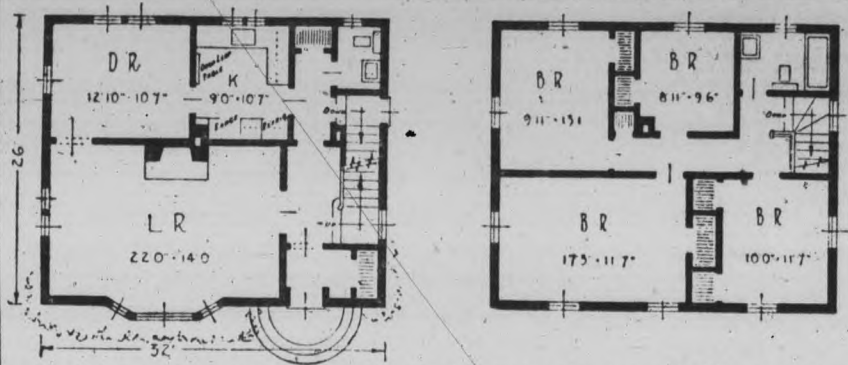

Climate, Location

A house with a low-pitched Spanish tiled roof and pink stucco walls may look fine in the south-where sleet, ice and snow are to be found three to six months of the year, such a home is out of place. Climate and exposure should be well studied before construction work starts—in fact even before any of the preliminary planning is done—so that the best possible solution to the location of rooms, and the insulation required, in them, can be provided.

Available Material

Almost without exception, it is more economical to use readily available material in your new home than it is to delay progress of construction while waiting for some hard-to-obtain material. The cost of the delay will undoubtedly not be worth it and the home-

HOUSE NO. 651—Well balanced, clean lines make this house stand out as an aristocrat in a neighbourhood of fine homes. Particularly pleasing are the big bay window and the entrance detail. Siding is white, with roof and shutters in green. Front steps are red brick. While the house contains only about 24,000 cubic feet, there are seven well proportioned rooms! For a family needing four bedrooms, here is a home to consider. The simple rectangular plan with gable roof is the ultimate in economy construction.—For working drawings write to Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

builder must add the cost of such a delay to his original estimate. Small homes should rely on good proportion and simplicity of design, rather than the use of odd materials for a pleasant effect. Useless ornament is of no importance to the actual living qualities of the home. Very often ornamentation is responsible for the exterior design "going out of style." This does not mean that all houses should be stripped of their exterior detail with only the austere walls and roof remaining, but that emphasis should be put on good detail design of simple forms, incorporated with well-balanced wall surfaces and openings and with accents added where they seem important.

Conventional Construction
Vs. Mass Production

Much progress has been made in recent years in the field of factory produced houses. The chief advantage to this type of construction is the much shorter time it takes for actual erection. Operating capital is tied up a Thir means that the builder's shorter time per house; and with the same supervision, the builder can usually produce three times as many homes in the same time, thereby reducing operating costs. In a competitive market, these savings find their way back to the home buyer.

Up-to-date mass-produced homes cannot be told apart from their conventionally built sisters. In fact, mass production is just another way of getting homes built—method that calls for business co-ordination and planning between the material sources, the factory and the erection crews.

Big strides also have been made in versatility of design so that the home owner has a wide range from which to choose. Furthermore, these homes, like any homes that are designed well, take family needs into consideration for everyday convenience of living.

Windows
The ordinary window is a relic of the past. Today, it is not necessary to construct windows that are mere slits. Beautiful picture windows take advantage of lovely views and flood rooms with sunshine. Windows that turn corners have become practical and desirable and the trend is away from windows that open or close. Today's windows are not broken up into small panels, for clear panes of glass render views more clearly and are easier to clean. They are often insulated, with a narrow louvre for ventilation. The insulated window, constructed of sealed panes, is bringing new comfort to the modern home by permitting efficient and genuine air-conditioning.

Legion Women Hold Festival

MILLBROOK, June 30 (ENS)—The Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion Branch No. 402, Friday evening held a strawberry festival on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Natress. Woods and Margaret MacKay; Jean Kinsman and Nancy Richards did the Charleston; John Stinson sang cowboy songs accompanied on the guitar by Peter White. WOOD SPLINTERS, shattered walls and barren foundations are all that remain of the homes that once stood proudly in the northern section of Wakeeney, Kas., after a tornado ripped through the area killing three and injuring at least 40 persons. Cars and trucks line the street as rescue workers seek those who may still be trapped after the storm, which struck with little warning.

Papers Highlight Montreal Market In Half A Year

By PETER BUCKLEY

MONTREAL, June 30. (CP)—A price upturn on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market which started mid-way in 1950, reached its peak last February and then, following the New York trend, securities eased. Since that time, prices have generally receded slightly.

Still, recent market softness has not been so great as to erase gains scored during the early-year period of bullish strength.

This recent decline, say market experts, can be traced more to want of a breathing spell on the part of speculators and investors after a year of rising prices, than to any lack of prosperity or confidence in the country's economy.

True, inflationary tendencies are noticeable in the rising cost-of-living. But this has had the converse effect of sending more money into securities, while banks report that savings across the country are dwindling.

Value of newspaper securities soared as this section continued attractive to the investing public. Common knowledge that demand for pulp and paper outstrips available production kept interest in the group high. Senior metals were prominent. But this section, in the second quarter decline, lost many early-year gains.

Dividends at Peak

Dividend payments of $248,333,820 promised to equal the peak established in the second half of last year and were more than the $221,018,400 paid out in the corresponding period of 1950. Industrial volume of around 12,000,000 shares was substantially heavier than the 10,000,000 shares recorded in each of the first and second six-month periods last year.

This increase in volume, and rising prices across the country, pushed the dollar value of shares traded up from $238,200,660 in the corresponding period last year to around $450,000,000 in the current half-year.

Trading in the mining section of the Montreal Curb Market was off from the corresponding time last year, which could be explained by a drying-up of speculation risk capital due to the upward thrust of living costs. Mining prices generally were off a bit from the start-of-the-year quotes.

New discoveries and developments in Western Canada's oil fields turned many buyers in that direction, with resulting higher prices.

Rector's Estate

TORONTO, June 30. (CP)—The Rev. H. J. Cody, Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church and former Chancellor of the University of Toronto, left an estate of $488,243, probate of his will showed today. The income from $300,000 was left to St. Paul's, the widow, now resident of Barrie, receiving the residue. Canon Cody died April 27.

Dollar Higher

MONTREAL, June 30. (CP)—The American dollar, Friday opened at 64 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, up 1/32 from Thursday's close. That is, it took $1.06 2/3 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.98 1/2, up 1/16 from Thursday.

Goes To Port Hope

STRATFORD, June 30. (CP)—The Rev. Grant Sloss, United Missionary Church pastor here since 1947, has been appointed to Port Hope. Mr. Sloss will be succeeded July 22 by the Rev. G. W. Johnston, of Stayner.

VISITING DIGNITARY—Commander A. B. Fraser-Harris of Halifax, commanding officer of the Canadian destroyer squadron in the Far East, receives Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, commanding general of the South Korean 1st Corps, aboard H.M.C.S. Nootka. He boarded the destroyer while it was providing bombardment support for the corps.

THE TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

DAILY INDICES FOR SIX MONTHS ENDING JUNE 30 1951

BULL TAMED—The long bull market rampaged ahead in the New Year, but soon was tamed by the uncertainties of an economy shifting into the unknown circumstances of a post-war economy, as shown in this graph of the Toronto Stock Exchange for the first six months of the year. Industrials still finished the half-year well up from the year's beginning, however. Base metals were back to about where they started. Western oils were ahead. Golds were shaky most of the way.

"Vinegar Tree" Harum-Scarum

Following the successful opening of "Charley's Aunt" the Peterborough Summer Theatre actors return to the more familiar surroundings of the Queen Mary Auditorium for their second production. The curtain rises next Monday evening on the Broadway hit comedy, "The Vinegar Tree," by American playwright Paul Osborn.

In his first attempt along satirical lines Mr. Osborn takes rank with the best of his contemporaries, for never has a more amusing comedy graced the boards of the New York stage, or contributed to the desire for intelligent and hilarious laughter.

While searching for the best play of this kind the Peterborough Summer Theatre looked over the market most carefully, and happily discovered that "The Vinegar Tree" was available for production this summer. Arrangements were immediately made, and on Monday evening, July 2nd, the production opens at the Queen Mary Auditorium. Featured in the cast will be Betty Leighton,

World Events Upset Market Wall St. Falters in 1951

By NORMAN ALSTEDTER

NEW YORK, June 30. (CP)—The stock market during the first half of 1951 faltered in its two-year rise, with the Korean war, the Iranian oil issue, government controls and taxes pointing to caution.

When the year opened, inflation whipped the market past the hurdles erected by the Korean war itself and the controls and restrictions growing out of the war.

The economic evidence pointed to higher prices to come. Department-store sales were booming, steel-production facilities were ready for huge expansion and plans were under way for widespread home-building for defence workers.

May 3, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks reached a high for the year of $97.80—the highest level since Sept. 23, 1950. Then the bull market went into a three-week decline. The drop carried the market almost to the low for the year—$89.40 Jan. 3, and in the week ended May 20 the quoted value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange was down nearly $2,500,000,000.

No dramatic event had touched off the decline as had happened when the market reeled under the shock of seeing American troops enter the Korean war in mid-1950. This time, technical reasons within the market itself were given the largest role in the drop. It was largely called a "corrective movement."

Soaring prices and wages and a strong flow of investments kept alive the fear of inflation through January and into February as the most impelling force behind higher prices being bid for stocks. Adverse news which ordinarily would have had a strong downward effect went unnoticed; and the freeze of prices at high levels in January gave increased assurance of high profits.

The market declined in mid-February with the reasons ascribed to technical reaction, flurries or peace-rumor selling and timid reactions to regulations among other factors.

In April, prices shot upward despite the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, an event which some experts said would knock the market to pieces. In looking ahead, the consensus was that the market was in a critical area with possibilities of a strong swing either way. Then came the May decline and mixed action since.

In the grain market, a quiet persistent roll-back has been going on for the last four months. In livestock, prices have thrust $3 to $10 a hundredweight higher than a year ago despite much larger meat production during the last 12 months.
